SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
OVER THE RIVER

On the banks beyond the stream,
Where the fields are always green,
There's no night, but endless day,
There is where the angels stay.
There's no sorrow, pain nor fear,
There's no parting farewell tear,
There's no cloud, no darkness there,
All is bright and clear and fair.

Flowers of fadeless beauty there,
Trees of life with foliage rare.
Fruits the most inviting grow,
There is where I want to go.
Hark! I hear the angels sing.
Heavenly harpers on the wing.
Throng the air and bid me rise
To the music of the skies.

Soon from earth I'll soar away
To the realms of endless day;
Soon I'll join the ransomed throng,
Sing with them redemption's song.
Pearly gates stand open wide
Just beyond death's chilling tide;
Then my mansion bright I see
There the angels wait for me.

Earthly home, adieu, adieu,
Earthly friends farewell to you.
Softly breathe your last good-bye,
"Jesus calls me, let me die."
Hallelujah! Christ has come!
Hallelujah! I'm most home!
Friends and loved ones, weep no more
Meet me on the other shore."

LAUGH A LITTLE BIT

Here's a motto just your fit,
"Laugh a little bit."
When you think you're trouble hit,
"Laugh a little bit."

Look misfortune in the face,
Brave the beldam's rude grimace;
Ten to one 'twill yield its place,
If you have the grit and wit,
Just to "laugh a little bit."

Keep your face with sunshine lit,
"Laugh a little bit."
Gloomy shadows off will flit,
If you have the wit and grit
Just to "laugh a little bit."

Cherish this as sacred writ,
"Laugh a little bit."
Keep it with you, sample it,
"Laugh a little bit."

Little ills will sure betide you,
Fortune may not sit beside you,
Men may mock and fame deride you,
But you'll mind them not a whit,
If you "laugh a little bit."

RAISED DOUGHNUTS AND WASHINGTON PIE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I realize I have been a slacker, so much so that someone has used my pen name. I smiled to read that some one had written or called on me. I may be forgotten by some but not by everyone and a stranger to many others. I enjoy reading all the letters and always wish I could write one as interesting. I hope to attend some of the meetings or picnics as I haven't in several years.

I hear some one asking for a raised doughnut recipe and as I don't want her to wait long I am sending mine. If there is anything I am fond of it is raised doughnuts. I tried Maine Lover's recipe last week. They were good and so will these be if they don't get chilled.

Raised Doughnuts: At night stir 3 cups warm sweet milk, 1 compressed yeast-cake dissolved, 1 cup sugar with flour to make a batter, not too stiff. Keep covered and where it will not get cold. In the morning add 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1-2 teaspoon soda dissolved, 1 egg, a little cinnamon, salt and nutmeg and flour enough to knead. I sometimes let them rise until light and then cut out. At other times I cut them out as soon as I knead them and cannot see any difference. Fry when light in fat that isn't hot enough to burn them.

Here is a good, yet cheap recipe for either Washington pie or layer cake. It is always very light.

Washington Pie or layer cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and a pinch of salt. Put into a cup 1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted butter and fill the cup with sweet milk. Mix all together and bake in a rather quick oven.

Persis: Do come often. Your letters are fine. I otherwise tried using flour bags but some of them do not bleach to suit me.

If we would all use the terms used in the domestic science courses it would save time and ink here are a few that I use. c—cup, T—tablespoon, t—teaspoon.

I have enjoyed reading of the trips taken and a description of the north, south or west.

With best wishes to all from.

RAINBOW.

GREETINGS FROM BALSAM FIR

Dear Social Corner and Friends: I want to tell you how much I enjoy all the good letters from all this old as well as new writers.

And it is such a pleasure to see the page full to overflowing.

I have not been down to the village for thirteen weeks until April 1st. Thought I might get out to a radio concert. Well it happened this way. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Powers are going to move away and as a farewell bemanet they were to have a surprise also. It was entirely unknown to them. After they were listening a crowd began to gather, some 50 in all—a good crowd for a small place like this. Some came from Oakland and Saco and such a storm! Snow began falling at 7 a. m. and was a raging blizzard when we came home and Oh how dark! A lantern made a very small light. The storm continued until Wednesday noon. Snow was a foot deep, when it cleared off. The entertainment consisted of cornet and piano solo by Mr. and Mrs. Knapp. Merle Verrie and John Bentley gave a ukelele concert, then the singing of verses composed by them about the business men and women of the place. The applause was loud and long and they had to come back many times with something even better.

Then before refreshments of ice cream and cake with fruit were served Old Lang Syne was sung by the crowd. Mrs. Powers was presented a large bouquet of carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers are 83 and 78 respectively, and their many friends wish them much happiness in their new home. Mrs. Jessie Barrows presented the bouquet, but Mrs. Powers' gratitude) was too deep for utterance.

Sister North Dakota writes me she is afraid of losing the use of her hands from neuritis. I think a card shower would be appreciated. Linton, N. D. R. D. 4.

I was much pleased to receive Dom Pedro's card from her own hand only wish she could be real well when warm weather comes.

Some one has asked for lovers of nature to tell about it. I am one. Nothing is more beautiful than the works of nature and I long to get into the woods. A pretty place is in the Portland Match Company's woods with roads here and there all through groves of white pine. I am a W. C. T. U. woman, and belong to the Woman's National Relief Corps of San Francisco. Enough said. Best wishes for all Social Corner friends.

CHATTY LETTER FROM LITTLE SISTER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I suppose all the rugs and bedquilts are finished and the next thing in order is housecleaning. I for one will be very grateful if the sisters will tell us how we can do it easy for after a tussle with grip and bronchitis one hasn't much ambition or strength for such strenous work. One of the sisters asked for the words of an old hymn. I have watched for an answer but failed to see any. My father used to sing it and I will send it as I remember it I can't send the tune but if the sister will come where I am I will sing it for her.

Another sister Acorn asked for a cure for corns. Wonder if she would care to do what my husband did for his. He followed the advice given in the Bible, "If thine hand offend thee cut it off, etc." He placed a chisel where he wanted the toe severed brought down a good blow with a mallet and off came the offending toe. As it happened he had no serious trouble with it but I would not advise anyone to try it.

Several of the sisters have written about utilising flour bags. I suppose they have some way of working out the printing on the bags. My mother used to tell about a neighbor or hers who used to save salt bags and make undergarments for her little girl and when the child stooped over one could read, "Rock Salt, Rock Salt."

When reading about Twice Twenty's butter was reminded of what I gave my husband for an irritating cough. He could not get to sleep and got out of patience. I handed him what I supposed to be a raisin, telling him it would ease his throat. He took it and seemed quieter and as I was going off to sleep I heard him muttering and heard him say, "That's a darn pretty thing to give a fellow for a cold." In the morning he handed me something, saying, "That's what you gave me last night." It was a small black ring with a piece of black cloth attached, used to pass around a closed umbrella. Needless to add I was very much amused, which interested me more than the advice I received.

Best wishes for the Corner and all concerned.

LITTLE SISTER (Aug 26.)

HOUSEWORK

Dear Sisters: In the spring our fancy will turn to thoughts of housecleaning. It is well for all concerned that it does for there is nothing in this world that counts for more than a home. But a home does not consist of cleanliness alone.

Happy children's laughter, even if it is a little noisy; and the settlement of their little differences. The hustling to get this piece of work donethoicretae that this or that piece of work done, in order to enjoy ourselves afterward in games, reading and often homework from school, goes toward making a real home I've seen many hard working mothers, too tired to spend much time with the children but will exhaust so much energy in mechanical housework.

I suppose some of you older and expert housekeepers would scorn the thought of a stool to rest upon while washing dishes. I find I can do a great deal of work, and "while I'm resting" can do the dishes. It is also a great help on ironing day. I'm not all tired out, with standing. I think an adjustable stool is fine if you haven't a high stool.

I heard one lady say that we could get along very well without housecleaning if we would systematically clean a room, a month, the whole year around, take the rug up, curtains down, clean paint, pictures etc. I don't know how it would work.

I hope I can attend many picnics this summer.

I like the Social Corner so much. It is so informal, no "minutes of the last meeting" to be listened to and a whole lot of wasted time.

I am a member of the Grange but don't attend as often as I might. I was talking one day to our worthy lecturer and she said she liked what the Grange stood for. Our Social Corner hasn't any symbols or as far as I know any motto, but "Purity" might be our watchword, if for no other reason than the Church consists of women.

Brave: I often think of you. Do you think you'll be able to attend some of the picnics this summer?

Bobby: You must write. That is one of our rules and regulations. Isn't it, Calla Lily?

New York Girl: Never a line from you anymore. I remember your letters a long while ago.

Jerushy: What's the matter with you, too? Even if you can't come, you might write. Hope your daughter's health will be improved.

Best wishes for the Corner. Sincerely.

CHELSEA.

RECIPE FOR ANGEL CAKE

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: It is sometime ago since I wrote so thought I would write to help keep the Corner filled, also to thank the sister that sent me the calendar. If she will give me her name or pen name I will send her a birthday card. Have been in the city all winter, am moving back to my old home town.

Strapper in the City: I know you, but I don't think you know me. I am acquainted with some of your people.

Crimson Rambler: I wonder if I know you. You said you had a call from Stranger in the City and knew some people in North Stonington. I was born in that town and know a lot of people there. Would like to get acquainted with you. Where do you live?

Mrs. E. W.: Have you joined the Corner yet? If you have I must have overlooked your letters. Or did my sister scare you out?

Twice Twenty: Will you be so kind as to tell me if it is half a teaspoon of baking powder or half a tablespoon you use in your light fruit cake? I tried the recipe and it didn't rise as it should.

Will the sister that sent in a recipe for piles (I think it was some kind of vaseline) please send it again, as I have lost the paper?

Some of the sisters requested sending recipes, so I will send two I use quite often.

Mock Angel Cake: Set one cup of sweet milk, (I use an aluminum cup) in a pan of boiling water and heat to a boiling point, or about ten minutes. Sift together three times, one cup flour, one cup sugar and three teaspoons baking powder, add the milk gradually a little at a time and keep stirring until smooth. Then fold in (not beat) the well beaten whites of two eggs, flavor with one teaspoon vanilla or lemon. Bake in an angel cake tin.

Angel Cake: Whites of 11 eggs, beaten stiff, one and one half cups granulated sugar sifted once, one cup flour sifted with one teaspoon cream tartar four times, one teaspoon vanilla. Bake in ungreased pan 40 minutes. I make half the quantity, taking whites of six eggs, half of the sugar and a little more than half of the flour. This recipe is O. K.

COUNTRY SISTER (June 2.)

TRAVELING 100 YEARS AGO

Dear Social Corner: It seems the trials and tribulation of house cleaning have not lessened the interest in the Social Corner page. I didn't think they need my help. I want to thank Zerviah, Foxglove and Whirlwind for birthday cards received. Was well remembered by others with gifts and cards. Silver Locks writes of the past and present. Can the changes be as many in the next hundred years as in the part? I have a letter written by my great uncle in Dec. 1825 back to his home in Canterbury, Conn. It was not written to me for I am not quite as old as that even if I have just had a birthday. His home was in Mt. Pleasant, Penn. No trains, autos or airplanes then. All traveled with horses First day he wrote they only reached Willimantic as the weather was quite severe and they put up for the night. Started late the next morning as weather was cold and went as far as West Hartford. Next day drove 30 miles or more. Fourth day went as far as Mt. Tom. About sunset ascended Dover Mountain and put up at tavern on top of Dover Mountain. Fifth day it snowed quite a hard so we did not travel far. Sixth day had business in Newburgh so did not leave there very early. Eighth day started from White Lake driving 35 miles reaching home in the evening rather fatigued. Met with no accident on our journey. The postage on this letter was 18 2-3 cents. Rather a slow way of traveling people would think at the present time.

Owalissa: I don't know where to find you but think I should go to Chaplin and make inquiries. Am I right?

Breeze does not know the lines inquired about, but has heard them.

BREEZE.

MAKING FRIENDS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It does seem a fine thing to make friends through the Corner page, and many thanks to the editor for giving me a little space. I would like to say a few words about our trolley lines. What could we do without them? In the city you can ride miles on a five cent fare or six, as they have been more for a year or two. Now the same ride would be worth ten and even much more, the way prices are for other ways of going. I do think we ought to support the trolley lines, for they are a necessity, also a very much needed convenience. I go to Moosup to see my folks, a brother, and it is only three tokens, 35 cents. What other conveyance can you get to go that many miles for that money? I do think we ought to talk about it through the Social Corner to let people know where we stand in regard to trolley fares. I don't see how they can keep going unless more people ride on them. Think it over kind friends and take a ride on them more often for the pleasure of it, so we will have them with us a long time.

Jennie: Your card received and I will try to write that letter soon It is sweet to be remembered.

Rural Delivery: When you take your hat off to K. W. don't keep it off too long, it is the wrong time of the year.

1492 seemed to think that K. W. must know beans. Perhaps she does, time will tell. It wouldn't be surprising if Kentucky Wonder beans were in use in 1492.

KENTUCKY WONRER(Sept. 11.)

THIRD ANNIVERSARY IN CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am sending in a few lines to help fill our page. It has been some little time since I have sent a little in. I was at the April meeting and had a wonderful time. Was glad to meet some of the sisters and chat with them a while as some I had not seen for a long time.

Bonie: I was pleased to meet you. Glad you feel that you can be among us again. Come again and bring hat sweet baby. How good he was.

Golden Glow: I am waiting to hear voice over the wire.

This month is my anniversary in the Social Corner. Three years ago I sent in my first letter and met with the sisters of Club No. 2 at the April meeting at the Buckingham Memorial. I want to thank the sisters who sent me birthday cards, if it is not too late. See if I can remember them all: True Blue, Lo, Violet, L. T. P., Sis, Red Rose, Snow Flake, White Clover.

Snow Bird: I must thank you and yours for the nice card. Hope you are well. Cheerup, summer is coming.

Flora: I hope you returned safe to your home. I was glad to talk with you, if it was only over the wire. It seemed like old times. Hope to see you at Easter time. A happy Easter to all.

BLUE CLOVER (March 31.)

CLUB NO. 2'S MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: We had a pleasant day for our meeting at Buckingham Memorial April 2. There were several visitors from other clubs, so with members from No. 2 there were one hundred or more present. Was glad to meet so many. Two long tables were spread with good things to eat. There was a moment of silence before the doxology in memory of the sister who was with us at our last meeting, but has passed into the "Great beyond." Then came the dinner. We had a little miss who gave a recitation and two piano selections. Also an interpretative dance, which was enjoyed very much. Several read short clippings from papers. A few related short funny stories. Think I must be stupid as I did not notice anything spicy or vulgar about any of them. Think the mother who didn't take her daughter with her fortunate, but if she does not hear any thing worse as she travels through life she will be very lucky. Think it does one good to have a good laugh occasionally, as there are troubles of some kind for each one of us. Hope our visitors were not so badly shocked but what they will come again.

Scottie: Missed you. Hope you will soon be well.

WURDY BELLE.

THE AGE OF MIRACLES

Dear Corner Sisters: If we sit down
At the great tree's feet.
We feel the pulse of nature beat.
There's an upward impulse in every thing,
Look and be glad! is the law of spring.
And as flowers grow under the last year's leaves,
New hope arises in the heart that grieves.
Over the grave of a gladness dead,
And the soul that sorrowed is comforted.

Someone remarked in my hearing not long ago: "Oh! that can't be done, the age of miracles has long since passed, you know." I have not the least idea what was the subject of conversation, or what the undertaking, the successful carrying-out of which would savor of the miraculous: That doesn't concern me in the least. But I do want to enter a protest against the relegation of miracles to past ages. We have them right with us if we have open eyes to see and open hearts to receive and understand them. I remember standing with a friend on the piazza of his country home one morning after a day of rain and another of sunshine. Before us was a mass of pink and white bloom where yesterday had been a tree with brown branches. "A miracle!" I cried delighted. "Oh, no," replied my matter of fact friend, "That is only a peach tree in blossom." And yet what was betokened but a wondrous miracle, the working of a power above and beyond our human understanding!

And how symbolic of resurrection this miracle of springtime awakening? I can scarcely imagine one whose heart would not be thrilled by it, or who would fail to feel its inspiration. In tropic climes, perhaps, where reigns perpetual summer, its appeal may be less strong than to those of us who dwell in northern regions. About that I do not know but it seems to me there is always and everywhere the renewing which is so emblematic of life after seeming death of life, persistent, eternal. And how expressive is this constant rebirth! This making new of our lives here now. How comforting it is in times of apparent disaster and failure to remember that there is always another opportunity awaiting us: that we ourselves may be renewed in faith and courage and that the effort thus inspired will surely bear worthy fruit.

I am going to send you a number of very unusual recipes.

They are all "true and tried" and I think will be appreciated by all who try them.

Wash the orange, let it dry, then rub lumps of sugar hard on the skin You can try the same idea with a lemon. Both import an extremely delicate fruit flavor to one's cup of tea.

When peeling oranges or lemons, put the discarded rinds through a food grinder and dry and store them for use as flavoring.

They can be used fresh, or dried and soaked back to freshness, in pudding sauces, in cakes, in puddings, where fresh fruit is called for.

Peanut butter sticks to the mouth. Prepared in the following manner, it will not do that: Soak a teaspoon of granulated gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water, dissolve it in one cup of hot milk and with a wooden spoon gradually work the milk into half-pound of peanut butter placed in a mixing bowl. Pour it into round, wet molds and allow it to harden. It is delicious.

When making cake which calls for chopped raisins, just sprinkle with corn flour. You will find it much more satisfactory than wheat. One tablespoon of corn flour to one cup of raisins.

My friend told me that in washing spinach to try putting salt in the first water and you will find that not so many washings will be needed. I did try it and found it all right.

When you are not using your salt shaker put it in a dry covered jelly glass and you'll find under trying conditions of humidity, this suggestion is worth the extra effort required.

ETHELYN.

CLUB NO. 3 MEETS ON THE 16TH

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Club No. 3 will meet at the Lebanon Baptist chapel as usual April 16th. Please bring the regular outfit of eating utensils including a good appetite and digestive apparatus in order to do duty to the good things that will be there. Our known members number around half a hundred. There is no reason why we should not make a good showing unless the weatherman decides to send another blizzard. Men, women and children visitors who are interested in the Corner are welcome.

Now, sisters we expect to have a roll call so please come prepared with some helpful hint or suggestion in response to your name. Norwich, Willimantic and others: The distance from your places to Lebanon is not one inch longer than from Lebanon to your respective places. Please come so that we may feel your interest. The following are the committee for this time. Eloise, 1776, Barrie, Bo-Peep and Don't Worry.

DON'T WORRY.

GREATLY APPRECIATED SHOWER AND GIFTS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to write and thank all the sisters who so kindly sent me cards and letters when I was in the hospital. I did not know I had so many friends. It is nice to be remembered. I did enjoy them and now I am home I often look them over. I was in the hospital eight weeks. One of my good neighbors brought me a sunshine box and that was full of packages from some of the Social Corner sisters and others. Wasn't it fun to open one in the morning and one in the afternoon? It is no fun being in the hospital but it is nice to have so many friends and I want to thank you all.

Yes, Pape's Boy, I knew you were. Don't suppose I would if I met you on the street.

Anona: May those apples were good. Thanks, Eliza Jane, for the suggestion for the shower for I did enjoy it very much.

KATHERINE.

FARSIGHTEDNESS

Dear Sisters: I greatly enjoy your helpful talks and am always anxious to have a little chat with you all. First I want to thanks the sisters for their helpful letters. I know good recipes are in demand. A good many have sent in such helpful recipes that I have to stop and think what will I say next—for when you write every single week you are apt to get stale.

It is said at least 30 out of every 100 American housewives do their own cooking. And since the majority of our women spend overbusy, crowded days, it is no wonder that good short cuts in housekeeping are so greatly in demand. In proof of this note the rapid multiplying of "time-savers" columns in all our papers and magazines, and the way they are prized in various homes, rich and poor—also the instant popularity of such labor-saving inventions as the fireless cooker, which works while the cook sleeps or runs the sewing machine. Indeed the energetic woman of today scorns the idea that she "cannot do two things at once." She even prides herself upon the variety of her interests and achievements, as well she may. But not all of them resourceful women have as yet learned that they can subtract by means of addition that is lessen both labor and bills by adding to the quantity of things, that by doing an extra amount when once started at a piece of work, they save a great deal more time than by making two jobs of it.

We all recognize the fact that by buying in larger amounts one buys less frequently, thus saving time and thought, and that a lower price is also paid. But not all have come to see the same principle applies to work. By cooking in large quantities—even for a smaller family—I find I save myself in a remarkable degree. For instance, by doubling my cake recipe putting half into tea cake pans and half into a loaf or baking half for a layer cake, or half as a plain loaf with fruit and spices added to the other half—I have cake enough for nearly a week. One fire has baked it the same amount of time was consumed, there was but one getting out and cleaning of utensils (no small item) and it was no more work than the mixing of one cake would have been. Kept in a tight box it does not dry. Even though it should do so — a little quickly made pudding sauce poured over the slices for dessert, and, oh, the comfortable feeling that the knowledge "on hand" gives you. Likewise a large kettle of potatoes, mashed, is a boon to the busy woman. Those being left from the first meal, by adding the white of an egg and dipped into the yolk with three tablespoons of milk, then in crumbs, can be made up in potato cakes and fried. Mixed with flaked fish you can have fish cakes, with chopped meat have hash, served with a little green they are fine, boiled whole you can make salads, or put over in cold water and let come to a boil for a few minutes they are like fresh ones and mash them for the next dinner. All this from merely peeling a fresh supply while at it. Then I cook rice; bake it with 3 cups of water to 2-3 cup of rice. This you can fix with tomatoes, make-soup, rice cakes and some you can sweeten or eat with a sauce, while a part can be used southern fashion with meat. You can make the part that is left into pudding, the unsweetened can be made into croquettes. So it is through all the cooking line—while one's hands are busy preparing any food it will be found very little trouble to add to the amount. It is the getting at it and the continous worry, the oft-recurring thought and question of what shall I get to eat" that makes housekeeping a trial to the woman with a diversity of cares. And too, not merely in the cooking, but in other lines of household work does this method apply. The woman who can afford to buy a bolt of cotton and cut out a half dozen or more undergarments at a time economizes in cloth, time and labor. We cannot flutter from one piece of work to another and keep our nerves and succeed in anything. Instead let us train ourselves to do things thoroughly, in large quantities, with more whole-heartedness and "singleness of eye." Then we can lay aside kitchen worries with the kitchen apron, and, go, with a clear conscience and a real satisfaction to other duties and pleasures. This is simply far sightedness. A quality necessary in the business of home-making as in commercial affairs.

DEALING WITH CORNS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters All: Will just tune in for a short talk. Talk about tuning in, it is about all I do these nights. Am worse than Twice Twenty.

A Corn: I have tried many kinds of corn cures but have yet to find anything that will cure corns. I find sand-papering them about as effective as anything. First soak the feet in good hot water, not hot enough to burn. Pare the corns, (I use a safety razor blade) then with a fine piece of sand paper, I give them a good rubbing. Then if sore put on a plaster. That will keep the shoe from irritating them. I generally make my own plasters using a piece of felt which I keep for that purpose. If the corns are not sore enough for a plaster sandpaper them each morning and at night, I find great relief that way. Corns are like bad pennies, always returning. And I speak from experience.

Balsam Fir: Glad to see a letter from you. Do you owe me a letter or do I owe you one? Wonder if you are having as nice a storm up your way as we are having here.

Twice Twenty: Sorry to hear Mr. Twice Twenty is bad with rheumatism again. Have you any little chicks yet? I expect some Thursday. Last year I had some nearly two months old. Yes, Foxglove and I had to stay at home Corner day.

Cretia: Sorry to hear you were so ill, not a very pleasant birthday after all. Hope to hear you are well again and will be able to get out and enjoy the Corner meetings soon.

Olga and Rose Lee: Sorry not to have been able to attend the anniversary in Willimantic but the weather said we should stay at home and stay we did, Foxglove and I. Same luck the second of April. We all set for Norwich but as usual had to stay at home. Some time, like the man at the "movies," it will come right. Will tell you the story that man and the "movies" next meeting day. Foxglove and I to attend a convention of the New England Order of Protection in New London, and will try to find time to call on Dom Pedro.

Will sign off now it is 9:30.

WHIRLWIND.

WASHINGTON PIE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Having read the Corner page for a long time, and received help from it in many ways, I would like to be one of you if I may.

Will enclose a recipe for Washington pie, which a sister asked for last week.

Washington Pie: One egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 1-2 cup cold water, 1-2 teaspoon lemon. Bake in two tins for about 15 minutes.

Filling for Washington Pie: One cup milk, egg, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 level tablespoons of flour, 1-2 teaspoon of lemon. Heat milk, add beaten egg creamed with sugar and flour and cook in double boiler, till thick. Remove from fire, and add lemon.

Will take for my pen name.

CLIP.

A GREASE STICK

Dear Social Corner Friends: First I want to thank Foxglove, Whirlwind, Effie M. and Hope Cobweb, for the birthday greetings they sent me. It is pleasant to be remembered.

Hope Cobweb: I can guess about the "young and shy" part, since I saw in The Bulletin about that Worcester Tech junior! Maybe twins after all!

Rosalind: Why don't you use a grease stick as I call mine, with which to grease your tins? I have a round stick with a groove around it about an inch from the end. I wind a soft cloth around the stick and wind thread around it at the groove and tie it. Have the cloth extend beyond the stick a little, to rub with. This lasts quite a while, and I don't have to get my fingers greasy.

GREETINGS FROM THE SEATTLE SISTER

Dear Social Corner Pals! Our Social Corner birthday passed by and I failed to send a greeting. Although one of the older members I have surely been a slacker the past year.

But I am always interested in the good letters from the many members, both old and new, and I would like to be with you when you meet and have such jolly times at the clubs. Alas, it is a long way to come, unless one can use an airplane. Perhaps some day even such a trip may come my way. I'll just drop down, and say howdy, and then back to the golden west again. To me there is no place like the Pacific coast. Especially the Puget sound country.

I wish to thank the sender of the pretty little calendar. I sure appreciate being remembered. When I am so far away.

We have had a very pleasant winter in western Washington and have enjoyed long drives via auto every week. One was to Portland, Oregon in December and it was the only month we had snow, and just enough to cover the ground once. While New England was shivering with cold, I was picking flowers in my yard, and this is not sunny California either. It looks as though I was boosting the north west all right, but there are so many fine letters and good recipes, I am not able to send something better.

And so many of the old writers have passed on to the higher life, I feel as a stranger to you now. But it gives me pleasure to have a chat with you once in a while.

Wildwood can not see to read or write but still keeps an interest in the Social Corner letters and she sends loving greetings to all. She will be 85 the 25th of this month. Hettie Marie was her cousin. They all live to a good old age.

I would love to shake hands with Pedestrian and Hepatica. I, too, love the woods and wild flowers.

How much one can learn of mother nature. I never grow tired following the trails over mountains and through the valleys. Oh, the peace and joy one feels, the beauty teaching one the wonderful lessons of God, and life and love.

I will not take up any more time. Wishing you all the best of earth's blessings I am as ever your western sister.

POTLATCH.

READ LETTERS FROM FIRST ISSUE

To the Editor and Members of Social Corner: First, I wish to thank Socia Corner Member for the dainty calendar I received. It is just the picture I like, a cozy home surrounded by flowering shrubs. It looks like a miniature painting by Corot, the cheerful artist. I was glad it was not a winter scene, as I do not like to look at ice and snow, or even read about them.

To those who love flowers, some one has said:

"He is happiest who hath power
To gather wisdom from a flower."

When the tulip tree in front of the G. A. R. building in Norwich is in bloom it is a beautiful sight. I like fragrant flowers such as sweet peas, lilacs, roses, and hyacinths.

Wiltwick: I long for good weather and hope our garden will look even more tropical than when you saw it last year. Have you received the F. G. and H.?

Rural Delivery: Is your housecleaning finished, also your quilts? Wonder if you make tatting.

It certainly looks good to see a page full of letters. I like the chatty letters and those written by members who travel and visit interesting places.

The Social Corner also makes a pleasant place for friends and relatives to meet socially but the time is so short at each meeting in the hall. I have read the letters from the first issue when there were only a few of them, six, I think. Some one suggested a roll call. The editor will be busy if all answered at the same time or every week.

Where is Jack the Hunter, one of the early writers?

"Come, wife," said Will, "I pray you devote just half a minute to mend this coat, which a nail has chanced to rend."

"'Tis ten o'clock," said the drowsy mate.

"I know," said Will, "it is never too late to mend."

Wishing health and happiness to each.

NEMA.

TWO PLEASANT SURPRISES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I hope you all enjoy this delightful spring weather.

The feathered songsters seem to enjoy it as much as we humans do, and it seems as if they sing for the pure joy of living.

I had two very pleasant surprises one day last week. Two of the sisters remembered me, each sending me a very pretty card. What a sweet way to give me a greeting, and a loving recognition!

It makes me feel in touch with, and interested in you all. Thanks to Don't Worry who seemed to enjoy the little spring poem. Thanks to Jennie for her kind and sympathetic message. I did not expect to receive attention so soon, so you see it was a pleasant surprise to me.

Hope to hear from the other sisters soon. Kind regards to all.

PALMLEAF.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Dear Social Corner Friends: The crocuses are up and the small boys are playing marbles. What better proof do we want? Our last snow has gone, the birds are singing, and now I am listening to hear the peep frogs. They may have been heard. I may have to go into the country to hear them.

SATURDAY EVE.

AN EASTER GREETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Another one of our gatherings come and gone. As usual good cheer was the order of the day, old friends meeting old friends, as well as making new ones. As usual Alfara did herself proud. There was an abundance of good things and some to spare. I always look forward to the social hour after dinner like a child for its first circus. The intimate chats with each individual are much more satisfactory than a written correspondence. This always leaves me in such a mellow state of mind, that the influence is manifest in my family for several days. My husband often sighs and says he wishes it could last from one meeting to another.

Lavender: There was an empty chair at the table.

Neighbor Eveready: We missed you too, orange blossoms and all.

The springlike weather drew a very good attendance although the roads in the country are still very bad in some places. Spring is immerging rather slowly from its winter bed and seems to be inclined to prolong its nap, but will be here eventually. It seems to be the time when people as well as nature take on a new lease of life, form new hopes and plans and even common everyday things seem to put on a different look and color. Old mother nature knows how to awaken the interest of her children by promises of things to come, which is such a human trait in every one of us, to always live in hopes, and reach out our hands for more and more. I think New Year's resolutions should be made at Easter time instead of January first as we seem at that time to be more in accord with things in general, and our outlook on life is brighter, and chances are many good resolutions made at this time would not be broken.

Well dear Corner sister, I extend to all a sincere wish for a very happy Easter and will add a humble little prayer as the saints may pray for the sinners, but the sinners must pray for themselves:

CONTRIBUTION

If I have fallen or gone astray
Or in my wanderings lost the way
If I mistook the wrong for right
Or left undone things that I might
If I gave duty another name
Or been forgetful of the same
If I have by some hasty word
Have lost a friend or sown discord
If I found joy in a senseless dream
Or mistook for love but friendship's gleam.
Or longed for things beyond recall
Wished for impossible things to befall,
If in thought or deed I've been astray,
Forgive me, Lord and lead the way.

Best wishes.

SIS HOPKINS.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

Dear Social Corner: As each week finds our page more than full of very interesting letters, it seems unnecessary for me to write. But even if one is in a crowd they don't want the other fellows to do all the talking, so here I am, extending a hearty welcome to all new members, and especially those of Club 4. Kentucky Wonder wants to know if we will reserve a place for her. We surely will and see that she gets the beans, too.

Will also have a place for Inc, and let me tell you all right here, that she can make nice cake with green frosting.

Then there are Kingston Brown and Mavis whom we are expecting to meet soon.

And Peggy Alder while I am sure your name is not pebble I am not so sure but what you live near a long bridge. Don't you think it would be nice to be a member of Club 4?

One sister told me she had been a writer for several years and never had the courage to attend a meeting. Now if there are others feeling the same way, get into your most comfortable clothes and join the crowd for the next Social Corner meeting and see what a good time you will have.

Goodie: Was it you who sent a request for my light fruit cake recipe? Will put it in the Corner again as there was a slight mistake before in the baking time of it.

Picsi: Have not had the pleasure of reading many of your letters this winter, but have enjoyed the poetry sent in by you. The few poems sent in each week are a great addition to the Corner page.

That reminds me, Neighbor Eveready, about that page letter we have been looking for so long. Have you seen it yet?

Joan: Here is an epitaph for your collection, if you haven't it already:

Within this wood lies Deacon Wood
The one within the other
The outside wood we know is good
But doubtful is the other.

Light Fruit Cake: One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one-half cup milk, two cups flour one-half teaspoon baking powder, whites of three eggs, one-half cup seeded raisins, one-half cup chopped citron, one-half cup cocoanut, one-half cup chopped nuts, a little salt. Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Dredge fruit with flour. Cream butter and sugar, add milk and flour mixture, then fruit and then the stiffly beaten whites of eggs.

Line a loaf pan with paraffin paper and bake cake in a moderate oven, covering with paper for the first half hour.

Best wishes for the health and happiness of every member is the wish of.

TWICE TWENTY.

PEEP FROGS ARE COMING

Dear Corner Folks: What a terrible storm we had the past week, with so much thunder, lightning, snow, rain and hail! It really looks as though spring will be very late, although the grass today begins to look a little green after last night's rain. I heard one lone peep frog this morning singing all by his lonesome. I have a pretty row of daffodils up about a finger high but they won't amount to much this year, I fear, for they have been snowed under three snow storms. There isn't the sign of a bud on them and the tops are the color of an orange.

Last year I had a number of beautiful blossoms but I guess the snow has spoiled them for blossoms this year.

Great Grand Ma: I received your very welcome letter in due time and was very glad to hear from you. Tell Mrs. G. I shall try to call again soon to see her as I enjoyed my visit there very much.

Foxglove: I have been to your home town many times especially when the trolleys ran from here. Am wondering how many have commenced their house cleaning. I have done quite a little and still have much more to do as I have a large house with 10 furnished rooms to clean so I have to begin early.

Rural Delivery: I thought you must be getting right down to business if you had joined a quilting bee. I had to smile at your letter. No wonder you felt so over it, I can't blame you.

J. E. T.: Thankee for your late photograph. It is very good. I could hardly believe my eyes when I beheld you driving a car. I knew you were capable of doing lots of things but I didn't believe you had pluck enough to run one. If I can get a little frame I shall frame it and keep it where the sisters that call can see it. I have already christened it, J. E. T. and her Rapid Transit I delivered the message about the potato watch, and he says he will try and remember it when planting time comes. Glad to hear Dom Pedro is feeling some better.

Yours for the Corner.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

PLEASED WITH BIRTHDAY REMEMBRANCES.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been some time since I have written as I have so much to do, I cannot find time to write, but as I received a number of birthday cards, I thought I must write and thank the sisters for their kind thoughts. Cards received were from Calla Lily, True Blue, Necia, Lo, Frances Adel, Black Eyed Susie and two from Whirlwind. Thank you all, also for the phone calls.

In last Saturday's paper was a piece from Triplets in regard to the last club meeting. She writes that the stories told there were not "spicy," but were "plain vulgar." I was not at the meeting but have been told by several of the older members, that the stories told were not bad at all. Don't you think it would have been much better if any one at the meeting who did not like the stories or jokes told, had said so then and there, rather than to have put it in the paper? It certainly won't do the "Corner" any good to have such a piece sent in. I am sure the sisters who told the joker or stories know who they are.

Yours for the good of the Corner.

WETONA.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

OVER THE RIVER

On the banks beyond the stream,
Where the fields are always green,
There's no night, but endless day,
There is where the angels stay.
There's no sorrow, pain nor fear.
There's no parting farewell tear,
There's no cloud, no darkness there.
All is bright and clear and fair.

Flowers of fadeless beauty there,
Trees of life with foliage rare.
Fruits the most inviting grow,
There is where I want to go.
Hark! I hear the angels sing.
Heavenly harpers on the wing,
Throng the air and bid me rise
To the music of the skies.

Soon from earth I'll soar away
To the realms of endless day;
Soon I'll join the ransomed throng,
Sing with them redemption's song,
Pearly gates stand open wide
Just beyond death's chilling tide;
Then my mansion bright I see
There the angels wait for me.

Earthly home, adieu, adieu,
Earthly friends farewell to you.
Softly breathe your last good-bye,
"Jesus calls me, let me die."
Hallelujah! Christ has come!
Hallelujah! I'm most home!
Friends and loved ones, weep no more
Meet me on the other shore."

LAUGH A LITTLE BIT

There's a motto just your fit,
"Laugh a little bit."
When you think you're trouble hit,
"Laugh a little bit."

Look misfortune in the face,
Brave the beldam's rude grimace;
Ten to one 'twill yield its place,
If you have the grit and wit,
Just to "laugh a little bit."

Keep your face with sunshine lit,
"Laugh a little bit."
Gloomy shadows off will flit,
If you have the wit and grit
Just to "laugh a little bit."

Cherish this as sacred writ,
"Laugh a little bit."
Keep it with you, sample it,
"Laugh a little bit."

Little ills will sure betide you,
Fortune may not sit beside you,
Men may mock and fame deride you,
But you'll mind them not a whit,
If you "laugh a little bit."

RAISED DOUGHNUTS AND WASHINGTON PIE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I realize I have been a slacker, so much so that someone has used my pen name. I smiled to read that some one had written or called on me. I may be forgetten by some but not by everyone and a stranger to many others. I enjoy reading all the letters and always wish I could write one as interesting. I hope to attend some of the meetings or picnics as I haven't in several years.

I hear some one asking for a raised doughnut recipe and as I don't want her to wait long I am sending mine. If there is anything I am fond of it is raised doughnuts. I tried Maine Lover's recipe last week. They were good and so will these be if they don't get chilled.

Raised Doughnuts—At night stir 2 cups warm sweet milk, 1 compressed yeast-cake dissolved, 1 cup sugar with flour to make a batter, not too stiff. Keep covered and where it will not get cold. In the morning add 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1-2 teaspoon soda dissolved, 1 egg, a little cinnamon, salt and nutmeg and flour enough to knead. I sometimes let them rise until light and then cut out. At other times I cut them out as soon as I knead them and cannot see any difference. Fry when light in fat that isn't hot enough to burn them.

Here is a good, yet cheap recipe for either Washington pie or layer cake. It is always very light.

Washington Pie or layer cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and a pinch of salt. Put into a cup 1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted butter and fill the cup with sweet milk. Mix all together and take in a rather quick oven.

Persis: Do come often. Your letters are fine. I too have tried using flour bags but some of them do not bleach to suit me.

If we would all use the terms used in the domestic science course it would save time and ink here are a few that I use. c—cup, T—tablespoon, t—teaspoon.

I have enjoyed reading of the trips taken and a description of the north, south or west.

With best wishes to all from

RAINBOW.

GREETINGS FROM BALSAM FIR

Dear Social Corner and Friends: I want to tell you how much I enjoy all the good letters from all the old as well as new writers.

And it is such a pleasure to see the page full to overflowing.

I have not been down to the village for thirteen weeks until April 1st. Thought I must get out to a radio concert. Well it happened this way. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Powers are going to move away and as a farewell banquet they were to have a surprise also. It was entirely unknown to them. After they were listening a crowd began to gather, some 50 in all—a good crowd for a small place like this. Some came from Oakland and Saco and such a storm! Snow began falling at 7 a. m. and was a raging blizzard when we came home and oh how dark! A lantern made a very small light. The storm continued until Wednesday noon. Snow was a foot deep when it cleared off. The entertainment consisted of corner and piano solo by Mr. and Mrs. Knapp. Merle Verrie and John Bentley gave a ukelele concert, then the singing of verses composed by them about the business men and women of the place. The applause was loud and long and they had to come back many times with something even better.

Then before refreshments of ice cream and cake with fruit were served Old Lang Syne was sung by the crowd. Mrs. Powers was presented a large bouquet of carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers are 53 and 75 respectively, and their many friends wish them much happiness in their new home. Mrs. Jessie Barrows presented the bouquet, but Mrs. Powers' gratitude was too deep for utterance.

Sister North Dakota writes me she is afraid of losing the use of her hands from neuritis. I think a card shower would be appreciated. Linton, N. D. R. D. 1.

I was much pleased to receive Dom Pedro's card from her own hand only wish she could be real well when warm weather comes.

Some one has asked for lovers of nature to tell about it. I am one. Nothing is more beautiful than the works of nature and I long to get into the woods. A pretty place is in the Portland Match Company's woods with roads here and there all through groves of white pine. I am a W. C. T. U. woman and belong to the Woman's National Relief Corps of San Francisco. Enough said. Best wishes for all Social Corner friends.

BALSAM FIR.

CHATTY LETTER FROM LITTLE SISTER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I suppose all the rugs and bedquilts are finished and the next thing in order is housecleaning. I for one will be very grateful if the sisters will tell us how we can do it easy for after a tussle with grip and bronchitis one hasn't much ambition or strength for such strenous work. One of the sisters asked for the words of an old hymn. I have watched for an answer but failed to see any. My father used to sing it and I will send it as I remember it. I can't send the tune but if the sister will come where I am I will sing it for her.

Another sister Acorn asked for a cure for corns. Wonder if she would care to do what my husband did for him. He followed the advice given in the Bible, "If thine hand offend thee cut it off, etc." He placed a chisel where he wanted the toe severed brought down a good blow with a mallet and off came the offending toe. As it happened he had no serious trouble with it but I would not advise anyone to try it.

Several of the sisters have written about utilising flour bags. I suppose they have some way of working out the printing on the bags. My mother used to tell about a neighbor or hers who used to save salt bags and make undergarments for her little girl and when the child stooped over one could read "Rock Salt, Rock Salt."

When reading about Twice Twenty's butter war reminded of what I gave my husband for an irritating cough. He could not get to sleep and got out of patience. I handed him what I supposed to be a raisin, telling him it would ease his throat. He took it and seemed quieter and as I was going off to sleep I heard him muttering and heard him say, "That's a darn pretty thing to give a fellow for a cold." In the morning he handed me something, saying, That's what you gave me last night." It was a small black ring with a piece of black cloth attached, used to wrap around a closed umbrella. Needless to add I was very much amused, which interested me more than the advice I received.

Best wishes for the Corner and all concerned.

LITTLE SISTER (Aug 26.)

HOUSEWORK

Dear Sisters: In the spring our fancy will turn to thoughts of housecleaning. It is well for all concerned that it does for there is nothing in this world that counts for more than a home. But a home does not consist of cleanliness alone.

Happy children's laughter, even if it is a little noisey; and the settlement of their little differences. The hustling to get this piece of work done that piece of work done, in order to enjoy ourselves afterward in games, reading and often homework from school, goes toward making a real home I've seen many hard working mothers, too tired to spend much time with the children but will exhaust so much energy in mechanical housework.

I suppose some of you older and expert housekeepers would scorn the thought of a stool to rest upon while washing dishes. I find I can do a great deal of work, and "while I'm resting" can do the dishes. It is also a great help on ironing day. I'm not all tired out, with standing. I think an adjustable stool is fine if you haven't a high stool.

I heard one lady say that we could get along very well without housecleaning if we would systematically clean a room, a month, the whole year around, take the rug up, curtains down, clean paint, pictures etc. I don't know how it would work.

I hope I can attend many picnics this summer.

I like the Social Corner so much. It is so informal, no "minutes of the last meeting" to be listened to and a whole lot of wasted time.

I am a member of the Grange but don't attend as often as I might. I was talking one day to our worthy lecturer and she said she liked what the Grange stood for. Our Social Corner hasn't any symbols or as far as I know any motto, but "Purity" might be our watchword, if for no other reason than the Corner consists of women.

Brave: I often think of you. Do you think you'll be able to attend some of the picnics this summer?

Bobby: You must write. That is one of our rules and regulations. Isn't it, Calla Lily?

New York Girl: Never a line from you anymore. I remember your letters a long while ago.

Jerushy: What's the matter with you, too? Even if you can't come, you might write. Hope your daughter's health will be improved.

Best wishes for the Corner. Sincerely.

CHELSEA.

RECIPE FOR ANGEL CAKE

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: It is sometime ago since I wrote so thought I would write to help keep the Corner filled, also to thank the sister that sent me the calendar. If she will give me her name or pen name I will send her a birthday card. Have been in the city all winter, am moving back to my old home town.

Stranger in the City: I know you, but I don't think you know me. I am acquainted with some of your people.

Crimson Rambler: I wonder if I know you. You said you had a call from Stranger in the City and knew some people in North Stonington. I was born in that town and know a lot of people there. Would like to get acquainted with you. Where do you live?

Mrs. E. W.: Have you joined the Corner yet? If you have I must have overlooked your letters. Or did my sister scare you out?

Twice Twenty: Will you be so kind as to tell me if it is half a teaspoon of baking powder or half a teaspoon you use in your light fruit cake? I tried the recipe and it didn't rise as it should.

Will the sister that sent in a recipe for piles (I think it was some kind of vaseline) please send it again, as I have lost the paper?

Some of the sisters requested sending recipes, so I will send this. I use quite often:

Mock Angel Cake: Set one cup of sweet milk, (I use an aluminum cup) in a pan of boiling water and heat to a boiling point, or about ten minutes. Sift together three times, one cup flour, one cup sugar and three teaspoons baking powder, add the milk gradually a little at a time and keep stirring until smooth. Then fold in (not beat) the well beaten whites of two eggs, flavor with one teaspoon vanilla or lemon. Bake in an angel cake tin.

Angel Cake: Whites of 11 eggs, beaten stiff, one and one half cups granulated sugar sifted once, one cup flour sifted with one teaspoon cream tartar four times, one teaspoon vanilla. Bake in ungreased pan 40 minutes. I make half the quantity, taking whites of six eggs, half of the sugar and a little more than half of the flour. This recipe is O. K.

TRAVELING 100 YEARS AGO

Dear Social Corner: It seems the trials and tribulation of house cleaning have not lessened the interest in the Social Corner page. I didn't think they need my help. I want to thank Zerviah, Foxglove and Whirlwind for birthday cards received. Was well remembered by others with gifts and cards. Silver Locks writes of the past and present. Can the changes be as many in the next hundred years as in the part? I have a letter written by my great uncle in Dec. 1835 back to his home in Canterbury, Conn. It was not written to me for I am not quite as old as that even if I have just had a birthday. His home was in Mt. Pleasant, Penn. No trains, autos or airplanes then. All traveled with horses First day he wrote they only reached Willimantic as the weather was quite severe and they put up for the night. Started late the next morning as weather was cold and went as far as West Hartford. Next day drove 20 miles or more. Fourth day went as far as Mt. Tom. About sunset ascended Dover Mountain and put up at tavern on top of Dover Mountain. Fifth day it snowed quite a hard so we did not travel far. Sixth day had business in Newburgh so did not leave there very early. Eighth day started from White Lake driving 35 miles reaching home in the evening rather fatigued. Met with no accident on our journey. The postage on this letter was 18 2-3 cents. Rather a slow way of traveling people would think at the present time.

Owaissa: I don't know where to find you but think I should go to Chaplin and make inquiries. Am I right?

Breeze does not know the lines inquired about, but has heard them.

BREEZE.

MAKING FRIENDS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It does seem a fine thing to make friends through the Corner page, and many thanks to the editor for giving me a little space. I would like to say a few words about our trolley lines. What could we do without them? In the city you can ride miles on a five cent fare or six, as they have been more for a year or two. Now the same ride would be worth ten and even much more, the way prices are for other ways of going. I do think we ought to support the trolley lines, for they are a necessity, also a very much needed convenience. I go to Moosup to see my folks, a brother, and it is only three tokens, 25 cents. What other conveyance can you get to go that many miles for that money? I do think we ought to talk about it through the Social Corner to let people know where we stand in regard to trolley fares. I don't see how they can keep going unless more people ride on them. Think it over kind friends and take a ride on them more often for the pleasure of it, so we will have them with us a long time.

Jennie: Your card received and I will try to write that letter soon It is sweet to be remembered.

Rural Delivery: When you take your hat off to K. W. don't keep it off too long, it is the wrong time of the year.

1492 seemed to think that K. W. must know beans. Perhaps she does, time will tell. It wouldn't be surprising if Kentucky Wonder beans were in use in 1492.

THIRD ANNIVERSARY IN CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am sending in a few lines to help fill our page. It has been some little time since I have sent a little in. I was at the April meeting and had a wonderful time. Was glad to meet some of the sisters and chat with them a while as some I had not seen for a long time.

Bonie: I was pleased to meet you. Glad you feel that you can be among us again. Come again and bring hat sweet baby. How good he was.

Golden Glow: I am waiting to hear voice over the wire.

This month is my anniversary in the Social Corner. Three years ago I sent in my first letter and met with the sisters of Club No. 2 at the April meeting at the Buckingham Memorial. I want to thank the sisters who sent me birthday cards, if it is not too late. See if I can remember them all; True Blue, Lo, Violet, L. T. H., Sis, Red Rose, Snow Flake, White Clover.

Snow Bird: I must thank you and yours for the nice card. Hope you are well. Cheerup, summer is coming.

Flora: I hope you returned safe to your home. I was glad to talk with you, if it was only over the wire. It seemed like old times. Hope to see you at Easter time. A happy Easter to all.

RED CLOVER (March 31.)

CLUB NO. 2'S MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: We had a pleasant day for our meeting at Buckingham Memorial April 2. There were several visitors from other clubs, so with members from No. 2 there were one hundred or more present. Was glad to meet so many. Two long tables were spread with good things to eat. There was a moment of silence before the doxology in memory of the sister who was with us at our last meeting, but has passed into the "Great beyond." Then came the dinner. We had a little miss who gave a recitation and two piano selections. Also an interpretative dance, which was enjoyed very much. Several read short clippings from papers. A few related short funny stories. Think I must be stupid as I did not notice anything spicy or vulgar about any of them. Think the mother who didn't take her daughter with her fortunate, but if she does not hear any thing worse as she travels through life she will be very lucky. Think it does one good to have a good laugh occasionally, as there are troubles of some kind for each one of us. Hope our visitors were not so badly shocked but what they will come again.

Scottie: Missed you. Hope you will soon be well.

WURDY BELLE.

THE AGE OF MIRACLES

Dear Corner Sisters: If we sit down at the great tree's feet
We feel the pulse of nature beat.
There's an upward impulse in every thing,
Look and be glad! is the law of spring.
And as flowers grow under the last year's leaves,
New hope arises in the heart that grieves.
Over the grave of a gladness dead,
And the soul that sorrowed is comforted.

Someone remarked in my hearing not long ago: "Oh! that can't be done, the age of miracles has long since passed, you know." I have not the least idea what was the subject of conversation, or what the undertaking, the successful carrying-out of which would savor of the miraculous: That doesn't concern me in the least. But I do want to enter a protest against the relegation of miracles to past ages. We have them right with us if we have open eyes to see and open hearts to receive and understand them. I remember standing with a friend on the piazza of his country home one morning after a day of rain and another of sunshine. Before us was a mass of pink and white bloom where yesterday had been a tree with brown branches. "A miracle!" I cried delighted. "Oh, no," replied my matter of fact friend, "That is only a peach tree in blossom." And yet what was betokened but a wondrous miracle, the working of a power above and beyond our human understanding!

And how symbolic of resurrection this miracle of springtime awakening! I can scarcely imagine one whose heart would not be thrilled by it, or who would fail to feel its inspiration. In tropic climes, perhaps, where reigns perpetual summer, its appeal may be less strong than to those of us who dwell in northern regions. About that I do not know but it seems to me there is always and everywhere the renewing which is so emblematic of life after seeming death of life, persistent, eternal. And how expressive is this constant rebirth! This making new of our lives here now. How comforting it is in times of apparent disaster and failure to remember that there is always another opportunity awaiting us; that we ourselves may be renewed in faith and courage and that the effort thus inspired will surely bear worthy fruit.

I am going to send you a number of very unusual recipes.

They are all "true and tried" and I think will be appreciated by all who try them.

Wash the orange, let it dry, then rub lumps of sugar hard on the skin You can try the same idea with a lemon. Both impart an extremely delicate fruit flavor to one's cup of tea.

When peeling oranges or lemons, put the discarded rinds through a food grinder and dry and store them for use as flavoring.

They can be used fresh, or dried and soaked back to freshness, in pudding sauces, in cakes, in puddings, where fresh fruit is called for.

Peanut butter sticks to the mouth. Prepared in the following manner, it will not do that: Soak a teaspoon of granulated gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water, dissolve it in one cup of hot milk and with a wooden spoon gradually work the milk into half-pound of peanut butter placed in a mixing bowl. Pour it into round, wet molds and allow it to harden. It is delicious.

When making cake which calls for chopped raisins, just sprinkle with corn flour. You will find it much more satisfactory than wheat. One tablespoon of corn flour to one cup of raisins.

My friend told me that in washing spinach to try putting salt in the first water and you will find that not so many washings will be needed. I did try it and found it all right.

When you are not using your salt shaker put it in a dry covered jelly glass and you'll find under trying conditions of humidity, this suggestion is worth the extra effort required.

ETHELYN.

CLUB NO. 3 MEETS ON THE 16TH

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Club No. 3 will meet at the Lebanon Baptist chapel as usual April 16th. Please bring the regular outfit of eating utensils including a good appetite and digestive apparatus in order to do duty to the good things that will be there. Our known members number around half a hundred. There is no reason why we should not make a good showing unless the weatherman decides to send another blizzard. Men, women and children visitors who are interested in the Corner are welcome.

Now, sisters we expect to have a roll call so please come prepared with some helpful hint or suggestion in response to your name. Norwich, Willimantic and others: The distance from your places to Lebanon is not one inch longer than from Lebanon to your respective places. Please come so that we may feel your interest. The following are the committee for this time. Eloise, 1776, Barrie, Bo-Peep and Don't Worry.

DON'T WORRY.

GREATLY APPRECIATED SHOWER AND GIFTS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to write and thank all the sisters who so kindly sent me cards and letters when I was in the hospital. I did not know I had so many friends. It is nice to be remembered: I did enjoy them and now I am home I often look them over. I was in the hospital eight weeks. One of my good neighbors brought me a sunshine box and that was full of packages from some of the Social Corner sisters and others. Wasn't it fun to open one in the morning and one in the afternoon? It is no fun being in the hospital but it is nice to have so many friends and I want to thank you all.

Yes, Papa's Boy, I knew you were. Don't suppose I would if I met you on the street.

Anona: Say those apples were good. Thanks, Eliza Jane, for the suggestion for the shower for I did enjoy it very much.

KATHERINE.

FARSIGHTEDNESS

Dear Sisters: I greatly enjoy your helpful talks and am always anxious to have a little chat with you all. First I want to thanks the sisters for their helpful letters. I know good recipes are in demand. A good many have sent in such helpful recipes that I have to stop and think what will I say next—for when you write every single week you are apt to get stale.

It is said at least 30 out of every 100 American housewives do their own cooking. And since the majority of our women spend overbusy, crowded days, it is no wonder that good short cuts in housekeeping are so greatly in demand. In proof of this note the rapid multiplying of "time-savers." columns in all our papers and magazines, and the way they are prized in various homes, rich and poor—also the instant popularity of such labor-saving inventions as the fireless cooker, which works while the cook sleeps or runs the sewing machine. Indeed the energetic woman of today scorns the idea that she "cannot do two things at once." She even prides herself upon the variety of her interests and achievements, as well she may. But not all of there resourceful women have as yet learned that they can subtract by means of addition that is lessen both labor and bills by adding to the quantity of things, that by doing an extra amount when once started at a piece of work, they save a great deal more time than by making two jobs of it.

We all recognize the fact that by buying in larger amounts one buys less frequently, thus saving time and thought, and that a lower price is also paid. But not all have come to see the same principle applies to work. By cooking in large quantities—even for a smaller family—I find I save myself in a remarkable degree. For instance, by doubling my cake recipe putting half into tea cake pans and half into a loaf or baking half for a layer cake, or half as a plain loaf with fruit and spices added to the other half—I have cake enough for nearly a week. One fire has baked it, the same amount of time was consumed, there was but one getting out and cleaning of utensils (no small item) and it was no more work than the mixing of one cake would have been. Kept in a tight box it does not dry. Even though it should do so — a little quickly made pudding sauce poured over the slices for dessert, and, oh, the comfortable feeling that the knowledge "on hand" gives you. Likewise a large kettle of potatoes, mashed, is a boon to the busy woman. Those being left from the first meal, by adding the white of an egg and dipped into the yolk with three tablespoons of milk, then in crumbs, can be made up in potato cakes and fried. Mixed with flaked fish you can have fish cakes, with chopped meat have hash, served with a little green they are fine, boiled whole you can make salads, or put over in cold water and let come to a boil for a few minutes they are like fresh ones and mash them for the next dinner. All this from merely peeling a fresh supply while at it. Then I cook rice; bake it with 3 cups of water to 2-3 cup of rice. This you can fix with tomatoes, make-soup, rice cakes and some you can sweeten or eat with a sauce, while a part can be used southern fashion with meat. You can make the part that is left into pudding, the unsweetened can be made into croquettes. So it is through all the cooking line—while one's hands are busy preparing any food it will be found very little trouble to add to the ampunt. It is the getting at it and the continous worry, the oft-recurring thought and question of what shall I get to eat" that makes housekeeping a trial to the woman with a diversity of cares. And too, not merely in the cooking, but in other lines of household work does this method apply. The woman who can afford to buy a bolt of cotton and cut out a half dozen or more undergarments at a time economizes in cloth, time and labor. We cannot flutter from one piece of work to another and keep our nerves and succeed in anything. Instead let us train ourselves to do things thoroughly, in large quantities, with more whole heartedness and "singleness of eye." Then we can lay aside kitchen worries with the kitchen apron, and, go, with a clear conscience and a real satisfaction to other duties and pleasures. This is simply far sightedness. A quality necessary in the business of home-making as in commercial affairs.

KITTY LOU.

DEALING WITH CORNS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters All: Will just tune in for a short talk. Talk about tuning in, it is about all I do these nights. Am worse than Twice Twenty.

A Corn: I have tried many kinds of corn cures but have yet to find anything that will cure corns. I find sand-papering them about as effective as anything. First soak the feet in good hot water, not hot enough to burn. Pare the corns, (I use a safety razor blade) then with a fine piece of sand paper, I give them a good rubbing. Then if sore put on a plaster. That will keep the shoe from irritating them. I generally make my own plasters using a piece of felt which I keep for that purpose. If the corns are not sore enough for a plaster sandpaper them each morning and at night, I find great relief that way. Corns are like bad pennies, always returning. And I speak from experience.

Balsam Fir: Glad to see a letter from you. Do you owe me a letter or do I owe you one? Wonder if you are having as nice a storm up your way as we are having here.

Twice Twenty: Sorry to hear Mr. Twice Twenty is bad with rheumatism again. Have you any little chicks yet? I expect some Thursday. Last year I had some nearly two months old. Yes, Foxglove and I had to stay at home Corner day.

Cretia: Sorry to hear you were so ill, not a very pleasant birthday after all. Hope to hear you are well again and will be able to get out and enjoy the Corner meetings soon.

Olga and Rose Lee: Sorry not to have been able to attend the anniversary in Willimantic but the weatherman said we should stay at home and stay we did, Foxglove and I. Same luck the second of April. We were all set for Norwich but as usual had to stay at home. Some time, like the man at the "movies," it will come right. Will tell you the story about that man and the "movies" next meeting day. Foxglove and I have to attend a convention of the New England Order of Protection in New London, and will try to find time to call on Dom Pedro.

Will sign off now it is 9:30.

WHIRLWIND.

WASHINGTON PIE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Having read the Corner page for a long time, and received help from it in many ways, I would like to be one of you if I may.

Will enclose a recipe for Washington pie, which a sister asked for last week.

Washington Pie: One egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 1-2 cup cold water, 1-2 teaspoon lemon. Bake in two tins for about 15 minutes.

Filling for Washington Pie: One cup milk, egg, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 level tablespoons of flour, 1-2 teaspoon of lemon. Heat milk, add beaten egg creamed with sugar and flour and cook in double boiler, till thick. Remove from fire and add lemon.

Will take for my pen name.

CLIP.

A GREASE STICK

Dear Social Corner Friends: First I want to thank Foxglove, Whirlwind, Effie M. and Hope Cobweb, for the birthday greetings they sent me. It is pleasant to be remembered.

Hope Cobweb: It can guess about the "young and shy" part, since I saw in The Bulletin about that Worcester Tech junior! Maybe twins after all!

Rosalind: Why don't you use a grease stick as I call mine, with which to grease your tins? I have a round stick with a groove around it about an inch from the end. I wind a soft cloth around the stick and wind thread around it at the groove and tie it. Have the cloth extend beyond the stick a little, to rub with. This lasts quite a while, and I don't have to get my fingers greasy.

ROBERTA.

GREETINGS FROM THE SEATTLE SISTER

Dear Social Corner Pals: Our Social Corner birthday passed by and I failed to send a greeting. Although one of the older members I have surely been a slacker the past year.

But I am always interested in the good letters from the many members both old and new, and I would like to be with you when you meet and have such jolly times at the clubs. Alas, it is a long way to come, unless one can use an airplane. Perhaps some day even such a trip may come my way. I'll just drop down, and say howdy, and then back to the golden west again. To me there is no place like the Pacific coast. Especially the Puget sound country.

I wish to thank the senders of the pretty little calendar. I sure appreciate being remembered. When I am so far away.

We have had a very pleasant winter in western Washington and have enjoyed long drives via auto every week. One was to Portland, Oregon in December and it was the only month we had snow, and just enough to cover the ground once. While New England was shivering with cold, I was picking flowers in my yard, and this is not sunny California either. It looks as though I was boosting the north west all right, but there are so many fine letters and good recipes, I am not able to send something better.

And so many of the old writers have passed on to the higher life, I feel as a stranger to you now. But it gives me pleasure to have a chat with you once in a while.

Wildwood can not see to read or write but still keeps an interest in the Social Corner letters and she sends loving greetings to all. She will be 85 the 25th of this month. Hettie Marie was her cousin. They all live to a good old age.

I would love to shake hands with Pedestrian and Hepatica. I, too, love the woods and wild flowers.

How much one can learn of mother nature. I never grow tired following the trails over mountains and through the valleys. Oh, the peace and joy one feels, the beauty reaching one the wonderful lessons of God, and life and love.

I will not take up any more time. Wishing you all the best of earth's blessings I am as ever your western sister.

POTLATCH.

READ LETTERS FROM FIRST ISLE

To the Editor and Members of Social Corner. First, I wish to thank Socia Corner Member for the dainty calendar I received. It is just the picture I like, a cozy home surrounded by flowering shrubs. It looks like a miniature painting by Corot, the cheerful artist. I was glad it was not a winter scene, as I do not like to look at ice and snow, or even read about them.

To those who love flowers, some one has said:

"He is happiest who hath power
To gather wisdom from a flower."

When the tulip tree in front of the G. A. R. building in Norwich is in bloom it is a beautiful sight. I like fragrant flowers such as sweet peas, lilacs, roses, and hyacinths.

Wiltwick: I long for good weather and hope our garden will look even more tropical than when you saw it last year. Have you received the F. G. and H.?

Rural Delivery: Is your housecleaning finished, also your quilts? Wonder if you make tatting.

It certainly looks good to see a page full of letters. I like the chatty letters and those written by members who travel and visit interesting places.

The Social Corner also makes a pleasant place for friends and relatives to meet socially but the time is so short at each meeting in the hall. I have read the letters from the first issue when there were only a few of them, six, I think. Some one suggested a roll call. The editor will be busy if all answered at the same time or every week.

Where is Jack the Hunter, one of the early writers?

"Come, wife," said Will, "I pray you devote just half a minute to mend this coat, which a nail has chanced to rend."

"'Tis ten o'clock," said the drowsy mate.

"I know," said Will, "it is never too late to mend."

Wishing health and happiness to each.

NEMA.

TWO PLEASANT SURPRISES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I hope you all enjoy this delightful spring weather.

The feathered songsters seem to enjoy it as much as we humans do, and it seems as if they sing for the pure joy of living.

I had two very pleasant surprises one day last week. Two of the sisters remembered me, each sending me a very pretty card. What a sweet way to give me a greeting, and a loving recognition!

It makes me feel in touch with, and interested in you all. Thanks to Don't Worry who seemed to enjoy the little spring poem. Thanks to Jennie for her kind and sympathetic message. I did not expect to receive attention so soon, so you see it was a pleasant surprise to me.

Hope to hear from the other sisters soon. Kind regards to all.

PALMLEAF.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Dear Social Corner Friends: The croquets are up and the small boys are playing marbles. What better proof do we want? Our last snow has gone, the birds are singing, and now I am listening to hear the peep frogs. They may have been heard. I may have to go into the country to hear them.

SATURDAY EVE.

AN EASTER GREETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Another one of our gatherings come and gone. As usual good cheer was the order of the day, old friends meeting old friends, as well as making new ones. As usual Alfara did herself proud. There was an abundance of good things and some to spare. I always look forward to the social hour after dinner like a child for its first circus. The intimate chats with each individual are much more satisfactory than a written correspondence. This always leaves me in such a mellow state of mind, that the influence is manifest in my family for several days. My husband often sighs and says he wishes it could last from one meeting to another.

Lavender: There was an empty chair at the table.

Neighbor Eveready: We missed you too, orange blossoms and all.

The springlike weather drew a very good attendance although the roads in the country are still very bad in some places. Spring is immerging rather slowly from its winter bed and seems to be inclined to prolong its nap, but will be here eventually. It seems to be the time when people as well as natures take on a new lease of life, form new hopes and plans and even common everyday things seem to put on a different look and color. Old mother nature knows how to awaken the interest of her children by promises of things to come, which is such a human trait in every one of us, to always live in hopes, and reach out our hands for more and more. I think New Year's resolutions should be made at Easter time instead of January first as we seem at that time to be more in accord with things in general, and our outlook on life is brighter, and chances are many good resolutions made at this time would not be broken.

Well dear Corner sister, I extend to all a sincere wish for a very happy Easter and will add a humble little prayer as the saints may pray for the sinners, but the sinners must pray for themselves.

CONTRIBUTION

If I have fallen or gone astray
Or in my wanderings lost the way
If I mistook the wrong for right
Or left undone things that I might
If I gave duty another name
Or been forgetful of the same
If I have by some hasty word
Have lost a friend or sogn discord
If I found joy in a senseless dream
Or mistook for love but friendship's gleam.
Or longed for things beyond recall
Wished for impossible things to befall,
If in thought or deed I've been astray,
Forgive me, Lord and lead the way.

Best wishes.

SIS HOPKINS.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

Dear Social Corner: As each week finds our page more than full of very interesting letters, it seems unnecessary for me to write. But even if one is in a crowd they don't want the other fellows to do all the talking, so here I am, extending a hearty welcome to all new members, and especially those of Club 4. Kentucky Wonder wants to know if we will reserve a place for her. We surely will and see that she gets the beans, too.

Will also have a place for Ino, and let me tell you all right here, that she can make nice cake with green frosting.

Then there are Kingston Brown and Mavis whom we are expecting to meet soon.

And Peggy Alder while I am sure your name is not pebble I am not so sure but what you live near a long bridge. Don't you think it would be nice to be a member of Club 4?

One sister told me she had been a writer for several years and never had the courage to attend a meeting. Now if there are others feeling the same way, get into your most comfortable clothes and join the crowd for the next Social Corner meeting and see what a good time you will have.

Goodie: Was it you who sent a request for my light fruit cake recipe? Will put it in the Corner again as there was a slight mistake before in the baking time of it.

Picea: Have not had the pleasure of reading many of your letters this winter, but have enjoyed the poetry sent in by you. The few poems sent in each week are a great addition to the Corner page.

That reminds me, Neighbor Eveready, about that page letter we have been looking for so long. Have you seen it yet?

Joan: Here is an epitaph for your collection, if you haven't it already:

Within this wood lies Deacon Wood
The one within the other
The outside wood we know is good
But doubtful is the other.

Light Fruit Cake: One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one-half cup milk, two cups flour one-half teaspoon baking powder, whites of three eggs, one-half cup seeded raisins, one-half cup chopped citron, one-half cup cocoanut, one-half cup chopped nuts, a little salt. Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Dredge fruit with flour. Cream butter and sugar, add milk and flour mixture, then fruit and then the stiffly beaten whites of eggs.

Line a loaf pan with paraffin paper and bake cake in a moderate oven, covering with paper for the first half hour.

Best wishes for the health and happiness of every member is the wish of.

TWICE TWENTY.

PEEP FROGS ARE COMING

Dear Corner Folks: What a terrible storm we had the past week, with so much thunder, lightning, snow, rain and hail! It really looks as though spring will be very late, although the grass today begins to look a little green after last night's rain. I heard one lone peep frog this morning singing all by his lonesome. I have a pretty row of daffodils up about a finger high but they won't amount to much this year, I fear, for they have been snowed under three snow storms. There isn't the sign of a bud on them and the tops are the color of an orange.

Last year I had a number of beautiful blossoms but I guess the snow has spoiled them for blossoms this year.

Great Grand Ma: I received your very welcome letter in due time and was very glad to hear from you. Tell Mrs. G. I shall try to call again soon to see her as I enjoyed my visit there very much.

Foxglove: I have been to your home town many times especially when the trolleys ran from here. Am wondering how many have commenced their house cleaning. I have done quite a little and still have much more to do as I have a large house with 10 furnished rooms to clean so I have to begin early.

Rural Delivery: I thought you must be getting right down to business if you had joined a quilting bee. I had to smile at your letter. No wonder you felt so over it, I can't blame you.

J. E. T.: Thankee for your late photograph. It is very good. I could hardly believe my eyes when I beheld you driving a car. I knew you were capable of doing lots of things but I didn't believe you had pluck enough to run one. If I can get a little frame I shall frame it and keep it where the sisters that call can see it. I have already christened it, J. E. T. and her Rapid Transit I delivered the message about the potato patch, and he says he will try and remember it when planting time comes. Glad to hear Dom Pedro is feeling some better.

Yours for the Corner.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

PLEASED WITH BIRTHDAY REMEMBRANCES.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been some time since I have written as I have so much to do, I cannot find time to write, but as I received a number of birthday cards, I thought I must write and thank the sisters for their kind thoughts. Cards received were from Calla Lily, True Blue, Necia, Lo, Frances Adel, Black Eyed Susie and two from Whirlwind. Thank you all, also for the phone calls.

In last Saturday's paper was a piece from Triplets in regard to the last club meeting. She writes that the stories told there were not "spicy," but were "plain vulgar." I was not at the meeting but have been told by several of the older members that the stories told were not bad at all. Don't you think it would have been much better if any one at the meeting who did not like the stories or jokes told, had said so then and there, rather than to have put it in the paper? It certainly won't do the "Corner" any good to have such a piece sent in. I am sure the sisters who told the jokes or stories know who they are.

Yours for the good of the Corner.

WETONA.

Charles Goldberg vs. Henry Farrons. Continued one week.

Criminal Docket: State, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, Compl't vs. Joseph Terermsco. Ready. State, Chief of police Thomas E. Brown, Comp'lt vs. Joseph Laudone. Ready.

Judge Turano came into court and called the liquor cases of the state, Thomas E. Brown Chief of Police, Comp'lt vs. the following:

Edward Liotta, 65 Pleasant street, raided by Chief Brown and Sergeant Ferguson on April 4th, when no liquo s were found, charged with illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, plead not guilty. Set down for trial April 15th bond in sum of $200.

Corcetta Liotta, 65 Pleasant stheet, charged with possession of intoxicating liquors, plead not guilty to second offence. Trial set April 18th, bond $500.

After a short recess, Joseph Terernesco, 15 Central Park, was brought into the court room, having been taken into custody by Sergeant Ferguson as he did not appear in court on the previous Friday. He was presented by Henry S. Proctor, agent for the Rhode Island Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children for neglect to properly provide for his children. Miss Pauline Stahle, principal of the Pleasant street school, testified that the daughters of the defendant, Rosa, Theresa and Elisabeth, and his son, Thomas, were absent from school for considerable periods of time. On occasions they had been excluded from school on account of sanitary conditions. Sergeant Donald Ferguson testified to visiting the home from 11.30 to 12.30 Thursday night but the father was not there and the house was sold. Helen Hutchins, school nurse for three years, testified to the children's neglect. Ellena D. Parillo, assigned to Pleasant street as school nurse, told about the very unfavorable conditions in the household. Oliver P. Crandall, overseer of the poor, testified that the town had contributed to their support. Russell L. Slocum, truant officer, gave evidence as to the children's absence from school. Judge Turano said that the custody of the children was asked for by the society, because they were not getting a square deal and the home was not the proper place to bring up the children. He had the case continued for sentence to May 2nd at which time it would be decided whether the society should have the children and the defendant get a jail sentence or not. Court adjourned.

At her home in North Stonington, Friday, the death occurred from pneumonia of Mrs. Olive May Stalmpson, wife of Daniel H. Main. She was born in Lebanon April 27, 1883, the daughter of Henry James Stelmpson and Mary Ann Champlin, of Lebanon.

Dr. J. DeVere Barber was the first witness called, he stated that he had examined Columbia Terranova and had found her pregnant.

Columbia Terranova, 15, of Peckham Hollow, Bradford stated that she had known Joseph Laudone who resided on the opposite side of the street. On September 28th last he came to her home in the afternoon while her mother was in New London and her father was in Westerly. At that time her sister who was younger than herself was in the house. The witness testified that she had met the defendant in the woods near her house in the months of October, November and December at which time she was picking leaves to place in the poultry yard.

Susie Terranova, 13 a sister testified.

Luigi Terranova, father, said Columbia was born May 5 1909 and would be 15 years old in May.

Court recessed at 10.45. Attorney Ledwidge moved that the complaint be dismissed. Judge Turano denied the petition and adjudged the defenant guilty and bound him over to the April term of the Superior court in bonds of $5000 which were furnished.

Thomas E. Brown brought in a complaint, charging bastardy. Bonds were set at $1,600.

Pasquale Salimeno, 73 Pleasant street, raided April 4th by Chief Brown and Patrolman Champlin, when they found one quart bottle of gin, a half pint of gin, two quarts of whiskey, and two half pints and a bottle of cider. Two complaints, charging sale of intoxicating liquors and possession. Pleaded not guilty. Trial set for April 18th, bonds $200 each.

Joseph Salimeno, 69 Pleasant street, sale of intoxicating liquors. Pleaded not guilty. Trial set April 18th, bond $200.

Antenio Salimeno, 57 Pleasant street raided April 4th by Patrolmen Mitchell, Burke and Curtis, when they took samples of wine from cellar and tenement above, charged with sale of intoxicating liquors. Pleaded not guilty. Trial set for April 18th and bond set at $200.

James Salimeno, 57 Pleasant street, charged with sale of intoxicating liquors. Pleaded not guilty. Trial set for April 18th, bond $200.

State, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, Compl't vs. Joseph Laudone of Bradford. In this case carnal knowledge of a child under age was alleged.

Attorney A. T. L. Ledwidge for the defendant, moved that the case be continued to Friday next as this was so serious a case as to be beyond the jurisdiction of the district court. This case involving two minors. Attorney Ledwidge said would be better for society and the plaintiff and defendant if continued. If the case goes over a week an agreement of parties might be reached, and if not the case could go on trial then.

Town Solicitor Ferguson said that a week ago the defendant was arranged and it was agreed that he would be redy for trial Friday the 11th The state's witnesses were all present and the parents of the child were present in court and wished the case to go on trial.

Judge Turano said that allegations had been made that the defendant wa guilty of a serious crime and on April 4th it was stated that he would be ready. Direction was given that the case go on. All spectators, except witnesses, raporters and court officers were excluded.

Next to the last game in the four-bridge tournament which has been played the past season was scored Thursday night, when the Westerly Masonic club of Westerly went to defeat by the close margin of 83 points, in the rooms of the Hook and Ladder Company, Mystic. Win by 92.

Friday evening players, members and friends of the bridge teams which have played through the past season in the Westerly Masonic club sat down to a windup dinner at the inn. At the beginning of play it was agreed that the winning team should be the guests of the losers and with this incentive in mind the players on teams captained by Farquhar Smith and Herber W. Rathbun played their "bridgest." When it was all over, due to errors in scoring the outcome was uncertain, but far from being losers on this account, the players are the gainers for it has been decided to hold two dinners, each team giving one. W. H. Rathbun's team entertained with the following menu:

Fresh vegetable Soup
Dinner crackers Queen olives
Mixed pickles Celery
Roast Vermont Turkey with dressing
Cranberry sauce
Mashed Potato New Spinach
Lettuce and Tomato Mayonese
Parker House Rolls
Cheese Crackers
Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream
Raisin Cake Coffee

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach or the causing of wrinkles, and without the help of exercising, dieting, or absurd greases and salves, is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4613 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a case, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.

When You Buy Furniture, Remember That Quality Is as Important as Price

There are two kinds of furniture. In the making of one kind, price alone seems to be given the principle consideration. To the inexperienced this may seem a better "buy" than some other furniture of similar design and finish. But price alone means nothing. The other type of furniture—the kind that is a real investment, paying you large dividends in pride, comfort and satisfaction for years to come, is made up of a real standard of quality and not down to a price. True, the initial cost may be a little bit more for this better kind of furniture, but in the years of extra service you will get out of it, you will find it the least expensive in the long run, and you will certainly take more pleasure in it than the cheaper kind. Come in and see how this is exemplified in our showing of quality furniture. Right now we are featuring many distinctive new arrivals at prices surprisingly low for such worth while furniture.

FOUR MEN TAKEN FROM FISHING BOAT HELD IN BONDS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 12.—Robert Shine of Ocean avenue, Archibald Douglas of Garfield avenue, Mrs. Dunbar of Woodbridge street, Mrs. Arthur Mandeville of Ocean avenue and Theodore Crandall of Westerly, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Carlisle White of 134 Broad street to be suspended and caused the operator's license of Edward Dunnie of 35 Waller street to be returned to the owner. The automobiles operated by White and Dunnie were recently in collision with other cars.

Miss Harriet Emmerich, stenographer of the probate court, left this afternoon for Southern Pines, N. C., at which resort she will spend a few weeks.

Attorney Frank G. Cronin is seriously ill at his home, 23 Nathan Hale street, having pneumonia. Mr. Cronin had an extremely restless night, but today his condition was slightly more comfortable. It will be several days, however, before it can be determined whether the patient is out of danger. Mr. Cronin contracted a severe cold a few days ago, which resulted in pneumonia.

An automobile owned and driven by Roland W. Anthony, 10 Adelphi avenue, Providence, R. I., struck and seriously injured Frank Mitchell, a track worker in the employ of the Connecticut company, this afternoon, corner of Broad and Williams streets. Mitchell is now a patient at the private hospital suffering from a fractured jaw and numerous bruises.

Mitchell was applying greases to the curve at the corner of the two thoroughfares. While he was doing so, the machine operated by Anthony, in turning from Williams into Broad street run down the worker, Mitchell being thrown to the highway with great force. He was picked up by Anthony and assisted to the hospital.

Henry E. Bartlett, 85, died this morning at his residence, 23 Linnard street, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Bartlett is survived by his widow. He was a brother of the late Hezikiah Bartlett, for many years employed by the city as swarfinger and whose death occurred many years ago. Mr. Bartlett was a marine engineer by occupation, but had not been employed for a long time.

Leonard P. Daniels, 7, died this morning at the home of his parents in Niantic. He had been ill but a few days.

The body of Mrs. Ita Smith, a former resident of New London, whose death occurred at her home in New York last Tuesday, was brought to New London this afternoon for burial in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

An automobile owned and operated by Thomas Forader, of 169 North Bank street and a machine owned and driven by Fred Carlson, of Waterford, were in collision this afternoon, corner of Willetz avenue and Shaw street. Both cars were damaged. Forader and Carlson were ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning, charged with reckless driving as each placed the responsibility for the accident upon the other.

Tony Castanza, 19, of 9 Grand street and Peter Piscatello, 19, of 9 Stewart street, wre arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Motorcycle Officer August Ray, charged with speeding. They will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Castanza and Piscarello were operating Ford cars that had been stripped to a skeleton, speeding them through the city's most congested street, Bank street.

Miss Mary McCarthy of Ashcraft road is confined to her home as a result of a fall sustained a few days ago.

Anna M. Hoare has sold a house and lot on West Colt street to Grace C. Sargent.

David M. Reagan has sold a house and lot 58 Walbach street to James and Bridget Sullivan.

Rose Zimmer has sold a parcel of land on the east side of Main street to Mendel Zimmer.

Still another burglary was discovered today at Ocean Beach when it was revealed that the cottage at 17 Westerly place had been entered. Patrolman George Perkins discovered the break when he noticed the front entrance to the place open and investigating showed that the door had been forced An inspection of the cottage did not reveal when any plunder had been obtained. There were many burned matches on the floors, showing that the crooks used matches to aid them in their search of the place. The break is the third to occur at the shore resort within 24 hours in spite of the fact that a patrolman is on duty there throughout the entire day and night.

Mrs. Donald Mitchell of Granite street is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Strickland, of Macon Ga.

Ernest E. Black, 80 Thames street, Groton was suddenly stricken with appendicitis last evening and later was operated upon at the private hospital. His condition is reported as being comfortable. Mr. Black was taken ill while motoring with his wife, being seized with severe abdominal pains.

City Manager William A. Holt and officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad are in a controversy as to whether the municipality or the private corporation is responsible for the repair and maintenance of the highway bridge which spans Montauk avenue, and under which the tracks of the railroad pass. At a recent meeting of the city council the condition of the fence forming a guard at the bridge was said to be in a hazardous condition. At the time City Manager Holt communicated with the railroad officials with a view to causing repairs to be made. Th railroad refused to make repairs, disclaiming any and all responsibility for the condition of the bridge and fence. To determine whether the railroad or the city was responsible for the upkeep of the bridge, City Manager Holt appealed to the public utilities commission and today Inspector Wadhams of the engineering force of the state, came to New London and obtained several photographs of the bridge and fence, and also interviewed Principal C. L. Howe of the Harbor school, which is attndd by many children who are compelled to pass over the bridge going and coming from school.

Ralph Blakeslee, 25, of North Haven; Edward Sabine, 37, of Bridgeport; Arthur Rowland 44, of Bridgeport, and Joseph Sanches, of Bayonet street New London, were brought into port yesterday afternoon, after they had been taken from the fishing boat, J-1013 off Montauk Point, and suspected of being the gang that robbed the Baltimore, N. Y., bank of $6,000 and killed a patron of the bank last Friday. They were presented before United States Commissioner Earle W. Matthewson of Norwich at the custom house today and all were held for trial before the United States District court, Sanchez, owner of the seized craft, was charged with proceeding on a foreign voyage without filing a manifest not obtaining clearance papers and failure to obtain registration. He was held in bonds of $2,000. Blakeslee, Sabine and Roland were charged with conspiracy against the government and were held in $1,000 bail each. Alex McDonald of New Haven qualified as surety on the respective bonds. The charge against the gang is based upon the allegation that the J-1013 was used in the transportation of liquor from the fleet of craft in Rum Row. Blakeslee and Sabine, former members of the prohibition enforcement squad in Connecticut are well known, particularly Blakeslee, who was employed by the Southern New England Telephone Company at New Haven prior to obtaining the appointment. After he had been in the service of the government a comparatively short time he started bootlegging.

John J. Sallah, until recently of Providence, was arrested here this evening by Patrolman John Clifford at the request of the Providence police, who hold a warrant for Sallah's arrest, charging him with passing a worthless check in the sum of $125. Sallah was locked up at the police station pending the arrival of an officer from Providence. Sallah, it is claimed, purchased a Ford touring car recently and in payment tendered a check on a Providence bank for $125 as part payment. When the check was presented at the bank it was worthless. Sallah claims that he has money upon deposit with the Union Trust company, Providence. He states that in tendering him the check to which he signed his name and which was returned as worthless, was the issue of a bank other than the one in which he carries a deposit.

Sallah was arrested when the automobile, which bears Rhode Island markers, 43-240, was observed in front of the Golden street residence by Patrolman Clifford, as the officer was making his rounds through that street. The automobile was also seized and placed in a garage to await instructions as to its disposition by the Providence authorities.

A chimney fire at the residence, 38 Truman street, caused the Niagara Engine company and Allen Hook and Ladder company to respond to a still alarm this forenoon. The blazing soot was extinguished with chemicals and without damage of consequence.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin returned to his home, 32 Nathan Hale street, this afternoon, having spent several weeks in the south. It is claimed there are more idle railroad men here now than in many years, notwithstanding that the runs of many of the railroaders have been shifted so that they do not end in this city their home among.

There was $1 is estimated, nearly $100,000 represented in the cost of the automobiles near the Lyceum theatre this evening awaiting the owners or occupants who were in attendance at the play. That sum is greater than the cost of all the horses in the city a generation back.

Local investors and speculators in the stock market declare that they have not been able to realize anything on the money they have tied up in stocks. They say the market has been so narrow in its changes that no one has made any money.

Several New London acquaintances of Walter Durkin, for many years steward on boats of the Norwich Line to New York, attended the funeral of Mr. Durkin at Norwich today. Eben Woodworth and Charles Prentiss are the oldest survivors of the employees of the line when Mr. Durkin was active in his work. They are both in New London now, for Mr. Woodworth has been the guest of Mr. Prentiss for a week or more.

The work of widening Tilley street has commenced with the removal of the large horse chestnut tree, at the corner of Bank and Tilley streets. The tree had been located there more years than anyone can remember and was among the first of that species to blossom each season.

Joseph Kopp, well known as employed in music stores in New London and Norwich, is recovering from illness that has kept him in the house a fortnight or more.

Gasoline sellers in this city are up in the air over the new ordinance adopted by the city council regulating the installation of gasoline tanks. The ordinance provides for the burial of tanks or for the provision of a basin surrounding them, from the surface, the basin to be of cement or inflammable material, also for the tanks being a sufficient distance from buildings, to insure the minimum of danger from fire. A fee for inspection of the tanks is fixed. The dealers declare it is exceedingly high. The dealers are now obliged to pay the state a tax of a cent a gallon for the sale of gasoline, they are taxed a dollar a year for the pumps and with other taxes they claim they have to pay about $35 a year for the privilege of selling gasoline. The city does not admit that the fee asked for the privilege of having tanks is a "tax" but it is calculated that it will raise a sum more than sufficient to pay the salary of the fire marshal, which is less than $1400 a year. Call it a fee or a tax, the dealers claim they will make a protest and ask for amendments to the ordinance that will cut their expense. The representation is that taxes are so high here now that people in business have a hard tussle to secure the money to pay them.

Fur coats and white straw hats were a combination seen on the street this evening, among attendants at the theatre.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Cold unseasonable weather prevailed in Norwich 50 years ago but Easter day dawned pleasant and warm and winter clothing was discarded.

Elections took place during the week and the usual old time fight took place.

The news of the week in part was as follows in The Bulletin of 1874.

Monday April 6, 1874 — Baseball came to life Saturday in this city when the Thames Club of Thamesville and the Thames club of Reath street entered their first battle of the season. The Thamesville nine had by far the best of it and won by a score of 21 to 16. The batteries were Thamesville, Ryan and Olcutt; Reath street, Welch and Miner.

All Norwich was talking about the coming election over the week end and Mayor James L. Greene posted the customary notice for the peslers to be on the watch to see that no bonfires were lighted on city streets following the election.

Easter, the crown ng festival of the Christian year was celebrated Sunday in all local churches. Special services were preached and splendid musical programmes were carried out. The attendance at all services was above average and the perfect weather brought out the ladies in all their finery.

The Boston clothing store had taken position at the old stand of Bernstein on Main street.

The new Greeneville bridge is now entirely completed, with the exception of the planking.

Tuesday, April 7, 1874—Norwich as usual carried the republican party majority in yesterdays election but returns from other sections of the state were democratic and as a result the democrats carried the state and national election for governor and United States senator, Gov. Buckingham, candidate for the office of senator, ran above the average but was defeated by the democratic candidate.

As usual the democrats got busy last evening and in a grand old fashion celebrated their victory at the polls of the state. Hundreds were out until late into the evening to get the returns and there was plenty of action in several quarters of the city when rival party members got together.

The steamer W. W. Coit which has been wintering in Mystic has hope to New York and will be run this summer between New York and Sag Harbor.

The silk hat trade promises to be most brilliant for the next few days. Gleaners of election trophies claim that they will have a few busy days ahead as there are plenty on local streets.

Wednesday, April 8, 1874—The situation at the reservoir is getting acute. The rainfall since January 1st has been 50 per cent less than a year ago and the supply is far below average. Unless rain comes soon Norwich people will face a problem hard to solve.

By the sale of slips at the Central Baptist church last evening something over $5,000 was realized. This was a gain over $500 from yast year.

People out last evening enjoyed the treat of watching one of the most brilliant displays of Northern Lights seen in this city in many months.

The popular and jolly order of Silver Gard gave the last of a series of socials last evening at Franklin Hall. Round dances were enjoyed until a late hour the music being furnished by Pratt's band.

Norwich friends of H. S. Crecker of New London learned with regret that he has lost one of his most valuable horses by death.

Thursday, April 9, 1874—George Stanton of Preston and Albert Childs of this city were badly injured yesterday when the ladder on which they were working suddenly gave way throwing them some thirty feet to the ground. Mr. Stanton landed on his back and was badly hurt, also suffered a broken leg. Mr. Childs was struck by the ladder and badly bruised. Both men are also believed to be internally injured and everything is being done for their comfort.

There was a fire at the Norwich Lock Manufacturing company in Greeneville yesterday noon [illegible] cook extinguished before the Greeneville department arrived on the scene.

Madame Rentz's Female Minstrels played in Breed hall last evening to a capacity house. The work of Mr. Costello and Madame Costello on the trapeze was exceedingly good, and the novel features of a female minstrel proved of the highest order.

The first big catch of shad in the Thames was reported yesterday by local fishermen.

Main street amateurs are now getting their daily practice for baseball along the sidewalks, much to the enjoyment of the populace.

Dispensers of beverages for summer use are now busy attending to their winter neglect fountains.

Friday, April 10, 1874—Mr. Gale has provided special cars for people desiring to attend Park church Sunday. The cars leave the square shortly before 10:30 o'clock and it is expected all will be crowded to capacity.

J. T. Clark received a lot of green peas from New York yesterday, every one as green and tender, as though they had just been picked from the vines.

Four-hundred and twenty-eight freight cars loaded with lumber consigned to the lumber merchants at Norwich passed over the Norwich & Worcester road last year.

April showers have been of aid to the streams and reservoir and Norwich people are thankful.

The Greeneville combination Cuban wizard troupe passed through this town yesterday carrying the paraphernalia of their order on their shoulders.

Saturday April 11, 1874—Warren L. Goss and C. T. Barstow of this city attended the reunion of Andersonville prisoners held at Worcester, Thursday. Mr. Goss made an address and recounted history of prison life that have never before been made public.

Chauncey K. Bushnell of Norwich has sold his farm of 140 acres, situated about a half mile east of the village of Hanover, to John Atwood of Taftville. The price was $3000.

Tubb's brass band assisted by Miller's orchestra are to play at Greeneville hall tonight. The usual large crowd will be out to hear these two favorite musical organizations.

The Norwich Singing Club presented the sacred cantata, The Woman of Samaria last evening at the Broadway church before a large audience. The performers numbered forty and all D. F. Learned they rendered their parts without a flaw or mistake of any kind.

Because of the fact that the congregation was made up of almost entirely of women, young women were called on to act as ushers, take up the collection and read the announcements at a recent Lenten service in the fashionable St. Paul's Episcopal church of Richmond, Va.

PROTECT YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH

Through thoughtlessness the slight cough or cold of a child is often neglected and soon becomes serious. A few doses of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND, at small cost, taken at the onset of the cold would bring speedy relief. Be prepared, have a bottle of this safe, reliable cough remedy on hand, and give promptly when a cough or cold is detected. Equally as effective for older persons. No opiates.

RECOVERY IN MARKET

New York, April 11.—Short covering operations, apparently inspired by the news that the reparations commission had accepted the Dawes report, brought about a sharp recovery in today's stock market after an early period of heaviness during which most of the motors established new low records for the year.

Standard industrials, such as U. S. Steel common, Baldwin, American Can, General Electric, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol, closed at net gains of 1 to 2 points. Supporting orders in a number of these issues were in evidence from the start, further operations for the decline being held in check by the growing belief that several issues had been oversold.

Oil shares developed independent strength on rumors of another early increase in crude prices. Cosden, Pacific Oil, the Pan American issues, Houston and Standard Oil of California, gaining a point or so.

Selling of the motors was in further reflection of alarming reports of decreased production and sales. New lows in this group were established by Studebaker, Willys-Overland, preferred, White Motor, Mack Truck, Stewart-Warner, Stromberg Carburetor, Yellow Cab and Chicago Yellow Cab, the two last named issues breaking about five points. Fisher Body broke nearly 12 points to 190 1-8 and then rallied to 193 1-2.

Sugar shares were heavinly sold on publication of government estimates showing record world production of more than 21,000,000 short tons. American sugar created another new record low for all time at 45 and then rallied to 47, up 1 3-4 on the day. South Porto Rican sugar closed 2 1-2 points lower at 53 1-2 after selling as low as 51 1-2.

Short covering in tobacco products, which closed 2 points higher at 58 after having established a new year's minimum price at 52, undoubtedly was influenced by the return to this country of George Whelan, the principal stockholder, who declared the outlook for the tobacco industry this year was very god.

Revival of a demand for Norfolk and western, which rallied about 3 points to 137 1-2 on rumors of special dividend developments, was the feature of the railroad list. Other active shares in that group displayed a firm tone.

Call money held steady at 4 1-4 per cent. all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, the bulk of the business being done at 4 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with the principal rates fluctuating within a narrow range. Demand sterling held fairly steady above $4.83 and French francs were quoted just below 6 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 11.—A late rally in the bond market, apparently prompted by the alacrity of the reparations commission in accepting the Dawes report, today carried some of the French and other foreign government issues into new high ground for the year. The movement, coming after a period of hesitating prices and dull trading, was too late, however, to counteract the general downward tendency.

With the return of the French franc to above six cents, French republic touched a new top price for the year at 99 1-4 and municipal 8s touched a new top price for the year at 99 1-4 and municipal obligations moved up briskly on fresh buying. Danish municipal 8s advanced 2 1-4 points and Bolivian 8s reached a new 1924 high at 90.

Several domestic issues shared in the late recovery. Punta Alegre Sugar 7s recovered a point in the face of increased selling pressure against a majority of sugar stocks and bonds, some of which established nw low levels. A renewed demand for United States treasury issues carried the "Mellons" up to a new reobrd high figure 25-32nds above par. A break of 4 1-2 points in Wilson 7 1-2s and weakness in the company's other liens unsettled the industrial list. Rubber, sugar and copper company bonds generally lost ground.

Over-subscription of the New York state $45,000,000 Bonus bond issue and ready sale of the $20,000,000 Pennsylvania equipment certificates were interpreted in bond circles to mean that the underlying position of the investment market is unusually sound.

CURB MARKET

New York, April 11.—Stock prices failed to establish a definite trend in today's quiet curb market, gains and losses in the active issues being about evenly divided at the close.

Oil shares displayed a firm tone in speculative expectation of another increase in crude prices in the near future. Imperial Oil of Canada advanced a point but most of the other active shares showed only minor fractional changes on the day.

Strength of Doehler Die Casting and Ward Baking, class B, each of which moved up about a point, and the establishment of a record low for Durant Motors at 17 7-8 were the outstanding features of the industrial group. Public Utilities showed mixed changes chain store issues were reactionary.

Establishment of a new high record by Engineer gold mines at 13 1-2 and the continued activity of May copper stood out in the mining group.

METAL MARKET

New York, April 11.—Copper easy. Electrolytic, spot and nearby; 13 3-4; futures 13 3-8 a 13 1-2. Tin weak. Spot and nearby 49.00; futures 48.25. Iron steady; prices unchanged. Lead easy. Spot 5.25 a 5.50. Zinc easy. East St. Louis spot and futures 6.15 a 6.20. Antimony, spot 9.90.

COTTON

New York, April 11.—Cotton spot quiet middling 31.35.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 11.—Snow and rain likely to delay corn shipment as well as to hinder field work led to considerable buying of corn and oats today, but the resulting upturns in price turned out to be largely transient. Corn closed unsettled at 3-8c off to 1-4c advance, May .77. The finish in wheat was also unsettled, 1-8c to 3-8c down, May $1.02 1-2 and July $1.03 1-4 to 1.03 3-8, with oats 1-8c lower to 1-8 a 1-4c up, and provisions showing 2c to 10c decline.

With as much as 8 inches of snow reported to have fallen in some sections of Iowa and with unseasonable cold weather expected over a wide territory, corn took the lead in point of activity. The increased demand for feeding and for other purposes proved broad enough to keep corn values tending upward until the last half hour of the board of trade session, especially as prospects pointed to a good sized decrease of the visible supply total on Monday next. Profit taking on the part of early buyers, however, brought about more or less reaction as the day drew to an end.

Offerings of wheat increased whenever the market scored price gains. Reports that Italy was in the market as a buyer had a temporary stimulating influence and so too did gossip about some export buying of hard winter wheat for shipment by way of the Gulf of Mexico. On the other hand, sales of a liberal amount of wheat to go into store here were announced, increasing the total available for delivery on May contracts.

Further evidence of good call for oats at Minneapolis tended to uphold the oats market here.

In provisions, the effect of higher prices on hogs was more than offset by a little foreign selling of meats.

R. I. REDS AND ROCKS TAKE LAYING HONORS

The Reds and the Rocks took most of the honors for the week. Not only is Fernside Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Attleboro, Mass., the leading pen in the contest, but it was the leading pen for the twenty-third week with a production of 39 eggs. A pen of White Leghorns owned by C. T. Darby from North Branch, N. J., was second with a score of 55 eggs. Pinecrest Orchard's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Groton, Mass., and a pen of the same breed owned by Red Mount Farm, Franklin, Mass., tied for third place with a yield of 55 eggs each. A pen of Barred Rocks owned by Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., a pen of the same breed entered by Edgar Stoughton of Wapping, Conn., and H. P. Deming's Rhode Island Reds from Winsted, Conn., all tied for fourth place for the week with a production of 50 eggs each. The total production for all pens was 3866 or a yield of a little over 35 per cent. This is a decrease of 179 eggs less than last week but an increase of 35 eggs more than last year's production for the same week.

The preserving of eggs in the home during the spring and early summer months when eggs are cheap and plentiful and holding them until the season arrives when eggs are scarce and prices are high is by no means a new practice. Every family should take advantage of the cheap and simple methods of putting down eggs so as to tide them over during the season of low production and high prices. There are several different methods of preserving eggs for home consumption. Perhaps one of the best methods is the use of water glass, (sodium silicate). It is reliable, comparatively cheap and easily prepared. The water glass can be bought at most drug stores and ordinarily the directions will be found upon the container. A five gallon receptacle will hold about fifteen dozen eggs. Use nine quarts of water to one quart of water glass, stirring thoroughly to insure a proper mixture. The water should be boiled and thoroughly cooled before adding the water glass. Be sure the water glass covers the top layer of eggs by at least two inches. Keep jar in a cool place and cover to prevent evaporation. Use only strictly fresh, and solid shelled eggs.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

STATE INDIAN ASS'N TO DISBAND SOON

The Connecticut Indian Association, established in Hartford in 1881, which for many years carried on important service among the North American Indians is soon to terminate its existence, bringing to a close 43 years of service.

There has just been established at the American Indian Institute at Wichita, Kan., a scholarship which will be available to Indian youths of Christian leadership caliber and is known as the Sara T. Kinney scholarship. The nucleus of this fund was the sum of $1,700 remaining in the treasury of the association and to this has been added a further sum of $1000 from Connecticut Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, which body Mrs. Kinney served for so many years as president.

Mrs. Kinney was also interested in the Connecticut Indian Association and so the perpetuating of her memory in this way is deemed fitting. In fact as she herself put it: "Long before I was a D. A. R., and long before the national society I was a 'good Indian,' but by no means a 'dead one.' I organized the Connecticut Indian Association and have been its president since 1881."

The Connecticut Indian Association was threefold in its purposes. In its day it wielded a great influence among women and numbered among its officers such women as Harriet Beecher Stowe of Hartford, Miss Sarah Porter of Framington, Mrs. John H. Whittemore of Naugatuck, Mrs. Gardiner Greene of Norwich, Mrs. F. C. Lounsbury of Ridgefield, Mrs. Charles E. Johnson of Hartford, Mrs. Newman Smythe of New Haven, Mrs. Henry W. Colt of Litchfield and others. The association materially aided in influencing the government to fulfil its obligations under treaties. It encouraged projects for the education of the Indians and proposed helpful legislation. The association itself had a part in providing industrial training opportunities, and furnishing educational advantages for better citizenship and Christianization.

There were branches in Canaan, Guilford, Meriden, New Haven, Norwich, Waterbury, Winsted and West Hartford. Hartford had 3 branches.

Mrs. A. S. Quinton, who was national secretary of the Indian Treaty-Keeping and Protective Union in 1881, aided the organization in Connecticut, meeting a group of Hartford women at the City Hotel in October 1880, one year before at which the same purposes were considered.

Philip Stabler, an Indian who was previously a student at Hampton Institute, was aided in settling in work among the Indians in Nebraska. Mrs. Kinney had observed that it was really wasteful for the organization to continue to train a selected few in the higher institutions and then turn them back to the ancient mode of living. She proposed that the society provided the means for Stabler and his wife to erect a home for themselves, and this was done at a cost of $436.

This idea of encouraging home building was grasped by the national organization and Mrs. Kinney became chairman of a national committee to take charge of this phase.

The association then undertook the practice of adopting a worthy Indian for higher education. Susan La Flesche, an Omaha Indian girl then studying at Hampton, was selected and given an opportunity to prepare for the medical profession. Since then this has been done with consistent regularity.

The association was incorporated in 1887. None of the 26 who composed the corporate body are living.

Observing the good work done by Mr. Stabler and sensing the importance of home providing the association secured a government grant of 60 acres in 1887 and established a cottage there and then provided a home for a farmer. Miss Emmeline Frost was sent out by the association to take charge of the missionary station, located at Fort Hall, Idaho, and she did excellent work among the natives.

Elected to Phi Sigma.

It has been announced at New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics that Miss Mary E. O'Neil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Neil of Oneco street, has been honored by being elected to Phi Sigma e Pen society, the literary society of the school. She is also a member of the Girls Glee club and choir of the school.

Many a man has been stung by the political bee in his bonnet.

IN MEMORIAM.

In My Loving Mother.
MRS. JANE S. MITCHELL,
Whom God chose to call April 12, 1920.
April 12, 1924.
And then to us the time did come
When mother's hands were folded;
To us the dearest, fairest hands
The Master Sculptor molded.
The angels kissed the loving eyes
And closed the white fringed keepers;
The pulseless breast is now at rest,
God keep the silent sleeper.
Her Daughter,
JOSEI MITCHELL WEBSTER.
Noank, Conn.

GREENEVILLE

The Women's Missionary Society of the Third Baptist church met in the chapel Thursday afternoon. As this was the annual meeting of the year, officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Elmer Mulkins; vice-president, Mrs. Herbert Peckham; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. James Spicer; Program committee, Mrs. George Howard and Mrs. Christopher Wunderlich. The society has been very alert and active this past year and it has a right to be proud of its record, as the nine members have raised $80 since last April, which sum goes to help the New World movement and the continuation campaign. At six o'clock a committee, composed of Mrs. Elmer Mulkins, Mrs. George Bailey and Mrs. James Spicer, served a very appetising supper to the members of the society and a number of their friends from which a gratifying sum was also realized, to be added to what had already been earned. As every member has worked so faithfully in the past, just as great, if not greater results are expected this coming year.

NORWICH SOLDIERS GOING TO 102ND REGIMENT CELEBRATION

Battery B and the Combat Train of this city will leave Norwich by special trolley this (Saturday) morning at 11.30 o'clock and upon arrival at New London will board a special train for New Haven where they will participate in the 102nd Regiment celebration.

The day will be a great one for the members of the 103nd and in the afternoon there is to be a monster military parade. The original colors of the old war days are to be brought to New Haven from Hartford by a color guard of honor and will be presented during the regimental review. In the evening the 102nd band is to give a concert.

The following day of the 103nd will be honored by the presence of many prominent men and many government airplanes will circle over the city throughout the afternoon.

CHRIST AND LIFE WAS REV. DANFORTH'S TOPIC

At the fourth of the lenten luncheons at noon Friday at the Y. M. C. A. Rev. J. R Danforth of New London, spoke on the subject "Christ and Life" In part he spoke as follows:

"We mean so many things by life, according as we measure life it will be measured unto \ Mean something great by it and it will be filled with great meaning for us. Mean something earthly, sensual, devilish, and that is exactly what we shall find it. Optimism and pessimism have their roots in the heart.

"Jake no thought for your life, Christ tells us. But he also says he came that we might have new life and have it more abundantly. This is not contradiction but comprehension. It shows the wide life area Christ covers. He lived in no narrow cell, not does he desire us to live in one.

"He leads out into the great abundance in this world. To one man he called and changed him from being a fisherman to be a fisher after men. See how he broadened the job. The man had to grow to keep pace with his task.

"Disease was in the way of some. He removes it, not because health is an end in itself, but because by means of good health a man can do so much more than he so much more. It means more life. So, he gave health that on its heels the larger life might tread. He did not prevent suffering. Those whom he lived with and loved most had much of suffering. But he led them through and out of it that the gold might attain the purity which is only fought with flame.

"How many the s are who have said, Dum vivimus vivamus. Let us live while we live. But Christ was the one who showed how to do it really. Man's mistakes plunge him into death. Christ shows the way up from death into life. It sometimes seems as though the house of life has a night latch on its door. It is easy enough to get out, but hard to get in. The touch of the pierced palm opens that door from the outside for anyone.

"It is the quality of anything that makes it keep. So with life. It is the quality of a life which makes it last. And immortality is in the very quality of the life Christ lived and leads us to live. Live as Christ lived and to live forever must be heaven. Live like the swine and would you want it to go on through endless ages? Would that be heavenly? Surely it would be the other alternative of destiny.

"In him was life, and the life was the light of men." In his life we can see. Light existed before the eye. God filled the universe before there were souls to know him. We are made by him and for him, we cannot really live until we live in him. In him we live and move and have our being. Live more. Move more. Be more."

THOUGHT ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOES TO DARK DEEDS

Under the head of April in Casual Retrospect, The National Electric Light Association Bulletin in its April issue referring to matters under the date of 1885 quotes from the Norwich Bulletin as follows:

A gentleman signing himself Philanthropist writes to enquire if the electric light may not prove a factor for reform. If the business streets were nightly made as light as Franklin Square, do you think men who love to be respectable would tumble in the street at a late hour to be taken home by the police. Isn't this modern light an antagonist to deeds of darkness and shame?

CHENESKI SURRENDERED BY HIS BONDSMAN

Surrendered by his bondsman, John G. Cheneski, 57, charged with embezzlement, was taken in charge early Friday evening by Deputy Sheriff George Stanton and locked up at the jail in this city. Cheneski was arrested April 7th by Sergt. Casey and Officer Patrick Murphy. When presented in the city court he was bound over to the criminal term of the superior court and was released on $500 bonds furnished by Walter Petrofsky.

Lisbon Democratic Delegates

J. George Bromley and John M. Lee are the delegates chosen in Lisbon to attend the democratic state convention. They were instructed for Raymond J. Jodoin for delegate to the national convention.

CAN'T TELL ANGLERS WHERE BEST FISHING

The State Board of Fisheries and Game receives many inquiries from individual anglers as to where is the best trout fishing. It is impossible to undertake to answer such inquiries. It is also impracticable to designate ponds and lakes where anglers may get the best caches, says Superintendent W. J. Titcomb.

Intensive stocking with fingerling trout has been going on for only two years. Fingerling trout (brook) were distributed in 1922 to the number of 340,130 in 1923 the output was increased to 455,527 or approximately eighty-eight truck-loads of brook trout in addition to the lake and brown trout. The biennial report for 1923 names the streams in which the fish distributed during that year were planted. The biennial report to be published in the Fall of 1924 will give the names of the streams in which plants were made during the summers of 1923 and 1924. The fingerling trout planted in 1923 may furnish some trout of legal length during the present season, but they will be necessarily small trout. The fish are distributed free of charge at the railroad station nearest to point of deposit for all application for waters which are open to the public. During the past two seasons adult perch, pickerel, bass and bullheads have been transferred from municipal reservoirs in which fishing is prohibited, to open ponds and lakes which should yield immediate returns to the angler. Inasmuch as many of these adult fish will have spawned in the waters, to which they are introduced, before they are caught, there will be another return from them in progeny two or three years later. Approximately 30 to 35 tons of adult fish have thus been transferrd to open waters during the past two years. This will amount to 267,251 fish in the two years. The angler who has been able to fish in the wilds of Maine or Canada must not expect, even under the most intensive stocking, similar returns in waters of Connecticut for two reasons: First a very few of our waters are strictly natural like those in the wilds of Maine or Canada. Physiological changes often are not favorable to fish life. Second no body of water will produce more than a given amount of fish just as a garden will produce no more than a given amount of vegetables. We have not reached the saturation point in stocking waters for a maximum production, but hope to do so. In the meantime, we have a thousand fishermen in our waters to every one fishermen in the wilds of Canada and the production of any body of water has to be divided pro-rata among the number of fishermen.

Even under these conditions, it is very gratifying to be able to state that many anglers have reported very good catches of trout and other fish. Of course, there are many disappointed anglers. We expect to increase the production and continue stocking operations to the extent of funds available, but it takes time to get organized and train men necessary to conduct operations on a maximum scale.

TWO MINOR ACCIDENTS EARLY FRIDAY EVENING

Two minor automobile accidents were reported to the police early Friday evening. William F. Jatkowski, No. 30 Vine street, driving a machine owned by August Jatkowski, and a machine driven by Charles F. Combies of No. 54 Church street, had a slight collision on Church street Mr. Jatkowski's machine had a hub cap knocked off and Mr. Combies had a bumper damaged.

Peter Mamey, No. 16 Main street, reported that while he was crossing the trolley tracks near the Ponemah mill, Taftville, early Friday evening, his machine was sideswiped by another traveling in the opposite direction. Mr. Namey suffered the loss of a hub cap from his front left wheel and his front left mudguard was dented.

GAVE MISSION PLAY AT BUSHNELL CHAPEL

The World Wide Guild of the Central Baptist church entertained the members of the Woman's League of the church at Bushnell chapel Friday evening by staging a mission play, Sunlight or Candlelight. The play followed the regular business meeting of the Woman's league. The cast follows:

Mrs. Richards Groton, wife of American consul to Japan, Miss Ruth A. Hamilton; Miss Evelyn Tower, an American heiress, visiting Mrs. Groton, Miss Helen Danison; Hoshi, a villager, Miss Unabelle Harbeck; Mira, Hoshi's wife, Miss Adelaide E. Brown; Mito, a student, Miss Leonara Chapman.

Following the play refreshments of punch and cookies were served under the direction of the executive board of the league. The committee in charge of the play comprised Miss Eugenia Dean and Miss Alice Dean. There was a good sized attendance and the audience was very much pleased with the excellent manner in which the play was presented.

ENTERTAINED MEMBERS OF UNITED WOMAN'S GUILD

After the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church at the Community house, Friday evening, the guild members were entertained by the Sodalitas of the United church. The programme consisted of a play, The Peak Sisters, which was staged in a very commendable manner by the following cast:

Sister Maria, Miss Martha Reynolds; Dorothy, Mrs. Helen Zabriskie; Betsy, Miss Gertrude Gallup; Keziah, Miss Marion Beebe; Bethia, Mrs. Joseph French; Sophia, Mrs. Albert Sinay; sisters, Miss Nina Perry and Miss Elizabeth Pullen. Miss Edith Boynton presided at the piano.

Immediately following the business meeting Miss Boynton gave a piano solo, The Bathers, by Brohm and after the play gave The Romanza, by Smith. Refreshments were served by members of the guild.

The committee in charge of the play comprised, Miss Martha Reynolds, president of the Sodalitas, Miss Marion Beebe and Miss Edith Boynton.

ELECT GEORGE HEIBEL, JR., DICTATOR MOOSE LODGE

Election of officers for the coming year featured the regular business meeting of Norwich lodge, No. 950, L. O. O. M., Friday night at the Moose Home, Laurel Hill. George Heibel Jr., was elected dictator and the remaining officers were elected as follows:

Vice dictator, A. Kaminski; prelate, P. Krohn; secretary, George J. Geopfert (for three years); treasurer, C. O. Wright; trustee for three years, Carl Pierson; representative, George J. Geopfert; alternate, Seymour A. DeRusha.

It was announced that the next initiation will be held on April 25th. Announcement was also made that a joint installation, the 10th anniversary celebration and the burning of the mortgage will be held at the home, May 4th. The committee in charge comprises H. H. Jarvis, chairman, G. Seidel, Jr., A. Kaminski, Carl Pierson and C. O. Wright. I. S. Maynard has been elected captain of the Moose bowling team for a tournament with the Eagles bowling team.

Bozrah Delegates at Pawtucket

The Bozrahville section of the national council of Jewish Women sent delegates to the Fourth Connecticut and R. I. Intersate conference, held on the 9th and 10th at Pawtucket, R. I. Mrs. Nathan Gilman who represented the Bozrahville section spoke on Social Service. The young folks league of Bozrah was represented by Miss Gussie Pearson of Bozrah. The delegates returned from the conference Friday.

Entertained Grange Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Richardson of 625 Main street entertained over Wednesday night, State Grange Lecturer, Professor Charles A. Wheeler, and Mrs. Wheeler, of Storrs, who were in Norwich to attend the Grange, being guests of honor. Professor Wheeler has the distinction of meeting that evening of Norwich being secretary for the National State Lecturers' Organization.

WHAT IS THE OFFER made by THE EASTERN CONNECTICUT POWER COMPANY?

THE FIRST OFFER was to sell power to the Gas and Electrical Department at a price that, for the year 1922, would have represented a saving over the actual cost of production of $69,657.94. As there seemed to be no way, under municipal operation, to pass this saving of nearly $70,000,000 to the users of electricity

THE SECOND OFFER was made, and this was to purchase the Gas and Electrical property at the value at which it appears on the books of the department.

| | |
|---|---|
| THIS CALLS FOR THE PAYMENT to the city of | $1,429,042.56 |
| In addition to this sum there is the net balance of the remaining current assets above current debt of | 263,854.40 |
| TOTAL PROCEEDS OF THE SALE | $1,692,896.96 |
| THE CITY DEBT could then be reduced The debt incurred on account of the Gas and Electrical Department is | $1,692,896.96 958,000.00 |
| The payment of this would leave in cash to retire other debt, or for other city uses | $ 734,896.96 |
| THE TAX PAYER would then be relieved of an item of interest equal to, say 4 1-2 per cent on this $734,896.96 or | $ 33,070.36 |

TO WHICH SHOULD BE ADDED the amount of taxes which would be paid by The Eastern Connecticut Power Company, if it were the owner of this property—an item of income that has been lost to the city since 1905.

THIS SHOULD MEAN A REDUCED TAX RATE.

Serial No. 4 will make clear that part of the offer that has to do with the reduction in rates for electric service.

Service and Economy are the Reasons for our Growth

POETRY

MAH JONGG.

When I was young I used to play with cards and dominoes,
And got as much of fun therefrom as most boys, I suppose,
I played casino and old maid, euchre and high-low-jack,
And many kinds of solitaire. Of these there was no lack.

As years went by, my interest in card games seemed to fail,
And every game of dominoes seemed really flat and stale.
I tried at checkers, but with them I never had success,
And never had the courage to attempt a game of chess.

And so, from all these games immune, I strove to be content,
Though now and then an hour or two with solitaire I spent.
But all at once throughout the land there rose a mighty throng,
All eager a new game to try, the Chinese game, Mah Jongg.

As young and old were playing it, I felt I must learn how,
I pung whene'r I get a chance, but very seldom chow,
I do not care for characters, except the one and nine,
I feel the same toward circles, and bamboos are in that line.

I dote on dragons and on winds, especially my own
I block my neighbor, if I can, by holding back the one
I think he wants me to discard. Once in a while I kong,
And feel elated when I find that I can about "Mah Jongg!"

The craze that now is country-wide will have its time and die,
For everything must have an end and so must you and I,
When this old body I discard and join the spirit throng,
May I display a better score than when I played Mah Jongg!

—Edwin Poole, in Boston Globe.

ONLY THE BRIGHT DERISION.

The hour that seemed a petal
With colors light and sure,
Was Time, a steel-strange metal
Where only scars endure.

At which the baffled, narrow
Lift of my thought must beat,
A small and blunted arrow
Failing in quick defeat.

Only the bright derision
Of your cold smile or word
Can cleave that stark division
Like an enchanted sword.

—Medora Addison, in The Measure.

GREEK PEOPLE HAVE VOTED TO ESTABLISH A REPUBLIC

Greek Government Has Announced That a Big Majority in the Plebiscite Held Throughout the Country, Favored a Republic—Martial Law Will Be Proclaimed Today—National Assembly Had Passed a Resolution in Favor of the Overthrow of the Glucksburg Dynasty.

Athens, April 13.—(By the A. P.)—The Greek people today voted for the establishments of a republic. The government made it known this evening that a big majority in the plebiscite held throughout the country favored a republic.

The newspapers announce that martial law will be proclaimed Monday. This is probably for the purpose of preserving law and order. The voting in Athens and many towns in the provinces was overwhelmingly for a republic.

The Greek national assembly on March 25 passed a resolution in favor of the overthrow of the Glucksburg dynasty and the establishment fo a Greek republic.

On December 18 last King George II was ordered by the government to leave Greece, pending the decision of the national assembly as to the form of the future government. He proceeded to Bucharest, and later took up his residence at Brasov, Transylvania where on April 3 he issued a proclamation to the Hellenic people, protesting against recent events in in Greece and claiming the right to reign in accordance with the constitution of the country.

The action of the national assembly in overthrowing the dynasty was taken by practically a unanimous vote, and in celebration of the coming republic Athens displayed much enthusiasm and preparations were begun immediately for the holding of a plebiscite, upon which the assembly had based its decision.

BELIEVE GERMANY WILL JOIN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Geneva, Switzerland, April 13.—(By the A. P.)—The impression exists in league of nations circles here that the successful launching of reparation plans, based on the reports of the experts, will lead to the early application by German for admission into the league of nations and that Germany will favor the league of nations as the medium for handling any project calculated to provide political security for France and Belgium, and conversely for Germany herself. Germany is expected to insist on a seat in the council of nations as a condition to her entrance into the league.

The whole tenar of the atmosphere in Geneva is that thew proposals of the experts will go far to stabilie and turnconstitute a big step toward a return to normal conditions.

On the arrival here of Jeremiah Smith, Jr., of Boston, who recently was appointed league of nations high commissioner for Hungard, he will confer with Sir Arthur Salter, director of the financial and economic section of the league of nations, who elaborated both hte Austrian and Hungarian reconstruction plans and was consulted by the Dawes committee. Sir Arthur is to visit Williams college, Williamstown, Mass., in July, where he will dleiver several addresses concerning the league of nations and will regard to international and financial problems.

FASTEST METHOD OF LOCOMOTION IN PARIS

Paris, April 13—The congestion of street traffic which recently brought into vogue the expression "No thanks, I'm going to walk to the office as I haven't time to ride in an automobile," led a Paris newspaper the other day to conduct a race from end of the city to the other, a distance of about six miles, to determine exactly the fastest method of locomotion.

The participants in the race were a bicyclist, an automobilist, a pedestrian and a subway passenger. The bicyclist won in 17 minutes 16 seconds and the pedestrian was last in 34 minutes 20 seconds but the latter made the best time through the congested thoroughfares. The automobilist was second in 20 minutes 41 seconds and the subway passenger was third with a record of 29 minutes 33 seconds.

IN NEW YORK HAS COMPLETED YEAR

New York, April 13—The Amalgamated Bank, established by a labor union, will celebrate its first birthday tomorrow by announcing plans which mark a radical departure from orthodox banking. Cooperative purchase and distribution to its depositors of coal, ice and other necessities have been initiated with a purchase of 20,000 tons of coal.

The bank, which started with subscriptions of $300,000, now has assets $3,400,000 with more than 3,000 depositors. It was established by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. The union is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

$4,000,000 BROADWAY TEMPLE DEDICATED YESTERDAY

New York, April 13—The site of the proposed $4,000,000 Broadway Temple of the Chelsea Methodist church was dedicated today by Bishop Edgar Blake of the Methodist Episcopal church of Paris.

The temple, which, with the tower, will be almost as high as the Woolworth building, will be the largest institution of its kind in the city.

It will be a community and social center for persons of all religions, and, in addition to an auditorium for services, it will contain gymnasiums and meeting rooms for neighborhood organizations. Mayor Hylan was the principal speaker.

EIGHT PERSONS HURT WHEN TROLLEY RAN WILD

Glens Falls, N. Y., April 13.—Eight were hurt when a Hudson Valley Railway trolley car ran wild down hill in Mechanicville this morning and was brought to a stop after it jumped the rails, mounted a sidewalk and crashed into the side of a stone church. The most seriously injured are Henry Brink, of Round Lake, whose skull was fractured, and Tony Dominick, of Ballston Spa, who was internally injured. Both were taken to the Troy hospital.

YOUTH SAYS THAT HE WAS BRANDED BY COWBOYS

Amarillo, Texas, April 13.—Will Wisch, 18, whose parents live in Chicago, told officers here today that cowboys on a ranch near Clarendon, Texas, branded him two weeks ago.

He exhibited a scar, which, officers said, was made by a cattle branding iron.

Officers will question Wisch again tomorrow and will start an immediate investigation if sufficient evidence is obtained.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY WAS MUTLIATED BY STRANGER

Louisville, Ky., April 13.—Nello Porter, 20, a high school pupil, was brought to a hospital here today from his home at Bardstown Junction, where he was found mutilated and lying in a pool of blood by two fishermen who investigated cries for help coming from the house. Although suffering from loss of blood, and weakness and the twenty mile trip in an automobile to the hospital, physicians expressed the belief that he would recover.

Young Porter said he was alone and shortly after he arose this morning went to feed several head of stock and returned and took a bath. Meanwhile the doorbell rang and he hastily dressed and opened the door. He was attacked by a short man wearing a stubble beard who wielded a razor inflicting the wound, according to the boy.

The fishermen, who found him two hours later, reported he had tried to staunch the flow of blood by sewing the wound with an ordinary needle and thread. No arrests have been

LIQUORS HAVE ARRIVED FOR FOREIGN EMBASSIES

Boston, April 13.—Scores of cases of rare wines and liquors, consigned to foreign embassies in Washington, D. C., arrived here today when the Leyland line steamship Belgian docked. Seals were affixed and a guard mounded over this part of the cargo, which will remain in the vessel until Baltimore is reached. Then the consignment will be transported, still under guard, to the capital.

One special lot of liquors is consigned to the Egyptian legation, the rest of the shipment is for the British, Italian, Spanish and German government representatives. The list includes 46 cases of Scotch and Irish whiskeys, 41 cases of gin, 13 cases of champagne, 35 of Italian and French vermouth, one case of Spanish wine, one case of stout, six cases of brandy, one of port, two of sherry, one of ale and five of creme de menthe.

ENGLISH PROHIBITIONISTS HAVE BECOME INDIGNANT

London, April 13.—English prohibitionists, who although not numerous are as decided in their views as those of any other land, have been aroused to righteousness indignatnon by the discovery that Queen Mary's million dollar dollhouse has wine cellars containing miniature cases of champagne, whiskey and other alcoholic beverages which they saye no self-respecting doll would dring or even have in the house.

Protests have been made, but without results, and her majesty's exquisitely furnished replica of fine English home, wine cellars and all, will be on view at the Wembley exhibition to any and all of her subjects who wish to contribite sixpense to charity.

STRIKE OF MINERS HAS BEEN AVERTED

Scranton, Pa., April 13.—The threatened strike of the 10,000 miners of the Pennsylvania and Hillside Coal and Iron company was averted today after a four-hour session of the general grievance committee of the local unions.

A motion was first passed that the strike go into effect tomorrow morning, as voted at a meeting of the general grievance committee Friday night in Pittston. Another motion rescinding the strike motion was then passed and this was followed by a motion that the strike be called off.

ROBBERY OF JEWELS, STOCK AND BONDS IN HARLEM

New York, April 13.—A $100,000 robbery of jewels, stock and bonds from the safe of the Metro-Sacks Jewelry company, a Harlem concern, was perpetrated without the use of explosives early today. The burglars cut through iron shutters and bars to enter the store and effected a noiseless haul by sawing off the knob of the combination and prying open two compartments.

PAINTINGS ACQUIRED BY METROPOLITAN MUSEUM

New York, April 13.—Two paintings by Nicholas Poussin, French classicist, have been acquired by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, it was announced today. They are "St. Peter and St. John Healing the Lame Man," painted in 1655, and "Blind Orion Searching For the Rising Sun," painted in 1658.

GLOBE CIRCLING PLANES ARRIVE IN SEWARD

Cordova, Alaska, April 13.—(By The A. P.)—Four airplanes, composing the United States army squadron making an air around the world, arrived at Seward, Alaska, this afternoon at 5.15 o'clock Pacific Coast time, according to information received here. The trip from Sitka was accomplished without mishap, the advices stated.

Turn For The Better in Cotton Market

Steel and Automobile Industries Continue to Command the Greatest Attention in Their Activities.

New York, April 13 (By the A. P.)—Conditions in the steel and automobile industries continued to command a large share of attention in business and financial quarters last week.

Reports of further curtailments by some automobile manufacturers had a disturbing effect, particularly as these reports were accompanied by strong attacks on motor shares. Trade observers contended, however, that these curtailments were exceptional and were made by smaller companies whose competitive position was not strong. They refused to believe the industry as a whole was in otherwise than a sound condition.

Reports from the steel industry showed that March production set a new high record for all time, but that the slackening in buying which started during the last ten days of the month had continued. Under these circumstances competition was stronger and the market for steel products remained rather weak. Production is expected to decline slightly.

A decrease of 130,000 tons in the United States Steel corporation's unfilled orders was in line with expectations. It was pointed out that the decrease was a natural result of the exceptionally heavy deliveries made in March and of the absence of orders for tin plate and rails, as the mills already were booked up on the latter materials. As the corporation's shipments amounted to 95 per cent of capacity, the month's bookings were estimated at 86 per cent., or the largest in two years except for January and February.

One explanation offered for the condition of the steel market was that the unusual speed and efficiency with which factories and railroads are operating permitted a large volume of orders to be filled quickly, the result being short buying movements. Although under these circumstances production can spurt beyond consumption for a time, the readjustment comes quickly and embarrassing stocks of materials are not accumulated. Consumption of steel products is believed to be holding up well.

Weekly car loading figures confirmed the impression that distribution and consumption of goods was active. The total number of cars loaded in the week ended March 29 was 907,000, slightly smaller than for the preceding week and below the total for the same week a week ago. The declines were attributed, however, to the drop in coal loadings, itself an aftermath of the situation created by the prospect of a coal strike earlier in the year. Loading of general merchandise and less than carload lots set a new high for the week.

Strength continued in the cotton market and was reenforced by what appeared to be a turn for the better in the cloth market. The May future rose to a high of 31.85 cents, or nearly 5 1-2 cents above the low of two weeks ago. Better trade buying at home and abroad helped to create a shortage of contracts and contributed to the embarrassment of the shorts. The latter discovered they had sold heavily in a well-liquidated market.

Bankers received the Dawes report in a friendly and appreciative manner. The quick acceptance by the reparations committee was considered a good point, but it was realised that time would be required to determine the attitudes of the various governments involved. It was pointed out that whole-hearted acceptance by Germany was essential for success and that if Germany does not accept willingly and in good faith the flotation of an international loan hardly would be possible.

BRIDE'S BODY FOUND; HUSBAND IS MISSING

Chicago, April 13.—Identification of the body of a young woman found late yesterday in a forest preserve as that of Mrs. Anna Kohnke De Goy, a bride of five months, caused police today to begin a search for her husband, James De Goy.

The body was found by two small boys beneath a pile of brush, the throat slashed and with a Chicago newspaper of February 26 wrapped about the cut, was identified today by Miss Ida Kohnke, the girl's aunt who said her niece and the girl's husband disappeared mysteriously February 26.

Relatives said that before her disappearance the girl complained of beatings given her by her husband.

FIVE POWERFUL TUGS TOWED MAURETANIA INTO CHERBOURG

Cherbourg, France, April 13.—After struggling for sixty hours against a channel tempest, the Cunard liner Mauretania, towed by five powerful tugs, entered the harbor here this evening. The great vessel, which left Southampton in tow Friday, was compelled for the greater part of yesterday to ride the gale off Cape Barfleur, about sixteen miles off Cherbourg.

Necessary repairs to the Mauretania's engines could not be effected at Southampton because of the shipyard lockout and the vessel was towed here for that purpose.

CLERGYMAN RINGLEADER OF MASKED KLANSMEN

Buffalo, N. Y., April 13.—Mayor Frank X. Schwab today accused Rev. L. E. H. Smith of the Ontario United Presbyterian church, with being the ringleader of the band of masked klansmen who interrupted him in a speech before a gathering of taxpayers here two weeks ago. The mayor also accuses the minister of being a member of the klan. He defied Mr. Smith to deny either accusation. Mr. Smith tonight refused to confirm or deny the allegations.

5 PER CENT WAGE RAISE FOR ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN

New Haven, April 13.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad today reached an agreement with the officers and committees representing the engineers and firemen whereby the road grants a five per cent increase in wages and certain modifications of the working rules, based on the settlement reached some time ago on the New York Central road, it was learned tonight.

Pinchot Suggested Name of F. J. Heney

Governor of Pennsylvania Admits That He Recommended Heney to Senator Couzens.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 13.—Governor Pinchot in a statement tonight admitted he recommended to United States Senator Couzens, of Michigan, the name of Francis J. Heney of San Francisco as special counsel to the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau, as Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, asserted on the floor of the senate yesterday.

After the investigation started, Governor Pinchot said, he got in touch with Senator Couzens, "on the question of prohibition enforcement and on that alone," and that he suggested Mr. Heney as a man whom the senate's committee "would be fortunate to secure as counsel."

"Senator Watson has overshot himself. He says 'nobody has expected that prohibition would be rigidly enforced up to the present hour.' Every self-respecting, law-abiding American must resent the spectacle of a senator of the United States publicly confessing that he does not expect the Constitution to be obeyed. If Senator Watson does not, the people of the United States who forced the enactment of the eighteenth amendment do expect it to be obeyed.

BOBBED HAIR GIRL UNDER ARREST IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., April 13.—A bobbed hair girl 21 years old, believed to have been the companion of an unknown man who held up the manager of a gasoline filling station in the heart of the city last night and escaped with $150, was arrested early this morning in a local hotel and is held by the police in the hope of obtaining information that will lead to the capture of the bandit.

The two are said to have come here from Tennessee, but little information of value has been gleaned from the girl. The holdup man escaped in a small closed automobile after firing five shots at Howard Skipper, manager of the filling station, when he attempted to tear off the registration plates. Police are watching all roads leading from the city.

NEW ITALIAN CATHOLIC CHURCH AT MT. CARMEL

Waterbury, April 13.—Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Hartford, dedicated the new Italian Catholic Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel here this morning. The United States coast guard cutter Modoc, of the international ice patrol, is trailing the berg and regularly reporting its position to ships.

WOMAN MURDERER KEPT VICTIM'S BODY IN A TRUNK

Mrs. Margaret B. Willis, Real Estate Dealer of Los Angeles, After Two Days, Hurled Trunk Over an Embankment North of Los Angeles — Led Police to the Place and Body Was Found Partly Protruding From the Trunk.

Los Angeles, April 13.—Mrs. Margaret B. Willis, real estate dealer, formerly Mrs. Albert Schultz, of Denver, told police here today, they said, that she had shot and killed Dr. Benjamin Baldwin, Los Angeles physician, formerly of St. Louis, kept his body in a trunk in her home for two days and then hurled it over an embankment north of here.

Mrs. Willis, a middle-aged woman, walked into the police station here and told of the killing voluntarily, it was announced.

After her confession, police said, the woman asked for a cup of coffee. Refreshed, she led officers to a spot on the state highway near San Fernando, a suburb, where it is said the doctor's body was found half way down the embankment, partly protruding from a wardrobe trunk.

Mrs. Willis identified the corpse, according to detectives, with the remark:

"Yes, that's him."

Mrs. Willis' confession, according to the police records, was substantially as follows:

Dr. Baldwin went to her apartment last Friday morning, ostensibly to teach her to drive an automobile he had sold her. He was intoxicated and made improper advances, she said. Mrs. Willis entered a closet to get her hat and coat, and while there obtained a revolver.

The doctor refused to heed her warning not to make further advances and, Mrs. Willis said, she shot him.

She placed his body in a trunk, which she moved into an adjoining room, rented by Bert C. Webster, a forest ranger.

With Webster's assistance the next day she removed the trunk to her automobile and began driving about.

It was 3 o'clock this morning before they stopped and hurled the trunk over the embankment, driving later to the police station.

Webster denied he had any part in the slaying or knew what was in the trunk. He was held for further questioning. Mrs. Willis said she told Webster the trunk contained books and office supplies.

BRADEGEE BILL TO SETTLE BOUNDARY LINE

Washington April 13.—A bill giving the consent of congress to a boundary agreement between the states of New York and Connecticut was introduced into the senate on Thursday by Senator Frank B. Brandgee of New London. The bill, if passed, will put an end to the long pending dispute between the two states relative to the boundary lines. It was read twice and referred to the judiciary committee of which Senator Brangedee is chairman.

The following letter signed by Governor Charles A. Templeton of Connecticut and Alfred E. Smith of New York, accompanied the bill introduced by the New London senator, and explained its purport.

February 15, 1924.

To the Presiding Officer of the United States Senate, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir: In the year 1912 the states of New York and Connecticut entered into an agreement respecting the boundary line between the two states. Same was approved on the part of the state of New York by chapter 18 of the laws of 1913, and on the part of the state of Connecticut by chapter 265 of the special laws of 1913. The governors of the two states were authorised to communicate to congress the action of the two states on the subject and to request the approval of congress of the boundaries thus established and monumented. Apparently this request has never been made. Such congressional action is now asked and to that end a proposed form of bill is inclosed herewith.

Very truly yours,
ALFRED E. SMITH,
Governor of the State of New York.
CHAS. A. TEMPLETON,
Governor of the State of Connecticut.

PETITION AGAINST THE RELEASE OF THAW

Atlantic City, April 13. — Harry Kendall Thaw still is a potential slayer, Evelyn Nesbit, his divorced wife, asserted here today.

Miss Nesbit gave that as one reason for her action in filing a petition in Philadelphia courts for permission to intervene in jury trial proceedings to determine Thaw's sanity.

"The other reason is even more compelling," she said. "It is Russell, my son.

"I am taking this action primarily for the protetion of little Russell, and his interests. Of course I come second. As a matter of fact I really don't matter at all. It does matter very much about Russell. He must be protected.

"Harry Thaw must not be released. He is dangerous. Should he be given his liberty, I feel certain that within six months after his release, there would be another gun case.

"If Harry Thaw gets out, he is liable to squander, as usual everything that he has, and everything that is coming to Russell as his son. Harry is liable to do all sorts of things."

WOMAN DEEP SEA DIVER TO SEARCH FOR GOLD

Tobermory, Scotland, April 13—Miss Margaret Naylor, described as the first woman deep sea diver, has arrived here to assist in the search for the recovery of millions of gold dubloons of the Spanish treasure ship Admiral of Florence, which sank off Tobermory in 1588. With Commander Young, an experienced naval diver, she will decide on the machinery necessary for the deep sea treasure hunt.

MOTORCYCLIST FOUND WITH SKULL FRACTURED

Middletown, Conn., April 13.—Found lying beside his motorcycle on the romwell road tonight, Walter Stewart, negro, of Cromwell, was taken to the Middlesex hospital here and is not expected to live. He has a fractured skull, hospital authorities said.

FARMER KILLED AND TRUCK WRECKED AT GRADE CROSSING

Middletown, N. Y., April 13.—Harry Devoe, of Otisville, a farmer, was killed this afternoon when a fast express train on the Erie railroad demolished his truck at a grade crossing.

OBITUARY

Harris T. Hoyt.

Dnabury, Conn., April 13.—Harris T. Hoyt, for many years secretary and treasurer of the Savings Bank of Danbury, died here today after a protracted illness. He was 54 years old and was connected with the banking business for the past 35 years. He is survived by his wife

Two farm measures, the McNary-Haughen bill for establishment of farm export corporation, and the Norris bill for purchase and sale of farm products were ordered favorably reported by the senate agriculture committee.

REPARATIONS PROBLEM IS NEARING SOLUTION

Paris, April 13.—(By the A. P.)—The special committee appointed by the international chamber of commerce to study the two reports of the experts has reached the unanimous conclusion that these reports offer a real prospect of providing practical measures for removal of obstacles where herstofore have appeared insurmountable in the reparations settlement.

French official circles declare that there is no question for the present either of private interviews bewteen Premiers Poincare, Theunis and MacDonald or a meeting in the form of an inter-lallied conference. It is considered by the French foreign office that any exchange of views on the experts reports would be premature until the reparation commission has reached a definite decision concerning the carrying out of the experts' plans.

RESIGNS AS ADVISER TO SENATE REVENUE COMMITTEE

Washington, April 13.—Professor Thomas Adams, who has been acting as adviser to the senate committee investigating the bureau of internal revenue, has resigned it became known tonight, the reason being given that he was dissatisfied with the trend of the inquiry.

Professor Adams, a professor at Yale, is a tax expert, who has assisted both the republican and democratic membership in revenue matters for a number of years. He was engaged by the investigating committee soon after it began its deliberations. He become dissatisfied with the court of the committee when ot was announced that Francis J. Heney was to be employed as counsel at the personal expense of Senator Couzens.

TO FORM "LEAGUE FOR PEACE IN HARTFORD"

Hartford, April 13.—Believing that too much noise is being made by motorists who toot their horns at every street inter-section, and whose machines have "shrieking brakes and slapping tire-chains" several citizens of this city have banded together to form a "league for peace in Hartford" and filed intentions with the department of motor vehicles. The promoter, according to the announcement has gone to the extent of making phonographic records of all sounds made on Farmington avenue at a certain period of the day and has furnished the police and motor vehicle department with thousands of circulars for residents desiring to join the league. The circulars state that the league "is aiming at no formal organization but simply to find out who favors more quiet in our streets and who will work to secure it."

BURGLARS RETURNED LOOT TO CRIMINAL LAWYER

New York, April 13.—Entering his apartment early today of Frank W. Stanton, a criminal lawyer, encountered two burglars, ready to depart with jewelry which he valued at $4,000. He threw up his hands as the men drew revolvers.

"Go ahead. I won't resist. The joke's on me. I've been defending you fellows for nineteen years. I'm Frank Stanton."

"Prove it," commanded one of the thieves.

Stanton showed papers establishing his identity.

"Well I'll be blowed!" exclaimed the burglar. "Here, take your stuff back. We wouldn't rob you."

NORWICH BULLETIN

The sight of the big LaFrance pumper of the local fire department traveling at a fast rate of speed over the state highway leading through the Ridges, Perkins' Corner to Mansfield, led many to believe Sunday that a terrific fire was raging in some town to the west of this city. Rumor which spread like wildfire soon had it that Rockville was going up in blazes, while others said that part of Hartford was afire. As the case really was the department received a summons to help extinguish a chimney fire at the home of George Swift on the road between Eagleville and Mansfield City. The call was relayed to Mayor Hermisdas Dion by Chief J. J. Tighe and he received permission to dispatch the truck and a crew of firemen. The pumper did not reach its destination, however. The Swift home sets about a mile and a half back of the state highway on a very poor country road and at the intersection of these two roads the driver decidedly wisely not to attempt to reach the house. Somewhere on the trip the brake drums on the big machine worked loose and upon returning to the engine house the truck was jacked up for repairs. It was expected that it would be in condition today (Monday). Mrs. Swift stated that the fire at her home resulted in but slight damage. It was caused by a defective chimney and the blaze spread to the roof. Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and by the use of plenty of water soon had the fire out. Mrs. Swift estimated her damage at $100. She claims that neither herself nor any member of her household asked for assistance from Willimantic, but she expressed hearty appreciation for the coming of the local truck.

The Rec chemical truck of the fire department also met with hard luck, Saturday evening about 7.55 o'clock, while answering a call to fight a chimney fire at the home of Adolph Vaillant, at 15 Arnolds Lane. One of the ignition wires on the machine broke and the truck was handicapped for a few minutes. The call was a still alarm, but as the department reached the fire, which caused but slight damage, a neighbor rang in a bell alarm from box 15.

Mild spring weather, such as has been prevalent here for the past few days, must have its inning, as far as police records are concerned. The after-prohibition custom of drinking moonshine and carousing is fast getting back on summer season schedule, with anywhere from four to half a dozen arrests every week end.

Four local young men, Edward John Connor, Daniel Sullivan, Jeremiah Sullivan and Paul Flynn were taken into custody late Saturday evening by Officers Lariviere and Bombria on Chapman street and taken to the police station where charged of intoxication were lodged against them. All were successful in securing bonds men Sunday for their appearance in court today (Monday.)

The roster of speed law violators will be led by George Barrott, of Mansfield, who was placed under arrest Saturday afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Bombria and will appear in court this (Monday) morning to answer to a charge of speeding within the city limits.

Levi Upton, whose wife, Clara Upton is now "vacationing" at Brooklyn jail for thirty days for intoxication apparently decided to get some fun out of life while acting the part of bachelor. Seated in his little Ford roadster, Upton came up Main street Saturday and took the silent policeman at the intersection of Main and Church street along with him. One more rattle apparently did not disturb the driver and he dragged the woodan top about a hundred and fifty feet, to the head of Railroad street, where he was hailed by Officer Orlando. Upton was drunk and he was notified to appear in police court this (Monday) on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Deputy Sheriff Addison Frink, of Andover, came to this city Saturday and secured lodging for Edward Willis at the police station. Willis will be given a hearing in the Andover town court today (Mondayl) on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace.

A ten minute drive through the business section of this city last Saturday night would have convinced even the most optimistic that new parking regulations are needed very badly. An expert driver equipped with an automobile having cast iron fenders and mudguards, would not worry over the crowded conditions but a good many drivers are not experts and most automobiles are constructed of tin. By some divine grace no serious accidents have happened yet and it is very probable that none will occur, as it is impossible to drive at a fast enough rate of speed. The slight scraping of two cars, however, means anything from a five or a ten dollar repair job or a new fender. It might even result in an appearance in police court. Such procedures would be most unsatisfactory. One of the aldermen pointed out recently that Willimantic appeared to be the only town of its size which did not have a code of parking laws, which would include time limit parking, one-way streets, and such other nuisances. The councilman hinted that he planned to take up the subject before the board within a short time.

A well attended meeting of the Epworth league of the Methodist church was followed recently by a surprise party in honor of Miss Muriel Kennedy, teacher of Latin at Windham High school and a member of the league who has acted as coach and director of several entertainments given by the league. A $10 gold piece was given Miss Kennedy as a mark of appreciation. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, the pastor, made the presentation speech. A program of entertainment was then carried out in charge of Miss Eunice Camp, Carl Webber and Miss Grace Phillips. Mrs. Arthur Morrill, Mrs. A. S. Muirhead and Mrs. W. E. Webber served refreshments.

At her first annual reception for her children and adult classes held in the assembly hall of the new Windham Center school, Mrs. Eileen G. Racicot met with a great deal of success. Elizabeth Webster and Edward Bailey led the opening march for the children. Ballroom dancing and classical interpretive numbers followed. Mrs. Aline Dubreuil was at the piano. Among the children who appeared in clever interpretations were Alice Jacobs, Elizabeth Webster, Stella Subisky, Marian Bailey, little Dorothy Wilson, Margaret Mare, Anna Subisky, Dora Webster, Betty Barber, Margaret and Alice Connelly; also Harold Hopkins, Earle Potter, Frank Barber, Clarence Wilson, Frank MacDonald, Edward Bailey, Howard Sandstrom and Richard MacDonald.

Miss Charlotte Lathrop and Eden Cook initiated festivities for the adult class. Miss Regina Racicot appeared in a novelty dance and fancy fox trot. Mrs. Racicot was presented a large bouquet of sweet peas by Dorothy Wilson in behalf of the children's class and a floral basket by Miss Charlotte Lathrop, in behalf of the adults.

Making arrangements for the welfare of a "two section" family proved to be quite an arduous task for the police court officials, Saturday morning. The case was that of Walter Juras charged with non-support. The complainant was his second wife. Juras has three children by his first marriage and he is caring for these, on an independent basis. The second Mrs. Juras is caring for one child by her first union, also an offspring of their union. She alleged that her husband had not given her a stitch of clothing or a bite of food since last Fourth of July. Juras was ordered by the court to pay $6 a week, when found guilty of a similar charge last June. He made five payments and then quit. For a time he and his section of the family resided on Chapman street, but he has since taken a tenement in the Stone Row next to the one occupied by his wife and her two dependents. Juras said that he worked three days a week and earned $12 a week. The court was inclined to be lenient and ordered him to choose between jail or making payments of $5 a week to his wife. Payments will be made to the chief of police and Juras must also report to Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham.

Arthur J. Dubreuil met defeat at the hnads of Amos Barber at the Wood parlors, Friday night, in a pocket billiard contest. The score was 75 to 63. Barber made the high run of the game, twelve balls.

Mrs. Ella L. Preston, 89, died at the home of her son, James E. Preston in Dorchester, Mass., at 11 o'clock, Friday night. She was born in Chaplin in 1824, the daughter of Ephraim and Clarissa Kingsbury. She was a long time resident of Willimantic and the widow of Philo D. Preston. She leaves a son, James E. Preston, of Dorchester, Mass.

The official visitation of Mrs. Helena R. Arnold, of Meriden, worthy grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star of Connecticut was made last week to Radiant Chapter, No. 11, O. E. S. She was accompanied by Grand Marshall Mrs. Frances A. Geer of Norwich; Grand Esther Mrs. Sadie J. Ward, Meriden and Granw Electa Mrs. Isabel G. Barrington of Thompsonville. The session opened with a supper served in the midst of green and yellow decorations. Dainty favors were at each plate. A sum of gold in a pretty case was presented the worthy grand matron during the evening. Radiant chapter will observe the 50th anniversary of its constitution next October. Past Grand Matron Mrs. Ida Davis of Collinsville was among the guests. Delegations attended Sachem chapter of Norwich, Fidelity chapter, New London, Jewett City chapter and Climax chapter of Merrow. Other visitors came from chapters in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Maine.

Company C., 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, including three officers and 89 enlisted men traveled to New Haven Saturday in spechial coaches attached to the 10:50 express, to participate in the gigantic parade held as part of the celebration of 103nd Infantry Day. The infantry boys returned here on the State of Maine express late in the evening.

Judgment by default was given Saturday by Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean in the case of Fred LeClaire versus Samuel Kushner. A hearing was scheduled for 10 o'clock but the defendant did not appear. The damages are $95.71 and ahe costs of the action $7.95.

Assistant Clerk Marjorie Bradford, of Windham county superior court was at the town building Saturday afternoon meeting applicants for first citizenship papers. Some half dosen first papers were issued. Among the applicants Victor Charron, Harold Maples, Elizabeth Peacock, Catherine Peacock ad Salim Haddad.

A farm for a store was a trade recently consummated by Alfred Oden of Mansfield who exchanged his valuable property, the Old Chaffee farm at Chaffeeville, with Andrew and Mary Plehcik for their building and store on Hope street. The store has been leased to Henry Flynn of this city.

Mrs. H. A. Mathewson, Mrs. F. E. Vose, Mrs. J. E. Brown, Walter C. Brown and Gilbert Mathewson, of Mount Hope, have returned home, after spending the winter in Florida.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

John Speddo for speeding on West Main street was fined $30.00 and costs by Judge Heald in the borough court, Saturday morning. The fine and costs amounted to $40.06 which the accused paid. The arrest was made by State Policeman Hulbert who testified that Speddo passed him in a truck and he followed him; Speddo was going 48 miles an hour part of the way and that he averaged from 43 to 45 miles. There are a great many children on West Main street, and the officers have received a number of complaints of the hazard the children are in on account of speeding automobilists.

The steam shovel for work on the Monson road was unloaded at the local freight yard Friday. Saturday morning it was taken to the location of operations above Orcutville.

PLONA VERDICT STANDS BY JUDGE'S DECISION

In a memorandum decision just handed down Judge Christopher L. Avery has denied the motion filed by Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey, counsel for the Connecticut Co., to have the verdict recently rendered by a jury in the superior court in favor of Alexander Plona of Waterford in his suit against the trolley company set aside. Plona had sued for damages of $10,000, claiming that negligence on the part of the motorman was responsible for the death of his wife when she was struck by a trolley on the Lyme turnpike some time ago. Plona was awarded a verdict of $5,000.

The United States forest service has started an investigation to find where new tree growth on burned-over lands comes from.

JEWETT CITY

The Congregational church was filled to overflowing with relatives, members of different orders, ex-soldiers and friends, to attend the funeral services for George A. Haskell, Sunday afternoon. The pulpit platform and choir loft were filled and surrounded with beautiful flowers, amid which stood the casket, draped with the American flag. Mt. Vernon lodge, F. and A. M., members of Sedgwick post, a delegation of ex-service men, Ruthie Rebekah lodge, the Sunday school class to which Mr. Haskell belonged, and the borough officials attended in a body, other orders also being represented.

Rev. H. S. Stephenson, pastor of the church conducted the service. He read the Scripture and offered prayer. His address was as follows:

"I know not where God's islands lift
Their fronted palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care."

We are here today in the shadow of life's greatest sorrow, the sadness of parting. "The silver cord is loosed, the golden bowl is broken." Yet we are here in the light of life's greatest hope, the hope of immortality.

Today would be a sad day indeed, a sadness from which there would be no respite, were it not for the Christian's faith in a life to come. It is religion that meets man in every emergency and condition of life. It girdles the grave with the rainbow of hope and sows seeds among the clods of the grave, that bloom in the bye and bye, into immortal flowers.

The hope which we cherish today, has been shared by men in all the ages past. The all but universal yearning of the life of man has been to live on. The human mind at its best has persisted for these thousands of years in that hope and expectation. Can we think that God who gives food for hunger, knowledge for the mind, friendship to satisfy love—will leave this greatest of all the desires of man to remain unsatisfied? The answer comes in the words of Jesus:

"Let not your hearts be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in Me—in My Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto Myself, that where I am, there ye may be also."

And why should we think it a thing incredible that God should endow man with immortality? As we look about us in nature we see that God has given continuous life to even the flowers of the field, the grass and the trees. We see the rose and the lily in the glory of full bloom. Soon the chilling winds of autumn bring death to each flower and leaf. Yet in the spring time God resurrects each flower to a new life. If God stoops to give to the rose bush, whose withered blossoms float upon the autumn breeze, the sweet assurance of another spring-time, will he refuse the words of life to man who is made in the image of His Creater? Even as God comes in the beauty of springtime to clothe the flowers of the garden and the grass at our feet with new life, so shall He come in that Eternal Spring to clothe man with immortality.

"For we know that if this earthly house of our tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

What then is death to the Christian? It is not the end of all. It is but another step of life upward toward the life and presence of God. It is but a doorway, a passage from one room of God's universe into another.

"And I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away"

"And He shall wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more; neither shall there be mourning,—nor crying, nor pain, anymore, for the former things have passed away." This is the hope and assurance which we have today as Christians.

We pause today, amid Life's ceaseless whirl, to pay tribute of love and esteem to our Brother, who has passed into the great beyond. To the sorrowing relatives and friends, we offer our deepest sympathy in this hour of bereavement and los.

I would not attempt to explain this life today. Life is too great a mystery. It is too sacred to be touched by human hands. His life was an open book, lived among you all. I would not, even if I could, seek to change the impression which his life has made upon you. I wish, today, only to bear witness to that impression.

Now, for more than a half century of active life, he has gone in and out among the people of thie community. He was a man who was interested in the civic life to which he belonged. Many positions of trust and honor were bestowed upon him by his fellow-citizens. To each of these he gave the full measure of his ability and fidelity. To whatever administered to the welfare of the community, he gave hearty support.

When the larger interest of his country called, he was not found wanting, but cast his lot with those who served and bore the brunt of battle and hardship. He was valiant in battle, yet a lover of peace, one who found happiness in the friendly concourse of men in the every-day walks of life.

Time forbids that we should speak of his faithful services in the realm of fraternal life. In the various orders to which he belonged, he gave efficient and faithful service in whatever capacity he was called upon to work. The positions imposed upon him by his brothers were looked upon, not so much as places of honor, but as channels of service.

Mr. Haskell found a peculiar pleasure in his church life. Here, also, he found a place to serve. He was a deacon, a member of the board of trustees, a member of the Sunday school and was greatly attached to the Christian Endeavor. Although many were the number of his years, yet he remained young in spirit.

A common sense of loss prevails among today, in the various circles of friendship to which he gave his life. The words which have sprung almost unconsciously to the lips of many during the pas tweeks were these, "He will be missed!" He will be missed, in lodge, in the community life, in the church, in his home. Earth has lost a loving husband, a true friend, and a good neighbor.

We shall remember his life as devoted to many high and worthwhile objects, filled with service in many walks of life. We cannot forget the hospitality of his home, the simplicity of his life, and the numberless act of thankful kindness.

Our community is better because he has lived.

Rev. Mr. Stephenson concluded with the poem, Crossing the Bar.

Burial was in the Jewett City cemetery. Here the beautiful Masonic committal service was under direction of W. M., Frank D. Browning; taps was sounded by Commander William Maynard of Orville LaFlamme post, American Legion.

The honorary bearers were members of Sedgwick post, of Norwich, of whom were in Mr. Haskell's regiment. They were: John Service who is 85, John Irish, 84, James McKee, 83, Orrin M. Price, 80, Edward Willey, 80, and George C. Crocker, 19.

The active bearers were L. M. Carpenter, L. D. Howe, Abraham Zeeger, Alex McNicol, N. B. Parkhurst and A. D. Tripp. Mrs. L. G. Buckingham sang two of Mr. Haskell's favorite songs, "I'm a Pilgrim," and "Just As I Am," with Organist Fred S. Leonard as accompanist.

There were flowers from the wife, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cooley, Mrs. Grace Webster and children, Albert Haskell and family, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hawkins, Mrs. S. G. Maynard and family, David Hale Fanning, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Crumb, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tracy, Francis Driscoll, Mr and Mrs. Willis S. Rouse, John N. ### Claims Discoveries Will Revolutionize The World

Sir Richard Gregory, scientist and editor of "Nature," a London England, publication, who in a recent speech pointed out that man is on the threshold of several important discoveries, which will revolutionize the world. If used in the wrong way, and allowed to be monopolized by incompetent individuals, man will entirely disappear from the earth, causing an international "Frankenstein."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

New Prices at the Strand Theatre

For this week the management of the Strand theatre offer a great program of pictures featuring prices that are the lowest in the city. Undoubtedly this will be heralded with delight by many of its patrons. The theatre goers can rest assured that the same high grade program of pictures will be shown. Prices are now matinees only 10c; evenings, orchestra 20c and balcony 15c.

The picture offered today is one of the best of the new year. It is adapted from the famous song After the Ball.

Would you marry a man with a prison record?

That is a problem which has been the pivotal point for hundreds of heart tragodies the world has never known, and some that have caused endless discussion pro and con. It bobs up again in the newest Anderson picture.

"I surely would, if I loved him enough to want to share his problems and I felt sure in his love," is the answer of Miriam Cooper, star of Renco's "After the Ball," in which this heart-burning question is met and solved.

Would you, fair maid of this practical age? Would you face the world's pointing finger serenely and unafraid or would you wilt under the "taint" of society's scorn?

Judges of America's divorce court say not one out of ten wives who promise at the prison gates to "stick to the end" goes through with her bargain. Sooner or later, they tire of waiting and find their way into the courts, to seek freedom from their marital bonds.

It is an absorbing question set forth in a spectacular manner in "After the ball" which will be the feature of the program at the Strand theatre for an engagement beginning today.

Refrain:
After the ball is over,
After the break of morn,
After the dancers leaving,
After the stars are gone;
Many a heart is aching,
If you could read them all;
Many the hopes that have vanished
After the ball.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Palace theatre the first half of this week is a photoplay which comes nearer to perfection in entertainment than any of the many pictures we have ever seen. In fact, its appeal is so great that we find it difficult to restrain our enthusiasm in writing this review.

The picture is The Eternal City, and its points of excellence are so numerous that it would take triple the space at our disposal to mention them. Story, cast, direction, settings and acting—all are practically flawless. This First National picture, which was produced by George Fitzmaurice in Rome, is based on Hall Caine's famous story, and it is enacted by a cast which boasts of such well-known names as Barbara La Marr, Bert Lytell, Lionel Barrymore, Montagu Love and Richard Bennett.

You will revel in this glorious romance; you will be enthralled by its magic spell.

An extra added attraction Will Rogers in The Cowboy Sheik. You'll scream. Pathe News, don't overlook this extra ordinary program at the new Palace theatre prices. Evenings 25 cents, Matinees 20 cent including taxes. Coming Thursday, Friday and Saturday Frank Borzage's production of The Abe of Desire with Mary Philbin, Myrtle Stedman, William Collier, Jr. and star cast.

Broadway Theatre

The following all star B. F. Keith vaudeville acts at the Broadway theatre the first half of this week promises to give the Norwich theatre goers the best entertainment of the season.

The Dance Friends, a stepping quartette offer hard shoe, buck and wing and high kicking dancing such as has never before been offered in Norwich.

Sam and Blanche Rose, neighborhood pals offer a triangle of song, dance and comedy.

The Two Sternards are America's premier xylophonists.

Hap "Farrell and Florence" in "For No Reason" offer symptoms of present times.

Gertie Falls and Company offer a sensational novelty called "A Few Hard Knocks."

"The Lullaby" is the picture now showing at the Broadway theatre. "The Lullaby" unquestionably will go into the record of the screen as the best vehicle to which Miss Novak has ever lent her talents of characterization. It was an original story from the pen of the ever-busy Lillian Ducey, adapted by Hope Loring and Louis Lighton. In the hands of Producer Bennett all the meat of drama and romance has been retained and developed to a state of near perfection.

Perhaps the note of mother love is the most poignant element of the story, in which Miss Novak portrays the role of a young peasant mother imprisoned for a crime she did not commit. A baby is born to her in prison and the scenes in which the mother and her offspring, now become three years of age, appear, carry a stupendous note of drama. Here and there Producer Bennett has learned the power of drama with keen touches of comedy.

"America"

Heralded by enthusiastic New York reviewers as one of the outstanding screen masterpieces of all time, D. W. Griffith's epic of the War of American Independence, "America," will have its local premiere at the Broadway for three days beginning next Monday night April 21 with matinee Tuesday and Wednesday.

The presentation of what is described as the great director's greatest artistic achievement promises to be the most important motion picture event of the year.

Telling its immortal story in scenes of thrilling sequence, "America" waves a banner of beautiful romance across the scenes of America's high adventure. David W. Griffith's inspired direction has given the picture the distinction of a work of art and he holds one in a vise-like grip with his overwhelming sweep in the scenes building to the climax.

Graphically picturing many of the thrilling scenes of America's struggle for independence, taken on the exact locale of the action, "America" is conceived and executed as only Griffith can and is charged with poignant charm and exquisite tone and quality. The picture was made for the Daughters of the American Revolution as their contribution to the sequicentennial of America's struggle for liberty.

Breed Theatre.

The feature attraction of the unusually attractive bill presented by the Breed theatre today and Tuesday is "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." This is a picturized version of Robert W. Service's "The Spell of the Yukon," and is presented by a great cast including Barbara LaMarr, Lew Cody, Mae Busch, Percy Marmont and George Siegmann. "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" is one of the treats of the season. Real drama packed with thrills. It gives you everything. Great South Sea atmosphere; then the first Broadway night life, a peach of a cabaret fire, before the action shoots from the gold diggers under the white lights to gold diggers under the Arctic lights. It is the story of a man who was crooked as lightning, but straight as an arrow with a gun. You will enjoy every minute of this picture.

The Pathe News and an Educational comedy will make up the remainder of this big banner bill.

Alexander James Inglis, 48, of Cambridge, professor of education in Harvard university, died at a hospital in Boston. He was born in Middletown, Conn., and graduated from Wesleyan University in 1902.

DANIELSON

It has been remarked by a competent observer of things economic that when there is a prospect for a low-er tax rate in town affairs immediately a drive for propositions involving heavy expenditures sets in. The phenomenon is something like a line storm. Some plans involving heavy expenditures for the town are now in the works.

It is not the function of a newspaper, in its news columns, to tell a town what it should do, but it is well within the limitations of newspaper service to point out a trend of the times.

Willingly has a lower tax rate this year, due to rigid economies during the past year. The fact is greatly appreciated by the average taxpayer. But if publicity is not given the fact that the tide has taken a turn and that the eyes of many are now looking toward the development of a program that will mean spending much money there may be a return to the policy of making heavy appropriations for things that can be adequately taken care of at a moderate cost and much money saved the town.

Members of the Knights of Columbus in eastern Connecticut assembled in Danielson Sunday afternoon when several hundred of them came here to witness the exemplification of the third degree on a class of 50 candidates. William J. Mulligan, supreme director of the order, and various other men high in the councils of the organization in Connecticut were on hand for one of the most important gatherings the order has held in Danielson.

Special committees of Rose of Lima council have been busy for weeks making preparations for the event, and the success of every feature of the day's program is evidence of the efficiency and good will with which they worked.

In the morning, members of the council marched to St. James' church and received communion in a body. The degree work was the big feature of the afternoon. Following the degree a turkey dinner was served in the new Casino.

An outside salesman wanted to represent us in Danielson and vicinity. We require a man of ability and unquestionable character. The Plaut-Cadden Company, Norwich, Conn.—adv.

Depending on what course is finally adopted, the borough of Danielson will spend somewhere between $2,000 and $13,000 on a program of sewage disposal, in order that the refuse from the borough's sewers may be adequately disposed of without conflict with the requirements of the state department of health.

One plan now before the warden and court of burgesses calls for the expenditure of $2,000 for the construction of an additional filter bed. Another plan calling for the installation of a somewhat elaborate drainage system under the filter beds now in existence on the borough farm and others that may be installed calls for an expenditure of about $13,000. It is said that this plan would take care of the sewage question here for the next quarter of a century.

It is not likely that anything definite will be done about the proposed improvement until that matter has been presented before a special borough meeting.

The fact is, however, that something must be done. The state department of health long since has informed borough officials that overflow from the borough's sewer system is running into the Quinebaug river and helping in the pollution of that stream contrary to the laws of the state.

If the borough sees fit, it can spend no more than $2,000 and patch up the situation for a time. If it wants to take time by the forelock and meet the needs of the future, it can spend $13,000, and have the sewage disposal problem disposed of for the next 25 years.

The voters will have their opportunity to say what shall be done. The borough officials now have practically complete information on the subject discussed and are in a position to explain all details of the proposed improvements to all who may be interested to know about them.

The sewage of the borough is now developed in much greater quantity every day than was the case when the filter beds on the borough farm were first built and the excess is now so great that there is an overflow from the beds. This must be taken care of, to meet the requirements of the law.

Funeral services for Earl Kimball Atwood, who died at Waterville, Me., were conducted Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. H C. Atwood, Broad street, Rev. Walter S. Williams of the Westfield Congregational church officiating. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were J. Arthur Atwood, Harold H. Atwood, J. F. Gardner, Jr., Charles M. Smith, Charles E. Austin and Richard D. Banigan. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

PUTNAM

At the second annual Older Boys' Conference to be held at Plainfield next Saturday under the auspices of the Windham County Y. M. C. A., the principal speakers will be J. B. Parmer of Hartford and E. P. Conlon, state boys' work secretary, of New Hampshire. Among the features of the conference will be swimming contests in the pool at the Community House; there will be 20-yard free style; 20-yard back stroke; 60-yard swim, free style; 80-yard relay race, 4 to a team; under water swim and fancy diving.

Work of renovating and improving the Powhattan mill at the head of Main street, recently purchased by the H. K. H. Silk company, has progressed to such a state of completion that it is expected the company will begin moving its machinery from its several mills in Putnam to the new mill at an early date. It is planned to consolidate the Putnam mills under one roof.

Plans are practically completed for the Easter Monday night ball of Cargill Council, K. of C., which for many years has opened the post-Lenten season in this city.

A large gang of railroad trackmen was at work Sunday, replacing the rails on the New London division of the New Haven road south of Putnam with heavier rails. The opportunity is taken Sundays to rush the work when traffic is lighter than on week days.

Miss Gertrude Phillips, about 51, died at her home in South Woodstock, Friday night. Miss Phillips had been postmistress at South Woodstock for many years, as were her father and mother, both of whom died years ago. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Phillips and a life-long resident of Woodstock. She is survived by a married sister, Ethel, of Philadelphia, who will come on to take charge of the funeral arrangements. Miss Phillips had been in poor health for a number of years although able to attend to her duties as postmistress.

Mrs. A. S. Macdonald left Saturday morning to spend the week-end with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Helen Willey, house manager of the House in the Pines, a girls' school in Norton, Mass.

The fifth organ recital in a series of recitals being given at St. Philip's church, Grove street, was given Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Pierre H. Myers, assisted by Miss Emma A. Burbank, of Danielson, soloist.

Those having charge of the graduating exercises of the Putnam High school were disappointed when they received word from United States Senator Reed of, Missouri that he could not accept the invitation to address the graduating class, owing to a previous engagement.

Through the efforts of Captain Jarvis, of the Putnam police, to whom two men reported the finding of two burlap bags filled with spools of silk, all of the merchandise stolen from a silk mill in Pawtucket, R. I., has been recovered.

Two men, walking in the woods near the state road to Providence, just this side of the Rhode Island line, discovered the two bags partly hidden under some boughs and leaves. While the theft in Pawtucket occurred last month it was thought from the appearance of the bags in the woods that they had been deposited there recently.

Chief of Hill of Pawtucket came to Putnam and identified the silk and took it away with him. He stated that many bags similar to those found in Putnam were stolen from the mill last month by thieves whose identity has not been learned. They bound and gagged the night watchman and then ransacked the mill. All of the other bags had been recovered.

The Putnam city court is making a record for bringing money into the city treasury. Much of this is due to large fines imposed for violations of the liquor and automobile laws. Although there was but 17 arrests in March, the total in fines and costs received amounted to $1,895.59. This month also will be a record month in the amount of receipts as one morning not long ago one offender paid a fine of $700. As this was a state police case, it is understood that half of the fine goes to the state, but even with that out, the city received a large return.

The following cast of the Putnam high school pupils are rehearsing for a play soon to be presented: Edward Arnold, Arnold, Ralph W. Davis, Allan Thayer, James McBriety, Robert Bruce, Gerald Marcy, Alexander Cardinal, Franklin Perry, Mildred Hattin, Mollie Smith, Alice Alvord, Celia Aframe, Helen Botham, Ruth Fallon, Helen Wheaton, Rita Kelly.

Thomas Gully, landlord of the City hotel, who was arrested, following a raid on the hotel on a charge of keeping liquor unlawfully, will be given a hearing in the Putnam city court this (Monday) morning.

An attractive program for the April Parent-Teachers' association has been prepared, and will be carried out Wednesday night, April 16, instead of April 15, as originally planned.

This meeting is known as Guest Night, and each member is privileged to bring a guest. Refreshments of punch and wafers are to be served.

An orchestra has been assembled by Samuel Rich, consisting of members of different orchestras in town.

Orchestra, march, On Parole; solo, Wallace Smith; Dreamy Town, Teachers' chorus; piano solo, Liszt Transcription, Mrs. Nelson Lown; orchestra, Plantation Medley, Ole South; Roses of Picardy, duet, Mrs. Walter Wheaton, Miss Katharine Byrne; Stars Brightly Shining, teachers' chorus; orchestra, Dance of the Clowns.

Life-sized silhouettes of all the teachers in Putnam were made for the last meeting, but owing to the small attendance, these will be used again. A first prize is to be awarded to the person guessing the largest number correctly, and a consolation award will go to the contestant guessing the least.

In the combined orchestra, assembled and directed by Samuel Rich, the members are as follows:

Violins: Mrs. Torrey, Mr. Irving, Florence Smith, Lucy Farrows, Mrs. Converse, Mrs. Rich, Bessie Oblatz, Mrs. Prince, Mrs. Conad, Mr. Tilquist, Mr. Ash, Herbert Clark, Mr. Linderson, Mr. Batfey, Mr. Bogardus.

'Cellos: Gertrude C. Warner, Mr. Maryott.

Flutes: Mr. Rich, Paul Wheaton.

Clarinet: Samuel Rich.

Bass Viol: Mr. Chandler.

Piano: Mr. Dodge.

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

The first part of the sixth chapter of St. Mark was the basis of the pastor's discourse, April 6. Spite of persistent deep mud and dangerous roads, two families living at some distance were present, one coming on foot.

The "Fellowship of Prayer" topic for the week following Palm Sunday, April 13, is "The Way of the Cross."

Good Friday, the 18th, Fast-day as proclaimed by the governor, a short service will be held at 10.30 a. m. at the parsonage which is public.

Saturday Arthur Coulter slipped on ice, fell and cut his head, back of his ear.

April 6, Amos Greenfell from the haymow, striking a bean and seriously injuring his side. Two doctors refused to come on account of the condition of the roads, but the next one called responded and rendered needed dattention. Mr. Green suffered greatly for several days, but is now said to be doing as well as can be expected.

Buell Union, Canterbury's W. C. T. U. met last Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Emily Buswell, its Vice President-at-Large with over half its membership in attendance some coming long distances over bad roads. The president, Mrs. Bliven presided. The treasurer's report showed all dues paid for 1924 before April 1st, the supper and dinner lately held assisting in being able to accomplish this. The union instructed its secretary to send a vigorous protest to its three representatives in congress, in the name of the union, against the legislation of beer. There is to be a series of special meetings in various places in this state planned in honor of the Golden Jubilee Celebration of the National W. C. T. U. These are so arranged that all desiring will be able to be present at some one or more of the gatherings, going by train, trolley, bus or private conveyance. A member from this union will attend the one in Norwich, the afternoon of April 24th, at which Mrs. Ida B. Wide Smith of Iowa, National Director of Christian Temperance is to speak and the honored state president, Miss Mary B. Wilson, will be heard also.

Meats, breads and pies cooked in the Florence Oven are evenly browned, as the heat is uniform.

Shaking a stove is as old-fashioned as cranking a car

"TAKING care of the stove" is a thing of the past in progressive homes. With a Florence Oil Range in your kitchen there is no back-straining labor; no ashes; no coal to carry; no drafts to baffle your best intentions.

You get quick, intense heat when you want it and only when you want it. This means economy and a cool, clean kitchen in warm weather. It is easy to prove these important facts to your satisfaction.

Seeing is believing

Just go to a store and ask to see how the Florence Range works. Touch a match to the Asbestos Kindler—in a few moments you have an intensely hot blue flame close up under the cooking and easily regulated to any degree. Any dish, from the simplest to the most elaborate, can be prepared quickly and well on the Florence. Kerosene is a cheap and plentiful fuel. It is the vapor from kerosene that burns. It is not a wick flame.

The Big Burners
The heat in the Florence burners is close up under the cooking where it is most wanted.

The "Old Dutch Oven"

The portable Florence Oven is built on the principle of the old Dutch oven with the "baker's arch" and our patented heat-spreader to assure even cooking. It can be used on any kind of a stove. You can drop the oil reservoir without breaking it, for it is made of metal. There is a glass bull's-eye to show the level of the oil.

The whole Florence Range is sturdily built and a beauty to look at, with lustrous enamel, black frame and nickel trimmings. It is sold by department, furniture and hardware stores.

Florence Leveler
Attached to each leg of the stove, this device enables you to set the stove level on an uneven floor.

PLAINFIELD

A whist and dance was held in Weaver's hall Saturday evening, by a number of his friends, in honor of George Kay, who is leaving as second-hand in the mule room to become boss mule spinner in Southbridge, Mass. Mr. Kay has served in the Lawton mill for some time, and it is with regret that his friends see him leave there. A purse of gold was presented him during the evening, as a token of the good will of his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawley left Saturday for a week end visit in Willimantic.

Miss Margaret Purdon, Miss Catherine Dodd, and Miss Mary Mahoney, instructors at the high school, spent the week-end at their homes in Norwich.

Mrs. Joseph Timms of New Bedford, Mass., is spending a few weeks with Mrs. J. Taylor.

Mrs. Ernest Plasman and her mother, Mrs. Wood, who motored Thursday to Scarsdale, N. Y., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Plasman's aunt, Mrs. Margaret Wood, who died suddenly, returned home on Sunday.

Miss Margaret Cunnian, of Westerly, R. I., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson.

Fishermen who ventured forth Saturday afternoon, to try their luck included John Lees, Frank Congdon, George Hutchinson and Oscar Dahoff. All reported fairly good luck.

The April meeting of the Lincoln club, is to be held this (Monday) evening. The speaker will be Myles Lindish of Providence, who comes as a guest of Ray Greene. The supper will be furnished by the O. J. S., and the special entertainment is in charge of Christopher Krauss and Ray Greene.

Mr. and Mrs. John Albro were week-end guests of their daughter in Boston, having left Plainfield for the visit Saturday morning. They plan to return today (Monday).

The game with Chapman Tech, on Saturday, was Plainfield's third game of the season, and her third win, also. It was a very interesting game to watch, the teams being quite evenly matched.

Plainfield's swimming team will be seen in action again Thursday evening at the Community House, when the fast South Manchester team is met in the second leg of the 1924 series for the cup. Plainfield team has been showing up very well this season, having won three meets out of four, and having defeated South Manchester in the first meet of this series. Several meets are pending with fast teams from other towns.

In addition to the games of the high school schedule published in this column a short time ago, two games are pending with Killingly High.

The members of Protection lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F., held their second bee, Saturday afternoon, at Central Village, for the purpose of completing the work started toward renovating their lodge rooms. A large number was present, and a great deal of work was accomplished. The new lodge rooms were formerly the rooms occupied by the Central Village grammar school, and were recently vacated by the school, which went into the old high school building.

William Adams is building a new two-tenement, seven-room house on North Main street, just opposite his present residence, in the lot north of the house owned by Malcolm Wibberley. Work on laying the foundation has begun.

Mrs. Albert Exley of Groton spent the week-end with Mrs. Stephen Babcock.

Harold Randall, of Hartford is making a short visit in town.

William Exley was appointed fire warden for the Black Hill and Packer district, last week. Soon after his appointment he had a very stubborn brush fire to contend with, in the vicinity of Canterbury.

GOSHEN

The heavy spring rain that came late Sunday afternoon made high water in the brooks and the Yantic river. The water for a time overflowed the state road. Autos are reported getting mired often on the cross roads. There will be no good traveling now across the country until May, when the ground is settled.

Miss Mason of the extension school Storrs College, gave a demonstration on home thrift and economics Wednesday, April 9th in Academy hall.

A. J. Randall attended the farm auction sale in Wauregan Wednesday.

There was no school in the 12th district a number of days this week, the teacher, Mrs. Calvin McCall being laid up with a severe case of poisoning, thought to have resulted from poison sumac or elder, a stick of it having gotten mixed wit hthe firewood, the teacher getting infected while putting the wood into the stove.

Some rollicking noises are now heard coming from the frog pond.

Very handsome models of cedar chests from domestic lumber, either red cedar or wild calm have been made by a local carpenter recently.

SOLDIER BONUS BILL IN SENATE THIS WEEK

Washington, April 13.—The soldier bonus bill will join the tax reduction measure on the senate calendar this week and leaders of both parties are prepared to clear the path for their immediate consideration.

Which of the measures will be given precedence will be determined tomorrow or Tuesday by the finance committe while it is likely also that this subject will be discussed at the conference of republicans tomorrow.

Announcing his opposition to the bonus bill, Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, has turned over to Senator Curtis, Kansas, a republican member of the committee, the handling of the measure. Mr. Curtis said he would report the bill to the senate on Tuesday at the latest.

Senator Smoot based his opposition of the failure of the bill to carry a financing provision, insisting its cost must be met out of regular government funds. The tax reduction measure would not only eat up any treasury surplus next year, Mr. Smoot said, but would go $50,000,000 beyond the limit of the estimated surplus. Cost of the bonus bill has been estimated at $135,000,000 for the first year.

The report of democrats of the finance committee on the revenue bill is expected to be submitted to the senate tomorrow. It will oppose principally the income tax schedule as fixed by the committee in accordance with the plan of Secretary Mellon. Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking democrat of the committee, has framed a substitute which has been agreed to by the democratic members of the committe.

With drawn revolvers, Chief of Police Frank M. Reynolds and five other officers held up and confiscated four trucks and a touring car loaded with 1,500 gallons of grain alcohol in Nantasket, Mass.

A PROPER REBUKE.

When President Coolidge directed a message to the senate and points out the necessity of getting a grip on itself he voiced the sentiment of the country. It is unfortunate that the senate should have gotten to the point where such action was necessary, but being there the president lost no time in courageously pointing to the weakness and reminding the senate of its duty.

The president's position is not against the investigation of conditions that need it. He is not endeavoring to shield anyone from responsibility, but he is trying to impress upon the senate the abuse that is being practiced when there is a toleration of such personal inquisition as Senator Couzens is responsible for in connection with Secretary Mellon and the internal revenue bureau.

This appears to be a case where Senator Couzens is trying to work out a grudge. His attitude is very much like that which is often credited to men of wealth. He has set out to do something and he isn't to be thwarted. He is going to have it whether there is any justification for it or not. In all the probing that has been done by his committee, in which he has been taking a leading role, it has gotten nowhere. Many charges have been set up only to be exploded. Rumors and less have been run down only to find that there was nothing to them. A great hullabaloo has been raised over one thing or another, for the purpose of character injury only to have them peter out.

Enough has been demonstrated to disclose the motive of Senator Couzens, who is given support by the committeemen from the other party for political reasons. They play into his hand because he is playing into theirs, but when it comes to a multi-millionaire member of congress going into his own pocket to get counsel to continue the mudslinging it is time that the senate stood on its dignity and put a stop to the whole thing.

The only cause that the senate has for being sensitive about the president's message is that it should have acted without waiting for it. It should bring the senate to its senses. The president speaks for the country in behalf of the proper investigations as well as against the unjustified.

DEALING WITH DISABLED.

Because of the belief and the insistence that everything possible should be done for the disabled soldiers in the way of care, training and advantages, there will be hearty support given to the demand which has been made by General Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, to the managers of the 14 districts that any employe be eliminated who in any way comes in contact with the disabled and does not meet them in a courteous manner or see that they have every possible assistance.

There have been many problems encountered in establishing and administering the veterans' bureau. There have been errors of omission and commission. Meeting the requirements of so many has called for the right individuals who are conscious of their responsibility and anxious to assume it. There are many questions to be asked and answered in connection with various details of the work, much attention expected and much to be given in connection with the treatment of the disabled. It is only proper that such various details of any department of the government should be carried out with courtesy. It is hard to understand how the disabled could be treated otherwise, and from the character of the communication by Director Hines either some instances, fancied or real, have arisen where proper courtesy has not been observed or there is the desire to avoid it through prevention.

It is of course the one and only stand that should be taken. There can be no toleration of discourtesy in connection with the administration of such work. It is part of the service to the disabled that they should be given considerate attention and courtesy figures prominently in connection therewith.

Such an effort appears to be directed toward the idea of overcoming any impressions that certain matters were being neglected, and instead of permitting anything of the kind to develop to impress upon those in the service, as well as those without, that any responsible for such conditions must go. It is the right attitude and will get general commendation. There cannot be too much courtesy.

REMOVING THE BILLBOARDS.

What appears to be a recognition of the public disapproval of the use of billboards for advertising purposes, or at least certain ways in which they have been employed, is indicated by the decisions which are being made to abolish that form of advertising by many who have been spending much in that manner to obtain publicity.

States and cities have found it necessary to establish restrictions, to limit the size and locations. Legal restraint of this character has been followed by campaigns of removal, but now many of those who have spent large sums of money in the erection, painting and maintaining of such boards have come to the conclusion that public sentiment is increasing against the marring of the scenic effect of American countrysides and have taken the initiative in bringing about their elimination.

The conspicuous example in states on the Pacific coast was followed by similar action by an even larger concern on the Atlantic seaboard and there are a dozen or more large advertisers which have united on a similar policy. What they have done is certain to be an inspiration to others. Not a few organizations are interested in this work of bringing about the restriction of such advertising and each instance serves to influence others.

The billboards have always had their opponents because of the displeasing effect which they have in a community or in the country. How great this is is shown by the organizations in various states which are at work to bring about the removal of the ugly and objectionable structures. They represent a strong sentiment, and one that is growing as a greater number of people get into the country and come to recognize what others have long been aware of. When the effect on the traveler, the one whose attention is desired, becomes opposite to what is hoped for, it is evident that a harmful rather than a beneficial result can be anticipated. It makes it evident that the day of the big billboards that shut off the view of roads and landscapes is passing.

THE EXCLUSION ACT.

From the way in which the house passed the alien act with the exclusion feature to which Japan has entered its protest, the impression is conveyed that the house looked upon the Japanese attitude as a threat and voted as if from resentment.

By the provisions of the bill the Japanese will be excluded. There is now a "gentlemen's agreement" regarding Japanese coming into this country, which Japan would like continued, or it would be better pleased if the restrictions against Japanese immigrants were removed. What seems to have actuated the house was the reference by Japan, in its communication to the state department, to the "grave consequences" that might follow the adoption of the exclusion clause in the alien bill.

Having conveyed the protest to congress the state department felt called upon to advise caution in its action and it proceeded to show how limited is the number coming in under the agreement and what the number would be if Japanese immigration was permitted under a percentage quota the same as other nationals.

Action by one house of congress does not necessarily foretell what the other will do. Ordinarily it might be expected that the senate would display more deliberation and a greater regard for foreign relations. It is not a case of being frightened or being resentful because of the Japanese protest. It is a time when thought should be given to avoiding rather than inviting needless difficulties in the future if not right away.

FAR REACHING WIRELESS.

In connection with the vast amount of radio broadcasting that is being done in this country an understanding of much importance is that which has been reached to the effect that when an S. O. S. call is heard all stations will immediately cease their operations in order that the air may be free from interruptions and all handicaps removed from those in a position to render assistance.

With a ship in distress sending out its calls for help it can be readily appreciated that such appeals may run afoul of jammed conditions which would prevent the receipt of the message or make its nature and details indistinct and thereby inaccurate.

The wireless is a great protection to the vessels on the high seas. They are able to disclose their location at any time, to seek aid or to receive calls for assistance from others. They are never out of touch with land as long as the apparatus is in working order. Just how far distress signals carry is illustrated by the order of the naval communications station Saturday night ordering all others to be quiet because of an S. O. S. call. As it turned out the vessel in distress was in the bay of Biscay, on the coast of France, 3000 miles away, but it might have been off Nantucket or Norfolk or elsewhere along our own coast where help from these shores would have been needed.

Wireless has overcome that uncertainty which used to prevail from the time a ship left one port until it reached another. Today there are such powerful stations and such development in radio that it is next to impossible to get lost as long as the wireless is available and working.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Chopped dates are nice in cup custards.

Serve parsley sauce with filet of flounder.

A little lemon juice improves banana ice cream.

A little finely-chopped onion is nice in apple salad.

A linty dishcloth means drainage troubles sooner or later.

Use small oysters, thoroughly chilled, for oyster cocktail.

Stewed prunes are nice flavored with a little stick cinnamon.

Steamed hominy pudding is delicious flavored with apricots.

When serving peas with lamb, flavor them with a little mint.

Noodles are delicious baked with alternate layers of marmalade.

The syrup from canned fruit can be used in making fruit gelatin.

Lettuce sandwiches should be served as soon as they are made.

When you are frying fish, put a little salt in the grease and the flavor will be greatly improved.

Be sure to cover immediately the flour barrel, sugar bucket, spice or baking powder cans as soon as you have taken from them the amount you require.

You will find kerosene better than gasoline for removing spots in silk or wool goods, but you must be careful to see that no dust gets on the spot before the kerosene is entirely evaporated.

To cover up scratches on walnut or fumed oak furniture, paint the scars with a little iodine, then polish. Iodine also covers up scratches on dark woodwork.

Mix a piece of butter with a blanc mange, while it is still boiling, and you will find it will turn out of the mold when cold without any trouble, and also that it will have a much glossier appearance.

REMOVES ONION ODOR.

To remove the smell of onions from a saucepan or frying pan place a little oatmeal in the pan and put it on the fire until the meal scorches. After turning out the meal, wipe the pan with a damp cloth.

GUARDING AGAINST MOTHS.

An official of the London Museum of Natural History claims that repeated experiments by him have proved that furs or clothing, properly brushed and protected by camphor and placed in a tight bag, in which there are no means of entrance for the moth, will be found a sure and adequate protection, but it is not sufficient to simply place the garments in a drawer and sprinkle them with camphor or naphthalene.

SAFE FOR THE WEE FOLK.

Nursery furniture should never be upholstered, for it catches and holds dust. A rug is also an unnecessary article and an endless source of falls. Have the corners of the table well rounded and place the lamp in a high bracket if you wish your children to escape many of the usual nursery accidents.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Hot milk or cocoa taken just before you go to bed at night will prevent insomnia.

Many, many things bring on old age—too many of course to consider in so short a space as this. Mental and physical sluggishness, over-indulgence, not enough fresh air, indigestion. These are a few of the things that bring old age before it's time—if old age may be said to have a "time" when it should come.

Ignorance of little things often makes a great difference in the pursuit of beauty. For instance, not knowing the fact that glycerin, one of milady's manicure beauty aids, tends to give the skin a yellowish tint if applied undiluted may frustrate very conscientious efforts to improve the appearance of the skin.

Even though one's lips may not be perfectly formed, they can be given a certain charm if they are always kept soft and smooth. Lips that peel and show the bad effects of biting are not only unpleasant to see but they neutralize one's attempt at achieving a well-groomed appearance. Like holey gloves and torn hosiery, ragged skin on the lips gives a decidedly untidy look.

NEWEST VANITY CASE.

A most convenient way to carry one's lipstick and powder box is suspended from a small ring that can be worn on a finger or attached to a bracelet. These vanity cases are of cream color enamel with touches of red, and a delicate tracery of diamonds in the center. Others are of black enamel, with platinum and tiny diamonds.

FOB'S THE THING.

The fob to wear with the little tailored suit has become almost as universal as the fancy handkerchief. The greatest originality is shown in these trifles and it seems now as if it were possible to suit every purse and taste. Smart little fobs of red sealing wax with a Chinese monogram in the center add a touch of color to the gray or black suit, while a cloudy blue stone that resembles a star sapphire is surrounded by rhinestones to form a more ambitious affair.

HAVE CLOTH SPONGED.

When buying goods for a suit or coat inquire if it has been sponged. If not, this must be attended to before cutting or every spot of water will leave a disfiguring mark. If caught in a shower the material will not only spot but the skirt may shrink an inch or two.

THE FANCY WAISTCOAT.

No matter how somber the costume, there are two ways of enlivening it. One is by wearing a fancy waistcoat of printed silk. The other is by throwing around your neck a scarf of printed crepe de chine.

THE BOYISH FIGURE.

To the despair of the well-rounded, the medieval page's figure is the fashionable one just now. The idea is to be as boyish in appearance as possible, no frills or furbelows or anything else breaking the straight, severe lines.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Irregular tunics are featured in spring coat dresses, and scalloped flounces are most effective.

Flowers are to be used lavishly on summer millinery, especially field flowers and roses in big bunches.

Blouses of English broadcloth are made more decorative by hemstitching and solid embroidery.

Short quills very wide at the end are seen on some of the newest sport hats.

The only alternative for the very short sleeve in the summer collection is the absolutely sleeveless model.

Front fullness for frocks is being stressed by a number of French houses, but the plain flat-back effect is almost invariable.

Detachable linings of white silk that may be worn as a separate wrap are shown with some of the newest black silk wraps.

Crepe de chine collar and cuff sets are corded on the edge or outlined with two or three different shades of narrow grosgrain ribbon.

Nightgowns made of two or three layers of vari-colored chiffon are finished simply with a picot edge or a ribbon binding.

A white sports skirt that is extremely practical is knitted so as to resemble pleating. The skirt is placed upon an elastic at the belt.

Chambray blouses with mannish bosoms of fine tucks are shown in most fascinating colors and will take well with the strictly tailored suit.

Flat silk braid in contrasting or harmonizing colors is a favorite method of trimming the serge or jersey frock that is to be given hard service.

English prints and flowered cretonnes make very summery-looking frocks that need only gay ribbon girdles or lingerie collars and cuffs in the way of trimming.

A STRIKING ORNAMENT.

Some of the new sports costumes are so very Scotch in plaid and atmosphere that they have even adopted the picturesque sporran. It makes a striking ornament, this big tuft of black and white fur hanging down the front of the skirt.

SAVES LAUNDRY BILLS.

If you make your husband's or son's wash shirts with soft collars and cuffs, make two sets of collars. Sew two buttons on each sleeve and work two buttonholes in each cuff. You can then unbutton the cuffs to launder them. Make buttonholes in collar and shirtband. One wearing soils collar and cuffs. Using the other set the second day saves laundry bills.

MELON PILLOW.

The melon shaped pillow is effective when made up of taffeta silk. The pillow is made of four sections cut melon shape. Cut four sections of the size desired for the pillow. Sew these together, putting a cording of the taffeta silk in each seam. At the ends of the pillow fasten three or four corners made of triangles of the silk bound around the edge with a bias fold. To cover where the corners are sewed to the ends a bunch of silk fruit is used. The fruit may be made of silk of a different color from the pillow. Cut circles of silk, put a ball of cotton in the center and draw up the edges of the circle to cover the ball. Fasten the ends of the under side and on the top side take stitches with black embroidery silk couching the stitches around and around to form a circle. Sew the fruit in place at the ends of the pillow. The pillow may be filled with feathers or vegetable floss.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

In washing gray, black or dark blue materials, put salt enough to make a strong solution. This will set the color.

Wash your white silk stockings and gloves in water to which ammonia has been added—about a tablespoon to two quarts of water. This will prevent them from becoming yellow.

To iron men's soft collars, begin at the points and press toward the center of the back. This will prevent the unsightly wrinkles that are usually seen on home-laundered collars.

Cut up two or three pieces of paraffin saved from jelly jars. Put this in the wash boiler and you will be surprised at the whiteness of the clothes.

Never sprinkle pongee. Roll it in a towel while wet and iron it while it is still damp.

PROLONG FUR COAT'S LIFE.

The life of a fur coat may be prolonged several years with proper care.

An animal always shakes its fur vigorously after it has been out in the rain or snow—which is exactly what the woman should do who is wearing the animal's coat. The coat should then be hung on a padded hanger and allowed to dry slowly.

Animals also are their own 'dry cleaners.' They use the simple and effective method of rubbing sand thoroughly into their fur by rolling in it. The owner of a fur coat may clean hers by thoroughly rubbing similar materials into it.

Hot bran, sand or cedar and mahogany sawdust may be used for dark colored furs. White corn meal, salt, fuller's earth, cornstarch or powdered magnesia will clean white furs. The material should be rubbed thoroughly into the fur. It is removed by whipping with two pliable smooth sticks, after which the fur is brushed with a clothes brush or furrier's comb.

A fur coat may be mended at home, but a furrier's needle should be used, as it does not tear the skins as easily as a sewing needle. Mercerized cotton thread is good to use.

AGAIN IN DEMAND.

After several seasons when plain painted walls were considered most correct, figured and colored wall-papers are again very much in demand. A new idea being employed by decorators in houses of the English type is to use a gay chints design paper and apply several coats of shellac after the paper is hung. This tones down the colors to the mellow tones of an old oil painting, renders the paper practically everlasting, and gives a very warm background for furniture of dark Jacobean oak. Boldly designed cretonnes or other drapery fabrics should be avoided in rooms with boldly patterned wallpapers. Use plain materials or stripes in rooms with pattern on the walls.

All fabrics dry at least two shades lighter than they appear when wet after being dyed. It is therefore wise to dye a sample first, dry it and then make changes in the dye liquor if the color is not what you want. You may have to dilute the bath, or you may have to add more powder. If you aim for a very deep shade of color on light-colored material you had better build up the color, getting all you can the first time, and then beginning over again with a fresh dye bath. Then the material will not crack.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Miss Gladys Moore, an 18 year old Kentucky girl, is training to work for her father as a jockey.

Averaging only four feet nine inches, the women of Lapland are classed among the smallest in the world.

In practically every line of business in Denmark women enjoy the same pay and equal opportunities with the men.

Mrs. Albert Tasi of Shanghai, China, traveled 3,000 miles to see her husband graduate from Syracuse university.

Mrs. Goldie Breenwald of Cleveland, Ohio, is said to be the only woman who has bowled a perfect score in a match game.

LINEN CHEMISETTE.

A simple little chemisette of heavy linen has the popular Chinese monogram placed on the left side. These monograms appear upon an astonishingly wide range of objects this season.

FLOOR CUSHIONS.

Floor cushions that are new and striking are made of brilliantly colored leather, with large motifs in the centers carried out in Chinese embroideries. The cushions are of different sizes and shapes.

RECIPES.

Prune Cornstarch Pudding: Pick over and wash twelve prunes, soak one hour in one cup cold water and cook gently in same water until soft. Remove stones from prunes and put prunes in saucepan. Measure liquid, add enough water to make one cup. Add to prunes with half cup sugar and bring to boiling point. Mix one-fourth cup cornstarch with one-fourth cup cold water, add to prune mixture and stir and boil five minutes, then cook over hot water twenty minutes. Turn into individual molds, chill and serve with top milk, boiled custard or cream.

Corn Toast: Cook one-fourth tablespoon finely chopped onion with three tablespoons butter two minutes, stirring constantly, add three tablespoons flour, half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. When smooth add one cup canned corn and two cups milk, stir until mixture boils, simmer five minutes. Pour over six slices toast, sprinkle with paprika and serve.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sadly Needed in Ledyard.

Mr. Editor: We do not believe there is a town in Connecticut as sadly in need of a state road as Ledyard and as rumored all want it to come their way. But what is mostly needed is a road through the central district. Everybody coming through Ledyard will surely vouch for the sad condition of our highways. The people here pay their taxes, also the many automobile owners pay taxes on their cars and as there are splendid state roads in other towns why should we, only seven miles from New London, be left out by the state road commissioner. The people of Ledyard depend mostly on doctors of Mystic in time of sickness. The doctors hate to try to come up here as our roads are so miserable—back breakers would be a proper name to apply. Let us have a decent road anywhere through the center, and the people can feel we are citizens of the commonwealth of Connecticut.

F. W. MORGAN.
Gales Ferry, April 12, 1924.

Mr. Poreda's Answer.

Mr. Editor: Instead of apologizing, Alexander Poreda is greatly entitled to credit, as being the only one who has offered a communication in behalf of Modernism so-called." It is easily seen, however, that he does not even touch the arguments at issue in a defensive way. He refers us to Emerson and to Tolstoy for information.

Mr. Troland has some acquaintance with both men, but in matters of gospel they are not to be relied upon in comparison with the evangelists and the apostles.

If Emerson taught that "everything has two handles," we think it would require Mr. Emerson himself to tell on which side are the handles of Mr. Poreda's saucepan.

As to Tolstoy, his life and death proved that he never had religious balance, nor even some balance of mind. He wrote fiction, and one of his stories was entitled The Kreitzer Sonata. This book, for moral reasons, was banned, even in Russia, forbidden publication or to be read. We have read an English edition of it, and our judgment of him is, that he would have been of more account had he remained A Count (pardon the pun). Tolstoy will not go down to posterity, only as a warning, and he was in no sense a "modernist" or model, of the present type.

PATTERSON, THE TOLL COLLECTOR

John H. Patterson climbed to success at 40, then had to start over in a new business, while friends laughed at the business.

He disliked farming, but was born on a farm near Dayton, Ohio, and had to work on it, in spare time, until he was graduate from Dartmouth.

Then, no one wanted "to hire a college man," and a friend secured his appointment as toll collector on the Miami & Erie Canal; hours, 24 a day; days, seven a week; renumeration, $10 a week.

To make more money, he also sold coal. In six years he saved $2500, then bought a dying coal yard. Eight years later he and his brother owned several yards, mines and part of a railroad.

Then for big things. Eastern men were to finance the business into a gigantic company, and he sell the coal. The financing failed, and he got out, taking a heavy loss.

When he bought into the cash register company friends laughed so loudly that he offered $2000 to the seller to take back the stock. Then he learned that the basic patents were not included in the purchase.

Not a bookkeeper, a manufacturer or a mechanical equipment salesman, he, now 40 years old, started in the tottering business. He named it the National Cash Register Company. Within a year the company was insolvent, Patterson's methods were called crazy," and he had to sell his share in the old farm to buy out dissatisfied stockholders.

Business grew. Back came a big shipment of registers, defective through poor workmanship. Welfare work to promote efficiency, and plant enlargement caused all Dayton banks to shut down on his credit.

A New England financier advanced the money. Basic patents bought, his campaigns founded on the ownership resulted in his having to plead guilty, in court, to the technical charge of "conspiring to build a monopoly."

At the time of Patterson's death the National Cash Register Company had 10,000 employes and had sold 2,000,000 cash registers in every part of the world, and he was a multi-millionaire.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

If the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. T. Randall Davidson, decides to accept an invitation to visit America this summer the people on this side will have an opportunity of seeing the holder of the most important church office in England, one which dates back for hundreds of years before America was even discovered. The first Archbishop of Canterbury was Augustine, appointed A. D. 597. Seventy-five years of age, Dr. Davidson is a Scot—a curious fact when it is remembered that he is the head of the Church of England. No fewer than 25,000 clergy look to him for advice and spiritual guidance. For 20 years Dr. Davidson has been Archbishop of Canterbury. Fifty years ago he was a humble curate in the North of England. Previous to his elevation to the primacy in 1903 he was spiritual adviser to King Edward VII, as he had likewise been to Queen Victoria, to whom he administered the last rites of the church.

FUNERALS.

Fred B. Manning

At three o'clock Sunday afternoon the funeral of Fred B. Manning was held from Gager's funeral parlors with many relatives and friends in attendance including several from out of town. The employes of the Record where the deceased was so long employed, attended in a body and other organizations of which he was a member were represented.

The services were conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. There were many and choice floral remembrances. The bearers were from the Record and included Frank H. Pullen, Weston C. Pullen, James H. Hankins, foreman of the composing room and Alexis H. Charnetski, who succeeds Mr. Manning as foreman of the Record job department.

Burial was in the Manning lot in Yantic cemetery, where the committal service was by Rev. Mr. Abbott.

Dwight E. Smith.

Funeral services for Dwight E. Smith were held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the parlors of C. A. Gager at 70 Franklin street, relatives and friends attending. The service was in charge of Rev. W. D Hetherington of Preston City, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in Maplewood cemetery. The bearers were Frank Lathrop, Nathan Edwards, Adelbert Rudd and Warren Thompson. There were many beautiful floral tributes sent by loving relatives and friends. In the attendance were people from Fishers Island, N. Y., New London and other places.

Philip E. Thompson

Funeral services for Philip E. Thompson who died Thursday at his home at Oyster Bay were held there Saturday morning at 2 o'clock. The body arrived in New London shortly after noon and was brought to this city where a committal service was conducted at the grave in Yantic cemetery by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church. Relatives and friends attended the services at the cemetery.

Local arrangements were by Henry Allen & Son company.

PAID $50 FINE ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

When the continued case against Nicholas Doyle of Mentville came up in the police court on Saturday morning on a charge of reckless driving in crashing into an automobile at Norwich Town after coming around a curve at what is alleged to have been high speed, he was fined $50 and costs by Deput[illegible] H. Pettis. The accused paid $66.60.

The machine that he hit was one belonging to Herbert Sharkey of Jewett City, who at the time was at work on a staging at the new home of Rev. A. H. Abbott.

WEDDING.

Nott—Harris.

Miss Mildred Annie Harris, daughter of William E. and Grace Perkins Harris of 115 Broad street, Groton, was married Monday evening, March 31, at the rectory of Christ Episcopal church, Westerly, to William Edward Nott, son of the late James M. and Emma Rudd Nott of Morgan street, Groton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. Edgar Tebin, rector of the church. The witnesses were Mrs. William E. Harris, mother of the bride, and James P. Brady of Groton. The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Nott will be at 13 Broad street, Groton.

Davis—Bartlett.

With only immediate members attending, the marriage of Clarence Howard Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Davis of Franklin, and Miss Ruth Edwina Bartlett, took place Saturday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Edwina Morgan Bartlett, 87 Washington street. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, the double ring service being used. The couple were unattended. The attractive floral decorations were by Hawkins and the Wauregan house catered for the wedding supper that followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis are to reside in Franklin where the groom is engaged in farming. The bride, who has always lived in this city and has been employed in the Norwich Savings Society, received a large number of beautiful gifts from her many friends.

PASTOR SAYS IDEALISM CHARGES HISTORIC JESUS

"The Historic Jesus and the Christ Ideals" was the subject of an interesting sermon Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, when the pastor, Rev. A. N. Foster, spoke from the text Luke 19:42, If thou hadst even the things which belong to thy peace; but now they are hid from thine eyes.

In part he spoke as follows:

The tendency to idealize marks a precious faculty in the growth of character and in the development of society. Without it, we are at the mercy of the literalist and are awearied with the humdrum of routine; and yet, this faculty needs to be checked by judgment and guided by the reflective powers. We are prone to idealize places and persons. The rugged coasts of Scotland and the arches of Melrose Abbey mean more after we have read Sir Walter Scott. Abraham Lincoln, the world character who liberated the slaves, is a bit exalted above the estimate of the old associates who knew him in the Sangamon valley.

The character of Jesus has been idealized in many ways and has so been enabled to make a manifold appeal to the multitude of diverse races who have been converted to Christianity during the history of the last 3,000 years. The son of the village carpenter who "went about doing good" and teaching in parable and beatitude was made to become the Jewish Messiah and then, in Paul's doctrine, the man from heaven, the second Adam. Later, Greek philosophy and Roman tradition made of him the Mediator between God and heaven and earth and later still, medievalism made him the stern and wrathful judge at death. Modern Christology repeats Tennyson's words, "Ring in the Christ that is to be." This conception is not that of Dante, nor of Paul, nor the Jewish Messiah nor of the historic Jesus of Nazareth. It is the concept of ideal humanity, the mark of our later day and age, as the result of 20 centuries of struggle onward and upward. Although that ideal bears the name of Christ, in all frankness it should be realized that the ideals of the twentieth century are more intricate and comprehensive than those of a thousand years ago.

This continued process of exaltation even widens the separation between the disciple and his Lord. It results in defying the founder of a great religion and in imputing attributes to him which he never claimed for himself. Mindful of the tenderness of past human fellowship, we say, in grief and disappointment, with Mary, "They have taken away my Lord." The theologians may have intellectual acumen sufficient to explain doctrines but they are not the leaders of the daily life of humanity.

The narrative sketch of the life of Jesus, His appearance in the Temple at 12 years of age, His baptism, and the temptation in the wilderness, and His teaching throughout Galilee, culminate in His entrance into Jerusalem for the observance of the national festival of the Passover. As from the winding roadway He sees the city in the distance, in its glory enthroned among the hills, He keenly anticipates the triumph there of the selfish and malicious opposition to him and lamented that the people shall not know their own good and shall reject the message of the kingdom of peace and good will on earth. It is a story replete with human interest and of fascinating appeal to individual experience. We are drawn into sympathetic contact with the aspirations and the cherished convictions and we grieve in despair, or protest in hot resentment one whose prayer was that of forgiveness and whose gospel was to heal and to inspire.

We prize the story because it so human. To impute omnipotence to Jesus and to make Him God impeaches the record and robs the story of vitality and companionship. It then becomes a spectacular drama remote from our experience in trying to attain character.

If ever we appreciate the human life of Jesus, it is in the hour of gathering shadows and of deepening and threatening gloom. It is when he faces undaunted, the forces of worldliness and of evil and shows fidelity to His faith. In the simple story of the life of Jesus, we pause for a moment as we hear hosannas and watch the waving palms of eager followers and then in the distance we witness the gathering darkness of Calvary. Beyond that is the light of life eternal.

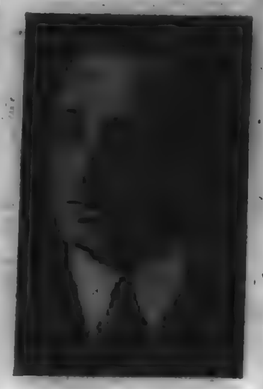
COUNTY ORGANIZATION FORMED FOR AMERICAN LEGION WORK



WILLIAM A. ANDERSON
District Commander

American Legion work in New London county will be pushed within the coming months as never before if the spirit of comradeship manifested at the district organization meeting held Sunday afternoon at the chamber of commerce rooms in New London is any proper sign.

Legionaires from New London, Norwich, Baltic, Mystic and Colchester attended the meeting assisted State Commander Eugene P. Armstrong of Waterbury to organize the district, New London county being the last county in the state to get underway in this great movement which Commander Armstrong has been working so hard to put over during his term of office.

In his talk Commander Armstrong told of the work of similar district organizations in the state and how they have tended to make all post members better acquainted, sponsored interpost meetings and aided in membership building. Thirteen of the ninety posts in the state, said Commander Armstrong have held their own during the past year, and I feel sure that others will soon be on the big side of the list. Where district organizations have been formed the membership and interest in legion work has increased; he said, and I feel certain that New London district will show a similar action when once organized.

Commander Armstrong then, with the assistance of the post members appointed the following district officers for the remainder of his term as state commander. District commander, New London district, William A. Anderson of Norwich; district vice commander, Theodore Anderson of Mystic; district adjutant, Harry W. House of Norwich; district treasurer, John H. Cruise of New London; district service officer, O. N. Arpin of Baltic; district Americanization officer, Henry E. Dorsey of New London; district historian, Clifford C. Oat of Norwich; district athletics officer, Al M. Allard of Baltic; district speaker, M. B. Payne of New London; district civic officer, Dr. George H. Jennings of Jewett City; district membership chairman, Webster D. Copp of Norwich; district publicity officer, Joseph C. Broadhurst, Norwich; W. R. Bliven, New London; Adelard LaFlesh, Baltic; Francis Shea, Colchester; John Tedford, Mystic; E. P. Knox, Jewett City; L. E. Carter, Old Lyme; George Fratus, Stonington.

Immediately after appointing officers it was voted to hold the next district meeting at the rooms of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, of Norwich, Sunday, May 11 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon when Commander Armstrong will be present to aid in the continuance of the work.

Commander Armstrong then spoke on the legion home problem stating that 70 per cent. of the posts in the state either owned or leased their own homes, and that an organization such as the American Legion needed a home in order to carry out the work of the legion. Speaking of Waterbury for an example he told of the great work that post was carrying on and how the people of that city in appreciation of the work done raised $80,000 for them to buy a home. This home he said, would be known as the American Legion home, but in it would be located the Red Cross, public health nursing headquarters, boy scout headquarters, and a home for all ex-service men of all wars. This is the type of home the American Legion wants, not one just for themselves, but for others, yet under the control of the legion.

Speaking of membership, Commander Armstrong said there was need of a great drive this spring to put over membership and sell the legion to every ex-service man. The state has been divided into brigades, each brigade into regiments, regiments into battalions and so on down until each post represents a company. Over all the officers whose duties it will be to watch over the work and see that things run smoothly. Prize cups will be awarded to the posts showing the largest numerical gain, and the largest percentage gain; each district will be awarded similar prizes and there will be small prizes for individual members making the best showing. These cups will be held for one year and must then be won in another competition.

Commander Armstrong then gave out publicity to be used in the coming drive from May 5th to 19th and all posts appointed officers for the drive. Those selected were as follows: First brigade, 3rd Regiment; Col. Webster D. Copp of Norwich, commanding; chief of staff, Lt. Col. William A. Anderson, Norwich; regimental adj. maj, Harry W. House, Norwich; First battalion, battalion commander, Maj. Jonathan L. Johnson, Norwich; battalion adjutant, Capt. F. J. Davis, Norwich. Post officers were then nominated as follows: Norwich, company commander, Capt. Clifford C. Oat; Jewett City, company commander, Capt. Dr. George H. Jennings; Baltic, company commander, Capt. Adelard LaFlesh; Colchester, company commander, Capt. George Cutler.

Second Battalion, battalion commander, Maj. Henry E. Dorsey, New London; battalian adjutant, Capt. Ovela Rheume, New London; post officers—New London company commander, Capt. Edward J. Bailey, Stonington, company commander, Captain Frank Matthews; Mystic, company commander, Capt. Theodore F. Anderson; Old Lyme, company commander, Capt. L. E. Carter.

In closing Commander Armstrong spoke of the Volture, better known as the Forty and Eights. Committees comprising the post commanders in New London county were elected to round out the members of their individual posts regarding membership and report back at the district meeting in Norwich on May 11th. It is expected that nearly 100 candidates will be in line for the Volture when members from all parts of the state come here to initiate the candidates. The French engine and freight cars, tanks, gatling guns and other articles used in the work will be brought to this district and on banner time will be arranged. Norwich members were very enthusiastic about the Volture and it is hoped to bring the initiation work to this city as Norwich is the central city in New London county and provides an ideal location for the work of the Volture.

THE C. A. R. DELEGATES TO HAVE A BUSY WEEK

NORWICH AERIE HAD SIX FOR INITIATION

The meeting of Norwich Aerie, No. 867, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held Sunday afternoon at the Eagles' home on Shetucket street, proved one of the best in recent months. A class of six candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the order by the state officers who were requested to take charge of the meeting by the local officers.

Tentative plans were made for the state convention which is to be held here on June 21st and arrangements are being made to accommodate the delegates who will attend the session.

Announcement was made of the nomination of officers which will take place on Monday evening, April 21st. Following the afternoon session there was a delightful entertainment arranged by the entertainment committee of the lodge and in the evening refreshments were served by the social committee.

VESTRY MADE GIFT TO GRACE CHURCH TREASURER

Palm Sunday was fittingly observed at Grace church, Yantic, beautiful palms being used to decorate the auditorium of the edifice. During the service the Palms, by Faure, was sung by Lawrence Hamilton who was in fine voice.

A surprise came when E. Ellen Bidwell, treasurer of the church, was presented a brief case by Rev. Robert B. Day, the rector. The gift was from the vestry in recognition of the many services rendered by Mr. Bidwell during his service to the church as treasurer.

In the evening the attendance was large and members of the church presented the Passion Play.

OBITUARY

Edward Browne

Edward Browne of 357 Main street, for the past 35 years city editor of the Norwich Evening Record, died during the night Friday at his home. Mr. Browne had been confined to the house for the past two months, his health having begun to fail a little more than a year ago. Earlier in the week he seemed somewhat stronger and was able to be up and around his home. Friday night he retired as usual and it was not until the next morning that his sister, upon entering his bedroom, found that he had passed away.

Mr. Browne was born in Norwich, June 11, 1856, the son of William T., and Elizabeth G. Browne. After attending local schools he entered the employ of the Norwich Bulletin, where he served his apprenticeship as a journeyman printer under William D. Manning, one of the founders of the Bulletin, and at that time head of the job department. Mr. Manning's son, Fred D. Manning, for 30 years in charge of the job department of the Record, whose death occurred Friday also learned his trade with the Bulletin, some years later than did Mr. Browne.

After leaving the Bulletin he entered the employ of the late Gordon Wilcox and later the Norwich Post Office, serving for a number of years as money order clerk. In 1889 he went to the Norwich Record as city editor holding that position at the time of his death.

Mr. Browne took an active interest in church affairs and was a charter member, organizer and first president of St. Joseph's Sodality and Literary association. Before the installation of St. Mary's convent, and the Sunday School being taught by the Sisters, Mr. Browne was for a number of years superintendent of the old St. Mary's Sunday School, and continued in that position for a number of years after the sisters took up the work in the parish. He had always been a member of St. Mary's parish and took great interest in the building of the new St. Mary's Memorial church. At the time of his death he was also an honorary member of Norwich Typographical Union, No. 100.

Mr. Brown was a student of public affairs and in his work of covering the courts made himself widely known, attorneys and judges throughout eastern Connecticut being well acquainted with him. For a long time, though not in recent years, he was Norwich correspondent for the New Haven Sunday Register.

Mr. Brown had those qualities so valuable in a newspaperman, accuracy a fund of general information and a wide acquaintance. His sense of humor was keen, and he had an equally keen appreciation of wit in others. No man was ever more modest than he in regard to his work; and while he had done many pieces of reporting and much general writing of exceptional merit, he always disclaimed any praise for his work.

Since the announcement of his death many facts indicating his kindness of heart and good fellowship are being recalled and gratitude is being expressed by many for whom he has done a good turn in his characteristic quiet and unobtrusive way.

He lived long enough to witness the surprising growth and development of his native town and his parish and not the least interesting of his newspaper stories were the comparisons which he was able to draw between earlier conditions and the present condition.

He was an all-round good citizen, an agreeable companion, one whose conscientious work brought him into touch with scores of the townspeople, who will remember his kindness and good-natured affability whenever his name is recalled.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Andrew Millea and Miss Elizabeth J. Browne and one brother, William T. Brown, all of Norwich.

Patrick B. Hanley.

Patrick B. Hanley, 70, died Saturday morning at his home, 5 Grove street, Mystic. Mr. Hanley, a native of Ireland, but for many years a resident of Mystic, had been ailing for the past ten or 12 years.

He was born in County Tipperary, Oct. 2, 1853, the son of Thomas and Hannah Bishop Hanley. Forty-seven years ago he came to this country, and during the majority of the time he had been a resident of Mystic. He had recently worked for the town of Groton in the highway department force. He was a member of Stonington lodge, I. O. O. F., of Mystic.

He is survived by his wife, Catherine Hanley, three sons, James F., Edward J. and William P. Hanley of Mystic, and a daughter, Mrs. James H Quinn, of Norwich.

Peter VerSteeg.

After an illnes of about three weeks the life of Peter VerSteeg, for the past two years superintendent of Mohegan park, occurred in this city shortly after noon Saturday. Mr. VerSteeg was taken ill about three weeks ago and it was at first believed he was suffering with the grip. Pleurisy later developed and other complications set in, causing his death.

Mr. VerSteeg was born in Holland, January 28, 1868, the son of Peter and Margaret Hasp VerSteeg. He received an excellent education in Holland and studied landscaping in Germany and France. On January 24, 1894 in Holland, he was united in marriage with Marguerite Ver Hoeff, who passed away in Norwich last December.

With his family he came to this country in 1900 locating in Galveston, Texas, where he followed his occupation. Later he went to Hackenstown, New Jersey, and after living in several cities in Long Island came to Norwich and purchased the business of F. J. Langenbach, who had his florist business in Lafayette street. Mr. VerSteeg continued in this business for a number of years, selling out two years ago, when, following the resignation of Edward Smith, he was appointed superintendent of Mohegan park.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frank Shea of Stamford and Miss Madeline VerSteeg, formerly of this city, but now of Stamford.

Mr. VerSteeg was a man of high ideals. In his chosen field he was an expert and under his guidance Mohegan park has been beautified, his work there being of the highest type. He made friends easily and leaves behind him many who will remember him as a kind friend and valuable public official.

Mrs. Joseph McNierney

Jan O'Reilly, widow of Joseph McNierney, died Saturday morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. Frank J. Murtha, 415 North Main street following a lengthy illness. Mrs. McNierney, who had resided with Mr. and Mrs. Murtha for the past 15 years had been suffering from heart trouble for several years and complications set in causing her death.

She was born in Belturbet, County Cavan, Ireland, 77 years ago, the daughter of Philip and Ann McKernan O'Reilly, and came to this country when three years of age, living with her parents in Jewett City. This was in the early days when Jewett City was a Catholic mission, and in those days Rev. J. J. McCabe celebrated mass every three weeks at the home of her parents.

About thirty years ago she was united in marriage with Joseph McNierney of Newport, N. Y., by the late Rev. John Talbot Smith, her nephew. Mr. McNierney died about 15 years ago in Newport, N. Y., and after his death Mrs. McNierney came to this city and since that time had resided at the home of her niece. She is survived by several nephews and nieces.

She was an ardent member of St. Mary's Memorial church and had many friends in this city who learned of her death with sorrow.

39TH ANNUAL BANQUET BY RHO ALPHA MU

The thirty-ninth annual banquet of Delta chapter, Rho Alpha Mu, the senior fraternity at the Academy, was held Saturday evening in a private room at the Wauregan house where covers were laid for thirty-five and the tables were beautifully decorated in the fraternity colors, blue and gold. The following was the menu:

Celery Olives
Chicken Broth
Filet of Sole au Vin Blanc
Roast Capon au Crasson

Potatoes Croquettes Stewed Corn
French Bread
Neapolitan Ice Cream Assorted Cakes
Demi Tasse

ADD SAVAGE

Russell P. Storms presided acceptably as toastmaster, expressing the welcome to the active and alumni members of the fraternity, and responses to toasts were made in an interesting way by John G. Haslam, Groevenor Ely, Jr., Lester H. Armstrong and Charles Amos Johnson. Attorney E. W. Perkins was honored by the fraternity by election as a grand officer.

Fraternity songs, with Bruce Rogers presiding at the piano, closed the enjoyable evening.

SERMON AND MUSIC OPEN HOLY WEEK

A congregation of over 700 assembled at St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday evening at 7.30 to attend the Lenten sermon and sacred concert to mark the opening of Holy week, although the blessing of the palms took place before the high mass at 10.30, the blessing being given by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, and the palms distributed during the services.

The sermon on Sunday evening was by the rector, Rev. William A. Keefe, in which he treated on the ceremonies pertaining to the services of Holy week. In pious, humble supplication all the ceremonies center around the services of Good Friday, with the veneration of the cross. The blessing of the Easter candle is placed in the sanctuary for the Easter period of 40 days and the five pieces of incense noted there represents the five wounds of Christ as His body hung on the cross.

The divinity of Christ, and the institution of the seven sacraments remain unchangeable "teaching all nations whatsoever I have commanded you."

Benediction of the blessed sacrament was given by Father Coholan.

The sacred concert was up to the usual high order. The soloists were all in exceptionally good voice, and interpreted their individual numbers with fine effect. St. Mary's can be congratulated upon having so many trained voices in the choir, whose music and singing is rapidly becoming recognized throughout the city. The choruses were most effective and harmonious throughout the program and were a distinctive feature of the evening.

Following was the program:

Haec Dies. Wiegand
Chorus.
The Palms. Faure.
H. La Fontaine
Ave Maria. Bach-Gounod
Miss Elinore Donovan
Oh, Lord, Heal Me! Mozart
Nicholas Spellman and Quartette.

ACADEMY TEAM OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER ALL-COLLEGIANS

The baseball season at the Norwich Free Academy was opened Saturday afternoon with a victory for the school boys over the Alumni team, the school boys nosing out the oldtimers in a ninth inning rally by a score of 17 to 16. The game while only a practice game for the Academy squad was none the less interesting as there was much hard hitting by both teams.

The first team that was put in the field to represent the Academy was a smooth working combination in the field and a hard hitting aggregation on the attack. This team held the Alumni to two runs while they piled up nine runs in the five innings that they played. It was not until the second team was put in the field that the Alumni were able to score heavily. The first team had Segal in the box with Hollander doing the backstop work. This combination did exceptionally well, Segal having good control and some deceptive breaks on the ball. On first base Burke handled the position with ability and in exceptionally good form. "Midget" Tombari was at second with McGowan working with him in the short field. Pint McNamara was at third. In the outfield Jack Hinricks was in left, while Busch took care of center and Strickland and performed at right. This outfield trio showed up well, especially Busch who made one fine running catch of Murphy's drive. Strickland and Hinricks hit well as did the rest of the team.

When the second team went into the field there was a decided change in the appearance of the Academy team. Steinman went in to pitch and while he seems to have fairly good curves and quite some speed the Alumni players were able to hit him more freely and harder that they did Segal. Mileski did the catching. Geo performed at first with Goldblatt at second, Haslam at short and Cimilotte at third. In the outfield was Covey in left, Kilroy in center and Pitt at right. Couture pitched the last two innings for the Academy. Couture was very wild and a large number of the runs made by the Alumni team were the result of his free passes.

The Alumni team played as good ball as could be expected and should have won had not they blown up in the last inning and allowed the Academy team to score six runs, enough to win the game. Stanley pitched the first four innings and was relieved by Long John Keenan. The features of the game were two home runs, one by Bill Ringland and the other by Ed Harris. Jimmy Cafferty played an exceptionally fine game in the outfield.

The real fielding sensation of the game was the one-hand running catch by Covey of Cafferty's hard hit ball in the outfield. The drive was labeled for a home run until Covey spoiled it by making his sensational play.

ALEXANDER, DEAN OF PITCHERS, STILL GOING STRONG

Chicago, April 13.—The masterful control which made Grover Cleveland Alexander famous appears to at ll be with the veteran Chicago National League pitcher, according to training camp reports. Alex faced Wichita Falls club of the Texas league last Sunday for four innings, allowing one hit to twelve batters with no bases on balls and he pitched just 20 balls. When he retired to give some of his mound pupils a chance to show how well they had absorbed his instructions.

One of Alexander's records not in the books was his feat last season of pitching 21 1-3 consecutive innings without a base on balls—and then "Billie" Walker walked.

Alex, who was 37 years old on February 26 last, has been pitching since 1909 when he started at Galesburg, Illinois. He was sold to Indianapolis for the next season but before he reported was injured and they sold him to Syracuse in 1910. The Philadelphia Nationals drafted him for 1911, and they sold him to Chicago in 1917, along with his battery mate, Bill Killifer, who now manages the Cubs.

Killifer says Alexander's reputation as the "king of control" is due entirely to his wonderful condition at all times, and not the least of his value to the cubs, Killifer declares, is his eagerness to teach his stuff to the youngsters.

Alexander began his training this year in February and appears sure to realize his ambition for still another successful season.

A FEW MINOR CHANGES IN BASKETBALL RULES

New York, April 13.—Minor changes in the basketball playing code to assure a greater uniformity in interpretation and to eliminate wholesale fouling were made today by the Joint Basketball Rules Committee representing the A. A. U., the International Y. M. C. A., and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

While the changes will not materially affect the style of the amateur game as it is now played, they will tend to clarify the code by shifting the burden of proof to the offense instead of the defense, thereby giving officials a tangible basis for a decision instead of making technical violations a matter of judgment.

The most important change from the player's point of view makes guarding from the rear where there is resultant contact a personal foul. This makes the rule more binding and decision become mandatory instead of arbitrary.

The rule pertaining to running with the ball was clarified by specifying that the ball must leave a player's hand before the pivot foot leaves the floor. The word "pivot" was defined for the first time to enable an official to discriminate against pivoting and "making progress with the ball."

The jumping rule which compels a player to have his hand behind his back while jumping was modified so in the event the offended team gets possession of the ball after the violators play shall continue without interruption but in the event the team making the violation gets possession of the ball the infraction shall be called.

A substitute who has been sent into the game must actually participate before he can be withdrawn. The time element in games played in quarters was changed so that between the first and third quarters but one minute shall elapse.

The duties of the umpire were expanded so that an umpire can call out of bounds on his side of the court and can also toss the ball up in scrimmage; but in divisions of opinion as to rulings pertaining to fouls the referee shall be supreme.

The matter of changing the scoring to make a field goal count three points and a foul one was brought up and discussed to some length but was pigeonholed.

The following officers were reelected: Chairman, William H. Ball, New York City; secretary, George T. Hepburn, New York City; treasurer, Ralph Morgan, Philadelphia; editor, Oswald Tower, Andover, Mass. The 1925 meeting will be held in New York on the first Friday and Saturday in April.

EARLY CLOSING EVENTS ON BAY STATE CALLED OFF

Springfield, Mass., April 13.—Entries to the early closing events on the various tracks of the Bay State circuit fell off to such an extent this year that several of the secretaries have had to declare off advertised stakes because of the lack of entries, a condition unparalleled in the ten years' existence of the Bay State chain.

This was disclosed at the annual spring meeting of the circuit at the Hotel Bridgeway Saturday, held for the purpose of announcing the entries which closed last Monday.

Four Tracks Hit Hard.

Greenfield, Worcester, Kingston and Marshfield were the hardest hit although every track in the circuit felt the lack of horses to a certain extent, while the entry at Norwich did not come up to the one received in that city two years ago.

Greenfield has declared off its open 2 year old trot, the year old and under pace and the 2.13 trot for lack of entries. The 2.15 trot, a $2,000 stake, was also declared off but has been reopened for $1,000. The 2.09 pace for $2,500 was closed but has been reopened for $1,000.

Worcester declared off its 2 year old pace and 2.13 trot and closed the 2.16 trot and 2.16 pace only to reopen them for $1,000 purses.

Norwich declared off its 2 year old pace and 2.16 trot but has reopened the latter as a $1,000 stake. Entries for the reopened events will close May 10.

Kingston has declared off all its stakes with the exception of the 2 year old contract, which received just enough of an entry to warrant going on with it.

Marshfield declared off all three of its stakes and will give only class races at its meeting.

Readville was not represented and no report was given on its second meeting although it was stated that the entry for the June session at the two minute track was satisfactory.

The 2 year old pace, an experiment on the circuit this year, was declared off by every track that had announced such an event.

Those who attended follow, every track being represented with the exception of Readville; M. W. Delaney, Avon; Allan J. Wilson, and S. J. Orr, Windsor; C. A. Nash, Springfield; David H. Mulcahy and H. Dickinson, Northampton; Roger Rourke and John H. Murphy, Greenfield; Edward Moulton and Ernest Gray, Worcester; Albert J. Bailey, Norwich; Milton M. Mason and George McKenney, Kingston; E. G. Trimper of the Connecticut State Agricultural society and W. H. Gocher.

MAYDAY STAKES OPEN FOR THE THIRD TIME

Lexington, Ky., April 13—The Kentucky trotting horse breeders' association announces that for the third time it is offering the Mayday stakes, with a guaranteed value of $10,000 for two year old trotters at the October meeting here. The stake was inaugurated in 1922 when it reached a total value of $13,250 and was won by T. D. Taggart's the Senator, with Jane Revere, owned by Frank Ellis, second, and W. H. Harlan's Gulf Breeze, third. The winning horse was driven by Alonzo McDonald with Ben White and John Thomas piloting the second and third horses, respectively.

The 1923 stake was for $11,000, Guy Richard, owned by L. Oettinger and driven by Walter Cox, won with Mr. McElwyn, owned by N. L. McCourtie, driven by Ben White, second. Third place went to W. M. Wright's Traux piloted by Dick McMahon. Previous conditions apply again this fall and permit two horses owned or trained by the same owner or stable to start. They also permit the Nominator to make an indefinite number of entries.

The race is to be in mile heats, 2 in 3, and the money will be divided, $6,500 and surplus, if any, to the winner; $2,000 to the second, $1,000 to the third and $500 to the fourth horses.

NO CHANGE IN REDS' LINEUP THIS YEAR

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 13. — The Cincinnati Reds will open the championship season at home on Tuesday with exactly the same team which went through last year and finished in second place, except that the pitching staff has been strengthened by the addition of Carl Mays, former star of the Yankees; Jakie May, crack southpaw from the coast league, and Tom Sheehand, from St. Paul, leading pitcher of all minor leagues last season.

How It's Done in the Majors

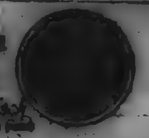
By Frank Frisch



The score is 0-0. Last half of the third inning. Runners on first and second. None out.

Where and how should second baseman play to be of greatest value to his team?

In this situation the second baseman should play over toward first base, so as to be able to back up first baseman, who is playing in for a bunt, the natural play for the batter to make. This also permits him to field any ball the batter may hit into right field. Second baseman should always have a sign with the catcher to try to catch man off second base. When the catcher gets this signal he will call for a pitch out from the pitcher.

In case of a bunt to either the third baseman or to the pitcher along the first base line, the second baseman takes their throws at first base, as the first baseman seldom is able to get back to his bag in time to take them himself.

SURPRISES IN BULKELEY INTERCLASS BALL GAMES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 13.—Two surprise victories were registered in the Bulkeley interclass games played at Morgan Park Saturday morning. The freshmen sprang a surprise on the unsuspecting sophomores and defeated the second year men by a 3 to 1 score. In the second game of the morning the juniors, by sending the seniors down to a 5 to 1 defeat, registered the second surprise victory. Both the seniors and the sophomores entered the game a rolled favorite but the fact that they were defeated goes to show just how much the advance dope as given out by the team managers can be relied upon.

In defeating the sophomores, the freshmen showed unusual baseball form. They were forever on the alert to pounce upon a ball that was hit either in the air or on the ground. The sophomores on the other hand played listlessly behind the pitching of Montali, a varsity prospect, and this twirler was forced to retire in the fourth inning in favor of Philian, who held the frosh well in hand for the remainder of the contest. He had a fast ball that whizzed by the bats of the freshmen and after his performance on the diamond Saturday he was told to report for the varsity Monday.

Locke, another varsity prospect, twirled an airtight game for the first year men, holding the hitting sophs well in hand during the entire seven innings of play. He received good support and deserved to win.

The junior-senior game was a grudge battle rather than a game. The fact that the 1925 men won by a 5 to 1 score is proof enough that the seniors were completely outclassed from the start.

The seniors started off well by scoring one run in the first inning and going into the lead. But the juniors took this lead back again in the next inning and added two more runs to their total for good measure. From then on it was all juniors, the seniors being in the background for the remainder of the contest.

Alec Taylor, who occupied the mound for the third year men, was a puzzle to the boys that will graduate this year. He had the seniors eating out of his hand, literally speaking. Murphy, for the seniors, also pitched a good game but errors with men on the bases proved to be his downfall. Murphy was inclined to be wild at times also and hit several juniors with the ball, giving them a free base.

If a stranger had been watching the game between the seniors and the juniors and he saw 'Cow Tail' Davis leading Lonergan, the elongated junior third baseman, down, when these players want into a heap when Lonergan tried to steal third base, he would form a good opinion of the intense rivalry that exists between the two classes. This game was for blood and the situation narrated above was only one of the funny situations that took place when these teams took the field against each other.

The next inter-class game will probably be on Tuesday afternoon.

LARGE ENTRY LIST FOR OHIO RELAYS

Columbus, April 13—Two score universities, colleges and high schools were entered today as the advance guard of participants in the Ohio relays to be inaugurated here next Saturday in the Ohio state stadium. Entries put in the mail up to midnight tonight are expected to swell the list well beyond the sixty mark, according to C. M. Trautman, assistant athletic director at Ohio State University, in charge of the meet.

Seven states are represented by the early entries and others are expected tomorrow.

Judging from the entries already in, the triathlon promises to be one most popular events. The triathlon is all around con sist in put on so far is known for the first time at an Ohio relays in which weight men will compete in special events, entries for the pentathlon, modeled on the Olympic pentathlon, also have been heavy.

Drawings for pole and lane positions in the relay races will be held about the middle of the week according to Trautman. The complete program of the meet calls for 46 events, all of which will be contested Saturday afternoon.

CHICAGO OWNERS HOPEFUL FOR THEIR TEAMS IN RACE

Chicago, April 13.—With Frank Chance who piloted the Chicago Cubs to four pennants 15 years ago, as the new manager of the Chicago Americans, President Comiskey of the White Sox predicted his team would be "up there fighting." The principal change in the Sox lineup will be appearance of Shortstop Dashiell of Shreveport, (Texas league.) Joe Rabbitt, from Muskogee, may yet force one of the veteran outfielders to the bench, and Assistant Manager Johnny Evers, who conducted the spring training feels that many of the young pitchers carried by the Sox last year are about ready for regular turns in the box, especially Blankenship, Leverette and Cvengros, a southpaw.

Willie Kamm, last year's $100,000 third baseman, appears now as one of the most reliable of the veterans, though of far less experience than Eddie Collins, still the keystone premier, Catcher Ray Schalk and Hooper, Grunau and Mostil in the outer gardens.

President Veeck of the Cubs thinks the Giants have weakened just enough to make the National league race a great free-for all between New York, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago. He declared the Cubs would be in the running from the start, "with much stronger pitching than favored us last season."

Alexander in his 16th season, appears as strong as ever with Aldridge good for 20 victories, Veeck thinks, supported by Kaufman, Keen, Wheeler and Jacobs. Miller, Statz and Heathcote will be present again in the outfield, while "Sparky" Adams, will likely become regular shortstop since Holtecher failed to come to terms. Grimes, Grantham, and Friberg, all classed by Manager Killefer as heavy hitters besides sparkling fielders round out the infield.

LIVELY BOXING BOUTS AT SUB BASE TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 13.—The Submarine Base will be the scene of some lively boxing bouts that will be held at the reservation Tuesday evening at 8 p. m. Five bouts are on the card and the championships of the middleweight, featherweight, welterweight, lightweight and heavyweight classes will be decided. There are three grudge fights in the five and these are expected to be the top liners. All in all it will be a good evening's entertainment and a record crowd is expected.

Besides the boxing bouts there will be some singing between the bouts. The various singing programs are of the highest order and in the last smoker held at the Base, these men were called out several times to repeat their numbers.

The Bulkeley High school baseball team plays the Engineers of the Submarine Base Dungaree league at 4.15 Tuesday afternoon. After the game is over the high school students will take in the boxing bouts.

The program for the evening is as follows:

Community singing by Horne, Yeo. 8c; boxing bout, for middleweight championship of Submarine Base, Kechelis, S-16 vs. Pankowits, 1st Lt. Dept., 4 rounds; songs by Base quartet; boxing bout for featherweight championship of Submarine Base, Anderson, S-1 vs. O'Rourke, Marine Det., 4 rounds; duet by Curran and Faldermeyer; boxing bout for welterweight championship of Submarine Base, Kearney, Torpedo Shed vs. Whitely, S-1, 4 rounds; recitation by Braun; boxing bout for lightweight championship of Submarine Base, Woods, 1st Lts. Dept. vs. Antonello, Bar., 4 rounds; community singing, led by Horne, Yeo. 2c; boxing bout for heavyweight championship of Submarine Base, Murphy, Brig vs. Gifford, Sick Bay, 4 rounds.

BOSTON TEAMS GREATLY STRENGTHENED THIS YEAR

Boston, April 13.—Two greatly strengthened Boston Baseball clubs will take the field next Tuesday when the big league schedules open, according to the consensus of opinion of veteran observers. Both clubs have new managers Dave Bancroft, ex-Chicago shortstop, succeeding Fred Mitchell at the helm of the National league club, and Lee Rohl, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, piloting the Red Sox in place of France Chance.

The Red Sox "will finish high in the pennant race," is the opinion of Manager Fohl. Although Manager Bancroft of the Braves a manager for the first time, has refrained from predictions, old baseball men and observers see in the Braves a club with a new spirit, no longer a seventh place team.

The Red Sox, under the new owners headed by President Robert Quinn, have added Wambsganss, formerly Cleveland second sacker, and Dudley Lee, brilliant young shortstop, to the infield, and have added Steve O'Neill, Cleveland veteran, to the catching staff. Bobby Veach, free hitting ex-Tiger has joined the outfield. The batting power of the club is rated 15 points higher as a result of trades. The capable Ehmke, heads a sturdy pitching staff.

The addition of Tierney former Phillie, at second and Bancroft at short, have fortified the Braves' infield. Jack Kelleher is filling the gap at third caused by the death of Tony Boeckel, led by Gansvich, Marquard and Jess Barnes, the pitching staff is reported stronger than a year ago. The outfield, however, is hit by the loss of Mixon and the temporary absence of Felix still weak from an operation.

BORG BEATS RECORD FOR 400 METRES SWIM

Honolulu, April 13.—Arne Borg, Swedish swimming champion, today swam 400 metres open water style, in four minutes, 50 seconds, finishing first in this event in the Hawaiian sectional Olympic tryouts. The race was over a 50 metre course. Borgs time is compared with that of Weissmuller of 5:6 2-5 for the same open water distance. Weissmuller's record for the 75 yard tank is 4.57.

Sam Kahanamoku and Warren Kealoha tied for second place with Borg, but were 40 metres behind the winner. W. K. Muimaikani came within a fifth of a second of the American record for 200 metre breast stroke, his time being 3:2 2-5.

WITH SISLER BACK BROWNS WILL BE STRONGER

St. Louis, Mo., April 13. — With George Sisler back at his old position at first base the St. Louis Browns will present a squad little changed from that of 1923 when they open the American league season at Chicago, Tuesday. There is one modified problem in the Brownie line-up at third base, which Frank Ellerbe appears to have taken over, with Gene Robertson, star of the southern trip, to stand relief. The work of Herbert Pruett, southpaw from Missouri university, warrants the belief that he will greatly aid the veterans Urban Shocker and Elam Vangilde, in the pitching department. Sisler announced he will use Pat Collins more frequently this season to relieve Catcher Hank Severeid. The Williams-Jacobsen-Tobin outfielder combination of five years' standing can be relied on to carry out their part of the program.

Rogers Hornsby has already commenced his walloping tactics for the Cardinals, bringing in the only run against the Browns yesterday with a four base drive. Several new faces appear in the Cards' line-up due to the injury of Tubby Clemons, catcher, and the hold-out of Milton Stock. Three youngsters, Vick Neibergall and Holm, are bidding for places in the catching department, while Freigau and Lester Bell are scheduled to cover the third sack.

SENATORS BANKING ON JOHNSON TO PULL THROUGH

Washington, April 13.—As Walter Johnson goes the Washington American league baseball club usually goes and this year the management believes the veteran speedball king is to have one of his best years.

Beginning his eighteenth season with the club, Johnson this spring has shown better form than for some years past, and he will be aided by a promising corps of assistants, including Mogridge, Zachary and Russell, veterans, and McGraw, Zahniser, Marberry, Wingfield, Martina and Speece, younger twirlers.

The catching staff, headed by Ruel, has been strengthened with the addition of Tate from Memphis of the Southern Association and Rice and Goslin, outfielder, will be joined by either Fisher from the Eastern league, or Smith, a hard-hitting North Carolina recruit, or Leibold.

Stanley Harris, major league baseball's youngest manager, will play second base, and Judge and Peckinpaugh, veterans, will also be in the infield. Prothro, from Memphis, will start the season at third base.

The club is weak in reserve strength especially in the infield.

PROMINENT ATHLETIC STAR IS LOST TO HARVARD

Cambridge, Mass., April 13.—Joe McClone, Harvard three-sports man, is lost to crimson athletics for all time. Recently an old knee injury began to trouble him and doctors said that further play would necessitate a serious operation and a knee a sophomore was expected to play possibly stiffened for life. McClone, second base on the baseball team. He was track man and a backfield man in football. His loss together with that of Captain Percy Jenkins, shortstop, similarly injured and Ken Hill, leading pitcher, ill with erysipelas, has dealt Harvard's baseball prospect a severe blow.

MACK AND FLETCHER ARE OPTIMISTIC ABOUT TEAMS

Philadelphia, April 13.—On the eve of the opening of big league baseball the local managers were looking forward with confidence to the coming campaigns. Connie Mack is hopeful of a first division berth while Arthur Fletcher is certain that his team will emerge from the cellar.

Mack, leader of the Athletics, was far from discouraged over losing the city series with the Phillies and expects his team to hit its real stride Tuesday.

"My team is much stronger this year," Mack said, "and I look forward to staying in the race from start to finish. Our biggest problem is in the pitching box and if the hurlers come through as I expect them we will fool some of the critics."

Fletcher also is optimistic. "During the winter we have made a few changes that helped a lot," said Fletcher, "and now are ready to go out and do our best in the National league race. I am certain that the team will show to better advantage during 1924 and if the pitchers deliver we will be far from the cellar at the finish."

GIANTS TAKE EASY GAME FROM THE WHITE SOX

Chicago, April 13. — While various baseball officials throughout the country were prognosticating a prosperous season for 1924, close to 21,000 baseball fans turned out today to see the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox close their exhibition tour. The National league pennant winners won the final game, 7 to 1, and took the series, six games to five, with one game tied.

Young Virgil Barnes and the veteran Joe Oeschger did mound duty for the Giants and although the former was hit freely, he was given wonderful support. On the other hand Chicago used four men on the mound, the Giants bunching their hits behind some loose twirling. Rhesly banged a homer and a double while Willie Kamm, the $100,000 Coast league beauty connected for three doubles and McClelland and Falk made one each. The Giants did no extra base hitting.

MISS WILLS STARTS FOR EUROPE ON MAY 7TH

Berkeley, Calif., April 13.—Helen Wills, national women's tennis champion, will leave Berkeley for her European campaign May 7, it was announced today. Miss Wills will arrive in New York May 13 and sail on the Berengaria May 14. On board ship a back stop will be erected for her that she may continue practice.

Following her arrival in England May 20 Miss Wills will play in the international matches in England and in the Olympic games in France. Her mother will accompany her.

MEUSEL'S HOMER FEATURES YANKS' WIN OVER BROOKLYN

New York, April 13.—Bob Meusel's home run with the bases full features the New York Yankee 6-4 victory over Brooklyn here today in the final game of the spring series which the world's champions won, four games to one, with one game tie. Score:

DIXIE FIVE BEATS WESTERLY TEAM AGAIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, April 13.—Westerly's basketball season is drawing to a close as the baseball season opened and was evidenced by the falling off in the attendance at Saturday night's basketball games, a double header in the armory on Dixon street, with about five hundred present. The first game was between the Westerly All Stars and the Stonington A. V. A. A. Jrs., which resulted in a score of 16 to 11 in favor of the All Stars. A second game was a return meet between the Battery B boys and the Dixie Speed Boys of Hartford and resulted in a score of 32 to 24 in favor of the "wee boys" from the Charter Oak city.

Basketball fans who had predicted a close game between the Battery B team and the Dixie Speed Boys of Hartford had their predictions fulfilled Saturday night in the second match of the season between these teams. In the first game the Dixie Boys met the Battery players in their armory on Saturday, February 9, 1924, and defeated them 40 to 12. The outcome of last Saturday night's game was a defeat for the Battery by the same margin but the lower score of 32 to 24.

The Battery started the game with Torrey in center and the remainder of their lineup as usual. McCloy and Torrey each caged three baskets in the first half; the former, one on a fine throw from the center of the hall. For the Dixies, Hofferth and Waterman caged a basket each and the third basket by Hofner tied the score at ten each. His fourth basket again tied the score at twelve each following McCloy's fine shot. Plympton's basket sent the Battery to fourteen and Hofferth of the Dixies tied the score again, fourteen all, where the half ended.

Torrant went in as left forward, Mantelli being substituted for Right Guard Hofner, and in the same period Dionne replaced Shortman at left guard. Torrant caged the first ball of the period and his team scored rapidly until the game stood 26 to 18 in the visitors' favor. Stenhouse replaced Torrey and his basket gave the Battery boys 28. Two more points were added by a fine shoot of the same player. A very good side shot by Murphy following Waterman's basket ended the scoring for the game.

The score of the Battery-Dixie game follows:

| Battery B. | | Dixie Speed Boys. |
|---|---|---|
| Plympton | ..... | Mantelli, Torrant |
| | | Left Forward |
| Spencer | ..... | Murphy |
| | | Right Forward |
| Torrey, | Stenhouse | ..... Hofferth |
| | | Center |
| Shortman, | Dionne | ..... Waterman |
| | | Left Guard |
| McCloy | ..... | Hofner, Mantelli |
| | | Right Guard |

Scoring—Battery B: Field goals, Plympton 1, Torrey 4, McCloy 5, Stenhouse 2; fouls 0.

Dixie Speed Boys: Murphy 3, Hofferth 3, Waterman 3, Hofner 4, Torrant 2, Mantelli 1; fouls 8.

Referee, D. Harold Rogers; time-keeper Grieg; scorers, Bamford, Cunningham; attendance 500; two twenty minute halves.

Score by periods:

Valiants Win First Game.

The Valiants, a newly organized baseball team, won the first game of the season Sunday afternoon at Mohegan park when the Greeneville Pendleys were defeated by a score of 11 to 10 in a ten inning battle. The battery for the Valiants was Blum, Vitgliano, Shea and Mingo. The battery for the Recedales was Ryan, Tennant and Carp. The winning run in the tenth inning came as a result of a two base hit by Mingo who scored on Morin's single. The Valiants are looking for Sunday games with teams averaging 16 years of age. Write to Box 41, Norwich, Conn.

Stonington Out For Practice.

Coach John F. Gallagher of the Stonington High school baseball team, who was the coach last year of the Westerly High school team, has returned home from New York. Thursday and Friday he had the players out for practice and reports them as showing up well. The chief difficulty encountered seems to be in the development of a pitcher but it is reported that this berth will be filled and the Stonington boys look forward to a successful season.

Volleyball Game Tonight.

A match game of volleyball is scheduled between the Riverview team and the Y. M. C. A. senior pickups, to be played on the "Y" court tonight at 8.15. The men's gym class will be conducted as usual as only one of the volleyball courts will be used in the match game.

PLAINFIELD HIGH BEATS CHAPMAN TECH IN OPENING GAME OF SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, April 13.—A ninth inning rally won a ball game for Plainfield Saturday afternoon in Moosup against Chapman Tech. Boyl's single with Bibeault on third base, decided a close and well fought contest. The final count was 5 to 4 in favor of Coach Sullivan's charges.

For five innings a pitching duel was in progress with Cruise of Chapman Tech having the edge on Bibeault the Plainfield hurler. During the five innings only one run was made by either team and that was by Hewitt for Chapman Tech. Both pitchers weakened in the sixth and Bibeault allowed two runs to the Red and Black, while the Plainfield team touched up Cruise for four hits and gained a tie score.

Both Bibeault and Cruise, the rival moundsmen, hurled a good game. Bibeault for Plainfield pitched a stronger game than his rival from New London, but errors at critical times almost spoiled his chances for a victory. While not such a fielding team, Plainfield has some good hitters and this team must be reckoned with, when some of the other high school teams stack up against it. Bibeault allowed but four clean hits during the entire contest and struck out eight men, two less than did his rival, Cruise.

Cruise, for the Tech gave a good exhibition of pitching for the first five innings. He was strong in the pinches and on several occasions he applied the brakes when a run seemed imminent. Cruise struck out ten of the Plainfield batsmen and held the upper hand in the early stages of the contest. Although he made a strong beginning he made a poor ending and had to accept defeat, the first of the season.

The fielding of the Tech team was by far better than that of the Plainfield nine. Only one error was made by the Tech team while Painfield had eight errors charged up against it.

Hewitt for Chapman Tech was the first man to touch up Bisoault for a it. His single through the box came in the second inning and paved the way for the first Tech run. He stole second and advanced to third when Allard threw wild trying to get him stealing. When Forace grounded to second, Hewitt scored.

Plainfield threatened to break into the run column in the second when Allard connected for a triple with two down. Briggs fanned, however. In the third Plainfield again threatened to tie up the game and had two men on the paths.

The break in the Plainfield ranks came in the sixth inning when two runs were scored by the Tech team. Duhaime led off with a line single to right field, but was out, failing to touch first, after Allard threw wild trying to catch him at the initial sack on the throw-in by the right fielder. French erred on Cruise's grounder and all hands were safe when Cruise beat out Gallup's throw to second on Hewitt's tap to that position. Here Courbois poked a single to center field and Cruise dented the scoring disk and Hewitt went to third on the throw to the plate. Courbois advancing to second. After Forace fanned, Crouch scored Hewitt when Gallup fumbled his grounder, all hands being safe. Bibeault struck out McDonald and the rally was at an end.

Plainfield had a little party all by themselves in the last half of the sixth. French doubled to center, Moranville singled, Williams profited a hit to center, Gallup was safe on Farace's error and a single by Allard accounted for three runs, the necessary amount needed for a tie score.

The Tech went out in front in the seventh when Zapranick was hit by a pitched ball and was sacrificed all the way round to third base. Gallup's error on Cruise's grounder brought in Zaparanick.

No scoring was done until the ninth by Plainfield. Tyler, batting for Wallace, was granted first base when he was hit by a pitched ball. A balk by Cruise brought him to second, Bibeault singled to right, advancing Tyler to third. A wild pitch by Cruise scored Tyler and brought Bibeault to third from where he scored on Boyle's single through the box.

Allard's hitting for Plainfield was good. He connected safely three times out of four times at bat, one of his hits being for a triple. Boyle for the team was also good both in the field and at the bat. His hit winning the contest for the orange and Black.

Duhaime, McDonald and Hewitt played a good game for the losers.

ATTORNEY FRANK Q. CRONIN DIES IN NEW LONDON SUNDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 13—Frank Q. Cronin, 43, prominent local attorney died early this morning at his home, 83 Nathan Hale street of pneumonia, death ending an illness of but a few days. Mr. Cronin was the son of Jeremiah D., and the late Annie Q. Cronin. Besides his father Mr. Cronin is survived by his widow, Agnes Rizutto Cronin and by two brothers, Daniel M. Cronin, prosecuting attorney of the New London police court and Dr. William D. Cronin, a well known physician of this city. Mr. Cronin was a member of New London lodge of Elks, being a past exalted ruler. He was well and favorably known and the announcement of his death brought expressions of sincere regret and sympathy from a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Cronin suffered a severe cold a week ago, but not until last Tuesday were any serious results anticipated. He was at his office Tuesday and the following day he was compelled to take to his bed, as pneumonia had developed. His condition rapidly became worse and Friday night he lapsed into a state of coma, gradually weakened until the end, at 4 o'clock this morning.

Attorney Cronin was a graduate of Yale academic 1905 and Yale law school, 1908. He was for the past 10 years registrar of voters. He was prominent in the republican party and was a member of the Connecticut general assembly during the 1915-16 session, and a member of the Past Exalted Rulers' association, a state Elks organization.

At the 8 o'clock mass at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church this morning, members of the Holy Name society and Troop 10, Boy Scouts, attended in a body, and received Easter Holy Communion.

Mrs. Charles L. Miller, 46 Phillips street, has been appointed librarian of the Central Waterford branch of the Waterford Public library.

The cases of Thomas Forader, 100 North Bank street and Fred Carlson, Waterford, charged with reckless driving, were nolled in the police court Saturday. Forader and Carlson were ordered into court Friday, following the automobiles of the accused being in collision at the corner of Willetta Avenue and Shaw St. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Frank Mitchell of Shaw street, employed by the Connecticut Company as track greaser, who was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Roland W. Anthony of Providence, at the corner of Broad and Williams street Friday, sustaining among other injuries a fractured jaw, is reported as being as comfortable as could be expected, at the private hospital.

Miss Mabel Fowler, a nurse employed in New York, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Birt O. Fowler of Groton.

Patrolman George Labeau reported this forenoon that a Buick automobile had been parked on John St., since early Saturday morning. Whether the machine is a stolen car could not be determined. The owner of the car has not been ascertained as no registration was found.

The city of New London Saturday acquired two parcels of land, which can be used in the widening of Bank street, at the corner of Tilley street, or can be utilized in extending Green street to Bank street, if that plan is ever carried into effect. One tract is located on Bank street and adjoins the former Bridget Keefe property. The other is located on Tilley street and also adjoins the Keefe property. Both were owned by the F. H. & A. H. Chappell company and were used many years by that concern for storage purposes. The city has long contemplated widening Tilley street, at the corner of Bank, and for some time it has been considered a feasible plan to continue Green street to Bank street in order to relieve the great congestion of traffic on Bank and State streets. By the acquisition of the two parcels of land the city is in a position to perfect the changes at any time.

Albert B. Lamb, carpenter, residing at 50 Thames St., Groton sustained probable internal injuries Friday when he fell from the porch of the residence of Charles F. Willard, on Thames street, Groton. Lamb was making repairs to a window and in moving about the roof of the porch lost his balance and was thrown to the ground, a distance of about 15 feet.

William Falvey, a sailor on the U. S. S. Pequot, was found on Golden street, by Patrolman John Clifford, Saturday evening, much the worse for over-indulgence in liquor. Falvey was locked up, but today he was turned over to a guard and delivered at the United States Coast Guard academy.

Horace DeWolf reported to the police this morning that a Ford automobile was in a ditch on Broad St. near Learned street and appeared to have been abandoned. Sergeant John Cavanaugh ascertained that the automobile was the property of a sailor named Sackett, residing at 405 Broad street and that the owner was preparing the car for shipment to a naval station in the south, to which he is to be transferred shortly.

In an endeavor to relieve congestion of traffic at the corner of State and Main streets, Captain Charles A. Pinney has instructed traffic officers stationed there to refrain from directing autoists into Main street from the left hand turn. Instead, the autoists will proceed south through State street, around the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument and continue on State street, making the turn into Main street from the right.

A traffic officer was assigned to duty today at the junction of Shaw, Bank and Truman streets, where traffic is exceedingly heavy on Sundays.

Another burglary of a National Economy store occurred Friday night or Saturday morning, for when the store at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Pleasant street was opened for business yesterday morning it was discovered that it had been entered during the night. Investigation by Sergeant Frank Howard showed that entrance was obtained by forcing the rear entrance. The plunder obtained included candy, loaves of cake and chewing gum. Several of these stores have been burglarised the past few months.

Superintendent of Schools Warren G. Hansen has completed his task of determining the averages attained by the nine candidates for appointment to the New London police force as supernumerary officers and contrary to expectations, but five of those who took the examination several days ago obtained an average above 50 per cent. Because of the simplicity of the examination it was believed that all of the candidates would be credited with a high average. One of the candidates did not receive a higher mark than 3 per cent., this being the lowest average. Another candidate instead of answering the questions propounded, simply made a copy of the questions. The examining committee will probably make a recommendation to the city council at the meeting of [illegible] night, that at least five of the candidates be appointed.

Mrs. Joseph Enos, former resident of New London, is seriously ill at her home in Bridgeport. Relatives of Mrs. Enos were called to her bedside Saturday.

Mrs. Patrick Wall of Jefferson avenue, John Hines, a lodger at the Salvation Army, Captain Henry Cameron, of the Yacht Ara, Marion Coburn, Vauxhall street, Timothy Connors, Winthrop street, Mrs. Carlisle Craig, Nathan Hale street, Mrs. John Onyszewicz, East Lyme, Mrs. Ernest Neuman and infant son, of Tinker court, Mrs. Charles Rix, Stonington, Robert Irwin, Massachusetts, James Lee, Bank street and Miss Helen O'Connor, of Niantic, patients at Lawrence Hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Harold Pinney, a student at Harvard Law school, is spending the Easter vacation with his parents, Captain of Police and Mrs. Charles A. Pinney.

Samuel Williams, colored, was arrested early Saturday morning upon complaint of Floyd Mitchell, also colored and proprietor of a pool room on Atlantic street, charged with breach of the peace. Williams pleaded not guilty to the charge when presented in the police court, and the case was continued until Monday forenoon.

Williams was at the pool room late Friday night and Sunday morning and there became involved in an argument with Mitchell, a fight following, in which Mitchell was beaten severely. Mitchell lodged complaint with the police and Williams was taken into custody by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock. Three hours after the arrest of Williams, Mitchell obtained a bondsman for the arrested man and when Williams was presented in court Mitchell was not on hand to appear against him.

John J. Sallah, of Providence, arrested on Golden street Friday night by Patrolman John Clifford, on request of the Providence police, who held a warrant for Sallah's apprehension on a charge of passing a worthless check was liberated Saturday, when the Providence authorities notified the New London police that the charge against Sallah had been withdrawn.

Sallah, had purchased a Ford touring car and had tendered a check of $125 as the first payment. Sallah had a deposit in the Union Trust company of Providence, but the check he gave was on another bank in which Sallah did not carry an account. Sallah cannot read and the check was made out by the automobile salesman and Sallah simply signed it. When the check was to be negotiated no funds of Sallah were found in the bank and a charge of fraud was instituted. It then developed that Sallah had sufficient funds in the other Providence bank, so the accused was allowed his liberty by the withdrawal of the charge. Sallah had the car which he had purchased in his possession when arrested.

Eugene Thurber of Groton, Edward Stuart of Waterford and Mrs. Fr[illegible] Frattali and infant son of Groton, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective homes Saturday.

The state highway department has been cautioning against speeding and recklessness, but the warning has not been effectual in serving to teach wisdom. Peter Piscatello and Tony Castanna, both youths, have recently secured Ford cars and they seem to have the speed mania well developed Friday they were running their cars up Bank street at a speed that made onlookers wonder what would be the result. A third autoist, also coming up the street sought to pass them but he could get no opportunity to do so because of the irregular course the Ford cars followed. Finally the young men were complained against and they were taken into custody, with the result that they were fined by Judge Prince $25 each.

At the weekly meeting of the city council Monday evening, City Manager William A. Holt will announce the appointment of a police woman. The identity of the appointee will not be revealed until Monday night, but it is known that she was selected from a list of several candidates and is said to be fully qualified for the position that she will fill. The appointee will take the place of Former Police Woman Alice Hunt, who terminated her duties Jan. 1st after about six months service. The appointee will be under the direction and supervision of Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney, will have regular hours of duty and will have the same powers of arrest as those of regular police officers.

Lieutenant of Police Benjamin Beebe rounded out his thirty-eighth year as a member of the New London force yesterday. Lieut. Beebe joined the force April 12, 1886 at a time when George Hinckley was captain and the late Augustus Williams was mayor. Prior to joining the police department Lieut. Beebe was a fisherman, being 25 years on fishing boats that made their catches off the Georgia Banks. Lieut. Beebe is in excellent health.

A force of city laborers was engaged today making repairs to pavements in two of the city's most important thoroughfares. At the corner of State and Bank street a section of the pavement broken over a year was repaired and another stretch of broken paving blocks was replaced at the corner of Bank and Shaw streets.

The garage of Fred B. Taylor, a Springfield, Mass., contractor and a summer resident at the corner of Neptune and Pequot avenues, was damaged one automobile destroyed and another badly damaged, when flames attacked the garage, shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. When the fire was discovered one of the automobiles was a mass of flames. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and the Pequot and Ockford Hose companies were dispatched to the fire. The flames were attacked with chemicals and after an hour's work the fire had been completely subdued. The walls of the garage were seriously damaged, while one of the machines had all inflammable material completely burned. The fire undoubtedly resulted from a short circuit on one of the cars, both of which were driven from Springfield to New London last night. The fire is the second serious blaze to occur at the Taylor place within a few years. About five years ago last Christmas eve the Taylor residence and garage was completely destroyed by fire, the present structures being built the following spring.

Patrolman Walter Rohn, this afternoon discovered the cap of the water shut-off box on Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach, broken and in a condition liable to cause injury to pedestrians. The defective box will receive the attention of a force of laborers of the water and sewer department tomorrow.

The fire department was kept busy today subduing grass fires, probably started by boys. At 11.15 o'clock a still alarm caused the Ockford Hose company to be sent to Squire street where a grass plot was ablaze. At 11.50 o'clock a tract on Broad street extension was discovered afire and the Northwest Hose subdued it. At 2.10 o'clock the Pequot Hose company was dispatched to the corner of Thames street and Ocean avenue to extinguish a lively blaze of dead grass and brush.

Clarence W. White, 11 Front street employed as freight brakeman by the New Haven railroad and with run between Midway and Harlem river, is a patient at Lincoln hospital, New York, suffering from injuries sustained this morning, by his head, coming in contact with an overhead bridge. He was knocked from the top of the car on which he was riding and rendered unconscious. White was taken to the hospital, where the extent of his injuries has not been determined. The New York police this afternoon requested the local authorities to inform White's family of his having been injured. Later Mrs. White, accompanied by her father, Charles Gregg, left for New York.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK HANDSOMELY REMODELLED

(Special to the Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, April 13—

Patrons of the First National Bank were given an opportunity to visit the banking rooms, Saturday afternoon and evening, and see the bank in its remodelled condition. The remodelling of the banking rooms has provided increased facilities for the constantly increasing business and has added much to the convenience of the employes, as well as the patrons of the institution. The entrance to the bank has been changed from the north side to the west side of the bank. The broad stone steps are of New Hampshire granite. There are brass electric light fixtures and the doors are double hardwood.

The public floor space is Tennessee marble with dark border and the base of the banking screen, Italian oriental marble. The upper part of the screen is glazed with polished plate glass. The wickets at the teller's windows are cast statuary bronze of special design, there being three teller's windows where previously there had been only one.

The heavy steel vault is at the right of the entrance and the entrance to the vault and safe deposit department is guarded by a polished steel grill seven and one-half feet high the bars terminating at the top in steel spear points. The teller's stations are all enclosed with heavy metal grills. There are three coupon booths near the directors' room, which is in the same location as formerly and has been thoroughly renovated. A small two story brick addition has added space to the banking rooms for recors on the second floor. A spiral stairway leads from the main floor to the second floor. The cashier's desk and business room is located opposite the former location. All floors except the lobby are covered with heavy battleship linoleum. The ceiling is heavily beamed in walnut and enriched with carved brackets. The name of the bank appears in gold letters directly above the entrance. The president of this bank, which is said to be one of the most successful in Connecticut is Freeman F. Patten, a former state treasurer, F. G. Sanford, cashier, has been employed at the bank for over 40 years. Herbert R. Wightman is assistant cashier. Others employed in the bank are Miss Mary I. Reynolds, Miss Edith Adams, Miss Helen Schrier and Bernard Armstrong.

A great many visited the banking rooms Saturday afternoon and evening and all expressed pleasure at the progressive tone and up-to-date equipment of the institution.

CONTRACTS FOR $650,000 IN NEW ROAD WORK

At an approximate cost of $650,000 the Connecticut State Highway Department has awarded contracts to twelve construction companies for the building of about fifteen miles of new highway and six bridges, in each case the award went to the lowest bidder in a group of sixty four contractors who competed for the work.

Work on the proposed improvements is expected to begin within about two weeks.

Following is a list of the successful contractors and the location of the new construction projects:-

Town of Pomfret—About [illegible] feet of three inch bituminous macadam over five inch broken stone base on Pomfret Station and Murdock roads, to Lewis Road Construction company, Wells Fields, N. Y.

LEAGUE TO ELIMINATE NEEDLESS AUTO NOISES

Believing that noise reduction is a matter of public welfare, several automobile drivers of Hartford have formed a "League for Peace in Hartford," which, according to announcement filed with the state motor vehicle department, is "aiming at no formal organization (no officers or dues) but simply to find out who favors more quiet in our streets and will work to secure it."

In the printed notices, large quantities of which are prepared by the league for wide distribution, appears the following:-

"The nuisance of needless noise from automobiles is sharply dealt with in Document 15 of the Motor Vehicle Department, especially the practice of testing at intersections to signify plan to hold speed and grab right of way, instead of slowing down and using eyes. Similar abuses are calling people with the horn, tire-chains slapping, brakes shrieking, etc. All unnecessary noise is illegal and subject to fine.

"Every such noise strikes into offices, dwellings, schools and hospitals, right and left, affecting scores of persons not on the streets. These people have rights. Reckless and brutal horn-blowing also interferes with necessary signals and increases danger.

"Chiefs of police generally are anxious to abate this nuisance, as is the commissioner of motor vehicles. Responsible complaints of persistent and offensive noise-makers will receive prompt attention."

The promoter of the league, a prominent Hartford man who prefers to remain anonymous rather than subject himself to criticism that he is seeking personal publicity, has made a careful study of the noise on Farmington avenue, Hartford, a residential section, even to the extent of having phonographic records made of all sounds heard there in a certain period of a day. He has enlisted many influential people in the League for Peace in Hartford, and has furnished the motor vehicle department and the Hartford police with thousands of the small circulars described above for assistance in distribution. The circulars says that any one desiring to join the organization may do so by sending in his or her name and address to Box No. 150, Station A, Hartford.

LOYAL SAMARITAN LODGE CELEBRATED 17TH ANNIVERSARY

Loyal Samaritan Lodge, No. 7974, I. O. O. F., M. U., held its 17th anniversary and ladies' night in Sprague hall, Baltic, Saturday evening. The hall was decoruted with American flags bunting and streamers of crepe paper, with the colors of the Lodge of white, blue, scarlet and purple. The evening was opened with remarks by Noble Grand Thomas Adams. Grace was sung by all present after which the member sof Samaritan lodge and the Ladies Lodge No. 7, and friends sat down to a roast chicken supper with all the fixings. Ice cream, coffee and rolls were served. After the supper a very enjoyable entertainment was given and the following program was rendered: Piano solo, Mr. W. Thomas; highland fling, Misses Skaling and Mearns; sword dance, Miss Mearns; soprano solo, Mrs. William Crowe, Jr.; sailor's horn pipe; Prof. Wright and Miss Mearns; Irish jigs, Prof. Wright and Miss Skaling; song, Alex Finlayson; dance, Fairy Whispers, Misses Skaing and Mearns, tenor solo, James Elphinstone; clog dance, Prof. Wright and Miss Skaling; each number called for an encore.

After the entertainment dancing was enjoyed till late. Brother William Barlow led the grand march for which the famous Scotland Road Orchestra furnished the music. The artists of the evening were from Westerly, R. I., New London and Norwich. The committee in charge was H. Bradlaw, F. Malsacker, Thomas Adams, I. Williams; J. Heibel, H. Massey, J. SPRINGTIME IS PREEMINENTLY
THE TIME FOR THE SUIT

Charming Ones from $25 to $59.75

Spring Suits were never prettier, their daintiness being in no way decreased by the trimness of the tailored lines—the tailored effect predominating. There is no severity, however, for odd little touches make the styles most individual and different. Mannish or box coats are the ones most to be seen, Poiret Twill and Tweeds being the favored weaves.

COATS IN ENDLESS VARIETY
$19.75 TO $29.75

The Spring Coat is a high light in the picture for this Easter season. A beautiful showing of smart, seasonable garments in downy Wools, soft Velvetone, and fancy Twill Cords giving a wonderful variety for your choice. All of Spring's newest colorings will be found.

COATS OF FINEST QUALITY
$39.75 TO $89.75

Rich in appearance, and serviceable are these charming creations, developed in the season's best weaves. You will find the charming Flamingo, the silky Teddy Bear, soft Wool and many lustrous fabrics which are new, and decidedly in the fashion. The styles, too, are varied and remarkably beautiful.

Charming Silk Petticoats
$2.95 to $12.95

Underneath the new Easter costume you will find a new petticoat really necessary, and nowhere will you find a more interesting showing than in our Apparel Shop. Silk Jersey and fine Radium Silk, many with touches of embroidery, quaintly designed and ornamented, make the petticoat section one of colorful beauty.

Fascinating Silk Blouses
$5.95 to $12.95

Blouses with round or V necks—trim little ones with boyish collars—all of them as dainty as can be—provide styles to suit any taste. Fine crepe de chine, printed crepes and silk broadcloths will be found, in gray, fallow, Lucille Green, Pig Tail Blue, and all the other pretty Spring colors, and combination of color.

Many Sweater Designs
$2.95 to $13.95

Here you can choose a little slip-over ornamented, possibly, with a monogram. Perhaps you prefer a Tuxedo or coat model to wear with your new Spring skirt. Plain colors, if you wish them, or if your fancy dictates combinations of color we can show you some very beautiful sweaters in many novel color effects. We know we can please you.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES.

The Bird's Plea.

A pale blue egg in April, dear,
A baby bird in May,
And then [illegible] the summer,
A sweet song all the day.

Watch not the speckled nest, dear,
And touch not eggs so blue,
And all the world will happier be,
And song-birds not so few.
—Virginia St. Clair, in Our Dumb Animals.

Goodby, Sweet Day.

Goodby, sweet day, goodby!
I have so loved thee, but I cannot hold thee,
Departing like a dream the shadows fold thee;
Slowly the perfect beauty fades away;
Goodby, sweet day!

Goodby, sweet day, goodby!
Dear were thy golden hours of tranquil splendor,
Sadly thou yieldest to the evening tender
Who wert so fair from thy first morning ray;
Goodby, sweet day!

Goodby, sweet day, goodby!
Thy glow and charm, thy smiles and tones and glances
Vanish at last, and solemn night advances;
Ah, couldst thou yet a little longer stay!
Goodby, sweet day!

Goodby, sweet day, goodby!
All thy rich gifts my grateful heart
The while I watch thy sunset's smoldering embers
Die in the west beneath the twilight gray.
Goodby, sweet day!

—Celia Thaxter.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDEAWAKES.

Last week was observed pretty generally throughout the country as Kindness to Animals week. During the week special effort was made by animal and bird lovers to spread the doctrine of kindness to our friends of the animal and bird world. As a matter of fact, every week should be a Kindness to Animals week—not just one week in the year.

Most boys and girls like animals and birds and are kind to them. Every boy takes pride in his pet dog and every little girl thinks a great deal of her pet kitten. Many of the letters received by Uncle Jed tell of pets in which the young people take a great deal of interest. These boys and girls like birds and animals or they would not have them for pets.

Kindness, especially to the weak and defenseless, is the very foundation of character. In our family life, school hours, everywhere, in fact, are many opportunities to be kind and unselfish. Beginning with our four-footed and feathered friends, we should extend considerations for the feelings and rights of others with whom we come in contact. The habit of being kind is best formed in youth. A person is known by his deeds. If he is cruel, hard and selfish he has few, if any, friends. If he is kind, unselfish, and considerate of others, including his feathered and four-footed friends, he will have many warm friends and in addition will experience the joy of being kind to the weak and defenseless.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Dorothy Whitty, South Coventry: I received the book you sent me and I want to thank you for it. I found it very interesting and the grandmother really was a "Grandmother Dear," I think.

Antonia Barisak, Stafford Springs: I received the prize book you sent me. I started reading it and find it's very interesting.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

THE TALE OF A SHOE

Dear Uncle Jed: Once upon a time there were two children playing on the sea shore. They got tired of playing in the sand and then they watched the ships passing by. John said, lets make a ship of our own. So he took off a shoe to make a boat. Mary replied, I will take off my doll's dress for a sail. Then John put the boat in the water. The boat sailed. By and by a wind came up and made it go a little faster. Then Mary and John began to dance for joy when they saw how nice the boat sailed along the shore. A hard wind came up and took the boat away. John ran into the water to rescue his shoe but the waves drove John back to the shoe. John began to cry. Mary said, Don't cry John, run home fast and get dry clothes. So he ran home with only one shoe, very sorry for the loss of theother shoe. He told his mother that he would never make a boat out of his shoe again.

SPECKS

Dear Uncle Jed: One day an old farmer was in the field when a stray horse came up to him and put his head on the farmer's arm. The farmer advertised in the newspaper that a horse had come with a saddle which had the horse's name in gold letters, Specks. No one claimed it so he kept it.

Now this farmer had a mortgage on his farm of $600. He wanted it one way or another so he started "Specks" to train to race. In a month after "Specks" finished training the state derby would come. So the farmer hired a jockey. The grand-stand was crowded with eager spectators. The farmer set out for the racetrack with much hope. Specks won the race. The prize was five tons of hay and $1,500.

ARTHUR ALEX, Jr., Age 11.

SCOTLAND

Dear Uncle Jed: We are studying about Scotland in school and I think it is very interesting, so I am going to tell you about it. The customs of the Scotch people are very different from ours in many ways. Their schools are like ours in some things. The children sit on long wooden benches. In the schoolroom are two square pieces of blackboards. These hang on the wall. They have a few maps and charts from which the children read.

There is also a fireplace in the schoolroom, but they do not burn wood and coal as we do. They burn peat. It does not keep all the children in the schoolroom warm.

On Sunday the people go to church as we do. The church is a pretty little stone building with a large square tower. As they go in the church the people drop their money in a plate. Almost everyone who goes to church puts some money in the plate. Some of it is used to help the poor people. The people sit on hard wooden seats. The minister preaches a short sermon to the children and a longer sermon to the people. After church the children go to Sunday school.

Most of the country of Scotland is very high land and is called the "Highlands." The Highlands are very beautiful with green hills, rocky mountains and lakes. The people who live in the Highlands are called Highlanders.

EARL COUTURE, Age 9.

THE LOST BOY

Dear Uncle Jed: Jimmy had been playing with his brothers and sisters in the barn, they had played all morning. The boys were merchants and the girls would come and buy. The dinner bell had just rang and they all went to dinner. But Jimmy always hung behind the others. While he was walking he saw a rabbit and started to run after it in the woods until finally he was tired. He was lost and couldn't go back home alone. So he started back as he though: he was on his way. His parents started to look for him. But they couldn't find him. Now Jimmy walked a long way. Soon he saw a light. But it wasn't his home. He knocked at the door and an old woman came to the door. He asked her if he could sleep there and she said, yes. Next morning Jimmy saw his father coming for him. He was very glad to go back home.

THE CENTER NEWS

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our school book named the Center News. All of the children in the Center Grammar school helped to make it. In it are compositions, drawings and jokes. Each child has a turn to take it home. Ruth Bryden, the editor-in-chief of the Center News took it home first. It is very interesting.

THE ANGELUS

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the Angelus. The Angelus describes a picture. In it we see a man and woman at work in the field. The Angelus has just chimed out the hour of evening prayer. The woman stands with clasped hands and bowed head. The man is beside her. His head is uncovered.

He has thrown down his pitchfork. A well filled sack is on the wheelbarrow. They are thanking God for His goodness. In the foreground we see heaps of hay and grain. In the background we see the spire of the village church.

MILDRED VEGIARD.
Jewett City.

AN ADVENTURE STORY

Uncle Jed: Some of my friends and I were out camping. One night we pitched our camp a few miles from the village. The nearest house was a mile and a half. We built a fire and ate our supper. Then we told stories until bedtime.

All this time there seemed to be a mysterious air about. Our camp was in a grove of trees. I was scared before I fell asleep by a dreadful whispering sound. I did not wish to tell my friends of my fear, that they might be frightened.

I was very tired and soon fell asleep. I was awakened by an uncanny sound. For a moment I was terror stricken, but soon gathered my wits together and slightly dressing, for it was summer, ran out of the tent. When I got a ways I saw a light from behind a tree. I turned to go back to the tent and call one of my friends. I had gone a few yards when from behind the trees rushed about five weird looking Indians. However they did not notice me but ran on to the camp. When I recovered from the shock I found myself in a circle of my friends. I noticed the familiar faces of half a dozen school boys. To my surprise I learned that they had dressed up for fun and 'twas they who scared me. They had planned all this to see if we would be frightened. Before they left camp we made them promise never again to play a trick like that on us while we were camping.

GOES TO KILLINGLY SCHOOL

Dear Uncle Jed: I am six years old, and am going to school now. I wanted to go to school so I could learn to read. My teacher's name is Mrs. Beckett. I like her very much. We take milk and sugar to school, and have hot cocoa at noon. The teacher makes it. There is a big rock out in front of the school. We jump off of it. We play jump rope. There is some snow on the ground, so I wear rubber boots to school and carry my slippers in a bag. I go to the Killingly school.

EDNA VIRGINIA BLEAU, Age 6.

HAS NEW PUPPY

Dear Uncle Jed: We have a new puppy. It is only eight weeks old and its name is Beauty. Although it is grey like a police dog, it is a bulldog. He likes to play with anything he can get. Beauty likes to bother our old shepard dog. His name is Rex.

ALBERT F. NYSTROM, Age 9.

A TRIP TO THE DEVIL'S HOP YARD

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you about a trip I had last summer.

One summer's day when returning from my grandmothers, I saw a car in our yard. On coming nearer to the house I recognized it as a friend's car. She is a friend of the families who summer at the lake. She invited me to go to the Devil's Hop Yard with them. I was wearing my knickers and was going into the house to change them, but as she was in a hurry she said it would be best to leave them on.

The Connecticut Botany society were going to have an outing at the Devil's Hop Yard. We were to meet them at Fraser's store. Our ride over was very pleasant. As the people had not arrived we hunted for flowers. After waiting for a while the Connecticut Botany Society arrived.

After the people had come we started for the Hop Yard. On our way we saw an orchid which is very rare; the color is orange. We stopped and had lunch. Then after a short ride we reached the Hop Yard. It is situated in a forest owned by the state. There are no signs of habitation for miles around. There are rare species of flowers growing around. It is a very pleasant place in summer.

Another girl climbed cliffs and hunted for flowers. After finding many and it being late we started for home. The ride home was delightful but I was tired when I reached home.

MARY L. MAYNARD, Age 12.
Norwich Town.

A GRATEFUL DOG

Uncle Jed: Some years ago a little boy, not more than eight years old, was sent on an errand. On his return, as he was going home, a lame dog, rough and dirty, came limping after him. A bad boy would have thrown stones at the poor dog; but the little boy of whom I am telling you had been taught to be gentle and kind.

He saw that the dog had been ill-used, and that it wanted a friend. He let it follow him home.

When the little boy asked his mother if she would let the dog come into the house, the poor dog seemed as though it knew what was said. It looked, oh, so sad! that the children almost cried when they saw its large bright eyes looking looking up to them for pity.

The mother, who had taught her children to be kind and gentle, did not turn the poor, hungry, lame dog away. She let it go into the wash-house; and the children gave it some food and some water to drink, and some clean straw to lie upon.

After a few dyas it got well, and it soon made itself clean, and began to show how pleased it was, and how clever it was. It did all that a dog could do to show how thankful it was for the kindness shown to it.

ALANZO DESAUTELS, Age 13.
Baltic.

A QUEER DREAM

Dear Uncle Jed: As it is the first time I have written to you I am going to tell you about my experience in meeting a collector of waste. It was a warm summer day and I felt warm and sleepy, so I laid down on the lawn. Suddenly a queer looking man appeared. I inquired what his business was, and he replied he was a collector of wasted time. He said that I had kept him very busy this last week. So he named this list:

Last Monday you let your little sister go to the post-office in that pouring rain when you could have gone yourself. Yesterday you accused your friend of taking your marbles when you knew he didn't take them.

You let some boys hit a small bird when you could have prevented them. This morning when your mother called you, you sat and grumbled instead of responding. Stop, stop, please don't go any further. Very well, let this be a lesson to you. Your mother is calling you, go to her right away. All of a sudden I felt someone pulling my arm. I awoke and found it was a dream. But I never forgot the lesson.

SIMONNE QUINTAL, Age 13.
Danielson.

MY VACATION

Dear Uncle Jed: A few weeks ago the children of Greeneville school had their Easter vacation. I spent my vacation in Hartford.

When I was there we went to the show every day. Then we went to Holyoke and spent the rest of the week there.

REGINA DUPHILY, Age 9.
Norwich.

A BRAVE LITTLE WREN

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second letter I have written to the Wide Awakes Circle. Long, long ago there was no fire on earth a brave little wren went up to the sun and came flying back with a torch. His features were badly scorched so a little robin said that every bird should give him one. All gave him one but the selfish owl, so it is said that all the birds are the owl's enemies.

POMPELIA LEONE, Age 11.
Norwich.

THE KITTY'S NEW HOME

Uncle Jed: Once upon a time there was a good mother cat. One day while she was in the house she came upon a large trunk. She saw that in it was some soft cloth. She said to herself, I will give this home to my kittens. She went and got one of the kittens, carried it in her mouth to the trunk. She went and got another one and when she got back she saw the trunk closed and the kitten inside. She ran to her mistress' room and mewed so her mistress would come out. Her mistress followed the mother cat and opened up the trunk. The mother cat carried the kitten back to the barn.

MARGARET GORMAN, Age 9.
Norwich.

CRUELTY TO BIRDS

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second story I have written to you and this time my story will be about cruelty to birds.

A few days ago as I was strolling along in the woods I heard a shot in back of me. Turning around I saw a crowd of seven boys running towards the spot where a little bird had fallen. Being nearer the bird than they I ran ahead and picked it up. After examining it carefully I noticed a little wound on its side indicating the spot through which a bullet from one of the boy's guns had passed. Then turning around I told the boys how cruel it was to shoot such a harmless creature. I explained to them how we would suffer with famines if these little creatures would not help the farmers by destroying all the bad insects and weeds.

ELSA MEHL, Age.
Norwich.

A GOOD JOKE

Dear Uncle Jed: One day some children were writing when the teacher was out of the room.

All of a sudden they heard a voice say, "Drop your pens." Thinking it was the teacher's voice they obeyed. Again they heard the same voice say, "Now you may go home." The children obeyed, and began putting on their clothes. While they were dressing the teacher came into the room and in surprise asked them why they were dressing.

One of them said, "We are dressing because you told us to." Just then they heard a parrot which was sitting on a bench say with a laugh, "That was a good joke on you." They made the tame parrot their friend.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

DAVID CORY

Calling on Professor Crow

Well, I promised in the last story to tell you what the Candy Man said when that poor old Scarecrow couldn't find a penny in his pocket. But you'll forgive me if I don't tell you, I'm sure for that Candy Man said some very disagreeable things.

"I'll pay for your soda," said generous Little Jack Rabbit, opening his knapsack and taking out ten carrot cents. "Here, Mr. Candy Man, take my money. My friend, the Scarecrow has left his purse at home," and the little rabbit laid the ten carrot cents down on the marble counter.

"I'll drive you over to the cornfield," said the kind old gentleman rabbit to the Scarecrow as they all jumped in the Luckymobile.

In a minute or three,
But not any more,

They came to a milestone
Marked Two Forty-Four!

"Here we are," cried the Scarecrow. "Thank you," and the next minute he was standing in the middle of the field flapping his arms to frighten the crows.

"Well good luck to you," said the old gentleman rabbit, waving good-bye as he drove away in the Luckymobile. After a while, he said, "Let's make a call on Parson Owl."

"He won't be up," replied the little rabbit. "He can't see in the light. We'll have to wait till dark."

"Well, what shall we do?" asked the old gentleman rabbit, wiggling his pink nose three times to the right and two times and a half to the left. "We might stop at the Old Pine Tree and see if Professor Crow is at home," said the bunny boy. Pretty soon they saw Professor Crow reading his little Black Book.

"Good day, Professor," said Uncle Lucky, stopping the Luckymobile right under the limb on which sat the old crow. "Read us something from your wise Black Book."

"Very well," answered the learned old professor, turning to page 14 1-2.

"Time is money, but I've found
More time than money lying 'round.
If it were the other way,
I'd be a Rockefeller today."

"Well, well, well," laughed Uncle Lucky. "I've got a little of both," and he took off his old wedding stove-pipe and wiped his forehead with his blue silk polkadot handkerchief.

But you'll have to wait until next time to hear what the old crow answered.

I Still Look 19

Because of a White Clay France perfected By Edna Wallace Hopper

Mine is a grandmother's age. I have been for 40 years a stage star. Yet I still look a girl, and I still play girlish parts.

I owe the beauty which made me famous to helps I found in France. And I owe to them my perennial youth. Now I have arranged so all who wish may get them. And I hope to bring to millions what they brought to me.

The magic of clay

Many years ago French experts taught me to use clay. Then clays were crude and muddy, as many clays are still. But I was a plain girl, and even those crude clays made me the rage of New York.

Since then those experts have perfected clay. They have made it white, refined and dainty. They have added factors which bring multiplied results. The clay I now use is ten times better than the old-type clays. And my baby complexion, at my age, shows what it means to women.

A pity to omit it

I pity any girl or woman who does not use some clay. No girl can look her best without it, no woman can keep her youth.

Clay purges the skin of all that clogs it—the causes of all sallowness, blackheads and blemishes. It keeps dead skin removed.

It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. Many women in 30 minutes seem to drop ten years.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Thus it wards off age. My girlish beauty shows what it can do.

Once few women used it, and they became famous beauties. Now countless women of all ages show the magic wrought by clay.

But the day of crude and muddy clays is over. A white, refined, perfected clay is vastly more effective, and I have brought it to you.

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream, which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Accept these helps I found for you. Let them do what they did for me. Watch the quick, amazing changes which they bring. Start now with my White Youth Clay. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

POETRY

Palm Sunday

O marts of trade, with all your clang and din,
Pause in your rush for this world's goods and gold;
The things you cherish are but dust and mold—
Swing wide the gate and let your Master in.

O classic halls, where one may learning win,
The magnet that brings near a nation's youth
To lead them in the widening way of truth—
Swing wide the gate and let your Master in.

O palaces of state, where men do bring
Their counsel for the things of peace and war,
Have no place for this Ambassador?
Swing wide the gate and let your Master ing.

O rebel heart that has no need of Him,
That go'st thy way so sure in all thy sin,
Shalt thou, hold there in thy Jerusalem?
Swing wide the gate and let your Master ing.
—Harry Pressfield, in Hon's Herald.

The Stage-Is

From marshes where the brittle ice
At early morning breaks,
The wild gray geese are on their way
To lonely northern lakes.
I hear their joyous trumpeting,
And from my window high
Behold these nomads of the air
On tireless pinions fly.

Would that I too on sturdy wings
Might join their happy flight,
And hurtle through the azure void
By sunset's fading light,
Breasting the gold and crimson cloud
As swimmers do the sea,
With new and boundless horizons
Unfolding still for me.
—Minna Irving in New York Herald.

Washington Dispatches

Washington, April 13.—The senate is face to face with two momentous decisions—whether the Japanese exclusion policy is to be written into law and whether there is to be an open breach with President Coolidge over the subject of senatorial investigations of executive departments of the government.

Organization republicans, who have rallied around their chief to give battle to the coalition of insurgents in their own party and the democrats on the investigation question, will go into conference tomorrow to undertake to reach an agreement with respect to Japanese exclusion.

Whatever the outcome of that conference, most leaders at the capitol foresaw an affirmative vote on the exclusion question despite the vehement and almost blunt protest from the Japanese government transmitted to the house and senate last week by Secretary Hughes.

The Japanese protest was without effect upon the vote in the house, which passed the immigration bill with its exclusion provision by a margin of more than four to one. There was no reference in the debate to the communication from Ambassador Hanihara and brief and casual discussion of the exclusion question.

President Coolidge's protests to the senate against the trend of senatorial investigations may come before the republican conference tomorrow but the decision of the organization leaders to stand by the titular leader of their party in this fight already has been made.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, one of the republican "wheel horses" has given notice that he will press his resolution proposing discharge of the special senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau, the activities of which brought a sharp remonstration to President Coolidge from Secretary Mellon and in turn from the president to the senate.

Democratic leaders are equally as insistent upon pressing a resolution giving the committee authority to employ counsel. Adoption of this resolution would make possible the retention of Francis J. Heney, of San Francisco, as "special prosecutor." Senator Cousens, republican, Michigan, who has had the dominant part in pressing the investigation, had proposed to employ Mr. Heney and pay him out of his own pocket, but President Coolidge has taken the position that this would be in violation of the law.

Senator organization leaders charge openly that Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, is responsible for the suggestion that Mr. Heney be retained and they assert that the whole purpose is to investigate the federal prohibition enforcement unit, which frequently has come under fire from the Pennsylvania governor.

Senator Watson, who is chairman of the internal revenue bureau investigating committee, declared flatly in the senate yesterday that it was not proposed to go into such an investigation at this time, and that any such move would be resisted. Moreover, the Indiana senator charged that the real purpose of the senate inquiries was to aim arrows at President Coolidge. He added that no investigation, however troublesome, would disturb the estimate in which the executive is held by the people.

Although the republican leaders are planning to marshal their full forces, democratic leaders are confident that when the final tes. of strength comes the internal revenue bureau inquiry will be ordered forward under ample authority for the committee to employ such counsel as may be deemed necessary.

While the president's message to the senate has aroused democratic leaders to a new fighting fever, there is little indication that they look with favor upon a proposal by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, to expunge the executive's communication from the Congressional Record. Senator Reed has offered a resolution for that purpose and has announced his intention to calling it up. Its adoption, in the belief of senate officials, would be without precedent in American history.

While the controversy with the president and Japanese exclusion furnish the two big "fighting" points in the senate's immediate program other matters of prime importance await disposition. Chief among these are the tax and soldiers' bonus bills already reported by the finance committee.

Which of these two bills is to have precedence is a subject which will come before the republican conference tomorrow. Opinion is divided, some leaders holding that the bonus measure should be put through first so that the senate can act on the tax bill with clearer light.

Farm relief legislation—temporary and permanent—also is pressing for solution and several appropriation bills are ready for action. So crowded has the senate calendar become that there is increasing talk of night sessions in the hope that congress can wind up its work before the convening of the national political conventions in June.

There will be a further lull tomorrow in senate investigations, both the Daugherty and the oil committees being in recess because of the republican conference. They will resume their public hearings Tuesday and meantime the Daugherty committee will meet to discuss what action is to be taken against Mal Daugherty for his refusal to permit the committee to examine the books of his bank in Washington Court House, Ohio.

With the immigration bill out of the way, the house will devote most of the work to clearing its calendar of remaining appropriation bills. The great bulk of its work of the session has been completed, but farm legislation and several constitutional amendments, including that regarding child labor, remain to be acted upon.

Republican leaders in the house are confident that this body can be ready for adjournment early in June, but even after its calendar is cleared, it must mark time awaiting senate action on the more important legislation and the ironing out of differences between the two houses in conference.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

New York, April 13—(By the A. P.)—With bond prices last week following a downward trend in line with stock market reaction, bond circles welcomed the ready absorption of new financing as indicating the sound underlying position of the investment market. For the fifth week this year, new bond issues totaled more than $100,000,000. Despite the large volume all offerings were quickly sold.

As an actual market factor the long awaited Dawes report exerted little influence. Prices made feeble response to its constructive features, universally praised by Wall street bankers, until late in the week, when its acceptance by the reparations commission improved the market's tone.

Suggestions for the flotation of a $200,000,000 international loan to Germany, foreshadowing the sale of perhaps half the securities in this country, aroused the greatest interest in investment quarters. International bankers intimated that the inevitable delays in putting the Dawes plan into execution might defer offering of the German bonds until next fall. Original plans called for the operation early in June, corresponding to the sale of the Austrian loan a year ago. If the financing cannot be arranged by that time, bankers admitted they would hesitate to throw it upon the ordinary dull summer market.

Meanwhile continuous operation of Germany's financial machinery will be assured by the establishment of an American credit for the new gold rediscount bank, which eventually will be merged with the gold bank proposed in the Dawes report.

Negotiations are under way for American banks to advance $5,000,000 to help start the system, and if it proves successful additional credit will be made available. Granting of the credit, which marks the first actual participation of American capital in the economic rehabilitation of Germany, indicates the willingness of bankers to extend financial aid and foreshadows success of the German loan.

Sale of New York state's $45,000,000 bonus bonds last week established several records for this type of financing. The largest bonus issue ever sold, it paid a premium to the state sufficient to defray the costs of administering the bonus.

Bankers sold the bonds at one of the narrowest margins of profit ever received, and disposal of the issue was said to have been the quickest on record for a state or municipal offering.

Brisk inquiry was reported for the $20,100,000 Pennsylvania railroad equipment bonds and about $30,000,000 of public utility issues sold last week.

Prices of listed bonds fluctuated within narrow limits, although late in the week a wide variety of French governmental and municipal obligations attained new high levels on the improved outlook for success of the Dawes plan. U. S. treasury 4 1-4s also sold at a record high figure.

An offering of about $13,000,000 Pacific Gas and Electric bonds has been announced for this week.

NATIONAL POLICY COMMITTEE ON OUT-OF-DOOR LIFE

Washington, April 13.—Declaring the federal government should take steps to put outdoor recreational opportunities within the grasp of the poor as well as the wealthy, President Coolidge tonight announced the appointment of a national policy committee on out-of-door life.

The president charged the committee with promulgation of "a national policy which should not merely coordinate under federal guidance activities in behalf of outdoor recreation, but also formulate a program to serve as a guide for future action." Various agencies of the national government already are concerned with many phases of the out-of-door life question and the committee will seek to coordinate all that now in the opinion of the president is dealt with in an incoherent manner.

The committee, as selected by the president is to consist of Secretaries Weeks of the war department, work of the interior department, Wallace of the agriculture department and Hoover of the commerce department, and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department. The proposal for such a committee was put forward originally by Mr. Roosevelt.

NEW YORK FIRE COLLEGE WILL OPEN THIS MORNING

New York, April 13.—Seven fire department officers of other cities will attend the fourteenth annual session of the New York Fire College which will open tomorrow morning. ## MYSTIC

After being closed for two weeks on account of scarlet fever cases, the Mystic Academy is open today (Monday) as the ban prohibiting children under eighteen from crossing the bridge has been lifted. Sunday school was resumed in the various churches Sunday. The prompt and effective measures taken by Health Officers Doctors Allyn and Congdon prevented the spread of the disease. The community feels that their efforts were so successful and that the spirit of co-operation on the part of the parents and children has had such good results.

Mystic friends of Mrs. Herbert Babcock regret to hear of her death, which occurred on Thursday at her home in Westerly. Mrs. Babcock had been in poor health for some time and recently suffered a shock.

Miss Emily N. Murphy of Providence has been spending a few days with her sister, Miss Clar S. Murphy.

The residence of Dr. C. K. Stillman on Greenmanville avenue is being renovated and painted.

Eli Glendhill arrived home Friday evening from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Paige and family of Springfield, Mass., spent the week end with Mr. Paige's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Paige, of Church street.

Mrs. Rowland H. Wilcox is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George P. Jones.

Herbert W. H[illegible] Jr. and Katherine W. Ruth [illegible] Westerly high school guests last week [illegible] their grandmother, Mrs. Moses H. Wilcox.

Mrs. Lena Furlow, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. John W. Chapman, has gone to Fishers Island.

An Easter cantata entitled, "From Death Unto Life," is to be given at the Methodist church at four o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday, April 20. The cantata is under the direction of Miss Constance Fort who has secured the assistance of a number of singers in addition to the regular choir.

STAFFORD

Miss Elsie Phillips of Woodmere, L. I., has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips.

There was a baptismal service at the Baptist church Sunday morning.

Mrs. Geis and two children of Hartford have been guests of Mrs. Arthur Cady.

George Colburn of Burlington, Vt., has been the guest of his father, Russell Colburn.

The Hospital Aid society is to meet for work Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ida Hough and Mrs. H. B. Pinney attended the funeral of Mrs. Hough's nephew, Arthur Gager, in New London.

The work of remodeling the First National bank has been completed.

The Stafford Boys' club closed one of its most successful seasons with a banquet and entertainment by its members. Next year the room will be equipped with a radio receiving set.

The democratic caucus held at Warren Memorial hall elected the following delegates to the state convention: C. B. Pinney, P. J. Murray, D. Avery and George Bellaver.

The initial meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the American Legion was held at the Legion rooms Monday.

The sum of $55,000 was voted to rebuild Main and East Main streets, at the town meeting last week.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY WENT DOWN THE POTOMAC

Washington, April 13.—Taking advantage of a warm spring day, President and Mrs. Coolidge spent this afternoon and evening cruising on the Mayflower. The party included in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, only Frank W. Stearns, the president's close personal friend, Edward T. Clark, personal secretary to the president, and Mrs. Clark and a couple of house guests.

Members of the party went aboard the Mayflower after attending Palm Sunday services at the First Congregational church, the president's church, and the yacht steamed down the Potomac as far as Quantico, Va.

A man will go through almost anything for the woman he loves—except his pocketbook.

Officers were elected as follows; President, Miss Edna Krodel; Vice president, Miss Mary Martin; secretary, Miss Rose Hodkinson; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Newton; scribe, Miss Freda Saroski; song leader, Miss Mildred Troeger. Mrs. E. Tracy Clark is the guardian and Miss Elsie Heap, the assistant guardian.

Edward Preston, a student at Mt. Hermon school is at the home of his mother, Mrs. Florence Preston of Lisbon.

Mrs. Harold E. Linderson of Putnam spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Yerrington of South Second Avenue.

Mrs. William Zumbro, a former missionary in India, addressed the meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at the Taftville Congregational church, Sunday evening.

Leadore Paquette of South A St., is spending three weeks with relatives in Sherbrook, Canada.

Special meeting of St. Jean Baptiste society tonight at 7 o'clock, Parish hall, to take action on the death of Joseph H. Caron.—adv.

There will be special services during Holy Week on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at the Taftville Congregational church at 7 o'clock.

The death of Joseph H. Caron occurred Sunday at his home on School street after a long illness, the past three weeks having been confined to his home. Mr. Caron was born in Canada 62 years ago and when a young man came to this country, locating in Baltic. He was married 42 years ago to Delia Crepeau. He has been a resident of Taftville for many years and was well respected in the neighborhood. He was a charter member of the St. Jean Baptiste society and the Loom Fixers' union and was a member of Modern Woodmen of America. Mr. Caron took an active part in many organizations and had a host of friends. He is survived by his wife, three sons, Joseph of Central Falls, R. I., Leo of Putnam, and Antonio Caron of Taftville, five daughters, Mrs. Oscar St. Germaine, Mrs. George Raymond and Miss Mary Rose Caron all of Taftville, and Miss Antoinette Caron of Putnam and Miss Isadora Caron of Hartford. There is also one brother, John B. Caron of Central Falls, R. I.

NORWICH TOWN

News was received here Sunday, that Willis White, son of Mrs. Mary White of Norwich Town, was seriously injured and had been taken to the Lincoln hospital in New York. Mr. White is employed as brakeman on the New Haven road, on the run from New Haven to New York. The latest report was that he was still unconscious. Mrs. White's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Newbury, of Bloomfield, came to Norwich Town Sunday, after being inform of the accident to Mrs. Newbury's brother.

There is to be a meeting of the Drop-in class of the First Congregational Sunday school this (Monday) afternoon at 4 o'clock at the parsonage. Under the auspices of this class a successful rummage sale, also sale of food was held Saturday at Buckingham Memorial. Articles of clothing, etc., and a display of home cooked food were disposed of by members of the class, bringing in a generous sum to be used for church purposes.

The First Congregational Home Missionary society is to pack a box of clothing, books and toys, for the Grenfell Mission, Labrador. Articles are to be sent to the home of Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, before Wednesday.

The Norwich Town Men's League is to hold a meeting Tuesday evening,

POINTS OUT LARGER WORK FOR NORWICH Y. M. C. A. THIS YEAR

The challenge of the love of God has been taken up by the Y. M. C. A., said Rev. Millard L. Robinson, D. D., of New York city, in his address on Sunday night at the anniversary service of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., at the Central Baptist church. The service was led by James C. Macpherson, president of the Y. M. C. A. A feature was three vocal selections by Prof. Frederick Weld of the Connecticut College faculty. There was a fair sized attendance at the service which opened at 7.30 o'clock. Prayer was offered by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church.

Mr. Macpherson briefly told of the need for more liberal support for the "Y" this year, which in Norwich was organized 39 years ago. He said he questioned whether the men who participated in the organization of the "Y" had any portion of a vision of what it was going to mean to the community or as to the length of its service. It has proven a real factor in assisting the local church. The "Y" has at all times depended solely upon public support, he said. Your support has been as generous that we have wound up the year with all bills paid and usually with a small balance in the treasury. This has been brought about by wise management. Our work is growing. We have the equipment today. It means that we must have a more generous support than ever before.

General Secretary's Report.

General Secretary Edwin Hill told of the activities of the Y. M. C. A. during the past year in his annual report which he read to the congregation. The secretary's report follows:

On April 1, 1924, the Norwich Young Men's Christian Association arrived at another milestone of its history. Through all these years amid various vicissitudes, the greatest human factor in whatever success has been achieved has been the noble men, volunteer workers comprising the officers, directors and committeemen before whom we lay tonight our tribute of sincere appreciation. These men, past and present, have builded well on the original foundation of which Jesus Christ was and is the chief cornerstone, and they have with beautiful constancy followed closely after the ideals for which the institution was founded. It is hopefully interesting to note that at this particular period in history, when the poor world is torn and sad that, more than ever before, individuals, races and nations are beginning to see that the only solvent for the world's ills is found in that same great Christ upon whom our institution rests, and some of the men who are trying to find a way out for the weary world, who do not place the Christ upon the pedestal where we believe He belongs, frankly admit that the only pathway to peace and tranquility is that which was marked out by the Nazarene, and the only principles upon which the world can endure are those originated by and incarnated in this unique and matchless character, who is the "Chiefest among ten thousand, and the one altogether lovely." It seems rather significant that when the world is coming, more than ever, to think of Him that the closing message of Dr. Robert E. Speer should be based on the text, "Consider Jesus," and while I was not privileged to hear the message, being ill at home, some of the high points were relayed to me, and I doubt not the sermon will result in many giving more consideration to Jesus than heretofore.

We should feel greatly encouraged that many in the world are beginning to follow the ideals of Jesus, which we have been following though sometimes poorly lo, these many years.

Fellow members of the Christian church; fellow members of the Young Men's Christian Association, we have reason for renewed consecration to Him, and abandonment to His service, and we are warranted in pressing the rightful claims of the Christ upon those who know Him not, in wise and tactful ways at every opportune moment.

There are at least four ideals which we have striven for through the years, and never more so than during the year just closed.

The Physical Ideal.

The building up of the body and keeping it fit has been given special attention and our new and up to date physical department enables us to come nearer than ever before. Could we hear the testimonies of boys, young men and business and professional men they would tell us what a real boon the gymnasium classes have been to their physical well being, and while we are not accustomed to classify this as religious work, we remember that the inspired writer tells us that "the body is the temple of the Holy Ghost," and therefore whatever benefits the body is pleasing unto God.

The fine memorial swimming pool is certainly "a thing of beauty and a joy forever," and as I behold the various groups ever increasing in numbers, who enthusiastically enjoy the privileges of this princely gift, I can but feel that the donor must feel a thrill of heart, as she realizes what a magnificent dividend her practical investment is paying and will continue to pay in real blessings to the men and boys of our beautiful city; indeed all who have contributed to make the new home possible can justly feel gratified that their gifts are among their best investments.

The Mental Ideal.

We have endeavored to help men and boys to develop their minds along the right line of thinking; more especially has this been done quietly and in a personal way. We believe that wrong thinking is a cause of much trouble in the world, indeed, to quote "the thought is Father of the deed," and we recall that suggestive Scripture passage, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." It behooves us, therefore, to do everything in our power to assist men and boys to think straight and clean.

The Social Ideal.

Probably, the most vital and deciding contacts are the social contacts. Man is a social being, and must therefore make social contacts, and the character of these contacts very largely determine the trend of the life. "A man is known by the company he keeps" is a true proverb. One of the serious problems of the day is the social life of our young men and women. The story of the prodigal boy and the prodigal girl begins in the wrong social contacts. We have endeavored to throw around our members a clean, healthy, social atmosphere in the building, and to advise about social relations outside.

The Religious Ideal.

If we were to classify these ideals as a mountain range, the spiritual ideal we would designate the highest peak, for while the other three are very important, this ideal is of paramount importance.

To portray a week of religious activity as carried on through a large portion of the year, would probably not be amiss.

The Sunday meetings vary from the parlor gatherings to the larger meetings in the gymnasium, when out of town speakers deliver the messages. Moving pictures are used freely, the tone of every meeting is always definitely spiritual.

On Monday and Tuesday noons, meetings are conducted in manufacturing plants, and this is perhaps the most unique piece of religious work conducted by the association. It is a constant source of joy to note the deep interest of the workmen in this spiritual innovation; several nationalities are represented, and various religions, and yet the men all drink in the straight, virile, religious message as few audiences do. Many letters of approval have come from far, and near from those who have read the outlines of the shop talks in the daily papers, even from Atlantic City and Florida. Rev. C. H. Ricketts and Rev. E. C. Dunbar are the popular meeting speakers.

On Wednesday evening a good group of young men meet for practical Bible study, and in this class we try to bring religion close to daily life. Expressions indicate that these men are really helped in their living and in their work.

On Thursday evening, the employed boys' brotherhood gather under the leadership of Walter Block. The aim is to give these boys a wider outlook on life; the larger place they may fill, and the more their lives may count for themselves and for others. There is good evidence that this group has gained a vision of possibility that heretofore they had not dreamed of.

On Friday, the Academy Bible classes known as the "Hi-Y" organization holds its weekly session. This group is divided into two groups for Bible study, one led by Rev. J. H. Graham and the other by Henry D. Johnson. The fellowship among these bright fellows is marked, and we believe several of these young lives have been beautifully moulded by their contact with one another and their Christian leaders.

Special Spiritual Effort

The special meetings which have come to be known as the Danforth Lenten noonday series held on five Friday noons during the Lenten period at the Y. M. C. A. have become exceedingly popular with our business men, who are greatly inspired by the heart to heart talks given by Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London, whose messages are unusually simple and direct and deeply spiritual.

The endowment fund provided by Miss M. Louise Sturtevant, specially for the direct religious work of the association, gives to the management the great privilage of cooperation with the churches in a very definite way, by bringing to the city well known leaders in religious circles, and last month we were privileged to have Dr. Robert E. Speer, whose five virile spiritual messages were listened to with profound interest. A most significant gathering was a luncheon meeting of the Ministers of New London County as guests of the Y. M. C. A. at the hotel, with Dr. Speer as honor guest and speaker. Upwards of fifty ministers were present and the message of Dr. Speer as a world traveler in the interests of the Kingdom, evidently made a very deep impression, as indicated by the eager attention of the clergymen and their verbal expression afterward. By special request, Dr. Speer addressed a largely attended meeting of Rotarians, and I am informed that these busy, prominent business men were simply thrilled by the timely Christian message of this Godly man. Who can measure the good accomplished by the coming of Dr. Speer to our midst? No one, save God, but we know that such good seed is never sown in vain.

The Wider Outlook

Through the generosity of several of our friends, the Norwich association is represented by two "Y" secretaries in far away China; one whose budget is cared for largely by some thirty of interested Norwich citizens, and one whose budget is cared for by one individual. Inasmuch as it is day in China when it is night here, the local Y. M. C. A. is therefore operating twenty four hours of every day, for while we sleep our "Y" workers yonder are touching the Chinese young men and boys with the spirit of the Master.

One may be interested much in his city, but if that is all, he is a narrow man. If his interests are limited to his own country even, he is still a narrow man. Jesus loved not only an individual, or a city, or a nation, he loved and still loves a world, and thank God our own local association has such a vital interest in the far flung battle lines of the kingdom.

At this point I want to express my appreciation of the officers, directors and committeemen for their uniform courtesy and cooperation. The board has certainly been considerate of and patient with their general secretary at all times.

I want to bear testimony to the faithfulness of my associates on the employed staff, and for their contribution to the success of the past year. To E. J. Fritz, the physicial director, who has spent himself early and late for the physical well being of men and boys; to Emery H. Davis, who has a big heart for the younger element of the association; he has constantly pointed the boys to high ideals; to Lewis R. Church, who has been the essence of faithfulness in the variety of duties that go with his position as assistant secretary.

The helpfulness of our Woman's Auxiliary has become proverbial, and their labor of love in our behalf is deeply appreciated. In addition to the regular service on various occasions, they recently made the final payment on their pledge of $5,000 to the new building.

To the clergymen of the city who have cheerfully responded to our calls we express hearty thanks. Their cooperation has been most helpful.

For the uniform kindness and liberal help of the daily papers we are very grateful, for we know what it means to the association to have the friendship of the newspapers.

We sincerely thank every person who made a contribution the past year whether small or large.

Conditions compel me to be frank in stating that if we are to continue the work on the scale of last year, and if we are to respond to the opening opportunities of enlarging the work in order to measure up to what the citizens have a right to expect, we must have largely increased subscriptions, and so we make no apology for asking our friends to receive the faithful men who ask for financial support with a warm welcome, and to respond with enlarged liberality. We covet your prayers; we value your friendship; we ask you to share with us the larger responsibility.

We look backward with profound gratitude to God for his unfailing leadership; we look forward with a glad hope for future conquests, and we enter the new year with an unshaken confidence in a God who is almighty, believing that He will not fail us at any point, if only we will spend ourselves in consecrated effort in behalf of the city's greatest assets, its men and boys.

Dr. Robinson Speaks

Rev. Millard L. Robinson, D. D., of New York city, the speaker of the evening, was introduced by President Macpherson. He took his text from John 3-16—"God so loved the world, that He Gave". Think over your gifts, said Dr. Robinson. Do you give them to satisfy yourself? God gave because He loved the world. Love is not an obligation. God so loved that, without obligation of any kind on His part He gave. From the foundation of the world He gave.

He gave the creation. For His own Glory? No, for the use of man. God's creation, the free gift of God, has been the priceless possession of man since the beginning. God gave us intelligence. He made man in His own image, with the power of free will. He gave us, also a more marvelous gift, the gift of spiritual apprehension.

Best of all, God so loved, that He gave, not a donation, but a deliverance. He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him shall be saved. God gave not a donation, but a deliverance from the bondage that was holding men tight and fast. As you follow along the greatness of God's gifts have you caught the challenge of that gift?

How closely the Y. M. C. A. follows the example of the love of God. God so loved the world that He gave creation. The "Y" so loves the boy that it gives the boy creation, creation of a new life and bodily vigor. It is almost as important to know how to play as to pray well. Think it over. The mind of man develops under the direction of the association. The challenge of the love of God has been taken up by the association.

The offering will be used to defray the expenses of the service. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Congregational church and the congregation was dismissed by the organ chimes.

GIVE INSTRUCTIONS FOR LEBANON JUNIOR DAIRYMEN

The Junior Dairy Club of Lebanon met at the High School last week with a large attendance including 3 visitors. Two new members also entered club.

Mr. Simms from the college at Storrs was present and brought the boys some new record books giving a detailed account of how to use them.

The topic for the evening was Breeds of Dairy Cattle. The boys had a very interesting and instructive discussion on this subject. Mr. Simms also recommended trying lime and acid phosphate to improve pasture and get a stand of white clover, recommending 1,000 pounds of quick lime and 300 pounds of phosphate.

The next meeting will be May 1 at 7.30 when the topic will be Dairy Type. Mr. Simms has promised lantern slides.

Methodist Men's Get-Together

The men's classes of the Methodist churchs at Baltic and Willimantic are to be guests of the Trinity Methodist men on Friday evening, April 25, when a great men's get-together will be held. Professor Homer E. Work of Boston is to be the speaker for the gathering.

Verdict Was for $7,527

The previous verdict rendered for Mrs. Mary Bates of Preston against George W. Carroll of this city, which is now in the superior court for retrial, was $7,527 instead of $1,500 as was stated through typographical error.

FORECLOSURE IS GRANTED ON $10,000 MORTGAGE

Foreclosure by sale of a $10,000 mortgage on the old Y. M. C. A. building on Broadway was granted in favor of the Chelsea Savings bank against Max Silberman of Fleischmans, N. Y., and others by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin, in the superior court at New London Friday.

The complaint in the case states that the mortgage was given Dec. 11, 1922, by Abner Schwartz, who sold the premises to Silberman on Dec. 12, 1922, and that Silberman on Dec. 13, cleared bankrupt on Oct. 16, 1923, with Henry B. Sewall of Sidney, N. Y., as trustee. A mortgage for $23,500 on this property and on property on Water street is claimed by Harry U. and Max Rosenthal of Manhattan, N. Y., and a mortgage for $15,000 on both these pieces of property by Abner Schwartz of this city.

Other motion list matters disposed of were the following:

Angeline M. Mersicata vs James Mersicata, alimony pendente lite, postponed; Regina B. Pensalini vs. Gino Pensalini, hearing on motion to modify judgment, judge took the papers; Andrews vs Puritan-Maid Bread company, allowance of receiver's final account, decree dissolving corporation, discharge of receiver, postponed; Hans Andrew Haagensen, application for change of name, hearing, judgment; Mary F. Perkins vs. Clarence W. Perkins, that case be placed on uncontested divorce list for failure to plead, ordered on uncontested list; Mary Heaslip Gottschalk vs. Henry Casemore Gottschalk, permission to amend plaintiff's complaint granted; Clarence M. Shay vs Niantic Menhaden Oil & Guano Co., approval of semi-annual statements of receiver, approved; Cassara vs Farley, motion for bill of particulars, granted; Savings Bank of New London vs Frusher, et al, judgment of foreclosure, postponed; Savings Bank of New London vs Sweeney, Admr., et al, judgment of foreclosure, postponed; Savings Bank of New London vs Sweeney, Admr., et al, judgment of foreclosure, postponed.

In the divorce suit of Jonathan Starr of Groton against Alice C. Mabry Starr, now of Albermarle, N. C., in which Mr. Starr alleged desertion on Nov. 14, 1918, and Mrs. Starr filed a crossbill alleging desertion on Dec. 20, 1918, Judge Marvin took the papers. The case was before the court on a motion for judgment in accordance with recommendation of committee. The case had been heard before Marcus H. Holcomb as referee, who recommended that a divorce be granted to the defendant on the ground of desertion, Dec. 20, 1918, and that Mr. Starr pay $10 per week for the support of their child until further order of court. The couple was married at Washington, D. C., Nov. 2, 1911.

CHARGE FOUR MEN WITH STEALING MOTOR METER

Charged with the theft of a motor meter Saturday night from an automobile belonging to a Norwich man named McKenzie, three Taftville men and a New London man were brought here Sunday morning from Jewett City where it is claimed they tried to steal the motor meter off the Jewett City police car.

The quartet consists of Francis and Louis Basinet and Romer Archibald of Taftville, and Calvin W. Edmonds of New London. After they had been arrested in Jewett City about 1 o'clock Sunday morning, Mr. McKenzie, who lives on Winchester street, drove to Jewett City where he identified his motor meter that was in the possession of the men and that had been taken from McKenzie's car as it was parked near the Majestic building Saturday night. Sergt. Thomas Murphy, who was in charge at Norwich police headquarters, notified the surrounding towns when the theft here was reported and the Jewett City department let him know when they caught the four with a motor meter in their possession. It is charged that they were trying to steal meters off cars in Jewett City and broke the meter on the police car in their attempt to get it off.

Sunday morning Officers Charles Smith and Michael Carroll brought the four here from Jewett City in the Norwich motor patrol wagon.

PALM SUNDAY MUSIC AT ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH

At St. Joseph's church on Palm Sunday the music was worthy of special mention. The singing at the mass at 8, 9 and 10.30 by the junior choir of eighteen voices, the parochial school choir of sixty, and the senior choir of thirty voices blended in the sadness and joyousness of the day.

The sanctuary choir with their young voices singing the processional preceding the blessing of the palms, alternating with the fuller and deeper tones of the senior choir, was of a truly devotional character.

During the reading of the passion, the choir sang softly the "Stabat Mater." Korman's mass was sung, and at the offertory "The Palms" was rendered by Frank Krupinski, baritone, in excellent voice.

The Coventry democratic town committee has announced the delegates to the state convention, Perkins L. Lathrop and Byron W. Hall.

WHAT IS THE OFFER made by THE EASTERN CONNECTICUT POWER COMPANY?

THE FIRST OFFER was to sell power to the Gas and Electrical Department at a price that, for the year 1922, would have represented a saving over the actual cost of production of $69,657.94.
As there seemed to be no way, under municipal operation, to pass this saving of nearly $70,000 to the users of electricity

THE SECOND OFFER was made, and this was to purchase the Gas and Electrical property at the value at which it appears on the books of the department.

| | |
|---|---|
| THIS CALLS FOR THE PAYMENT to the city of | $1,429,042.56 |
| In addition to this sum there is the net balance of the remaining current assets above current debt of | 263,854.40 |
| TOTAL PROCEEDS OF THE SALE | $1,692,896.96 |
| THE CITY DEBT could then be reduced | $1,692,896.96 |
| The debt incurred on account of the Gas and Electrical Department is | 958,000.00 |
| The payment of this would leave in cash to retire other debt, or for other city uses | $ 734,896.96 |
| THE TAX PAYER would then be relieved of an item of interest equal to, say 4 1-2 per cent on this $734,896.96 or | $ 33,070.36 |

TO WHICH SHOULD BE ADDED the amount of taxes which would be paid by The Eastern Connecticut Power Company, if it were the owner of this property—an item of income that has been lost to the city since 1905.

THIS SHOULD MEAN A REDUCED TAX RATE.

Serial No. 4 will make clear that part of the offer that has to do with the reduction in rates for electric service.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE GIVES EXPLICIT CITIZENSHIP TALK AT CONGRESS OF D. A. R.

Chief Executive Exhorts Women of America to Exercise Fully Their Newly-Gained Right of Suffrage—Asserts That the Country Wants Not Only the Votes But the Influence of Its Women in the Coming Election—Warns That No Minority is Good Enough to Be Trusted With the Government of a Majority—Also That No Majority Can Be Trusted at All Times to Exercise Unlimited Control Over a Minority.

Washington, April 14—An appeal to the women of America to exercise fully their newly-gained right of suffrage in the November national elections was made by President Coolidge in an address tonight before the thirty-third continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The president combined with this appeal a warning against departure "in this current troubled period" from the American system of government providing for coordinate legislative, executive and judicial authority and for government by the majority. He made no direct reference, however, to the recent clashes between the executive and legislative departments, nor did he mention specifically recent combinations of the democratic minority with insurgent republicans to over-ride the republican majority in congress.

The American people, the president declared, may well be summoned "to the preservation, the guardianship and the gradual perfection of this system of government which assures to the people equality against the tyranny of any despotic executive and the tyranny of any despotic legislature."

Pointing out that American women this year for the first time are able to know long in advance of the national elections that they are to have the right of the ballot, Mr. Coolidge asserted that the country wants not only the votes but the influence of its women in the coming elections.

"Every voter ought not merely to vote, but to vote under the inspiration of a high purpose to serve the nation," he continued. "It has been calculated that in most elections only about half of those entitled to vote actually exercise their franchise. What is worse, a considerable part of those who neglect to vote do it because of a curious assumption of superiority to this elementary duty of the citizen. They presume to be rather too good, too exclusive, to soil their hands with the work of politics. Such an attitude cannot too vigorously be condemned. Popular government is facing one of the difficult phases of the perpetual trial to which it always has been and always will be subjected. It needs the support of every element of patriotism, intelligence and capacity that can be summoned.

"I suppose that even among the daughters of the American Revolution there are some who sincerely feel that it is unbecoming of their sex to take an active part in politics. It is a little difficult to comprehend how such an attitude could be maintained by any women eligible to such a society as this, and sufficiently interested in the society to participate in its work. Nevertheless, there are such, and to them I want especially to direct an appeal for a different attitude toward the obligations of the voter. I am much less concerned for what party, what policies and what candidates you vote, than that you shall vote, and that your vote shall represent conviction. When an enlightened electorate acts, I have no fear of the result.

"Here in America we are living under a form of democratic-republican institutions which I profoundly believe to be the best that has yet been thoroughly tested. I say this because our system has gone so far in carefully separating the different departments of the government. In the early development of popular institutions the legislative and executive authorities were divided. But not until the founders of our republic had made a further distribution and differentiation of functions was popular government assured the opportunity to prove its case. When the judicial function was set apart and made the third independent but coordinating factor in the form of government the scheme of a perfected democratic-republicanism was for the first time presented to the world. That was the great contribution made by the founding fathers in our constitution. By virtue of it, the people were at last secured equality against the tyranny of any despotic executive and the tyranny of any despotic legislature. Neither of them, nor both of them, together, might thereafter impose a lawless will upon a defenseless people.

"To the preservation, the guardianship and the gradual perfection of this system, the American people may well be summoned. From its earliest establishment, our government has been an example to other peoples, wherever they might be, seeking the way of enlightened freedom. It is for us so to direct the processes of our public life that our institutions shall continue worthy of the admiration and imitation of other communities, and the sure defence of our own liberties, in this we shall render our greatest service to humanity.

"We shall succeed if we keep always before us the high purpose which presided at the beginning of our government. We shall need at all times, and we need particularly in this current troubled period, to keep clearly in our thought the conception of our system as the most nearly perfect mode of guaranteeing the essentials of freedom. Under it we have enjoyed liberty without license. Under it we have grown in strength and wealth and moral authority. But we have never seen, and it is unlikely that we ever shall see the time when we can safely relax our vigilance and ask our institutions to run themselves under the hand of an active, even though well-intentioned paternity. Abraham Lincoln said that no man is good enough to govern any other man. To that we might add that no minority is good enough to be trusted with the government of a majority and still further, we shall be wise if we maintain also that no majority can be trusted to be wise enough, and good enough at all times, to exercise unlimited control over a minority. We need the restraints of a written constitution.

"To prevent the possibility of such things happening, we must require that all citizens who are entitled to do so, to take their full part in public affairs. We must be sure that they are educated, trained and equipped to do their part well. We must not permit the mechanism of government, the multiplicity of constitutional and statutory provisions to become so complex as to get beyond control by an aroused electorate. We must provide ample facilities of education and training, require constant expansion and liberalization. We must aim to impress upon each citizen the individual duty to be a sincere student of public problems, in order that they may rightly render the service which their citizenship exacts. But after all, good citizenship is neither intricate nor involved. It is simple and direct. It is every-day common sense and justice.

"The determination of national policy that will be made in next November will turn quite as much upon the attitude of the women, as upon the judgments of the men. So I come to you women, who I know will pardon me if I prefer to address you as representatives of the daughters of all the revolutions, rather than as merely daughters of the American revolution, to say that your country wants not only your votes, but your influence, in the coming elections.

By this I do not mean to appeal in behalf of any par[illegible] appeal in behalf of our common country. It is not enough to say that you did not seek the ballot. Your heroic sires did not seek the revolution. But it came, and they met it by heroic action. Surely the womanhood of the nation, who go down into the valley of the shadow death for their sons and daughters cannot long neglect to participate in elections that they and their children may continue to have the advantages of a government that is clean and wise and sound.

"As it was the initiation of America which made manhood suffrage a modern ideal for the world, so we want now the initiation of America to make citizen suffrage a demonstrated success for the world. I have absolute confidence that the American womanhood will exercise the right of franchise, after fair, considerate and mature deliberation, voting for what is right as their best judgment shows them the right, that the right will mightily prevail. Surely the womanhood of our country, who have lavished upon the sons and daughters of the land such a wealth of affection, who watch over them in every crisis, from the cradle to the grave, with immeasurable devotion, will not hesitate to make sufficient sacrifice to preserve for themselves and those they love the last best hope of the world—American institutions."

PLEADED GUILTY OF FORGERY OF NAME OF CHARLES SCHWAB

New York, April 14—Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes, business woman of Boston and Brookline, Mass., unexpectedly ended her trial for the alleged forgery of Charles M. Schwab's name to a $25,000 note when she entered today a plea of guilty to a charge of attempted third degree forgery.

General Sessions Judge McIntyre, accepting the plea, warned Mrs Hayes and her counsel that he would not consent to its subsequent withdrawal. He continued the prisoner on the $10,000 bail on which she has been at liberty and set April 25 as the day of sentence. The maximum sentence that can be imposed for the offense is two and one-half years.

The first of forty prosecution witnesses was about to be called when Edward Hymes, Mrs. Hayes' counsel, told the court his client would consent to plead guilty to the third degree forgery charge rather than stand trial on the indictment, which charged forgery in the second degree. The prosecution forces consented to accept the compromise.

Mrs. Hayes' indictment last May was the result of her failure to meet the $25,000 note which bore the signature of the wealthy steel man. Schwab repudiated the endorsement, later testifying before a bankruptcy referee that from time to time, over a period of 20 years, he had loaned her money. He had done so, he said, because of a $2,000 loan to her in 1902, which had been followed by other loan demands based on a threat of publicity which would have resulted in placing an erroneous construction on his previous associations with her. The steel man was to have been called as a prosecution witness tomorrow.

BLAZING BROOM CORN SET FIRE TO MANY ROOFS

Everett, Mass., April 14.—Blazing broom corn blown by a strong wind over a thickly settled district from a burning factory today set fire to the roofs of nearly fifty houses. The local fire department and apparatus from Boston and other nearby cities finally checked the fire after two factories and a sidwelling had been destroyed and many dwellings damaged. The loss was estimated at $75,000.

Embers from burning rubbish on a dump ignited the broom factory of John Conrad and company and the inflammable contents of the two story wooden building made it burn rapidly. The adjoining bottle factory of Israel Saperstein and a dwelling were destroyed and the roofs of a score of houses were ruined.

Water curtains raised by the Boston firemen finally stopped the spread of the flames. Lieutenant William B. Parker, of the Everett fire department sustained a broken arm when he tripped over a hose and Fred Peterson, a housemam, and John J. Sullivan, a volunteer fireman, were slightly hurt. A child was injured when struck by a piece of apparatus hastening to the

Case of John Wesley De Kay

London, April 14.—After granting bail in £2,000 to John Wesley De Kay, wanted in Rhode Island in connection with the alleged misapplication of funds of the Atlantic National bank, the high court today rescinded its action on the request of the director of public prosecutions. The matter will be reargued tomorrow.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The supreme court held Nebraska's minimum and maximum bread weight law invalid.

The senate finance committee voted to give the bonus priority over the tax reduction.

Attorney General Stone accepted an invitation to confer with the Daugherty investigating committee on questions before that body.

Contending forces in the senate renewed their warfare over Secretary Mellon and the future of the congressional investigation program.

A batch of new witnesses, including William Cooper Procter, arrived for the resumption tomorrow of the senate oil committee's inquiry.

The senate Daugherty committee voted to cite M. S. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, to the bar of the senate for contempt.

The senate after the most spirited debate on foreign affairs in years rejected a committee amendment to the immigration bill which would have ratified and continued the gentlemen's agreement with Japan.

ALIENIST DECLARES THAW SANE AND COMPETENT

Philadelphia, April 14. — Harry K. Thaw was declared sane and competent to manage his affairs today by Dr. Charles K. Mills, veteran alienist, in testimony at the opening of the jury trial to determine whether Thaw has regained his normal faculties.

Thaw's eighty-two-year-old mother, Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, who joined in the petition for the trial, was in the courtroom when Dr. Mills made his assertion.

The trial was marked by the intervention of Russel William Thaw, thirteen-year-old son of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's divorced wife, which was permitted after Judge Monaghan had appointed one of Miss Nesbit's counsel as guardian for the boy. Anticipatory interest in Thaw's estate was given as the basis for the intervention.

Developments at the trial ran the gamut of human emotions. Sensation seekers were barred from the courtroom. Only those who could show subpoenas in connection with the case being admitted.

The jury chosen was composed entirely of men.

Thaw entered the courtroom accompanied by two guards from the asylum. He appeared to have taken on weight, and his hair had turned a silvery gray. His eyes, large and prominent, flitted about, rarely resting. Miss Nesbit, who arrived early in the day at the office of her attorney, was taken ill and left for Atlantic City, after being instructed not to appear at her cabaret tonight, but to prepare herself to go on the witness stand tomorrow.

Mrs. Thaw spent the morning, during which the jury was being picked, at her hotel. At the noon recess, Thaw, under guard, was taken to see her and had lunch with her after an affecting greeting.

Shortly after Dr. Mills had taken the stand at the afternoon session, Mrs. Thaw, leaning upon a cane, appeared, dressed in black. With a low cry, Thaw, who had been sitting in the audience with his guards, sprang to his feet and dashed to her, embracing and kissing her affectionately. He led her gently to a seat, and helped her remove her coat, chatting encouragingly as he did so. Mrs. Thaw was accompanied by Mrs. J. L. Mayo and Mrs. Mary Burnette, life-long friends.

BOBBED-HAIR GIRL HELD ON VAGRANCY CHARGE

Springfield, Mass., April 14.—Ray Latta, 19 years old bobbed- haired companion of a gunman who Saturday night held up two men in a filling station here and got away in an automobile with $187, was held in court today on a vagrancy charge pending further information. The girl was arrested in a hotel where the police say the holdup man was known to have visited her but they say they have nothing to connect her with the robbery. The girl has admitted leaving her home in Oklahoma City, Okla., several weeks ago with the man sought by the police and coming overland by automobile with him. The small car used is said to be the same in which the gunman got away after the hold up.

BOYCOTTING SCHOOL BUILDING IN HAVERHILL

Haverhill, Mass., April 14.—Boycotting of the Currier school by a committee of mothers who are opposed to children attending school in the building because of its dangerous condition, was put into effect this morning and achieved the result of greatly reducing the attendance. Eight women, wearing bands across their breasts in true picket style, were on duty near the school.

Principal Walter S. Wrigley and attendance officer, George A. Pickard, stated the first plateon of pupils is supposed to consist of 300, but there were only 50 who attended school on this first shift.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF CRUELTY TO CHILD

Boston, April 14.—Accused of stringing up four-year-old William Mahegan by the thumbs and beating him black and blue, Mrs. Ruby P. Williams was arraigned in the Charlestown court today on a charge of assault and held in $3,000 bail. The boy was reported in a critical condition in a hospital.

A police sergeant testified that the woman, with whom William was boarding, had driven a nail in the wall and lashed the boy's thumbs to it so that he hung several inches from the floor. After the beating, the officer said, she left him suspended for several minutes.

A week-end visitation by men with counterfeit $10 federal reserve notes resulted in three of the counterfeits turning up in Torrington banks.

Agree on Industrial Operations In Ruhr

New Arrangement Runs For Two Months From April 15, When the Old Agreement Terminates.

Berlin, April 14—(By the A. P.)—The agreement between the Ruhr mine owners and the allied "micum" organization regarding industrial operations and deliveries in kind in the Ruhr, which expires April 15, has been extended to June 15, as the result of negotiations in Duesseldorf between the two parties, it was announced here this afternoon.

Duesseldorf, April 14 — The "micum" announced this afternoon that an agreement had been reached with the Ruhr industrialists on practically all the points that remained unsettled after last Friday's provisional understanding. A statement from the German side says an agreement has been reached on all points. It is expected the agreement will be signed almost immediately. The new arrangement runs for two months from April 15, when the old agreement expires.

GERMAN GOV'T TO SEND NOTE TO PARIS TODAY

Berlin, April. 14—(By the A. P.)—The German government's reply to the communication of the reparation commission regarding the experts' report will be sent to Paris Tuesday, political circles are informed that the Marx-Stresemann cabinet will second the action of the reparation commission with respect to the latter's adoption of the report as a basis for negotiations.

The formal draft of the German reply, however, was deferred until tomorrow owing to the late adjournment of today's extended conferences between the central government and the premiers of the federated states.

CONTEST OVER ESTATE OF EDWIN F. SEARLES

New York, April 14.—Counsel defending victory Albert Searles in the $325,000 suit filed against him by Judge Harry C. Curtis, of Warwick, R. I., told a jury before Supreme Court Justice Proskauer that his client would lose the $4,400,000 gained by him from the estate of his uncle, the late Edward F. Searles, if the 14 lawyers associated in the case were to be paid on the basis demanded by the Rhode Island jurist.

Judge Curtis was one of the dozen attorney who had something to do with the settlement of the younger Searles' suit to break his uncles will. He also represented the nephew when Mrs. Searles obtained a divorce. He received $25,000 for his services, but believes he should have been paid $250,000, and the suit he filed to collect the different went to trial today.

The elder Searles died at Methuen, Mass., in 1920, bequeathing all but $4,000,000 to his $25,000,000 estate to his secretary Arthur E. Walker. To his nephew he left but $250,000. He sued to break the will and eventually obtained a compromise settlement of $4,400,000.

Judge Curtis, one of twelve lawyers retained at different time by the younger Searles during the litigation, claims to have been largely instrumental in forcing the settlement. Col. William Rand, counsel for Judge Curtis, told the court today that his client's discovery of letters which had been written by the elder Searles to a youth, Michael Angelo Ellison, had turned the tide in the nephew's favor, Walker agreeing to the compromise, he said, rather than submitting to their publication.

Max D Steuer, attorney for the nephew, told the jury that Judge Curtis had had little to do with the compromise, which he said was effected by others of the twelve lawyers, and that the $25,000 paid the Warwick jurist by his client had been a liberal one. He belittled the significance of the letters from the elder Searles to Ellison, and said the eventual compromise was well on its way before their existence was known.

Attorney Rand told the jury the Searles fortune had been left him by Mrs. Searles, who was the widow of Mark Hopkins, pioneer railroad builder of the west. Searles married her, he said, while in her employ as an interior decorator, in 1887, when she was 67 years old and he 40. She died in 1891.

The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

PUGILIST NOT EQUAL TO WOMAN WITH MILK BOTTLE

Minneapolis, Minn., April 14.—An empty milk bottle, expertly wielded, "willfully and without provocation," was responsible for a knockout Mrs. Maud Thompson registered against Fred Fulton, Minnesota heavyweight fighter, according to the latter's answer in a damage suit brought by Mrs. Thompson.

The answer, filed today is in the suit for $15,000 damages brought by Mrs. Thompson, who charges the fighter with assault and battery. Fulton denies any assault and recites how the woman who claimed a knockout in her suit, had "assaulted him by striking him over the left eye with a milk bottle, and while his back was turned, thereby leaving an unsightly and prominent scar."

SALARY OF CALL MEN GREATER THAN FIRE CHIEF'S

Hollis, N. H., April 14.—Fire Chief Albert F. Hildreth resigned his office this morning to become a call man in this department. At the recent town meeting the annual salary for call men was increased to $12 for twelve months, the salary of the chief being left stationary at $10 per annum. "A title isn't everything in life," says the retiring chief, who was formerly editor of the Hollis Times.

FIVE ENLISTED MEN OF THE U. S. ARMY KILLED WHEN ARMY TRUCK OVERTURNED

Honolulu, April 14.—(By the A. P.)—Five enlisted men of the United States army detachment at Schofield barracks were killed and five others injured this afternoon when an army truck carrying fifteen men overturned on the road between Schofield and Haleiwa.

The dead are: Corporal Ellies Parker, Privates Anthony Urbik, Lawrence Kennealy, Harry Kimes and Chester Wallace.

The accident, said to have been the worst in the history of the Hawaiian department, occurred at "Hairpin Turn," a particularly treacherous spot in the Schofield barracks road. Survivors said the road was wet and the truck skidded at the turn, going completely over.

Soldier Bonus Wins Priority in Senate

Main Fight Will Center on Proposal to Incorporate an Option For Full Cash Payments.

Washington, April 14.—The soldier bonus bill won the right of way over the tax measure in the senate by vote today of the finance committee and will be brought up for consideration before the end of the week.

Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, joined republicans in approving such a program, while other democrats did not vote, Chairman Smoot said.

Senator Curtis, of Kansas, a republican member of the committee, will report the bill formally to the senate tomorrow and there were indications tonight that the legislative calendar would be cleared for it by Wednesday or Thursday.

Passage of the bonus bill has been freely predicted even by opponents, and Chairman Smoot expressed the opinion today that it would be disposed of by early next week. The revenue bill, he said, would be taken up immediately thereafter.

The main fight on the bonus measure will be on the proposal of Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking minority member on the finance committee, to incorporate an option for full cash payments. The bill as agreed to by the finance committee is practically the same as approved by the house and its passage in this form would assure a speedy report from conference to the president.

The bill provides for 20-year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation. Some republican leaders have indicated the belief that in this form it would pass both houses over the veto of President Coolidge, who has declared opposition to a soldier bonus.

Democrats of the committee indicated today that no determined effort would be made to upset the program for consideration of the bonus bill ahead of the tax measure.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN CONFERENCE HAS CONVENED IN LONDON

London, April 14 (By the A. P.)—The task of converting Great Britain's de jure recognition of Russia which was accorded the union of soviets February 1 in fulfillment of the labor party's campaign pledges, into a practical working arrangement which it is hoped will settle all past differences and reestablish normal trade and political relations between the two countries, began this morning when the Russian mission, under Christian Rakovsky met with the British delegates headed by Premier Macdonald at the big horseshoe conference table in the ambassador's room of the foreign office.

In his welcoming address Premier MacDonald summed up the whole purpose of the conference in the sentence: "You want political countenance and financial assistance from us and we want neighborliness and recognition of international obligations."

The labor premier told the Russians that Great Britain, by according the soviet government full diplomatic status, had taken the first step, and added that it was a pretty big one.

"Let us together take the second step and justify the hopes of many millions who look upon this meeting with so much expectation," he concluded.

Although the British premier did not mention the fact this morning, it is authoritatively understood that there is not the slightest possibility of the British government making a loan to Russia, no matter how successful the present conference may be from the British point of view. All loans and credits must be privately negotiated with British bankers.

WOULD INSTITUTE SUIT AGAINST CONNECTICUT CO.

Hartford, April 14.—Corporation Counsel Robert P. Butler announced this afternoon that he intended to ask the city council for authority to institute suit against the Connecticut company for payment of funds due under the Tucker grant. More than $50,000 is involved. The Tucker grant has been in operation since 1895 and under it Hartford receives two per cent of the gross income from fares within the city. The income due February 1, has not been paid. It was reported that the company was holding back payment because of opposition to operation of one-man cars here but the company has made no explanation of its delay in paying the income.

EDISON HAS RETURNED FROM ANNUAL VACATION

West Orange, N. J., April 14.—Back from his annual vacation at Fort Myers, Fla., where he maintains a winter home, Thomas A. Edison, inventor, today returned to his laboratory here. William H. Meadowcraft, his personal representative, said the inventor was feeling fine.

Although illness of her husband was given in Washington today as the reason for the resignation of Mrs. Thomas A. Edison as chaplain-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Charles Edison, the inventor's daughter-in-law, tonight expressed the opinion it was due to the large amount of work in connection with the office and the necessity of repeatedly being away. She said Mr Edison was in excellent health and spent the entire day in his laboratory.

SENATE VOTES AGAINST RECOGNITION OF "GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT" WITH JAPAN

Voted Down, 72 to 2, Committee Amendment Which Would Have Ratified the Agreement—Action Presages Adoption by the Senate by an Overwhelming Majority of the House Japanese Exclusion Provision—Senators Resented "Veiled Threat" in Japanese Ambassador's Letter That Contained Warning of "Grave Consequences."

Washington, April 14—The senate answered Ambassador Hanihara's protest against Japanese exclusion legislation today by voting 76 to 2, against the recognition of the "gentlemen's agreement" with Japan on the immigration question.

This action is preliminary to adoption by the senate by an overwhelming majority of the house Japanese exclusion provision.

Whatever the result would have been without the incident of the ambassador's letter, that communication served to change the votes of a number of administration leaders, including Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

The republican leader informed the senate in open session that he regretted the Hanihara letter as a "veiled threat" and declared that in the face of that threat he could not support the immigration committee's proposal to recognize by law the "gentlemen's agreement."

A number of the senators took the same view and only one vote, that of Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, was raised in defense of the ambassador's action. Senator Colt, chairman of the immigration committee, joined Senator Sterling in the vote, but did not speak.

Senators generally threw off the usual restraints in dealing with informal and outspoken in their declarations that in view of the "grave consequences" warning in the ambassador's letter there was nothing for them to do but to make it clear once and for all that immigration is a domestic question in the handling of which no independent power could have its sovereignty questioned.

While the debate proceeded, Secretary Hughes, who transmitted Mr. Hanihara's letter to the white house and senate immigration committees last week, twice conferred with President Coolidge. He declined to say what the nature of the conversations had been and no information was forthcoming from the white house.

After the vote which eliminated the language framed by the committee to legalize the "gentlemen's agreement," Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who is actively in charge of the immigration bill, gave notice that an added amendment would be drafted overnight in the same language as that employed in the bill which the house passed last week by a majority of more than four to one. This assures that whatever differences may arise on other points between the two houses in completing the immigration bill, the Japanese exclusion provision will go to the president.

No indication has yet come from the white house as to the course President Coolidge will follow. Today's developments indicate that there would be sufficient votes in both houses to repass the bill over a veto should the president take that course. Senate republican leaders were frank, however, in privately expressing the opinion that the president would sign the immigration measure, despite the fact that through Secretary Hughes the administration has consistently resisted Japanese exclusion legislation.

Senator Lodge diverted the senate from a partisan war of words in order to bring the Japanese question to an issue. He moved unexpectedly for an executive session to consider that phase of the immigration bill. A brief session behind closed doors followed during which Senator Johnson, republican, California, made his long awaited address in favor of Japanse exclusion.

At this point Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, objected to further consideration of the subject in secret, declaring that the people were entitled to know what was being said and done in the senate. Senator Lodge then withdrew his motion, the doors were reopened and the debate went forward.

While no record was taken of Senator Johnson's address and the senator spoke without notes, it was disclosed that he had characterized the Hanihara letter as "impertinent" and as a communication which would not be "tolerated" by even a fourth class power. He added that it was "monstrous" that Secretary Hughes had not replied to kind instead of transmitting the letter to congress.

Senator Lodge himself revealed after the doors were reopened that he had already informed his colleagues of his intention to vote against the committee compromise as an answer to the Hanihara letter.

Asserting that he would only repeat what he had said in executive session, Senator Lodge declared he always had been very friendly to the Japanese people and had intended to do all in his power to make the legislation in the present bill as easy for them and for their feelings as possible.

"But, the question of immigration," he added, "is perhaps the greatest of fundamental sovereign rights. If a country cannot say who shall come into the country, it has ceased to be a sovereign country; it has become a subject country.

"I regret to say that the letter addressed to our state department by the ambassador from Japan seems to me a letter improper to be addressed by the representative of one great country to another friendly country. It contains, I regret to say, a veiled threat.

"The United States can not legislate by the exercise by any other country of veiled threats. Owing to this, what we are now doing, therefore, assumes the character of an international precedent and I think it should be understood, and understood by the whole world, that the United States alone is to say who shall come into the United States to form part of its citizenship.

"What our country determines as to its immigration is neither a just cause of offense nor a subject for war, unless

MRS. RALPH PULITZER WINS DIVORCE DECREE IN PARIS

Paris, April 14.—A divorce between Ralph Pulitzer, the New York publisher, and his wife, was granted by the fourth chamber of the civil tribunal of the Seine on April 9. The divorce was granted in favor of Mrs. Pulitzer, who came to France a year ago and spent last winter in Paris.

The court is rendering the judgment applied the law of the state of Vermont, where the couple were married in 1905. This is in accordance with the recent practice of the French courts that applicants show that the divorce asked could be obtained in the state of the American union in which the marriage was contracted.

The divorce proceedings between Mr. and Mrs. Pulitzer were begun early this year. Before her marriage Mrs. Pulitzer was Miss Frederica Vanderbilt Webb, daughter of Dr. W. Seward Webb and a granddaughter of the first Cornelius Vanderbilt.

REVISION OF REGULATIONS GOVERNING LIQUOR PERMITS

Washington, April 14.—Codification of the various amended and approved regulations governing liquor permits was announced tonight by the prohibition unit in a detailed statement showing revision of regulation No. 60 that has been made since prohibition became effective. The new regulations go into effect May 1.

The most important of the changes, which have been published, from time to time, as they were announced, provides that persons holding permits to use intoxicating liquors for manufacturing purposes may not renew their applications for such permits every year as now required.

These permits, which are prefaced by the letter "H" under the revised regulations will "continue in full force and effect so long as the supporting bond required by the regulations remains in full force and effect, or until canceled, suspended, revoked or voluntarily surrendered by the com-

Local young men, Jeremiah and Daniel Sullivan, Paul Flynn and E. John Connors, placed under arrest on intoxication charges Saturday night, were in the police court Monday morning. All but Jeremiah Sullivan pleaded not guilty but the four men were found guilty and fined $10 and costs each. Police officers who made the arrests testified to the drunken condition of the men. The arrest of Flynn and Connors caused the bad reputation of the Nowak house on Chapman street to come to light. The place has been referred to as "The House of David" and has carried an evil name for some time as a moonshine joint. Flynn and Connors were found standing in the rear of the Nowak home after it had been reported that a row was going on at the place. They denied being intoxicated at the time. Jeremiah Sullivan was picked up by the officers while they were on their way back to [illegible]ton in a motor car with Flynn and Connors.

Victor Granshan pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and received the same penalty as imposed in the four previous cases.

Raymond E. Brown, 17, of Spring street was charged with riding a bicycle on the footbridge and he pleaded guilty through Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham, as guardian ad litem. Brown said that he did not realize that the law was being enforced on the bridges as others were riding their bicycles there at all times. Deputy Judge Custis Dean imposed a fine of $1 and costs.

George Barrett, of Storrs, hesitated before entering a plea of guilty to a charge of driving his automobile at reckless speed on Jackson street. Testimony against the accused was given by Motorcycle Officer Bombria who stated that Barrett had speeded up from 28 to 43 miles and hour from the Natchaug school to the city line on Jackson street. Barrett attempted to arrange a technical plea of his own until the warrant was read once more for his benefit. Judge Dean found the man guilty and imposed a fine of $25 and costs.

Levi Upton, whose trusty Ford straddled a dummy cop on Main street Saturday evening would not plead guilty to being intoxicated while driving his car, although he would admit that he had been a little bit reckless. Officer Orlando, who made the arrest, testified that Upton was drunk as did also Motorcycle Officer Bombria and Walter Griggs, local jitney driver. Ernest Bellevance who was summoned to get the "lizzy" in motion again after the accident said that Upton looked at the silent policeman under the car and he heard him say, "How the h—— did that thing get under there, anyway?"

Judge Dean did not stop for further arguments and imposed a fine of $100 and costs, on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

Upton was in danger of being sent to Brooklyn jail where he would have a happy reunion there with his wife, Clark, now on a rest at the institution. Upton did not have the ready cash with which to pay the fine. He asked the court if he could pay it up at the rate of $5 a week but Judge Dean decided that this procedure would be too long-drawn-out.

Upton suddenly hit upon a bright idea which caused every face in the overcrowded spectators' gallery to display behind a wide grin. Upton had been figuring up and he asked Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Fenton how it would be to have the city buy his Ford roadster which was held for a $200 bond Saturday night. He thought that the amount received would assist in paying up the fine.

Prosecutor Fenton wanted to know how much the car was worth. Upton said that he had paid $30 for it last year. He had rigged it up with a couple of new tires and had tinkered around it some. He thought that he ought to sell for $50 now.

Judge Dean finally agreed to give Upton until next Monday to pay the fine.

A big touring car loaded with a party of young fellows and girls attired in extremely summery clothes attracted considerable attention about the city Monday afternoon and their actions finally culminated in the arrest of the driver for driving without an operator's license. The driver gave his name as Louis Henry Titterton, of Andover Hall, Cambridge, Mass. The party were driving around the business section and about three o'clock became quite hilarious. Three or four pretty young girls in the machine wore thin gingham dresses which provided but little protection as they started to dive head first from the front to the rear seat of the automobile. The top was folded back on the car and spectators stood aghast as they witnessed this hazardous performance. Officer Burley hailed the driver as he stopped the machine out in the middle of Main street. Titterton will appear in police court this (Tuesday) morning.

On a removal warrant issued by Federal Judge Arthur L. Brown, Roland H. Pothier, of Central Falls, R. I., former army sergeant, was taken into custody by United States Marshal William R. Rodman, Sunday afternoon, and committed to the Providence county jail to await removal to Tacoma, Wash., where he is to face trial before a federal jury on a charge of having murdered Major Alexander P. Cronkhite at Camp Lewis, Wash., October 25, 1918. He will be taken to Tacoma next week. Alderman James J. Lee, of this city, who was connected with the U. S. Department of Justice after his return from the World war, was assigned to the Cronkhite case. Lee made a trip to the state of Washington and had the grand jury of that place indict both Pothier and Captain Robert Rosenbluth and placed them both under arrest, in March, 1921. They were released on a writ of harbeus corpus and since that time have been at liberty. Alderman Lee has received word to prepare himself for the trip to Washington as the case is to come up at the May term of court.

Calls for brush fires were answered Saturday afternoon by Engine Company No. 1 on property owned by Mrs. Solomon Belanger on Bolivia street and on land of Mrs. Arnold Potter of West Main street and a third call at the Park Spring on Jackson street. A forester pump and brooms were used. Another call was registered early in the afternoon for a burning fence owned by the Central Vermont railway near Jillson Hill.

Edward Willis, of Columbia, arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink, of Andover, on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace, was brought before the Columbia town court Monday morning, with Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins on the bench and Grand Juror Joseph N. Clark prosecuting. Sheriff Frink testified that he had been summoned by telephone and had found Willis making trouble for his housekeeper. The accused pleaded guilty to the charges and was given a ten day suspended jail sentence and a fine of $2 and costs, amounting to $20.02. Willis is employed by William F. Maine of Windham. He is to pay the fine and costs out of his wages during the present month.

Mrs. Delia Bodah Leavy, 65, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James S. Fogarty of 64 Park street, Saturday night after a brief illness. She was born in St. Ellerore, Canada, May 22, 1859, a daughter of David and Elmire (Herbert) Bodah. She leaves three children, Fred and Charles Leyor of Plattsburgh, N. Y., and Mrs. James E. Fogarty of this city; four brothers, David of Wallingford, Vt., Dennis of Malone, N. Y., and Paul of Springfield, Mass., and two grandchildren, Edgar and Harry Manley.

The funeral of Mrs. Eliza L. Preston, whose death occurred Friday in Dorchester, Mass., was held Monday afternoon at two o'clock, at the chapel of the J. C. Lincoln company at 62 Church street. Rev. Charles G. Johnson, pastor of the South Coventry Congregational church offered prayer. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were James E. Preston, Samuel Chesbro, D. Kingsbury and W. H. Armstrong.

John McCartney, 54, a former resident of this city, died Sunday morning at the Greenport, L. I., hospital, after a week's illness with pneumonia. He was employed by the government at the Greenport lighting station. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Mary Hagerty of this city and Mrs. Rose Hubert of Detroit, Mich.

The April meeting of the Willimantic Ministers' Union was held on Monday forenoon in the chapel of the Windham Center Congregational church. The attendance was large. Rev. A. W. Clifford, president, and pastor of the Windham Center church presided. The ministers were guests of Rev. William Martin Brown, following the meeting. A report of the church advertising committee, headed by Rev. John H. Knott of Chaplin as chairman was made as the first business of the session. Rev. Mr. Knott [illegible] of the investigations made by the committee in regard to advertising church matters in the newspapers and stated that it would be too costly.

This report was accepted and the committee was authorized to continue at derive a system to bring the church work before the public. Rev. John H. Knott resigned as chairman of the committee and Rev. F. C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church was appointed his successor.

Law Enforcement was a subject of considerable discussion. The union pledged its support to local, state and federal authorities in bringing about the enforcement of the law especially in the case of liquor violations. This line of endeavor will be in charge of a committee, comprising Rev. A. Stanley Mulrhead, Rev. F. F. Forshay and Rev. F. C. Williams.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c. Jars and tubes.

Used Kellogg's Bran 2 months—constipation gone after suffering 3 years

Three years of suffering with constipation. What happiness was his when Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, restored his health. But read his letter.

"Dear Sirs:

. . . this is what I think of your krumbled bran. I would not be without it for anything in the world. For three years I used all kinds of medicines for constipation, and only got temporary relief. I was advised by a doctor to use Kellogg's Bran, and since I began using it I don't have to take pills or anything else. I have used it two months, and my constipation has left me. I feel better now than I have for three years."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran brings results because it is ALL bran. You can't fight constipation with halfway measures—with brans which are only part bran. It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective.

Because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It acts naturally—just as nature acts. It stimulates the intestine and makes it function regularly. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will refund your money.

Kellogg's Bran has a delicious nutlike flavor. Quite different from ordinary, unpalatable brans. You will like it as a cereal, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.

Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones, pastor of Mansfield Center Congregational church read one on "My View of the British Labor Party and What They Will Do." Rev. A. Avery Gates, pastor of Hampton Congregational church, spoke on "The Preacher's Use of the Old Testament." The members then assembled at the home of Rev. Mr. Brown where an excellent dinner was served by Miss Dorothy Brown, Miss Elizabeth Anderson, Mrs. Young and Mrs. Higbee. The union will hold its next meeting at the Mansfield Center church, May 13.

It was reported here Sunday night that Fred Mitterer of Norwich was arrested in Franklin on the charge of reckless driving, following an automobile collision in the vicinity of Smith's Corners on the Norwich-Willimantic road.

Today (Tuesday) some four hundred members of the state assembly of the Rebekahs will gather in this city for the annual reception and convention as guests of Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. F. The reception will be held in the evening at the town hall of the assembly president, Mrs. Mary E. Lovett, of this city. Wednesday forenoon the convention will get under way at the town hall. Mrs. Lovett will be retired as president and Mrs. Ethel Barrows of New London will be installed in that office. Mrs. Margaret B. Sears, noble grand of the local lodge will deliver the address of welcome to the visitors. Every town in the state will be represented On Wednesday evening the initiatory degree will be conferred upon a class of candidates for Violet Rebekah lodge. A banquet will be held Thursday noon for the past presidents of the assembly.

The lack of law enforcement in the First and Third wards of the city, was the subject of much discussion at the April meeting of the common council, Monday night. Mayor Hormidas Dion presided. At the opening of the session John Regan arose in the spectators' gallery and asked that steps be taken to better conditions in the southern district of the Third ward. He made special mention to the White Eagle hall on Ives street. The hall is owned by a Polish organization but they are not responsible for the appearance of scofflaws in that section. The distributors, according to Mr. Regan, are the grease-combed patent-leathered young men from other parts of the city, who attend dances there. Drinking carousals between young men and girls were common occurrences there and he asked for police protection.

Alderman Jackson also called the attention of the board to the gangs of men who congregate on the sidewalks of West Main street and insult pedestrians with their vile language. He had counted as many as fifty-two men gathered in frone of one store on a Sunday afternoon.

Alderman Lee of the Third ward said that he had been familiar with the conditions prevailing in his ward for some time. He understood that it was difficult to secure warrants for the arrest of liquor violators and other law-breakers in the city. Jackson backed this, stating that he had reason to know that warrants were only secured with a great deal of difficulty. By adoption of a motion made by Alderman Lee the mayor, chief of police and prosecuting attorney will confer as to the best methods of bringing about stricter law enforcement in the city.

City Clerk James F. Donohue read the minutes. The water committee will investigate the installation of a fire hydrant on North street and the street committee will report on the acceptance of Ivanhoe street as a city street. Sidewalk applications were granted for section of concrete walks on Temple, Prospect, Walnut and Chestnut streets.

The mayor and city fathers accepted an invitation to participate in a parade to mark the opening of a carnival under the auspices of the American P. A. A. for the benefit of the baseball fund. At the request of Governor Templeton, a committee of three, including the mayor, will arrange to secure a municipal aviation field. It is expected that land owned by the Willimantic Country club on the North Windham road will be the chosen location.

Following were resolutions introduced by Alderman Hickey and adopted by the board:

That the committee on streets arrange to award the contract for the construction of sidewalks next season. That the street committee purchase a quantity of street oil. That an oil tank be erected in the city yard on Watson street. That a [illegible] light signal be installed and a watering trough be removed, corner of Ash and Main streets. The water committee will cause the extension of the water main and the connecting of a fire hydrant on Natchaug street; resolution introduced by Alderman Buck. In regard to a resolution adopted at a previous meeting to have a fire hydrant installed opposite St. Joseph's hospital on Jackson street, Alderman Larrance, of the fire committee, attempted to pass the buck to the water committee, but failed, and then promised that the hydrant be installed immediately. The cemetery committee, Alderan Buck, chairman, reported that the state inspectors had found the local drinking water supply to be in excellent condition. The committee, in conjunction with the corporation counsel will arrange a report to be made to the state board of health, also to have the watershed at Mansfield patrolled during the summer. City Clerk Donohue was authorized to procure a card-filing system to enable him to keep a correct account of city taxes collected or overdue. A petition by a local organization to have a six-night carnival appear here this summer under its auspices, was rejected. Carnivals have been banned from this city for a year or more on the grounds that they are nuisances.

The mayor was authorized to borrow the sum of $15,000 to defray the current expenses of the city. Contracts for the sale of the city ice at the municipal plant at Mansfield was awarded Monday evening to Albert J. Girouard and E. J. LaPan. The ice will be disposed of at 50 cents a hundred, according to the agreement.

JEWETT CITY

The borough's light and power was off for a while Monday afternoon, during the first of the cutting-over of the new lines for the local system. The members of the commission are confident that there will be little occasion to criticise the resultant first class service that is now made possible.

The current will now come up from Montville, then from the rear of John Lee's in Lisbon, it will reach the station in Ashland, by an entirely new line. The wires come through near Charles Wolf's and cross the Quinebaug, thence via the Brewster lot into Ashland.

The new station will take the current at 66,000 volts, will be stepped down to 2,200 at the plant, and delivered to the transformers on the borough poles at 110 volts for the commercial house lighting service.

Fortunately the A. B. Burleson & Co. yarn mill was not in operation Monday, so were not affected by the power being shut off.

Mrs. Stephen Notte paid a fine in the borough court last week of $300 and costs. Home brew activities prohibited by law were the reason.

A beautiful large bed of handsome spring pansies in Mrs. Henry Olsen's yard on the East Main street highlands, challenges the admiration of passers-by.

The lower end of the borough was treated to a dense barrage from a grass fire in the Shipman grove section of the Aspinook's mill property. Men were sent down from the yard force and were obliged to go some to get the best of the blaze in a half a gale of wind.

In the Liberty Hill news in The Bulletin of April 10th appeared a two line item, which all but started the question that furnished so much, one time agitation in Jewett City. The item reads: Frogs and turtles have been heard the past two weeks on several nights.

Some little time ago a similar item was furnished by a near-by correspondent. Later he contended in the face of criticism, that the Bible declares that the voice of the turtle is heard in the land.

To settle the matter, [illegible]son wrote a letter to John Burroughs, asking for his opinion, which was received as final.

In a leter which Mr. Burleson still cherishes in his collection of correspondence, Mr. Burroughs states that, beyond the fact that the snapping turtle, can give forth a startlingly distinct hiss, he has never noted a sound by turtles of any species. Mr. Burroughs adds, that the biblical turtle, whose voice is spoken of in the Songs of Solomon, 2-12, is the turtle dove, whose soft, plaintive notes are very agreeable to the ear during the mating season of early spring.

The conference of Six Churches is to meet at the Congregational church Wednesday morning, beginning at 11 o'clock. The sermon is by Rev. Alexander Hewes Abbott, of Norwich. The afternoon session opens at 1.15. Wallace L. Gallup, professor of Biblical literature at the Connecticut Women's college is the afternoon speaker. In the morning there will be an anthem by the choir. A solo by Mrs. H. S. Stephenson will be given in the afternoon.

John Chadwick, Edward Thornton and Grace Gardiner are at home from East Greenwich Academy for the Easter vacation.

The Baptist Missionary meeting is to be held this afternoon at which time the mite boxes are to be opened.

The Gardiner class members of the Methodist church are planning a social, the proceeds to be used for Easter flowers.

Richard Dudkowski, prosecuting attorney presented in Judge John T. Barry's town court Monday morning Francis and Louis Basinet and Romeo Archibald, of Taftville, also Calvin W. Edmonds, of New London. The men were arrested here at an early hour Sunday morning, after their thieving activities had been nipped in the bud, by observations made through the windows of a Main street restaurant.

The men had evidently stolen a motor meter from a Norwich car for which they will be tried in that city.

In Jewett City, however, they fared fine, got away with bells on, because of the fact that when presented for prosecution, the star witness for the state, Steve Takmon, failed to establish his ability to identify positively any of the four prisoners. Judge Barry nolled the cases. Jewett City police officer, Raymond Veglard, had, right in court a number of motor meters from various machines, including one from Officer Maynard's. The man had evidently been working for a general cleanup of these meters on every borough car. Officer Veglard was too sharp for them, and positive identification was lacking, or they would have gotten their just deserts.

Broadway Theatre

The only theatre in town showing vaudeville is the Broadway theatre and those present yesterday had a real treat for the five acts presented were of as fine a selection and variety as one could wish for.

The order of their appearance was as follows:

Americas premiere xylophonists, The Sternards, proved to be a crackerjack musical combination.

Sam and Blanche Ross in songs, comedy and steps filled in second spot to good advantage.

The Dance Phiends, a stepping quintette were great. With very beautiful scenery to set off their act these five dance artists went over big.

Hap "Farrell and Florence" offered "For No Reason" with symptoms of present topics. They made an instant hit.

Gertie Falls & Co. in "A Few Hard Knocks," proved to be a great closing number.

Breed Theatre

One of the best pictures shown in this city this season is "The Shooting of Dan McGrew, which is the feature attraction at the Breed theatre today. The Shooting of Dan McGrew is picturized from Robert W. Service's "The Spell of the Yukon," and is presented with a great cast including Barbara LaMarr, Law Cody, Mae Busch, Percy Marmont and George Seigmann. It is the story of a man who was crooked as lightning, but straight as an arrow with a gun. The action shoots from the gold diggers under the white lights to the gold diggers under the Arctic lights. It is a treat of the season. Don't miss it. Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and a Christie comedy.

Need Furniture For Family.

The Salvation Army is in need of furniture of all kinds to fit out a family that the army is establishing with the expectation that the help that can be given in this way will be a determining influence in bettering living conditions and the whole life of the family. ## GILPA[illegible] TO DISTRIBUTE STATE STOCK TAX TODAY

Hartford, April 14. — Hartford will receive more than one-half of the $3,368,630.41 which State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric will distribute tomorrow to 165 cities and towns in the state as their allocated shares of the stock tax collected by the state annually. Hartford's share is $1,195,247.59.

The tax is collected by the state treasurer on the stock of all banks, trust, insurance, investment and bridge companies in the state, the stock of which is not exempt from taxation. A levy of one per cent. is made on the fair market value of the stock. The treasurer then allocates the total to towns on the basis of the residence of the stockholders. Thus, Hartford residents own more than one half of all the stock of these companies.

Next to Hartford, West Hartford will receive the largest check, its share being $131,963.07. Other cities and towns will receive payments as follows: New Haven $82,489.14; Suffield $47,641.17; Bridgeport $25,455.13; New Britain $18,004.84; Waterbury $13,504.27; East Hartford $7,511.54.

The smallest payment will be to Prospect which will receive a check for $14.44. Killingworth, Voluntown, Warren and Wolcott, will receive no payment at all. The state will retain $404,224.59, this amount representing the amount of stock held by residents of other states.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATRE

A youth fighting desperately to bring to ruin the woman he loves—unaware of her identity.

That is the strange situation about which the story of The Eternal City, now playing at the Palace theatre revolves. It is the center of one of the most gripping stories ever written, and is from the pen of that master novelist, Hall Caine.

George Fitzmaurice produced the story in Italy, with a cast that includes five players of stellar rank—Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Bert Lytell, Richard Bennett and Montagu Love. This First National picture has been pronounced the masterpiece of a decade.

Bert Lytell is cast as the youth, David Rossie, with Miss La Marr essaying the role of Donna Roma.

David returns from the great war to find his sweetheart, Roma, has disappeared from her home in the small village. Heart-broken, and unable to learn of her whereabouts, he becomes a vagabond, wandering aimlessly about the country in search of the girl.

The denouncement of this episode is one that will linger long in the memory.

And in conjunction with the super feature you will see The Cowboy Sheik with Will Rogers also Pathe News.

PALACE THEATRE

Frank Borzage, whose fame as a directorial genius rests on so secure a foundation as Humoresque and Children of Dust, is the director of The Age of Desire, a First National picture which is coming to the Palace theatre for a three day engagement. Like its predecessors, it is a pulsating slice of life, with the searchlight turned into the inner recesses of the elemental emotions and passions.

The Age of Desire, which is from the pen of Miss Dixie Willson, and was written while the latter was a members of the cast of the Greenwich Village Follies, is a gripping tale of the cravings of the modern woman. Its theme is one that possesses a powerful appeal and its enfoldment is a series of dramatic highlights.

Mary Philbin, William Collier, Jr., and Myrtle Stedman have the leading roles, assisted by Josef Swickard, Frankie Lee, Mary Jane Irvine, J. Farrell MacDonald, Bruce Guerin and Frederick Truesdell.

Strand Theatre

A new popular song has come into vogue! Everybody's beginning to sing it, and strange to say, not only the flappers and young bloods of the present day, but the flappers and young bloods of twenty years ago as well. And the latter sing it from memory! How come? Because "After the Ball" has come back. The famous old Charles K. Harris melody, the greatest American song hit ever written, has been adapted to the screen in a spectacular drama produced by Renco Film Company for the Anderson Pictures Corporation, and since the picture came before the public it has set everybody to humming the familiar old tune.

After the Ball, the tragedy of an old man's heart, the story of the lover who saw his sweetheart in the arms of another man at their engagement ball, was the rage of the continent for several seasons. Later Harris went to Paris and while in a music dealer's how rooms was invited to witness the marvelous performance of a singing automatic which has the French capital "guessing." Imagine his surprise when the voice from the automaton, accompanied by a secret mechanical orchestra, swung into the words of "After the Ball."

The Renco production of "After the Ball" which is at the Strand theatre today as the feature of an unusually interesting bill, is rated as one of the "big" pictures of the year.

Other subjects included a comedy and news weekly.

Remember the new picture prices. Mat. 10c; and evening 15c and 20c.

Broadway Theatre

D. W. Griffith's "America" the photodrama of the Revolutionary war, is announced for its local premiere at the Broadway theatre beginning Monday evening next.

Still in the midst of an extended run on Broadway, the picture has received the enthusiastic praise of prominent critics as one of the outstanding screen masterpieces of all time and the extreme achievement of the master director.

"America" is in its way something of a catalogue of Revolutionary descendants. At Lexington, Mass., at Washington, D. C., at Philadelphia and at several places in Virginia, the descendants of the leading Revolutionary families were used as extra people. Practically every principal and every extra in the film is of Revolutionary descent.

This picture will not be shown in any other theatre in this section this year.

It sometimes staggers a man when he discovers that it is impossible to get a drink.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Frank E. Kennedy was elected warden of the borough at the annual meeting Monday, succeeding William A. Burrows. Warden Burrows received a complimentary vote of 72. Mr. Kennedy received a total of 96 votes. Only a small percentage of the voters of the borough participated in the election. Other officers elected were clerk and treasurer, Frank T. Preston, with 125 votes; burgesses, Walter Anderson, 111; D. E. Jette, 125; Jeremiah E. Elliott, 109; Richard D. Banigan, 117; Gaston Maindon, 123; Pierre Louisine, 119; assessors Thomas Bradford, 123; Joseph N. Lavalle, 124; William J. Young, 123; bailiff, John McFarland, 123; tax collector, Edward S. Carpenter, 124; library directors for three years, Frederick A. Jacobs, 123, Ernest R. Warren, 110.

The annual business meeting in the evening voted without opposition for a better street lighting system throughout the borough. In Main street between Water and Reynolds street, fifteen 50-candle power lights are to be replaced by 14 400 candle-power light. On all other streets of the borough the present 60 candle power lights will be placed by 100 candle power bulbs. The budget for lighting the borough called for $4,485. The new lights will mean an addition of $1,500 to this figure. It was stated to the meeting that there remains out of last year's appropriations a sufficient sum to complete the Mechanic street sewer extension, so no action was taken relative to that. The meeting adjourned until the first Monday in August when the tax rate will be fixed, also the date for collection.

The funeral of Mrs. Anthimeri LeFevre was held from her home in Waucregan Monday morning with services at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. C. Mathieu officiating. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were Peter Fournier, Paul Peloquin, Harmisdes Ouliette, Albert Jacques, Joseph Dupres and George Dupres. L. H. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Ralph Tracy, resident in the northern section of the town, near White's crossing, was acquitted in the town court, Monday morning, of a charge of selling cider and with keeping with intent to sell.

Mr. Tracy's place was raided last Monday by a squad of state police following disclosures made in the city court of Putnam, when the cases of Albert Montville, Clement Brooks and William Mancio of that town were being heard. these three youths in court to answer to charges of having been intoxicated. It was represented that the trio went to the Tracy place and obtained cider.

In court here Monday, young Montville denied that he had actually purchased any cider at the Tracy place. It appeared from his testimony that with the other two youths mentioned he went to the Tracy place and obtained some cider. This cider, it developed, was the property of Montville's father. At the time of the visit of the youths to the Tracy place, Montville was the only one to go to the house, the other two remaining in the car in which the party went there from Putnam. They, therefore were not witnesses of the transfer of the cider from Tracy to Montville.

Peter Montville, father of Albert, testified that October 3 of last year he gave Tracy $25 to pay for some cider that was to be made and which later was made. This cider, Mr. Montville said, has since been kept at the Tracy place, because the cellar at his own home is not suitable for keeping cider. From time to time, as he happened to go to the Tracy place to buy eggs or on some other business errand he has brought back a jug of cider with him. It was some of this cider that his son obtained when he went to the Tracy place.

Checking up Mr. Montville's statement as to paying Tracy $25 on October 3, this money to be used in having cider made for Mr. Montville, was an entry in Mr. Tracy's account book showing that he had received on that date a similar sum from Mr. Montville.

In view of all the testimony in Tracy's behalf, Judge Woodward found him not guilty. The six barrels of cider and the half-barrels of wine seized at the Tracy place will be returned to Mr. Tracy, by order of the court.

All did not go well with young Montville when he returned to Putnam, after the hearing in the Killingly court. The case against him in the Putnam city court was reopened, it having been continued for six months last Monday. It was pointed out that Montville said in Putnam court last Monday that he bought the cider from Tracy and paid him $1.50 for it. It was recalled that he stated before several officers that he had bought the cider from Tracy. In view of this fact, Judge Geissler sentenced Montville to serve 30 days in jail. He appealed from this sentence, Tracy going bonds for him. The case later will get consideration in the superior court.

PUTNAM

At a session of the city court on Monday afternoon, Judge M. H. Geissler sentenced Albert Montville to serve 30 days in jail. An appeal was taken from this sentence and Ralph Tracy furnished bonds for Montville.

Montville started to figure in the news when he was presented in court last Monday morning on an intoxication charge. At that time he told of Tracy, and gave a signed statement relative to the case, that he paid Tracy $1.50 for the cider on which he became intoxicated. The case at that time was continued for six months, Monday, Montville was used as a witness against Tracy in the town court of Killingly and on the witness stand denied that he ever bought any cider from Tracy. His case was reopened when he returned here and the jail sentence was imposed.

Two outstanding developments on Monday in this city had to do with the never-ending turmoil over the liquor business. Samuel Smith, owner of the City Hotel property, was again placed under arrest, charged with violations of the liquor law. He was placed under bonds of $1,000 for appearance in the city court next Monday to answer to the charges preferred against him. That was the first of the special happenings of Monday morning.

Another incident that brought general surprise was the action of Mrs. Lea Smith, wife of Samuel Smith, in bringing a civil action against William J. Jarvis, captain of police; George Laird, sergeant of police, and John Ryan and Alpherie Spooney patrolmen in Putnam's police department, in which Mrs. Smith claims damages of $2,000, alleging that on April 5 these officers, in one way here another, were involved in stopping a big automobile owned by Samuel Smith, her husband, that it might be searched for liquor, and the subsequent detaining of those who were in the car at the police station for more than an hour and denying them the right to communicate by telephone or in any other manner with their relatives. Some other women and Mr. and Mrs. Smith's two daughters one of them the driver, were in the car at the time it was stopped by the police. No liquor was found in the machine in which the party that occupied it were returning from a shopping trip in Providence.

In Mrs. Smith's action bank accounts of Captain Jarvis and Patrolman Spencer were attached Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of Danyille, who served the papers in the case.

The papers in the action set forth that Mrs. Smith was greatly humiliated and suffered keenly mentally as the result of the police stopping the machine in which she was riding and as the result of her detention at police headquarters.

It is not denied by the police that they had a warrant to search the Smith car. This warrant issued from the office of Prosecuting Attorney J. F. Carpenter.

The new charges as to liquor violations against Mr. Smith will, if established, constitute second offenses, as Mr. Smith was convicted on first counts in the superior court at Willimantic in the fall of last year.

The case of Thomas Culley, who has been proprietor of the City Hotel, owned by Mr. Smith, since last fall, was again continued for a week. Mr Culley was ordered into court on Monday morning of last week following a raid of Saturday, April 5, at the City hotel and the seizure of a small quantity of intoxicants there. From last week Monday the case was continued until this week Monday. Monday morning Attorney Irving H. Miron, representing Mr. Culley, made a statement to the court in which he made known that he was withdrawing as Culley's counsel, explaining that there were grounds that seemed to warrant his doing so. In continuing the Culley case until Monday of next week Judge M. H. Geissler fixed the bonds at $500, which was supplied by Samuel Rich.

These were the high lights of Monday's developments in a series of events that has the whole city talking. What further developments may be expected is not definitely established, but there appeared Monday to be promise of still further procedure along lines not known outside official circles as yet.

Nothing much came of the seizure Monday of last week, of several barrels of cider and two half-barrels containing wine at the farm of Ralph Tracy, just over the Putnam line in Killingly. Mr. Tracy was acquitted in the Killingly town court Monday on a charge of an actual sale and keeping with intent to sell, as told in more detail in the Danielson news this morning. Local interest centers in the case because the basis of the raid and seizure of the wine and cider at the Tracy place were statements made in the Putnam city court last Monday, when Albert Montville, Clement Brooks, William Mancio, were presented on a charge of intoxication. Montville represented at that time that he had obtained cider at the Tracy place. He admitted it again in the Killingly court Monday, but denied that there had been an exchange of money—no actual purchase—for the cider he obtained was the property of his father, Peter Montville, and was being kept in Tracy's cellar.

Fast approaching is the eve of the golf season at the links of the Putnam Country club. No playing has been done yet, for the links are water soaked and the greens poor. Parts of the playing areas are also under water, as a result of the heavy rains of the past week. Nevertheless sunny and windy days like last of Monday are contributing to the drying out process and in a short time playing will be allowed.

Anxious golfers, keen to be out at their favorite sport again, were at the club house Sunday getting in touch with things and finding that the prospects for what promises to be one of the best seasons in the club's history.

The cases of two men charged with having been intoxicated were disposed of at the session of the city court Monday morning.

In observance of Holy week there will be special services at St. Mary's church on Holy Thursday, Good Friday and Easter Saturday. The choirs of the church are rehearsing special musical programs for the Easter Sunday services.

County Investigator W. E. Jackson, of Willimantic, was in Putnam Monday on a business trip.

At about 1140 Monday morning a chemical truck of the fire department was called out to subdue a brush fire that was in a location to threaten houses near Overlook street.

Although it was anticipated that the actual work of putting in a high pressure gas main between this city and Putnam would be undertaken on April 15, it was stated that the actual digging is not expected to start until next week at the earliest.

There does not appear to be the slightest prospect of general adoption of daylight saving in Putnam or any of the rural districts in this territory on April 27, when New York makes the change from standard time. The only difference noted here will be in the running time of the trains, which will operate on standard time, but approximately an hour earlier in most cases than is the rule at present.

This evening (Tuesday) will bring the annual open night at the State Trade school. It always has proved an occasion of such compelling interest that large numbers of the town's people, and visitors from nearby towns have come to inspect the building, its equipment and the uses to which the property is put by keen students fitting themselves in a practical manner for a life of usefulness. All departments of the building will be open and in operation this evening and there will be an exhibit of work done by students.

The Putnam Checker club has invited the Bohemian club of Danielson to name a list of players to meet players from the Putnam club in a checker tournament.

Up at the Hewo-Maret school in Thompson students are now getting at their daily tasks an hour earlier each morning, the arrangement approximating a daylight saving program.

The senior class of Tourtellotte Memorial High school is in Washington this week, as has been the custom for senior classes of the school at Easter time for a number of years past. The visit will also afford opportunities for stopovers in New York and Philadelphia.

The Teacher Training class is scheduled to meet at the Methodist parsonage this (Tuesday) evening.

Rev. William Beach Olmsted, headmaster at Pomfret school, is to conduct the Easter morning service at St. Philip's church here.

Thursday afternoon, Mrs. William Valentine, of Pomfret, will address the Putnam League of Women Voters in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Mrs. Valentine is county president of the organization.

PLAINFIELD

A large delegation from the local K. of C. attended a meeting of Rose of Lima council, Danielson, when the third degree was worked by the degree team of the latter council, on a large class of candidates, Sunday afternoon. All the state officials, and several other officials were in attendance at this meeting.

Mr and Mrs. Charles Buell, of Eastford, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Buell's brother.

Miss Abbie Medbury, principal of Central Village grammar school, and Ralph B. Lowe of the Moosup grammar school, have been selected by Principal John L. Chapman of the high school, to select the winning Lincoln essay. Each member of the senior class of the high school, was required to write an essay on Abraham Lincoln, during February, the winner of the contest to be presented a bronze medal offered by the Illinois Watch company, of Springfield, Illinois, where Lincoln's home was during the greater part of his life. The class selected the three essays which they thought were the best, and the winning essay will be picked from these three.

Miss Neisie Hartwell will have charge of the gym exhibition, for the meeting of the Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association, Wednesday evening. The participants in the exhibition will be boys and girls from the grammar school of this village. All the schools of this state are required to follow out some program of physical education, and in the schools of the town of Plainfield, it takes the form of two weekly classes in calisthenics, which meet at the Community house two afternoons a week, the boys on Wednesday, and the girls on Thursday. The best of these classes have been selected by Miss Hartwell to demonstrate several of the exercises which are used in the physical training classes.

The Plainfield High baseball team goes to Providence today (Tuesday) to clash with the fast team representing the LaSalle Academy, of that city. The Plainfield team has made an excellent showing during that part of the season already passed, and they hope not to mar their record in today's game. Practice was held on the Carpet Grounds, Moosup, Monday afternoon, in preparation for this game, and considerable improvement was shown over last Saturday's play. Two additional games have been booked with Killingly High school for the 4th and 14th of June. A game is also pending with Bartlett High of Webster, Mass.

The Danielson School of Religious Education closed its 1924 session Sunday evening, after a very successful course. The lectures which were delivered by Professor Honline, were reported as most helpful by all who heard them. The Congregational Sunday school of this village, sent two delegates to this school, C. L. Butler, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Clarence Winsor, assistant superintendent.

GALES FERRY

At morning worship, Palm Sunday, in the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke to the young people from John 12:13, "Took branches of palm trees, and went forth, to meet him"—prefacing his sermon on "Faith—1 John 5:4. The offertory anthem, Lift Up Your Hearts, was sung by a quartette, Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main, C. E. Colver and D. R. Povey. John Harold of the Submarine Base, gave a five-minute talk on China, introducing the world-service work of the M. E. church, and spoke on China, from personal observation, he having spent three and one-half years there, while in service in the navy. Mr. Harold said, When we speak of China we call her the problem of the far east, population, still unknown, millions illiterate, imagine a man, in a treadmill from dawn until dark for a wage of 7 cents a day. In Canton he had seen men beheaded in the public square, and their heads labelled with the crime committed and hung on the city gates, as a warning to others. In Amoy he had seen ten miles of graves, where that terrible disease, known as bubonic plague, had taken its toll of thousands in a single day. Within thirty years, decided changes have taken place in China, however, through the untiring efforts of the missionaries. Great numbers have embraced the Christian faith, schools are more numerous, European dress has been adopted and the country filled with modern machinery.

No evening services were held in the M. E. church Sunday, to allow all who desired to attend the Temple of Fine Arts, on display in the First Baptist church, New London, at 3 o'clock p. m., and the festival of music at 7.30 p. m., at this church. Each was in charge of Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University School of Religious Education. Quite a delegation attended from this place.

The transfer was made at the railroad station here, Saturday, by H. E. Arnold of New London, traveling auditor, for this branch of the New Haven railroad, of William E. Shugrue, first trick operator to the station at Jewett City, and Arthur D. Pafford of Auburn, Mass., to succeed Mr. Shugrue at the station here.

The attention of the residents at Perkins place was called Sunday morning, about 9 o'clock, to a deer swimming about in the middle of the river, below the Ferry, having started, apparently from the Bluff shore on the Ferry side and was going to Bartlett's across the river. Upon reflection he seemed to change his mind and making a detour, in the river, landed back on the same side from which he started, near Brown's crossing.

Builders began the work of construction for a bungalow, on the recently finished foundation, on the Military Highway, below the main street of the village, for Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett, Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. Horace B. Sloat and their sons, Milton, Harold and Donald, with their daughter, Miss Cecile Sloat, arrived Saturday and opened their summer cottage on the Bluff. Rev. Mr. Sloat and son Milton returned Monday to business in Hartford, the remainder of the family staying for the rest of the week.

Miss Sarah T. Latimer returned on Thursday from a six months' visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Rev. George T. Murphy and Mrs. Murphy at Bloomington, Indiana.

Fletcher Wilson of New York, who is a summer resident on the Bluff, arrived Saturday and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham at present.

Sunday afternoon a fire on the land of Thomas Allyn and the late George Perkins, in the Allyn's Point section, burned over 25 or 30 acres. Fire Warden John McGuire was notified and called for help from the village in subduing it.

Miss Caroline B. Freeman has returned, after a visit of several days in New York.

BOLTON

The selectmen held their April meeting this week Monday afternoon.

At the last meeting of Bolton grange, one of the numbers on the program was a debate, "Resolved, that it is more satisfactory and profitable to invest in fruit growing than to invest in an automobile." Affirmative, Miss Olive Hutchinson, George O. Rose; negative, Mrs. Maxwell Hutchinson, Henry Massey. The grange voted as judge in favor of the affirmative.

Following the program the sisters served a supper which the brothers won in a competitive program in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Rockwell of South Manchester spent Sunday at their Bolton home.

Miss Margaret Daly of Manchester spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. George W. Finnegan.

Mrs. John Toomey of Hartford is spending the week with her son, David Toomey, at his Bolton farm.

Warren Toomey and Miss Maude Floyd of Hartford spent the week-end with John Toomey.

Mr. and Mrs. James Muller of Farmington were guests of Bolton relatives the first of the week.

Miss Etha Massey is spending a week in Andover at Maxwell Hutchinson's.

Pupils who had perfect attendance at the Center school during the winter term were: Myron Lee, Edna Lee, Donald Massey, Gasplen Morro, Mary Ponticelli; those who only missed one day were Catherine Lee, Evelyn Lee and Edmund Bellotti.

Mrs. John H. Massey took in a little five-year-old boy whom she saw passing her house alone, last Saturday night, at 6.30. As the child was unable to give any information concerning his last name or where he lived, the Manchester police were notified. They said the child belonged on Maynard street, South Manchester, five miles from J. H. Massey's home. The child's parents are a Mr. and Mrs. Gotberg, who recently moved from Dakota. It is not understood how the child got the distance in the two hours he was lost. When questioned he would say "In an automobile." It is thought someone may have given him a ride, thinking he was going home.

Exports of paper and board from Canada in 1923 were valued at $93,770,967, an advance of 25 per cent over 1922. The exports of wood pulp valued at $47,027,946 in 1923, increased 14.6 per cent over the previous year. An important gain—of $10,906,579—was registered in shipments of newsprint paper to the United States.

"The Best Looking Home in Your Neighborhood"

It isn't so much a matter of design, but of appearance. If the paints and stains are fresh-looking and rich in color—if they harmonize well—your home will be the best-looking one in your neighborhood.

And you can get this result by using Lowe Brothers High Standard Liquid Paint. It's fine paint, finely made for long satisfaction and true economy. It goes on smoothly and evenly. WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

A Trying Period through which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Phila., Pa.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I was weak, nervous, dizzy and had headaches. I was troubled in this way for two years and was hardly able to do my work. My friends advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am very sorry that I did not take it sooner. But I have got good results from it and am now able to do my housework most of the time. I recommend your medicine to those who have similar troubles. I do not like publicity, but if it will help other women I will be glad for you to use my letter."—Mrs. FANNIE ROSENSTEIN, 682 N. Holly Street, Phila., Pa.

Detroit, Michigan—"During the Change of Life I had a lot of stomach trouble and was bothered a great deal with hot flashes. Sometimes I was not able to do any work at all. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in your little books and took it with very good results. I keep house and am able now to do all my own work. I recommend your medicine and am willing for you to publish this testimonial."—Mrs. J. S. LIVERMORE, 2051 Junction Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

The critical time of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 50, and is often beset with annoying symptoms such as nervousness, irritability, melancholia. Heat flashes or waves of heat appear to pass over the body, cause the face to be very red and often bring on headache, dizziness and a sense of suffocation.

Another annoying symptom which comes at this time is an inability to recall names, dates or other small facts. This is liable to make a woman lose confidence in herself. She becomes nervous, avoids meeting strangers and dreads to go out alone.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women at this time. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. Let it help carry you through this time of life. It is a splendid medicine for the middle-aged woman. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

THE PRESIDENT IS RIGHT.

Such efforts as are made for the purpose of turning the message by President Coolidge to the senate, relative to the Cousens method of conducting the investigation of the internal revenue bureau, to the advantage of the democrats can get nowhere.

What the president did was called for by the very tactics that were introduced and supported by those who seek political advantage from the investigations whether actual conditions are dealt with or whether unjustified character blackening is the whole outcome.

When the declaration is made by democratic speakers to the effect that the attitude of the president is to prevent the investigations whether there is fraud or not it falls of its own weight. It is simply political chatter. The country knows full well where the president stands in regard to the matter of investigations. It has heard him say that the guilty should be found and punished. It knows that he has not stood in the way of any of the investigations until it was disclosed to the country as well as to him that a personal grudge was responsible for the methods advocated by Senator Couzens. This investigation has been going on long enough to show that there are no conditions which warrant it. Senator Couzens has admitted that he was getting nowhere, and the charges that were raised or the inferences that were put forth regarding the secretary of the treasury were disproved as fast as they were raised. Senator Couzens was right when it indicated the investigation thus far to be a failure. It is a failure because there has been no basis for the charges except irresponsible gossip and yet the intent of the committee majority is to get the services of a widely known muck raker in order that his shrewdness may be utilized to creating the impression that white is black.

The president has taken the right position. He gets support in his stand from all sections and from democrats. The country is sick and tired of the methods followed by the congressional investigations.

NEEDLESS NOISES.

Movements for the reduction of noise are nothing new. They have developed as conditions have become annoying and they have accomplished good results. The very starting of them has directed attention to the abuses which it is desired to overcome while the educational effect through prolonged effort causes people to give thought to matters which have never been honored with such attention before. Many are the instances where the individual thinks nothing of the noise he may cause because he doesn't stop to think how many hundreds of others are doing the same thing at the same place during the day and night.

Thus when there are those who have banded themselves together for a "league for peace in Hartford" it can be appreciated that they represent the sentiment of those who have lost patience with the unnecessary blowing of horns, the shrieking of brakes and in the winter the racket made by loose chains.

Hartford in this endeavor to do away with some of this noise will have the sympathy of other communities and there's no telling but what the movement will find ready endorsement in other places. There is such a thing as getting used to many of the noises of street traffic, even when that is occasioned by iron tires and block pavements, but the nerve racking that comes from the needless noises is bothersome to the well as well as to the sick.

In most instances the noise can be greatly reduced if not eliminated. Footing of horns at corners or intersections is important for safety, if the point is at all hidden, and yet that very important contribution to safety that comes with the reduction of speed is often overlooked and full reliance placed upon the blatant horn that reaches more than the users of the highways.

Needless noises have been the cause of not a few reforms. Efforts put forth in a way to get those responsible for them to think what they are doing and how they can prevent them are aimed in the right direction.

THE MELLON PLAN FAVORED.

Demands from all sections of the country for tax reduction and sentiment openly expressed in behalf of the Mellon plan have disclosed a strong desire for the benefits to be obtained under such a scientific method of going about such a task. Members of congress have been given to understand how strongly the feeling is in this direction, but a test of sentiment that tells its own story is that which is furnished by the Literary Digest's poll of the country. Out of the 15,000,000 to whom ballots were sent there were 2,139,000 who used them and of that number there were 69.3 per cent, or 1,479,470 who favored the Mellon plan and only 659,530 who opposed it.

Thus when it has been maintained that the country stands in favor of the Mellon plan, there has been no exaggeration, for a poll taken under such conditions can be safely regarded as reflecting the sentiment of the people. Those who have voted have undoubtedly voted as they would have had the question been before them on election day and such expression although the vote of everyone is not recorded, speak for the greater number.

In this particular poll it is worthy of notice that there was a response on the part of 14.8 per cent of those to whom ballots were sent inasmuch as a ten per cent return under such a poll is what is averaged.

In all but one state there was a majority of those using the ballots for the Mellon plan. South Dakota alone opposed the plan. This endorsement of the tax cutting method is one which should get due consideration from congress, and particularly from those who have been opposed for political reasons to oppose that plan. They must realize that they are not only standing against the wish of the people as expressed by the poll but they are playing against their own political advantage.

The people want a cut in the taxes, they want it on sane lines and they have got been favorably impressed by the fight which has been waged against the Mellon plan.

GREECE'S DECISION.

When the Greeks asked their king to leave the country in order that they might determine uninfluenced upon the type of government for the future, there were claims that he would not return. This judgment is now vindicated by the action of the Greeks in the plebiscite, which calls for the establishment of a republic by an overwhelming majority.

Much dissatisfaction has existed in Greece for a long time. There have been discordant elements, the bringing of which to a common understanding was hoped for through the calling back of Venizelos. He gained a new view of Greek sentiment, however, and he offered the advice that the people through a plebiscite should be permitted to determine whether they desired the continuance of the dynasty or the establishment of a republic. The expressions of the Greek assembly have indicated the result of this nationwide vote and now that it has been determined what the people want there remains the great problem of getting them to join hands and support it in a manner that will make it a success.

Whether the Greeks are prepared to shoulder this big task remains to be seen. It launches out on an experiment that will be followed with great interest by this as well as the European countries. Greece will find that a republic is not something to be wound up, set going and left to function without further careful attention. It means greater responsibility for the individual than has been the case in the past and it rests with the people of that country to show that they have only been waiting for the chance which has now come to them. Greece still places some unknown and interesting problems.

REHABILITATED VETERANS.

How successfully the rehabilitation efforts of the veterans' bureau are operating is indicated by the statement that there have been 5,000 this month who have completed their work and are ready for employment in those various trades for which they have been fitted.

The rehabilitation service is turning out these disabled veterans, who have been taught a trade or who have been obliged to learn a new trade because of their handicapped condition, at the rate of three thousand a month. Last November there were 46,000 disabled men and women who had been rehabilitated and returned to useful employment but 70,000 remained to complete their training. In the meantime these figures have changed and appeals have been made to the industries of the country and others seeking help to give first consideration to those veterans who have served and suffered and have refused to remain dependent upon others. They are anxious to be self supporting and have fitted themselves to be. All possible assistance should now be given by encouraging them in their ambition.

Much has been said about the need of new comers in order to take care of the employment situation in this country. Before consideration is given to such the thousands of disabled who are in a position to fill such requirements should be absorbed into the employed class.

It is not to be expected that they are fitted for heavy and common labor, but their training has been such as to equip them for efficient service. They appeal not on the grounds of sentiment but because they are fit to serve in many trades and industries.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: One month to the opening of the drawbar season.

Hiram Johnson says his hat is still in the ring. It would take a microscope to find it.

The story of the housekeeper from Killingworth shows once more that a woman cannot keep a secret.

Next thing to getting out the lawn mower and oiling it for the season is getting the summer cottage ready.

It doesn't take long to get a congressional investigation started, but it takes a long time to stop them.

Most people are inclined to agree with Obregon that the Mexican revolution is dead, but possibly Huerta will want to be heard on the subject.

That may have been a joke in congress when the deepening of the canals on Mars was urged, but there's no joke about the need of a deeper channel in the Thames.

Regardless of the large amount of liquor that is seized it doesn't seem to have any harmful effect upon the trade that is being carried on at big profits and without a license.

There's no disposition to overlook Harry Thaw's crime, but possibly he is entitled to his freedom quite as much as some other murderers who have been paroled or pardoned.

Even though the merchants of a Texas town have offered $35,000 in prizes for the best yields of cotton, corn and peanuts on limited areas, will they be able to develop the desired amount of intensive agriculture?

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, April 14.—There is no change in the presidential outlook so far as Washington can discover. The republicans will unquestionably nominate Mr. Coolidge and the predictions are that it will be on the first ballot. Who his running mate will be has not yet become a question of the day. Indications point to a man from the west of possibly the Pacific coast, in order to placate those who are determined not to let the great privilege come to New England or the east. Probably it will be a man whose views are "sanely progressive" and who will steer progressive votes of extremists away from a third party. Undoubtedly it will be a man who will suit the wishes of Mr. Coolidge, for his strength is growing so rapidly that he will be in a position to name not only his running mate but the policy of the republican platform, unless the unexpected happens within the next six weeks.

The democrats have a wide field to choose from and are greatly embarrassed by the 15 men who have either announced their candidacy or who are waiting with open arms to catch the nomination. Underwood and Smith seem at this moment to be in the lead, McAdoo has fallen far behind and the others are in the "assorted sizes lot with favorite sons in the majority.

Gossip about a third party throwing the election into congress grows as time passes, and the possibility is so great that both the major parties are making their calculations on such a thing happening. La Follette is a very sick man—but as was the case during the illness of the late President Wilson, his intimates are using his name just the same and finding it a tower of strength, even though his physical condition is such that the presidency seems out of the question.

They are telling a new story on the conciseness of President Coolidge's answers to questions. It runs like this: A delegation of politicial women recently visited the white house. Their spokeswoman delivered a speech dwelling on the desire of her sex to play a "real role in public life." She spoke forcefully, then brought the interview to a climax by a carefully formed sentence and question designed to pave the way for an appropriate reply from the president to the effect that women are entitled to full recognition with men in the political world. Said the lady, "And so, Mr. President, we desire to play a real part in public life as something we are entitled to." And the president made an eloquent answer just two words long. Why not?" said he. The delegation having expended all their arguments, bowed their way out while Secretary Slemp ushered in another waiting delegation.

The indictment against Chief Prosecutor Wheeler of the senate investigation committee comes as a heavy blow to the scandal mongers who placed their faith fast to the Wheeler slogan, "He is guilty till he proves his innocense" and then as a follow up give a man no chance to testify in his own behalf.

Wheeler has been indicted by a jury in his own state of being guilty of the very things by which he is trying to besmirch the reputation of high officials. Wheeler denies he is guilty and expects the country to believe him, although he refused to give even passing credence to the denials of the men whom he summoned before the investigating committee. Now he is being tarred by his own brush—and getting a dose of his own medicine. It was Wheeler who feared the loudest at men who defended the good name of Harding under the Vandertip charges.

It is interesting to note that in all the mud slinging that has been actively engaged in by the senate and its committee witnesses, in not one instance has a senator or member of congress from New England been found of either the assailants or the assailed.

The insistence of President Coolidge that the country shall be run "by law and not by lawlessness" as set forth in his drastic rebuke to the senate has met popular approval and soon as the senate recovered from its surprise, words of praise for the courage and forcefulness of the president were uttered by all the New England delegations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Is Jesus Christ a Myth?

Mr. Editor: Henry VIII wrote a tract against Luther, and was rewarded with the title "Defender of the Faith."

This writer is not looking for emolument, but simply to verify the Scripture declaration, "Thou hast given a banner to them that fear thee, to be displayed because of the truth." (Ps. lx-4.)

The writer can well describe himself as a sinecure. A curate without a cure. One having no pulpit or congregation within which to display his banner—only equipped with a pad and stub-pen and the courtesy of your columns and the reading public.

This, however, sufficeth us.

With these necessaries, and the Word of God, and history, we are not at a loss to vindicate the reality of Jesus Christ, and to assert his reality, and that he is not the product of centuries of romance, nor a figment of the brains of idealists—ancient or modern. The story of Jesus, one great writer has said, would require a Jesus to have created it—and this was no Christian enthusiast.

The intense vigor of Christ's humanity is today one of the strongest proofs of his divinity, and in this regard, appeals more strongly to the philosophic mind, than the dictates of scripture. His life and the literature originated by it, more than any other literature, is connected with the best authors, and expresses the highest and clearest thought that the best and ripest scholarship the world has yet produced.

Renan, the great infidel writer closes his Life of Christ with language like this: "Whatever surprises await the world in the future, the supplanting of Jesus and his character will not be one of them." I quote from memory, but in substance. If that infidel lived in this day, what would he think of the pop-guns that are being fired within the church itself?

Jesus was a very real person, and a very real founder of a great world movement. Jesus was an "all-round" man. He was not a recluse. He sustained his personality, his fame, and organization with him in his own day, and did not have to leave its triumph very far in the future. He saw a great deal of it in his short life, and his taking away augmented it.

He was known as The Carpenter of Nazareth, a city that was proverbial for producing "no good thing" ever before him.

He could tell the market price of a sparrow—two for a farthing or five for two farthings." He could instruct a farmer how to sow and plant, and the crop to be expected from different soils. He knew the use of weeds, and that it might be destructive to the wheat to pull them up, and he could teach out of this, the great lesson why evil is in the world and its place in the divine economy—a subject which the whole book of Job was written to elucidate. He knew how much yeast a woman should put into three measures of meal in order to leaven the whole and how the untidy housekeeper washed the dishes—"making clean the outside of the cup and platter."

He could tell old fishermen where to drop the net, to enclose a draft of fishes and he could entangle astute doctors of the law in the meshes of their own theology better than his successors discomfit the modernists of today.

He was a mechanic, and yet he could ride an unbroken colt into the streets of his capital city, and create an ovation such as had never before stirred its echoes, and establish a memorial that has lasted through centuries—toward twenty, and is now more grandly celebrated, over seas and continents then unknown.

All this, Mr. Editor, without alluding to the "Virgin birth" or his death and passion marks him as the Superman—worthy of the honor and worship that he claimed for himself as the One who is "the Way, the Truth and the Life."

Let us not belittle ourselves by attempting to belittle Him.

JOHN TROLAND.

MUSSOLINI, THE BLACKSMITH'S SON

Benito Mussolini has spent most of his life disagreeing with people and conditions.

His father was a penniless blacksmith and his mother placed the boy with the Silesian Fathers at Faenza, Italy, that he might become a priest. But he could not adopt himself, and had to leave.

Then a laborer and a student, afterward a teacher earning $5 lire ($10,-14) a month. Trouble with the government authorities caused him to start for Switzerland on the day of his socialist father's arrest.

Arriving in Switzerland with two lire (35 cents) in his pocket, he hunted work for days, and imprisoned for vagrancy. When freed he found a job as mason. A Marxian socialist, he started a revolutionary paper, and Switzerland expelled him.

Working his way back into Italy, he became a leader of the socialists and editor of "Avanti," the party paper. He started a revolution in Romagna, in 1914, and lost.

When the World war started he wanted Italy to enter it, and the socialists threw him out of the party. He started "Popoli d' Italia," called it a "socialist daily," and the radical papers began a campaign to destroy him.

When Italy finally got into the war, he, while corporal in the infantry received 108 wounds in battle, was discharged for disability and decorated by the king.

After peace was declared, with "reds" gaining control in distressed Italy, he formed the Fascists, entered the election campaign, and was hopelessly defeated.

The rule of the "reds" was wild. He perfected his Fascisti army, led it to control of the workers, took the dictatorship from the Premier and called on the king to ratify his act. The king refused, and Mussolini marched his hosts of "Black Shirts" to Rome, was received by the king, the Senate and Chamber and given power to do as he desired.

Not 40 years old, he commands an organization estimated to be a million strong, still is dictator of Italy, and tells the king how to rule.

Tomorrow — Paderewski's Thumbs "Too Stubby."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Gilbert H. Grosvenor, whose completion of 25 years of service as director and editor of the National Geographic Society has just been celebrated in Washington, has an international reputation as a scientist and author. Twenty-five years ago, when Dr. Grosvenor became its executive head, the National Geographic Society was small and unknown. Today it is the largest and most popular scientific organization in the world, with a membership of 300,000. Dr. Grosvenor was born in Constantinople (of American parentage) in 1875, and received his early education in Robert College, in the Turkish capital. Coming to America in the early 90s he attended Worcester Academy and in 1897 received his A. B. from Amherst College. For a year after leaving college he engaged in teaching in an academy in New Jersey. In 1899 he joined the forces of the National Geographic Society as an assistant editor.

NEW STYLE MOTHERS

"I think Irene is the most unnatural mother!" declared the sentimental friends, shaking her head very hard. "When it's her first baby, too! Of course when I had that first glimpse of him I found it terribly hard to cry out that wasn't be the sweetest, prettiest thing you ever saw—but I must say I was amazed at her.

"My goodness, Genevieve!" she said. "How can you say that! You known perfectly well that James, Jr., is positively the homeliest little baby the world ever saw! Of course he's my baby and I'm going to hang onto him in spite of it and 25 years from now when his rugged countenance lights up the white house or something like that it won't make a bit of difference that his ears stick out like burdock leaves, his mouth resembles the Golden Gate and his eyes are white.

"But don't put your soul in jeopardy by claiming that he is pretty. Anything but! Or sweet! You just wait till you see him get mad and well for something! My personal opinion is that he is a terrible child growing worse every day. Could she mean it?"

"Of course she meant it, and she wasn't heartless!" said the friend who read all the new things that came out. "Irene is simply one of the sensible new mothers who refuse to see their children through a glass darkly.

"'Of course, there is mother love,' you tell yourself, 'but can't the girl see that the unfortunate child is cross-eyed, bat-eared, pug-nosed, wizened and scant haired and dog gone it, what right has she to ask me rapturously if I don't think she has the most beautiful grandest, sweetest, loveliest baby I ever saw? I know right well she hasn't, and so should she. What she should do when she sees her friends approaching is to slide the infant under the covers and claim he is asleep and she is so sorry you can't have even a peek at him.'

"Does she do it? She does not! You may be trying to hurry by with your arms filled with slipping bundles, yourself half an hour late to dinner, your new shoes hurting like fury and the world gone wrong because your daily letter from Clarence didn't come. She nabs you.

"'Oh,' she says, excitedly, 'you've never seen George, Jr., have you. Here, let me wheel him around out of the wind and wait a minute till I untie this cap.' Hush, Georgie! He knows every word I say to him, would you believe it? There isn't a smarter 2-month-old baby in town if I do say it. Or prettier. There! Stop crying, sweetie, and look at your Aunti Lou.'

"Whereupon Auntie Lou, clutching the slipping bag of sugar under her left arm and assembling under the other the bread, the magazine the bottle of cream and porterhouse steak, gazes expectantly into the depths of the cab and sees a red, vacant face about to explode in a howl. No eyes, nose, nothing at all but a mouth. She is vaguely reminded of a young robin she once saw. She stutters.

"'Isn't he wonderful?' demands the ruthless mother. 'Everybody says he is the most beautiful baby they ever saw—don't you think so?'

"'Ye—Ye—Yes!' answers Auntie Lou, grabbing at the cream bottle which bursts on the pavement, the steak and the magazine slipping down into the mess also.

"'Did you drop something?' insidiously asks the proud mother. 'Wait! I think he is going to sneeze! He is too cute for words when he sneezes! Can't you sneeze for Auntie Lou, precious? Do you know he is even prettier when he sneezes—just watch!'

"Grunuppp!' Auntie Lou agrees, grabbing at the sugar which splits and runs down in a stream to join the cream. And the baby's mother goes home and says she never did think much of Lou and she was positively stupid about noticing Georgie's fine points.

"Think of the relief among all of Irene's friends when they find she admits that her son is homely, cross and unattractive. They will be only too eager to prophesy how famous and popular he is apt to be in 25 years, because nobody worries much over what is a whole quarter of a century away, and so everybody will be happy and folks won't run when Irene comes in sight with Jimmy, Jr. She's a smart girl!"

"Well, I'd like to know what the world's coming to!" sniffed the sentimental friend. "There's such a thing as too much sense, let me tell you, so there!"—Chicago News.

CHILD TRAINING

CONSIDER THE CHILD'S MOTIVE

By Florence Bescomb-Phillips

"Mama! Mama!" exclaimed both children together, "Junior threw the cat in the pond."

"And she swimmed out." finished Little Brother, who had been so interested in the escapade as Junior until he saw that Sister was displeased. Then he was anxious to beat her telling their mother.

"How did it happen?" questioned Mother wearily, for she had to whip Junior for some misdemeanor almost every day, and it seemed a pity for he was such a jolly little lad.

"Why he just threw her right into the water," said Little Brother.

"On purpose, too," added Sister.

At this juncture Junior himself appeared, and Mother greeted him with a reproachful look as she said severely, "Junior, did you throw the cat in the pond?"

Junior hung his head and reddened, though the suspicion of a smile lurked around his mouth as he answered, "Yes," and then with a grimace at Sister and Brother, "Tattle-tales."

Mother pulled down the switch she kept handy and gave Junior a whipping, meanwhile telling him what a cruel boy he was to be so mean to his pet. Junior made as much fuss as possible over the whipping and at the end of it readily agreed not to throw the cat in the pond again.

Later I asked Junior why he threw the cat into the pond and he answered confidentially, "To see if she could swim. I didn't know whether cats could swim or not, but they can!" triumphantly.

It was all clear to me then. This child had thrown his cat into the pond for a purpose, and the purpose was right even if the method was questionable. He had performed an experiment in natural history. Of course he didn't want to throw the cat into the pond again for he had ascertained what he desired to know. So that whipping was wholly unnecessary. How much better, I thought, it would have been for his mother to have taken the time to question him with regard to his action, and, having learned it was prompted by his interest in natural history, to have promised him a book from which he could learn such things without having to make his pets uncomfortable—and then to have remembered her promise.

Parents should seek to develop the natural bent of a child's mind when it takes a legitimate course. Usually, if we can spare time to go to the bottom of things, we shall find that it is not meanness which prompts the child's naughtiness, but some undeveloped talent struggling for expression. If repression of desires is as disastrous as some think, surely many a child grows up handicapped by unnecessary repressed desires. True, the talent responsible for certain acts may seem far removed from the crude childish attempt at expression, but patience and tact can usually discover the talent, and parental guidance can develop it along constructive lines.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE ORINOCO

The Orinoco river, which an American party is to explore within the next few months with the aid of an airplane, lends itself well to this modern method of travel, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. This is because, though in the tropics, the river is bordered on one side by extensive level prairies instead of by impenetrable forests such as those through which the Amazon flows.

"In a way," says the bulletin, "it is as if the Missouri were being explored where it flows through the Great Plains of the west; but in such a comparison it must be kept in mind, of course, that Venezuela is a tropical country and that the grasses and shrubs of its llanos are ranker than those on which our buffalo used to browse.

"Just as great herds of bison roamed our prairies, so vast droves of half-wild cattle covered the level llanos north of the Orinoco in Venezuela's colonial days. These cattle played an important part in making independence possible in Spanish-speaking South American; for the armies of liberation and their guerilla forces lived on their meat.

These inroads almost exterminated the herds, however, and it is only in recent years that the cattle industry has shown indications of regaining its former importance.

"If it were not hard by the Amazon, mightiest river of the earth, the Orinoco would stand out as a tremendous stream; for, judged by the total volume of water which it yearly empties in to the sea, it is probably one of the half-dozen greatest rivers of the world. In length the Orinoco cannot compete with other great streams; the distance from its source to its mouth is about 1,600 miles. It has many huge tributaries, however, which give it a high rank in length of navigable waters, about 4,500 miles.

"The river finds its way into the Atlantic through a huge delta covering some 7,000 square miles. The first introduction which the river navigator gets to the Orinoco leads him to class it as a second Amazon, for on its low, moist delta forest growths run riot. One sails between the massive green walls formed by rank-growing strands of thousands of rambling vines.

"Above the delta, however, a hundred or more miles inland, the screening effect of coastal mountains comes into play, and the plains or llanos begin. Even in the prairie region trees fringe the river banks, but back from the stream, where the dry seasons make themselves felt, only little clumps of stunted palms and bushes break the monotony of grass-covered plains. South of the river are great forests like those of the Amazon basin, and from tree-covered regions flow numerous large tributaries some of which are not well-known.

"Ocean ships sail up the Orinoco as they sail up the Amazon, though not so far. Ciudad Bolivar, 250 miles from the ocean, is the New Orleans of Venezuela and is the country's fourth port. Here the river is ten or twelve miles wide even in the dry season and spreads out amazingly when the floods, 40 or 50 feet deep, sweep down. Smaller boats ascend the river hundreds of miles above Ciudad Bolivar, almost to the Andes, in fact. The traffic on the river is not nearly so heavy as the excellent navigation facilities warrant, owing to the sparseness of the population. Canoes and rafts floating down from remote regions of the Upper Orinoco basin bring considerable quantities of rubber, balata gum, chicle; hides to be shipped to the outside world, largely by way of the British island of Trinidad just off the Orinoco delta.

"Physiography has played a queer trick on the Orinoco in the upper reaches of the river. A stream flows out of the river at one point, carrying part of its waters to the Amazon. This stream, the Casiquiare, is navigable by small boats, so that it is possible to go inland by water from the mouth of the Orinoco to the mouth of the Amazon."

Rheumatic Pain Goes Quickly When New Powder From Italy Is Put In Shoes

No Medicine to Take. Quick Relief Guaranteed by Local Druggists

The internal methods of treating Rheumatism, uncertain at best, have been shown hopelessly old-fashioned by a recent scientific discovery. This amazing new discovery has quickly relieved thousands of chronic sufferers of their crippling, agonizing pain.

Alessandro Volta, the eminent Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named, discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients which he has compounded into a powder called VOLTA.

This powder is shaken into the shoes where it seems immediately to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet. This absorption is due, no doubt, to the fact that the feet contain more than 10 times as many pores to the square inch as are found in any other part of the body.

The use of Volta powder has demonstrated such astonishing results in literally thousands of cases many of which were considered hopeless, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta to rheumatic sufferers in their city with an unqualified guarantee to return the full purchase price on the first box in any rare case where the rheumatic pains are not wonderfully relieved.

All who suffer from rheumatic pains, no matter how long-standing their case may be, should take immediate advantage of this liberal offer. You can get Volta powder with this guarantee from:

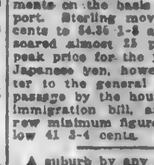
STRONG RALLY IN FRENCH CURRENCY AND SECURITIES

New York, April 14.—Rallying in response to the bright outlook for prompt acceptance by Germany of the Dawes report, French currency and securities today established new high levels for the year.

Scoring a gain of about 10 points, French francs sold at 6.14 cents, eclipsing their previous 1924 top of 6.08 cents established several weeks ago. French government 8 per cent bonds touched par for the first time in many months, and other governmental and municipal issues pushed ahead into new high ground for the year.

Other allied exchanges benefited by the optimism felt in European capitals for an early reparations settlements on the basis of the Dawes report. Sterling moved up about 2 cents to $4.36 1-8 and Belgian francs soared almost 25 points to a new peak price for the year at 6.46 cents. Japanese yen, however, moved counter to the general trend, following passage by the house of the Johnson immigration bill, and established a new minimum figure for the year below 41 3-4 cents.

A suburb by any other name would be just as difficult to reach.



NO BAKERS BREAD IS AS GOOD AS HOME-MADE FROM KING ARTHUR

Test This New Way

To whiter, cleaner teeth

Here is a method needed in your home. Millions now employ it. To the homes of some 10 nations it has brought a new era in tooth cleaning.

This ten-day test is free. Learn what this method means to you and yours.

It combats film

Film on teeth—that viscous film you feel—is what clouds and ruins teeth. Under old methods of tooth brushing, much of it clings and stays.

Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. That is why most teeth look cloudy.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Tooth troubles come to nearly all who do not fight the film.

New discoveries

New dental science has found ways to daily combat film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Dental authorities have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it. Now careful people the world over use this new-day method.

A child can see

Even a child can see that Pepsodent does what no old way accomplished.

It does more than fight film. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the ptyalin in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined effects bring at once a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth and how safe they are. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will be amazed and delighted. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent distinguishes the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Y. M. C. A. TEAMS GO OVER THE TOP IN ONE-DAY DRIVE FOR BUDGET

Starting out early Monday morning to tackle a proposition which heretofore has never been attempted in less than six days the five teams out for funds to provide for current expenses of the Norwich Young Men's Christian association, wound up the work in most creditable style Monday evening, raising $12,049 towards the quota of $15,000 set for the day, with assurances that make the entire amount a certainty. More remarkable than anything else is the fact that in one day the team members raised $1100 more than has ever before been raised in a Y. M. C. A. drive in six days and with pledges out, yet to come in as a result of Monday's work the quota has been more than subscribed.

Officials of the drive and all who participated in the great achievement earned praise for the manner in which they tackled their work and the quickness in which the desired amount was raised shows beyond a doubt that Norwich people, ever ready to support a worthy cause, have deemed the Y. M. C. A. that kind of an asset to the city, giving freely that the work of the association might continue in Norwich among boys and men of every nationality and creed.

Misfortunes at the beginning of the drive were quickly turned into good luck and those who were unable to play their part because of illness or injuries watched the work go on, every report bringing pleasure to them.

General Secretary Edwin Hill, for the first time in his years of service at the Y. M. C. A. was unable to participate in the drive, being confined to his home because of ill health. The day held a double joy for him for he saw the drive come to a successful close and learned with what a deep sense of appreciation his efforts for the Y have made themselves felt by co-workers for that association. This token of appreciation given by teams participating in the drive took the form of a collection of $200 a gift to Secretary Hill to be used for a vacation fund in hopes that he might regain his health.

Sympathy was also expressed that Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., was unable to attend the meetings owing to a broken ankle, and thanks were given Mrs. Edwin Hill for her work in place of Mrs. Bard. John McKinley, captain of Team D, who was taken ill the day before the drive, was also remembered during the day. His place was most ably filled by C. E. Carpenter, who led his team throughout the day. Herbert B Cary ably captained his team for the day although he was sick.

The first reports of progress were made at a breakfast given at the Y at 8.30 o'clock in the morning. Team captains reported 64 pledges for a total of $2745.50, what would in years past have been considered a good report for the entire day's work.

Urged on by the forceful speaking of Harry Hedley Smith of New Haven, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and remarks from Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, the team members went out for a second time determined to double the amount raised before breakfast.

That their efforts were successful was shown when reports of 185 pledges for the amount of $4,453.50 were made at the dinner served at the association building at 12.30 o'clock. At that hour $7,199 had been raised, nearly half of the required amount. The speaker at noon was Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, who urged the workers on to victory.

At 6.30 o'clock the teams again gathered about the tables and again the reports were more than double those of the morning gathering. In all 241 pledges had been handed in for a total of $4,850 and not a few teams reported additional pledges still out and more to come, pledges that would when returned add another $3,000 to the amount reported. A check-up of returns for the day showed that 490 pledges had been received for a total of $12,049 and with pledges yet to be returned the $15,000 quota had been more than subscribed for by Norwich people.

The speakers for the evening, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, State Secretary Smith and President James C. Macpherson, spoke in praise of the work done during the day, saying that never before had the Y. M. C. A. learned how its work was being appreciated as it had learned it during the 12 busy hours of Monday, when pledges were turned in at the rate of $1,000 an hour to provide money for the continuance of the association work in Norwich. Other speakers were Charles L. Stewart, campaign chairman, and James L. Case, campaign director, who thanked the team members for their work, and in turn were thanked for their inspiring leadership.

Great Achievement, Says President

In speaking of the success of the drive President Macpherson said on Monday evening, I believe the work done today is the greatest achievement in the history of the association, and I believe it sets a new civic record of which the city may well be proud. In one day of campaigning a total of $12,049 has been raised and enough more is in sight from pledges not yet returned and from people now out of town, to bring the amount over $15,000. The success of the campaign is evidence of the place the Y occupies in the hearts of our people and of their appreciation of what is being done by the association for boys and men of all creeds and nationalities who come under its system of service.

"Few of our people have asked themselves how many of the employed boys of our city have never seen a wonderful swimming pool or a complete system of showers, and what these added to our complete gymnasium equipment mean to the boys of poor families.

"No citizen we know of outside of James L. Case would have dared to sponsor so daring a plan as to attempt to put over so big a campaign in one day, and in addition to Mr. Case, the Norwich Y. M. C. A. is deeply indebted to Campaign Chairman Charles L. Stewart, to Captains S. B. Palmer, Herbert B. Cary, Frank L. Arnold, C. E. Carpenter and Harold Burt, together with their team members for this magnificent result. We are also deeply grateful to the ladies of the churches who prepared the meals and to all others who assisted in the campaign we extend a grateful and heartfelt thank you. We trust we may prove worthy as years go by, as in the past with a clean record of 19 years of service without a deficit in our association."

STREET COMMISSIONER CRUTHERS HANDS IN HIS RESIGNATION TO MAYOR

With only about a month and a half to go to complete two years of service Street Commissioner A. E. Cruthers resigned Monday, placing his written resignation in the hands of Mayor Milo R. Waters to take effect immediately. The resignation will be placed before the common council at its special meeting Wednesday evening of this week, but the public works committee of which Alderman Henry Gebrath is chairman, held a meeting Monday evening with the mayor at which John C. Donovan, who has been a foreman in the department was temporarily appointed street commissioner to fill the vacancy.

While admitting late Wednesday afternoon that the resignation of Mr. Cruthers was in his hands, Mayor Waters declined to comment upon it except to say that for some time he had not been satisfied with the way things were going in the street department.

When seen at his home Monday night, Mr. Cruthers said he had nothing to say about his resignation.

It was reported among members of the street department Monday evening that public criticism expressed in St. Mary's church Sunday by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Keefe, of the uncompleted work between the trolley rails on Central avenue had a direct bearing upon the clash between the mayor and the street commissioner. Father Keefe's remarks had come to the ears of the mayor, it was reported, and when he spoke to Commissioner Cruthers about the work in Central avenue, the discussion reached a point where the street commissioner's resignation was quickly forthcoming.

NO TRACE FOUND OF MISSING OLD LYME MAN

Louis J. Hughes, who lives near the mill of the Art Lace and Braid Co., in Old Lyme, has been missing from his home since Sunday and the fear is that he may have committed suicide by drowning. Search was made for him all day Monday and the water was drawn off the upper pond of the braid mill, but no trace of the missing man was found. The woods in the vicinity of Rogers Lake have been searched by Boy Scouts and the lake has been dragged but without results. The general opinion is that he has drowned himself in the lake.

He was seen about 10.30 Sunday morning when he was seen going through the fields away from his home. Hughes, who is nearly 60 years old and is married, has been an enthusiastic fox and bee hunter for many years. In fact he is known as being exceedingly fond of the woods and outdoor life and knows every bit of the woods in that section of the town and county.

It was recalled Monday that Hughes had said he would go where nobody would hear him cough. A strong cough was one of his distinctive marks and it is believed this remark may have referred to his intention to secret himself and end his life in some of the numerous crevices or hiding places in the woods that he knew so well.

NEW LONDON POLICE WOMAN MRS. JANE CASSIDY, NORWICH

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 14th—The city council here, on recommendation of City Manager Holt, this evening appointed Mrs. Jane E. Cassidy to be a police woman of the city of New London, to succeed Mrs. Alice Hunt, resigned some months ago. The salary is $1800 a year. Mrs. Cassidy is the widow of Dr. Patrick J. Cassidy of Norwich. She is not a voter in this city, but is now residing here, and under the ordinance creating the office the appointee must be a citizen of New London. This was overcome by the council suspending the operation of that section of the provision for the appointment. Manager Holt said he did not find here a woman who was just the one desired for the place, so he selected Mrs. Cassidy.

The new appointee was Miss Jane Hall, of Willimantic, and before marriage was a registered nurse. She has two daughters, the elder a graduate of Smith College, the other a student there. She recently moved from Norwich to New London. Mrs. Cassidy was active in war relief work and Red Cross service, also helped during the last national census-taking in Norwich. She is a sister of Mrs. Darrow, of Waterford. Her husband was a son of the late Dr. Patrick Cassidy of Norwich.

MEN AND GIRLS RUN FROM CAR AFTER CRASH

A Paige touring car owned by a Norwich man living on Wightman avenue and Ford delivery truck belonging to Tait Bros., of New London crashed together in the middle of Trading Cove hill Monday night about 8.45 and the first named car, with its left forward wheel wrecked, landed on the trolley tracks where it blocked the line until it could be moved.

Occupants of the delivery truck, which was driven by Arthur Pollard, stated that immediately after the collision they saw two men and two women jump out of the other car and run down the hill until they disappeared in the darkness. The police learned that the driver of the Paige car was Eddie Carey, a Norwich fireman, who was accompanied by Louis Swatzburg, a Norwich public service driver, and they also have the names of the women occupants of the car. Up to about midnight Monday, the owner of the car had not been able to find the two men, according to the report he made to the police.

The New London truck was going up the hill and was well on its right side of the road, according to the report made to the state police, when it met the other car coming down. The touring car suddenly turned towards the truck and the left forward wheels struck. The truck was pushed over towards the track and the touring car swung around at about a 45 degree angle. The most serious damage to the touring car was demolished forward left wheel, a sprung axle and bent mudguard. The truck had its forward left wheel pushed back out of position, axle bent and mudguard dented. Both cars were taken to New London for repairs after State Policeman Burns had made an investigation.

OBITUARY

Calvin L. Rawson

The death of Calvin Luther Rawson occurred Saturday afternoon at one o'clock at his home in North Woodstock where he had resided for many years.

Mr. Rawson was born in Norwich, December 3, 1840, the son of Calvin J. and Betsey Whipple Rawson, and after attending the schools of this city he entered a law office and was later admitted to the New London county bar.

In 1890 he was united in marriage with Clara Isabel Rawson of Woodstock and for a number of years continued in the law business in this city. The greater part of his life, however he loved to spend in the open and after a few years of business he retired. While in Norwich he was a member of Trinity Episcopal church and presented that church its organ and choir loft. His father built the house on Broadway now owned by the Knights of Columbus and for many years the Rawson family resided there. Mr. Rawson will be remembered by many of the older residents of the city who will be grieved to learn of his death.

Surviving are his wife, two nieces, Mrs. Samuel Jackson of New Hampshire and Mrs. Mabel Dresser of Boston and a nephew. There are also three cousins, George Elliott, a cousin on his father's side, and Mrs. Charles B. Lee and Mrs. Herbert T. Miller cousins on his mother's side.

Mr. Rawson was a noted student of ornithology and was considered one of the best authorities on the subject in this part of the state. A member of the Smithsonian Institute he wrote for a number of magazines. His contributions on birds, their lives and habits were published in numerous periodicals. For years he possessed one of the finest collection of birds' eggs in this part of the country. He also had many mounted specimens of birds of all kinds. Both collections unfortunately were destroyed in a fire that consumed his bungalow at North Woodstock several years ago, which he built to live in only during the summer time. This bungalow was called the Quail Trap and many of his writings which found their way into print were written there under that name, a number of his Quail Trap papers being published in the Bulletin in past years. The bungalow was built on a sightly place with picturesque views looking into three states.

With Mr. Rawson's very complete knowledge of ornithology he was able to talk interestingly and with authority on all bird life and those who had the good fortune to find him in the mood were enthralled with his stories of the feathered species, which he told graphically and well. His work for the preservation of useful birds was constant, earnest and thorough and his articles along the line did much to arouse and maintain interest in their welfare.

Mrs. Frederick W. Douglas.

Martha E. Douglas, 59, widow of Frederick W. Douglas, formerly of Norwich, died at the family home in East Granby at 1 o'clock Monday morning after a long illness. She was born in Norwich, the daughter of Captain Constant and Mathilda Smith Foote, and had been a resident of Windsor Locks and later East Granby for many years. She leaves two sons, George L. Douglas of Hartford and Fred B. Douglas of Windsor Locks; one daughter, Mrs. Lillian S. Farrell of East Granby and one brother, Joseph H. Foote of Norwich.

NEW LONDON PASTOR SPOKE TO BROTHERHOOD

Seven applications for membership were received Monday evening at the April meeting of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church at the Community House. The meeting, as usual, opened at 6.30 o'clock with a supper served under the direction of the Haviland class of the United church Sunday school. President Walter F. Lester presided at the business meeting during which routine business was transacted. President Lester presented as the speaker Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London.

Rev. Mr. Danforth after speaking of the happy and very pleasant relations between Norwich and New London, said in part: There is something in a community that lends a value to it that cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents. It is a matter of people. Because certain people live in a community, you like to live in that community. If they move away the community loses some of its attraction for you. Have there not been sections of a city that have been changed altogether because a certain type of people moved in and a certain type of people moved out? A town is rather a matter of people than of lots and houses. It is the change in people that changes a community. It is the spirit of the people or a community that counts.

What is our Brotherhood? What is it that causes you to gather here? If this were a bowling alley, for instance, it would be an athletic instinct that would cause you to gather here. Suppose we were here as the stockholders of a company. It would be an interest in our possessions that caused us to meet here. It would be partly a matter of pride of possession and partly a matter of possession of pride. That which has gathered us here is a church. You are a brotherhood connected with a church. What is the spirit of the Brotherhood? It is the spirit of the church of Christ that has gathered us here. The spirit of the church is the spirit of a true disciple of the one Great Master.

Rev. Mr. Danforth said he was surprised at theological controversies and that he doesn't understand how people find the leisure to indulge in theological controversies. It is when a man is on the path that he counts, not when he is on a pedestal. If the reason we are here is a matter of paths who made the paths? It is people who make paths. If we want to know the value of the paths we ask not how many people walked over them but what kind of people walked over them. The path that has brought you here to this meeting is after all a path that has been marked for you by people because there has been a great stream of human influence. A man becomes like the company he keeps.

There is in every one of us a certain element of inconsistency. There are certain things we have done not in keeping with the character of our lives or the plan of our lives. What have followed paths not on the main line? But through it all there is one great companionship. The end of the journey is the house where that companionship lives. That is brotherhood. You value the path, not for the number of miles it traverses but for the destination to which it leads, and for the companionship you have on the way.

Rev. Mr. Danforth was given a rising vote of thanks for his splendid address. Present at the meeting was a delegation of 25 members of the Men's club of Park Congregational church. Following the supper B. P. Bishop as the "best looking man present" was delegated to convey the Brotherhood's appreciation of the delicious supper to the members of the Haviland class. The total attendance at the meeting numbered 74.

Just before adjournmnt President Lester announced that the speaker for the next meeting, May 12th, will be Hon. Arthur M. Brown. The annual election of Brotherhood officers will also take place that night.

When the doctor told Mr. and Mrs. Guy Philips, of New Philadelphia, O., that it was twins, they were not surprised. The mother is a twin; so is her mother and so are two brothers of the latest pair's father.

MAJOR BASEBALL SEASON OPENS TODAY WITH TEAMS ALL SET TO GO

New York, April 14.—(By The A P.)—The forces of major league baseball—oiled, geared and imbued with the hope that springs eternal at the barrier, even among those clubs that must inevitably find their own level in second division depths—inaugurate their 1924 pennant campaign tomorrow.

Fandom east and west is keenly awaiting the opening shout of "play ball!" that will mark the close of the long "off-season," the end of the spring training grind and send the sixteen American and National league outfits off on a battle for supremacy that will not close until the last week in September.

Fair weather is promised for the inaugural games and indications point to record outpourings of the faithful to compare pre-season ratings of their favorites with actual performances. In fact, interest has been sharpened to an unusual degree and observers predict a record attendance year, with accompanying prosperity, which will eclipse the high marks of last season.

Line-ups, a majority of them showing decided shake-ups since the last out was called in the 1923 races, have been picked for the initial skirmishes. The highly-touted rookie products of spring training, nearly three score of whom apparently have earned regular berths, will be put to the acid test for the first time under fandom's appraising scrutiny. But for the most part, veterans, seasoned by many a hard battle, will be back at their old posts, and to them tomorrow is just another campaign.

The chief fight in both major leagues this year is clean-cut—a combined attack by seven clubs in each circuit to dislodge the mighty New York Giants and Yankees, pennant victors in their respective organizations for the past three years who will seek to shatter National and American league precedent by capturing their fourth straight emblems of triumph.

The world's champion Yankees, with the team that led its nearest rival by sixteen games last season intact, are overwhelming favorites to set diamond history with another American league pennant. Detroit, with improved pitching, a heavy attack, but weaknesses around second base, and Cleveland, a hard-hitting outfit with only a fair defense and mound corps loom as the chief rivals of the Yankees, who bank upon their brilliant hurling corps and an offensive led by Babe Ruth to blaze the path to another triumph.

The Athletics and Red Sox, two greatly improved clubs, and the St. Louis Browns, providing George Sisler regains his old form, promise to be formidable factors, but Washington and the White Sox, both under new managers, have not shown enough to rank them among the contenders.

The Giants also are generally picked to finish again in front and fulfill an ambition John McGraw once before failed to gain after winning three straight pennants. But the National league champions, forced to rebuild their pitching staff after its collapse last fall and to reconstruct partially their infield and outfield, face a more formidable task than the Yankees.

The Cincinnati Reds, buttressed by the best twirling staff in the league but lacking some of the McGraw attack, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, with a strong offensive and good twirling prospects, stand out as contenders-in-chief. Behind them, the Chicago Cubs, an aggressive outfit that has climbed upward steadily the last three years, and the heavy-hitting St. Louis Cardinals loom as trouble-makers, while the Boston Braves, rejuvenated under Dave Bancroft and boasting a fine young hurling corps, are the "dark horse" of the race. Brooklyn and Philadelphia do not figure to escape the second division.

Where They Play Today.

The schedule of major league opening games tomorrow follows:

American League.

New York at Boston
Philadelphia at Washington
St. Louis at Chicago
Cleveland at Detroit

National League.

Brooklyn at New York
Boston at Philadelphia
Pittsburgh at Cincinnati
Chicago at St. Louis.

LOU GEHRIG IS RELEASED TO HARTFORD UNDER OPTION

New York, April 14.—The New York Yankees today announced they had released Lou Gehrig, promising first baseman, to the Hartford, Conn., club of the Eastern league under optional agreement.

The release came as a surprise, for several clubs last winter, including the St. Louis Browns, had refused to waive on Gehrig, a former Columbia university star who came to the Yankees late last season after a brief professional trial with Hartford.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, said he regarded Gehrig as an unusually fine prospect but desired to give him further seasoning, which he could obtain more readily playing regularly with Hartford than warming the Yankee bench.

CARPENTIER WANTS TO FIGHT GIBBONS FIRST

New York, April 14.—George Carpentier would rather battle Tom Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, at Michigan City, Ind., on May 31, instead of engaging in the first fight of his prospective American campaign against Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, in New York or New Jersey the week of June 9.

This information, marking the latest development in a lively battle among rival promoters over Carpentier's engagements in this country, was cabled today to Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, by Francois Descamps, the Frenchman's manager, who expressed a desire to alter his agreement with Gibson making possible the Gibbons-Carpentier match first. He suggested July 4 as a date for the match with Tunney.

Rejection of this plan, however, was immediately announced by Gibson, who declared he would hold Carpentier to the letter of an agreement to fight Tunney first and, if necessary, seek an injunction in Indiana courts to stop the Gibbons fight. Gibson's contract with Descamps entitles him to a prior claim on the French fighter's services here.

Floyd Fitzsimmons, Michigan City, Ind., promoter, meanwhile is going ahead with plans for the match he proposes to hold May 31 in spite of Gibson's attitude. Jack Curley and Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, are now on their way to France as emissaries of Fitzsimmons to induce Descamps to go through with their plans.

BULKELEY OPENS SEASON AT SUB BASE TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 14.—The Bulkeley High school baseball team will open its baseball season Tuesday afternoon at the Submarine Base, opposing the Engineers nine of the Dungaree league. This game will get under way at 4.15 and the Bulkeley team together with the Bulkeley contingent will leave the municipal pier on the tug 72 at 3.30.

A good game should result when these teams meet. The Engineers team is made up of mostly last year's first string Submarine Base team and have been playing good ball in the Dungaree league games. It will be the Engineers' first game with teams outside of the regular Dungaree league matches.

The Bulkeley team went through its last workout at Morgan park today in preparation for this contest. The infield is shaping up well and the outfield is composed of good fielders and heavy stickers. This game will give the Bulkeley followers a chance to get a line on the Orange and Black outfit this year, before the regular season with high school teams starts. Bulkeley was scheduled to play Morgan High Wednesday afternoon at New London, but this game has been since cancelled by the visitors.

Just who will do the mound duty for the Bulkeley team is not known at present and this will not be decided by Coach Robert T. Aldrich until the game is about to be started. Tillie Daniels, who is the ace of the Bulkeley pitching staff, will probably get the assignment if he has fully recovered from the attack of tonsilitis he suffered the latter part of last week. If Daniels is not selected to do the hurling, Farid will surely receive the call. Montali and Locke, two rookie hurlers, will be held in reserve. Sheflot will do the receiving.

The line-up of the Bulkeley team will be as follows: Hutchinson 1b, Barry 2b, Rice lf, Mansfield rf, Booth cf, Gaetano ss, Tuttle 1b, Sheflott c.

After the game is played the Submarine Base will act as hosts to the Bulkeley delegation at a light supper. The boxing bouts that are scheduled for Tuesday evening will be taken in by the high school players and rooters.

MANY ENTRIES RECEIVED FOR BOSTON MARATHON

Boston, April 14. — The eight men who finished in front in last year's Boston marathon have entered for this year's event to be run next Saturday as the final tryout for the Olympic games. According to an announcement today by the Boston Athletic association. The total entries now number 100 as against 78 last year. Gunnar Nilson and Nestor Erickson, of the Finnish-American A. C., New York, are among the latest additions to the list.

Last year's first eight, in their finishing order, are Clarence H. Demar, Melrose; Frank Dunn, New York; Wallie Carlson, Chicago; Albert T. Michelson, Stamford; Nilson, Erickson, Carl W. A. Linder, Quincy, and William J. Kennedy, Port Chester, N. Y.

James P. Henigan of Dorchester, "the Smiler," withdrew from the B. A. A. marathon today to train especially for the Olympic cross country trials in New York next June.

GREENLEAF WINS FIRST MATCH IN POOL TOURNEY

Philadelphia, April 14. — Ralph Greenleaf, the titleholder, easily defeated Andrew St. Jean of Minneapolis, in the first match of a round robin tournament today for the world's pocket billiard championship. The score was 125 to 36.

Greenleaf played a brilliant game. In the third inning he made a run of 23 off the break, and ended the match with an unfinished high run of 52. St. Jean was blanked in all but two innings, in each of which he made 13.

Six games were scheduled for this city after which the contestants will go to Kansas City for three days; then to Minneapolis and from there to Detroit, where the tournament will end. All the matches will be at 125 points.

HARVARD'S CREWS GET WORKOUT ON SCHUYLKILL

Philadelphia, April 14.—Harvard's varsity and second varsity crews, here for a week practice on the Schuylkill during their Easter vacation, went through their first workout on the river today under the direction of Coach Eddie Stevens and Captain Barclay McHenry, of Rosemont, Pa. They were on the river both morning and afternoon.

For more than a month the crimson oarsmen have been rowing on the Charles, but the weather has been cold and the water rough. Coach Stevens intended to get them accustomed to warm weather and quiet water before the beginning of the spring rowing season, which they will open against Pennsylvania and Columbia on the Charles, May 10.

Carpentier to Box Towniey

Paris, April 12.—Georges Carpentier, accompanied by a number of sparring partners, left Paris today for Vienna where he has an engagement to box Arthur Towniey, the English light heavyweight, on April 27.

Shake-Up in Princeton Crews.

Princeton, N. J., April 14.—The first radical shake-up in the Princeton crews occurred today when Coach Spaeth announced five changes in the first varsity boat. Dr. Spaeth made no explanation of the changes except to say another shift would result if the crew does not round into shape for the opening race with the Navy May 30.

Sterling Speedboys Win

The Sterling Speedboys in their first game of the season on Sunday scored an overwhelming victory over the Moosup Boy Scouts, 20 to 3. The Scouts made a desperate rally in the ninth inning but were unable to make any impression.

A Baseball Challenge

The Jewett City Speedboys issue a challenge to any team averaging 16 years of age for Saturday or Sunday games. For games write to James Foley, Jewett City, Conn.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

The score is 0-0. Last half of third inning. Runners on first and second. None out.

Where and how should first baseman play to be of most value to his club?

First baseman should always play well in "on the grass" in order to get a bunted ball in time to make a forced play at either third or second. On bunts the throwing must be most accurate. The throw of the first baseman from first to third on such plays is his most difficult one to make, as he rarely has time to set himself for the effort. When a first baseman has a strong arm and is accurate he can break up many a rally in this situation by forcing men at third and second. Kelly, of the Giants, is a great asset to a ball club.

WESTERLY HIGH TEAM FAST ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, April 14.—It is just possible that the first baseball match game of the season between the Westerly High school and the West Warwick High school may be played on Vose park instead of the playground diamond off High street. Superintendent of Schools W. H. Bacon on viewing the playground diamond stated that it might be well to have the field in first class shape before it was played on and unless it was considerably more dried up it would not be in condition to be rolled and this would necessitate a change in the playing field. Coach Sherman had the W. H. S. boys going through their paces on Monday afternoon and expressed himself as satisfied with the progress being made. The first string players are Smith, Kenyon, Larsen, Agard, Cornell, W. Dabrocseki, D. Dabroceski, the Meikle brothers, Salemano, Grills, the Payne brothers, Lucetti and Vigiliano.

ACADEMY TEAM HAS STIFF WORKOUT YESTERDAY

The Academy baseball squad was sent through a stiff workout yesterday afternoon by Coach Brigham, the boys showing much life and pep under the ideal baseball weather. The practice yesterday included bunting practice, base-running and sliding and a five inning game between the varsity and scrubs. Segal worked for the varsity and Couture for the scrubs, incidently the scrubs slipped one over on the regulars nosed them out by one run.

Steinman, the big burly pitching candidate put a whole afternoon in the box and under the direction of Coach Brigham has changed his style of delivery. Just one afternoon's work under the new form has done wonders for the big boy. He has developed speed and when his control is better will make one of the best pitchers that has struck the Academy for several years.

BROWNS TRADE EZZELL TO RED SOX FOR McMILLAN

Boston, April 14.—Homer E. Ezzell, third baseman, has been traded by the St. Louis Browns to the Boston Americans in exchange for Norman McMillan, Lee Fohl, manager of the Red Sox, announced tonight on his arrival here with the club for the league opening tomorrow.

Boston will gain in hitting power from the trade, according to Fohl, who said that Ezzell and McMillan were both good fielders but that the former was stronger at the bat. McMillan played third base for the Red Sox a part of last season, and also filled in at other infield positions. The deal was a man-for-man trade, with no money or other players involved, Fohl said.

Ezzell went to the Browns last year from the Shreveport club of the Texas league.

TAYLOR REFUSES TO GO THROUGH WITH WILLS BOUT

Hartford, April 14. — Jack Taylor, Omaha, Nebr., negro, today refused to go through with his scheduled fight with Harry Wills here April 30 for the American Legion. He gave no reason for his withdrawal.

Efforts by the matchmakers to match Wills with either "Battling McCreary, Clem Johnson, or John Lester Johnson, all negro fighters, failed. Wills, through his manager, "Paddy" Mullins, refusing to fight any one of the trio.

The state athletic commission will endeavor to force Wills to meet a worthy opponent on the date selected.

NOANK BASEBALL TEAM GETTING INTO SHAPE

The Noank baseball team is getting into shape for the coming season and the little seashore town expects to be represented by a fast nine or ten men. Although Manager Turner has yet been elected the practice will start this week and acting manager John Scroggins is booking games for the season, and it is expected that the first game will be played on May 10th. The Noank team would like to arrange a series of games with the Voluntown club.

Bulkeley Inter-Class Games Today.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 14.—Bulkeley inter-class games will be continued Tuesday afternoon at Morgan park, when the seniors and the freshmen will oppose each other at 2 o'clock. This game will be played probably but five innings, to allow the players and spectators to catch the tug that will carry the Bulkeley team to the Submarine Base.

The freshmen were the victors in the game against the sophomores on Saturday morning and naturally this team is favored to gain a victory. The seniors however, had a little hard luck in their opening game against the juniors and hope to gain revenge at the expense of the first year men.

BOXING TITLES AT BASE WILL BE DECIDED TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 14.—Five titles in boxing will be decided at the Submarine Base, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. The titles that are in question at present but will be definitely decided on Tuesday night are as follows: middleweight, featherweight, welterweight, lightweight and heavyweight. The building in which the bouts will be held will be taxed to its capacity from present indications. The sailors at the base look toward this event as the banner event of the year.

The first bout will find Kachalia, a ferocious battler from the S-18 opposing Pankowits from the first lieutenants' department. This bout will decide the middleweight champion of the base and the preparation that these men have been making for this bout is enough to assure the spectators present that it will be no tiddle wink party. The bout will go four rounds to a decision.

In the second bout of the evening, Anderson of the S-1 will find himself in the ring alone with O'Rouke. O'Rouke is an experienced battler and recently opposed Landers, former featherweight champion of the navy. Landers gained a decision over O'Rouke in their four round setto but had no easy time doing it.

The bout of all bouts is the third, between Kearney, the present welter champ of the Submarine Base, and Whitely, the former holder of this title. Kearney unloosed the title from Whitely's head in the last four-round embroglio. And Whitely was not at all pleased to have the title slip to another and he desires to recover it again. Both ring masters have a large following and the interest in this bout especially is expected never to wane.

Antocilla, who gained his early knowledge about fighting in the Philippines, will tackle Woods of the first lieutenant's department. Antocilla in some ways takes after his countryman, Pancho Villa. It is rumored at the base that both Antocilla and Villa are old time cronies and answered in quite a number of fights in the Philippines before Villa came to this country to take the fistic world by by storm, by exhibiting a fine style.

When an Irishman sees red there is bound to be some trouble. "Spud" Murphy is the Irishman who saw red about a month ago at the the last bouts, when he hit the canvas after receiving a stiff right on the chin from Gifford. It took an extra round to decide the winner of this bout and an even closer fight is looked forward to, Tuesday night. "Spud" Murphy and Gifford are both rugged men and should furnish plenty of excitement in their set-to.

DODGE TAKES SIX STRINGS FROM FILLMORE AT AETNA

In the second match in the Eastern Connecticut Bowling tournament between Dodge of Willimantic and Roy Fillmore of Norwich, the Willimantic boy had the edge on the local roller and took six out of the eleven strings rolled. Dodge started off strong, winning four out of the first five strings and at practically all times during the match he was steadier than the local boy. Fillmore showed flashes of championship form but his rolling was not consistent and although only 84 pins separated them at the end of the match Fillmore was far from being right. The scores:

| Dodge, | Fillmore. |
|---|---|
| 121 | 91 |
| 117 | 107 |
| 130 | 127 |
| 117 | 88 |
| 94 | 118 |
| 114 | 95 |
| 96 | 113 |
| 105 | 94 |
| 107 | 94 |
| 103 | 121 |
| 90 | 103 |
| 1184 | 1150 |

Dodge's average for the match was 107.7 and Fillmore's 104.6.

There is much interest centered in tonight's match at Taftville between Frankie Barber of Danielson and Chip Lugas of Taftville as the leadership of the league depends on the outcome of this match. If Barber wins seven of the strings tonight Fillmore and Dugas will be tied for first place, but if Dugas wins the majority he holds undisputed possession of the position.

CHAPMAN AND STRANAHAN TIE FOR LOW MEDAL SCORE

Pinehurst, N. C., April 14.—John D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., and R. A. Stranahan, New York, tied for low medalist honors with 73 strokes each in the qualifying round of the mid-April golf tournament here today. They led P. S. P. Randolph, Jr., Point Judith, R. I., last year's winner, by five strokes.

WOMEN'S TENNIS SINGLES AT PINEHURST COURTS

Pinehurst, N. C., April 14.—Martha Bayard defeated Miss Gass, 6-1, 6-1, in the first match of the women's singles in the annual north and south tennis tournament, which opened here today. Mrs. Theodore Schat defeated Mrs. Lester Watson, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3 in the hardest fought match in the first round.

Mrs. De Forest Candee, defeated Miss Mary Jordan, 6-1, 6-3, Mrs. R. S. Green won from Miss Isabella Mumford, 6-3, 6-4; Miss Leslie Bancroft defeated Mrs. Malcolm McBurney, 6-3, 6-2, and Mrs. B. F. Briggs,

YOUNG STRIBLING SCORES TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT OVER CANADIAN FIGHTER

Philadelphia, April 14.—William L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., light heavyweight, tonight scored a technical knockout against Tex McEwan, of Canada, in the seventh round of their scheduled ten round bout. Referee Lew Baily stopped the fight to save McEwan further punishment.

Stribling gave McEwan a severe beating. Taking the offensive at the opening gong, the Georgia youth hammered and pounded his opponent about the ring almost at will. McEwan fought gamely, but was no match for Stribling, and was saved by the bell in the fourth and fifth rounds. McEwan weighed 170 pounds and Stribling 167.

WESTERLY RUNNER PERFORMS WELL IN BOSTON RACE

Thomas Earl Hartley, 22, weight 168, Westerly's well-known long distance runner and pugilist, came in 14th in a field of 90 starters, in a ten-mile open run in Boston, Saturday, the route being from the club house and over Park street, South end to Blue Hill ave., along Morton St., and return by the same route. An excellent showing was made by Hartley his record being: Elapsed time 61.44, penalty 1:30 and corrected time 60:14. The winner, Brown had 54:46 2:15 and 56:34 as above. Hartley came in ahead of the well-known runner, T. Henigan.

Young Hartley is entered this (Monday) night for a bout with "Fighting" Frank Burdick under the auspices of the Lorraine Community house.

Next Saturday Hartley is entered in the fifth annual open handicap run of the Michael J. O'Connell post, which begins at 10 o'clock next Saturday at Lowell school, Boston, and is held under the sanction of the N. E. A. A. A. U.

FAVORITES WIN OPENING MATCHES AT PINEHURST

Pinehurst, N. C., Apr. 14.—With leading tennis players of the country in action, the annual north and south tennis tournament opened here today. Vincent Richards, titleholder, was not present to defend his title. All of the favorites won their opening matches, with one exception, in straight sets.

The tournament will continue through the week, and will include men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles, and mixed doubles.

Players here for the tournament include Miss Leslie Bancroft, of the Longwood Cricket club, Boston, who is No. 8 in the national ranking list and who has been named as an alternate on this year's Olympic team, and Miss Martha Bayard, Short Hills, N. J., another "First Ten," player.

On next Saturday afternoon the S. H. S. baseball team, with "Gus" Chesebro captain, will play the alumni on Owen field for the first match of the season.

Twenty-five Stonington track men were out in preparation for their meet with Chapman High on Saturday, April 26th.

Shade Gets Decision

Buffalo, N. Y., Apr. 14.—Dave Shade, of California, won a decision over Frankie Schoell, of Buffalo, in ten rounds here tonight.

Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, knocked out Pat Walsh, of New York in the second round of a scheduled six round bout.

New London Sport Comment

"Fordham baseball team defeats Rutgers by 2 to 1, as Johnny Dwyer pitches brilliant game," so reads the headline of the New York Herald-Tribune's issue of Sunday. This is the second time within a week that Johnny Dwyer has stepped to the mound for the Fordham nine and twirled a brilliant game. Dwyer, who was a former Chapman Tech luminary, will be remembered by the fans that have followed up the games of the high school teams in this section of the state. His first appearance on the plateau for the Maroon against Yale last week was the beginning of what New London fans think a real college baseball career for the Whaling city boy. Some of the wise ones even predict that Dwyer will be grabbed up by some big league or minor league club before he finishes his college career. In the game against Rutgers on Saturday, Dwyer exhibited even beter pitching than he did against Yale on April 5. He allowed Rutgers but five hits during the entire nine innings. His teammates were not in the hitting mood and the Fordham batters connected safely but three times. These hits, however, were bunched and accounted for the two runs scored by Fordham. Rutgers made its only run on a triple and an error. Another error followed and a single followed this, giving Rutgers three men on the paths with no outs. Here Dwyer gave an exhibition of pitching that was not to be rivalled. He made the next three batters to face him pop up easy flies that were gathered in by the Fordham fielders without any effort. Coach Coffey is elated over the showing of the freshman Dwyer, and reports that were received after the game Saturday show that the Fordham mentor considers Dwyer the best of his hurlers.

The Bulkeley baseball team will oppose the Engineers of the Dungaree league at the Submarine Base Tuesday afternoon. The Navy tug 72 will leave the Municipal pier at 3.30 with the Bulkeley team and the students and rooters that will accompany the team to the Submarine Base. After the baseball game, the Bulkeley contingent has been invited to attend the boxing bouts that have been arranged by Lieutenant Arnold.

The city has had several carpenters at work at Morgan park fixing up the fences and bleachers during the past week.

The infield of Morgan park is still in poor condition. There are ruts in the diamond that make the ball take bad hops which are not easy to nudge. Something definite should be done by the city to keep the park in condition. Two years ago the city provided for a caretaker, but last year there was nobody taking care of the park and keeping it in a condition for ball playing. The diamond was laid out wrong in the first place, the field being a sun diamond which makes it difficult for an infielder or an outfielder to judge a ball properly. But the diamond has been laid out now and nothing can be done to remedy matters now. New London made one of the biggest mistakes in the history of the city when Plant field was not bought and converted into a city baseball field.

Allard, the Plainfield High school catcher, was partly responsible for his team's victory over Chapman Tech Saturday. He is a good hitter and has a good arm for a catcher.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Catcher Walter Wackenfelt has been set adrift by Salt Lake.

E. R. Morrison, an outfielder has been sold by St. Paul to the Memphis Chicks.

Los Angeles has turned Roy Hanna and Laurente Robertson, pitchers, loose.

Pitchers Kent, Greenfield and Joel Leete, New York Giant recruits, have been obtained by the New Haven Eastern League club.

Walter Mails, former Cleveland pitcher, now with Oakland of the Coast League, has been sued for divorce. His wife charges desertion.

Manager Good of the Kansas City Blues has signed Ray Sorey, a 19-year-old Coast kid, who appears to have the makings of an outfielder.

Purchase of Mike Baker, shortstop of the Danville Virginia League team by Kansas City has been announced. Baker formerly was with Toledo.

SUFFIELD SCHOOL FUND STARTS WITH $30,000

Preliminary pledges totaling more than $30,000 toward the $350,000 trust endowment fund of Suffield school—the old Connecticut Literary Institution—were announced at a dinner there Friday night attended alumni and friends of the school. The dinner marked the opening of the active campaign in Suffield.

The preliminary gifts include $50,000 from the board of management of the Connecticut Baptist Convention, to be paid at the rate of $10,000 a year; $4,400 from the faculty; $7,650 from the students themselves; $20,500 from friends of the institution, and $870 from alumni. The intensive campaign among the alumni will not begin until May 2, the date set for the opening of a national drive for funds. Except for this year's allotment, the gift voted by the Baptist board of management is subject to the approval of the Connecticut convention.

Suffield school, which was organized under the old name more than 90 years ago, is inter-denominational and serves the town of Suffield and other nearby communities as a high school. It is now asking a fund which will be held in trust and the income from which will be used for the scholarships that have hitherto been maintained by annual subscriptions; to pay adequate faculty salaries, to provide needed equipment and meet other expenses. Each student has been asked to get or give $175 toward the goal.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Within the past week there has been a noticeable increase in building activities in Norwich and vicinity. This is especially marked in the number of permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton as during the past week there were twelve permits granted, bringing the total for the first two weeks in April up to 16, which exceeds the number issued for the same period last year.

Among the permits issued during the past week are several for garages and smaller buildings while there are two for alterations to houses, one on Main street and the other on Washington street. Casper K. Bailey is to erect a five-car garage on Penobscot street. The garage will have a concrete foundation and floor. The building permits issued by Fire Marshal [illegible] are as follows:

To Harry C. Mason to erect a frame [illegible] Laurel Hill avenue. The garage will be 10x20 feet.

To Frank Mell to build addition to present house at 302 Laurel Hill avenue for J. F. Cochrane. The addition will be 9x15 feet, frame construction. The foundation will be of stone and [illegible] exterior finish will be in slate-surfaced shingles.

To Harold G. Bowers to erect a frame garage at 55 Greene avenue for [illegible] Newbury. The garage will be 12x16 feet.

To Casper K. Bailey to erect a five-car garage on Penobscot street. The garage will be 26x45 feet with concrete foundation and floor. The sides and roof will be covered with composition shingles.

To Max Telsonsky, to erect a frame garage on Ann street. The garage will be 20x20 feet with concrete foundation and floor.

To Archibald Torrance to alter the building at 312 Main street for Casper Graff. The building will be raised six feet and a new brick, concrete and plate glass store front put in.

To J. Pasqualini to make alterations to present building at 34 Washington street. The building when complete will be 30x27 feet. The building will be raised a half story making the building three stories high.

To John Wilczeske to erect a frame building at 164 North Main street to be used as a plumbing shop. The building will be 18x29 feet.

To Joseph W. Pysyk to add a two-story frame piazza to present house at 7 Hamilton avenue. The piazza will be 6x24 feet.

To Jerry Ferri for The Norwich Building Corp. to build a six-room frame cottage at the corner of Newcomb and Thames terrace. The cottage will have a stone and concrete foundation. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles and the roof will be shingled. The interior will be finished in plaster and hardwood.

To Loretta L. Tempesta to erect a frame building at 66 Boswell avenue to be used as a store. The building will be 6x7 feet.

To Michael Ahearn to add a sunporch to the present house at 55 Cliff street for Daniel Shields. The porch will be 8x12 feet and will be enclosed in glass. The roof will be covered with composition shingles. The floor will be of hard wood.

NEW LONDON

The New London Ice Co. have taken the permit for the erection of a brick shed at 55 Howard street. The structure will be 20x30 feet, and will cost about $1,000. Fred Benway has the contract for its construction.

Gus Hubinette has the frame up for a store and restaurant he is building at Mago Point Beach. The building will be one story high, with plate glass front.

Work has been started on a frame bungalow which is to be built for Arthur Fuller at the corner of Mercer and Hempstead streets. The house will be 30x36 feet and will be arranged for six rooms. It will cost about $6,000.

It is reported that the F. W. Woolworth Co., New York, who have purchased the Garfield building on State street, are to demolish the building in preparation for the erection of a modern business building on the site.

The East New London plant of the Atlantic Refining Co. is to be developed by the erection of a boiler room, three garages and six elevated storage tanks. The buildings will face on Central avenue. Each of the six tanks will have a capacity of about 140,000 gallons and will be 9x36 feet. They will be supported on concrete structures.

Applications for Building Permits

Turello Bros., stone wall, McDonald street $500.

Arthur Fuller, dwelling, Mercer street $6,000.

Ralph D. Briggs, dwelling Gorton street $4,000.

Morgan Rogers, addition, 57 Woodbridge street, $1,000.

Agnes C. Reilly, dwelling and garage, Coleman street $9,500.

New London Ice Co., shed, 55 Howard street $1,000.

Arthur T. Keefe, dwelling, Hillside avenue $20,000.

P. J. Hendel, alterations, State street $500.

E. C. Ford, filling station, 225 Main street $1,000.

Number of permits issued for the week, 9; estimated cost of buildings, $43,500.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 12 sales of real estate as compared to 22 sales for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $56,000 and $20,700.

There were seven sales of real estate in New London during the past week, four less than for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $4,150 and $154,930.

STATE BUILDING OPERATIONS

The record of building operations as shown by the permits issued in the leading towns of the state during the past week shows a total of 404 permits granted last week for buildings costing $1,129,507, against 301 permits in the similar week of 1923, for buildings costing $750,581, and 282 permits in 1922, the buildings costing $1,200,093.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Guns Dangerous for Boys

Now you remember in the last story that Uncle Lucky was dreadfully puzzled over what old Professor Crow had just read from his little Black Book. And while the old gentleman rabbit was scratching his ear, something happened all of a sudden, just like that. Yes, sir. That's the way things happen! And what it was I'll tell you 't the Miller's Boy doesn't fire off his gun before I get a chance, for there he stood, not ten feet away.

The little rabbits hopped out of the Luckymobile

Well, ma'am and well, sir! That old black crow shut his book as quickly that he almost fell from the tree and the little rabbits hopped out of the Luckymobile head over tail into a hollow stump. And the Miller's Boy laughed so hard that he dropped his gun on a stone breaking it all to smithereens. Wasn't that a shame? I mean, wasn't that lucky for the two little rabbits and the old crow?

"Gosh all hemlocks!" said the Miller's Boy. "Now I've gone and done it," and he looked dreadfully anxious as he picked up the broken gun for he knew when he got home his father would give him Hail Columbia and maybe worse.

"Guns are dangerous things for boys:
You cannot play with them like toys.
You have not the slightest right
To fill us little folks with fright.
Get your hoe and go to work
You lazy boy who loves to shirk."

cawed Professor Crow out of his little book way off somewhere in the Shady Forest.

Dear me! When that bad Miller's Boy heard that wise little piece of poetry, his face grew as red as a ripe tomato, and turning back to the Old Mill, he picked up his hoe and went to work in the potato patch. So you see, that little Black Book of Professor Crow's did a lot of good.

"Well! Well! Well! said Uncle Lucky after they had gone for maybe a mile or three, "Professor Crow saved us a lot of trouble, and maybe something worse if there's anything worse than trouble, although I've had so much I'm getting used to it, like flies and mosquitoes and the crying baby upstairs and the hills on the first of the month."

And in the next story you shall hear more about these two little rabbits. for Bobbie Redvest told me something just now that you must hear as soon as I can write it down for the printerman.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Theodore Lyman, of Plainville, spent the past week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Utley, at the Center.

Miss Viola Lewis, employed in Hartford, passed the week end at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Lewis.

J. N. Clarke, first selectman and his assistants are working to put the roads in town in good condition, the winter's storms and the recent heavy rains, having damaged the roads greatly.

There is a quantity of good gravel in town to repair the roads thoroughly, but at some distance from the locations needing it, thereby consuming considerable time in its transportation.

The social of the Christian Endeavor societies of Hebron and Columbia, which was to have been held at the town hall Friday evening last, was postponed for two weeks.

The Boys' Radio club of Columbia, assisted by a radio club from Hartford, is to give a public concert at Yeoman's hall this (Tuesday) evening.

The Christian Endeavor society was led Sunday evening by Clayton E. Hunt, the subject for the evening being My Decisions and What They Have Meant to Me.

Rev. Charles C. Haun preached an earnest sermon Sunday morning, his subject being The Cross, stating that the things that are worth while, are worth the sacrifice, and that we can enter into the sacrifice with the help of the Master.

SOUTH COVENTRY

ARTHUR H. GAGER, OF NEW LONDON, LEFT ENTIRE ESTATE TO WIFE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 14.—Walter Gifford of Tenth street, Mrs. Delphine Cady of Willimantic, Andrew Lawson of Raymond street, Geraldine Coredisi, Goshen street, Hugh Kenyon, of Willetts avenue extension, Miss Mary McGowan, Groton, Alex Jezierski, of East Lyme, Mrs. Salvators Labieri, Niantic, Miss Louise Labieri, Niantic, Mrs. William Waterman and infant daughter of Glenwood Park, Mrs. David Reagan and infant son, of Linden street and Mrs. John Lynch of Willetts avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Frank J. Alexander has sold a house and lot on Lincoln avenue to Bridget E. O'Connell.

Mrs. William D. Hamilton of Orange, N. J., is visiting her mother, Mrs. William A. Emmerich of 305 Connecticut avenue.

Mrs. Eugenie Sheill, an aged woman, residing in Waterford, who is subject to epilepsy, experienced an attack this afternoon, collapsing on the sidewalk on Bank street, near Division street. In falling the woman suffered severe cuts and bruises about the face and head. Pedestrians hastened to the woman's assistance and after emergency treatment failed to revive her she was removed to Lawrence hospital. There she responded to treatment and after she had regained her strength she went to her home.

The authorities of Boston have communicated with the New London police in an endeavor to obtain the court record of George A. Nelson, who is under arrest in the former city, charged with forgery. Nelson is not known in New London, neither has he a police court record here.

Marion Webster Jones was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray this morning, charged with being a straggler from the United States navy. Jones was later turned over to the naval authorities at the submarine base.

Meyer Rutberg, 34 Denison avenue, complained to the police this forenoon that his tool shop at 50 Denison avenue, was entered by thieves on Sunday and implements of the aggregate value to $6 stolen. Sergeant Frank Howard was assigned to the case and his investigation revealed that entrance to the building was gained by removing a rear window.

Mrs. Catherine Noonan, 39, of 9 Clark lane, widow of Daniel Noonan, died this morning at Home Memorial hospital, where she had been under treatment for anaemia, for two weeks. She is survived by two children, John, 12, and Mary, 9. A sister, Mrs. Nora Johnson of New Haven, and a brother, John Shea, of New London, also survive. Mrs. Noonan's husband was drowned several years ago.

Mrs. Hepzibah DeWolf Champion, 78, wife of Henry A. Champion, died Saturday night at her residence, 11 Franklin street. Mrs. Champion had been in ill health a long time. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Miss Florence M. Champion.

Mrs. Jennie Noyes Knowles, 79 the widow of Charles M. Knowles, died Sunday at her home, 11 Mountain avenue. Mrs. Knowles had been ill many weeks. Her only surviving relative is a cousin, Miss Carrie Latham, of New London. Mrs. Knowles was a member of the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Mary E. Woodmansee, 76, widow of Ray Woodmansee, died this morning at the residence of her son-in-law, David A. Williamson of Quaker Hill.

The funeral of Henry E. Bartlett was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Joseph R. Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Pratt of Boston, widow of Bela Lyon Pratt, a native of Norwich and former noted Boston sculptor, is spending a few days with her cousin, Miss Ruth D. Sterry, at the Hotel Mohican.

Theodore J. Hahn, of Pequot avenue, wireless operator at the plant of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, spent the week-end in New York.

Mrs. Mary E. Howard Smith, 77, died Sunday at the home of her son, Gilbert D. Smith, at Poquonnoc. Mrs. Smith was the widow of Jesse D. Smith and had been an invalid several years. She is survived by two sons, Gilbert D. Smith of Poquonnoc and Walter P. Smith of Patchogue, L. I.

An automobile owned by Enrico Porsini, of 202 Shaw street, and operated by Oroldo Secchioroli, 15 Cliff street, was in collision with the automobile, owned and operated by Sarah H. Hodson of 171 Pequot avenue, this evening, corner of Crystal avenue and Main street. Both cars were damaged. Secchioroli did not possess an operator's license, but Porsini held the necessary credentials and as he was an occupant of the colliding car, he will undoubtedly have to defray the costs of the damage, as he was responsible for the operation of the car.

The fire department was called out at 8.30 o'clock this evening, when an alarm was rung in from Box 13, located at the State Pier. The fire was of a trivial nature and was quickly extinguished. The blaze was located on the city dumping space close to the pier and fanned by a high wind the quantities of paper, wood and other dry rubbish burned rapidly. An employe at the state pier caused the alarm to be sent in and within five minutes afterwards practically all of the city's fire fighting equipment was at the pier. The first of the companies to arrive subdued the fire by a liberal quantity of chemicals.

A still alarm at 7.45 o'clock this evening called the Nameaug Engine company to the railroad bridge of the Central Vermont road which spans Winthrops cove, for sparks from a passing locomotive had fallen among the decayed ties and created a blaze. A pedestrian crossing the bridge discovered the fire and communicated the information to the police. The fire was quickly extinguished and without damage of consequence.

A fire occurred at the engine house of the Central Vermont railroad early this morning that threatened to result seriously. Shortly after 2 o'clock a yard employe observed a blaze near one of the stacks of the roof and a telephone message was sent to the police station requesting assistance. The message was relayed to fire headquarters and the Thomas Hose company was dispatched to the fire. The yard crew, however, procured buckets and by deluging the flames with quantities of water the fire was quickly extinguished before the firemen arrived there. The damage was slight. It is believed that the fire originated from sparks from one of the locomotives housed there.

The police received a telephone message last night from a resident at Ocean Beach that there was a light in the unoccupied residence at 19 Mott avenue. Patrolman Walter Rehn was assigned to the case and reported that the place was occupied during the summer by a family named Carter, of Hartford, and that the light had undoubtedly been left burning by a member of the family who visited the place Saturday night or Sunday. Patrolman George Perkins further investigated the matter this morning and the report of that officer was that the cottage is the permanent residence of Clarence M. Shay and family.

Members of the New London police force will be bearers at the funeral of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank Q. Cronin, at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. It is probable that the bearers will be Sergeants Patrick Murphy and Nelson Smith and Patrolman Braxton Hill, Dennis Cavanaugh, Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Traffic Officer William Corcoran, who were the bearers at the funeral of Mr. Cronin's mother, several months ago. Today flags on the municipal building were set at half-mast as a tribute to Mr. Cronin.

The case of Samuel Williams, charged with breach of the peace in assaulting Floyd Mitchell, also colored, and proprietor of an Atlantic street pool room, was disposed of by Judge Victor Prince in the police court this morning, judgment being susended. Williams is alleged to have entered the pool room Friday night, becoming engaged in a war of words with Mitchell, the argument ending only when Williams is said to have attacked Mitchell and inflicted considerable punishment. Mitchell had Williams arrested, and then made it known that he was not anxious to press the charge against his adversary.

Union Chapter, No. 7, R. A. M., conducted an interesting meeting in Brainard lodge Masonic Temple this evening when the officers were installed.

Daniel Douglass, 21 Garfield avenue, complained to the police this evening because of the actions of youths residing in his neighborhood. Douglass asserted that the youths made a nuisance of themselves nightly by hurling stones at the side of his house and that several of the missles have missed their mark and destroyed windows.

An automobile owned and operated by Frank G. Smith, of 142 Shaw street and a machine bearing Connecticut registration, N-1463 collided this morning on Chappell street. Both cars were damaged.

The automobile, a coupe, owned and operated by Miss Mary Kolosky, 52 Squire street, was damaged this evening in a peculiar manner. Miss Kolosky was operating her car in an easterly direction on Tilley street. As the machine approached the corner of Bank street an automobile truck rounded the corner going in the opposite direction. As the two machines were about to pass a chair and a table dropped from the truck, the heavy wooden articles striking the Kolosky car, smashing a window and disfiguring the side of the pleasure car.

Frederick Moll of Mystic and Mrs. Roy Durnee and infant son of 246 Coleman street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

William Daniels, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Daniels, of Station 14, Waterford, was struck by a bicycle, propelled by Frederick Williams, also of Waterford, this morning, when young Daniels was walking alongside the highway. The boy was seriously injured and was removed to the Jordan school, where an examination by a physician revealed that the youngster had sustained a compound fracture of the right leg. He was removed to Lawrence hospital, where the fracture was reduced.

An automobile, owned and operated by Allen Stevenson, 85 Brown street, Brookline, Mass., struck and injured Paul Dench, 13, of 6 Forsyth street, Mystic, this afternoon when the youngster was run down while in the highway. The lad was examined by a physician when abrasions of the face were revealed, but when symptoms of internal injuries appeared, the boy was removed to Lawrence hospital. The youngster will be kept under observation a few days.

By the will of Arthur H. Gager, filed in the probate court, the former senior partner of the firm of Gager-Crawford company left his entire estate to his widow, Ruth Gager. The estate has not been inventoried, but it is believed, will represent a considerable sum. The document was drawn Oct. 3, 1914, and was witnessed by Judge of Probate Arthur B. Calkins, Lewis Crandall and Miss Margaret C. Kane. Mrs. Gager was named executrix of the will, without bond.

Eric W. Gustavson, of Uncasville, died Saturday at Lawrence hospital, where he had been under treatment but a few days for bronchial pneumonia. Mr. Gustavson was a stone mason. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Harold T. Gustavson of 41 Raymond street, this city, and Edwin Gustavson, of Uncasville. He was a member of Oxoboxo lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Montville, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, New London, and the International Stone Cutters' union.

Harry C. Olson, of the crew of the United States Coast Guard cutter Tampa, and Miss Cora Pearl Sanford were married Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Emily A. Sanford of Farnsworth street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. and Mrs. Olson will take up their residence at Halifax, N. S., upon the conclusion of a wedding trip.

Miss Ruth Potter, of Greenwich, is being entertained by her brother-in-law and sister, Prof. and Mrs. Henry Bill Selden, of Connecticut College for Women.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Plant, the former the son of the late Morton F. Plant, were visitors in New London over Sunday, coming to this city by motor and to arrange for the opening of the Plant mansion at Eastern Point for the season.

The city council this evening received an application for the erection of a clock on the City bank building, corner of Bank and Golden streets. The clock is to be 10 feet high and about three feet wide. The petition was referred to the city manager, but it is known that he will gladly consent to the installation of the clock.

The city of New London is contemplating the enlargement of the water main along Ocean avenue and Ocean beach. The main is now of six-inch size, but the plan is to displace this with a main of 16-inch size. The work cannot be carried out without a bond issue of $100,000 and this it is proposed to provide for. It is claimed that during the summer, when the drain is heaviest on the main at the beach, residents along Ocean avenue are very poorly supplied. The work is such as would consume three months time, in the estimate of the city engineer. Plans and estimates of the work and the expense are to be submitted to the council before further steps are taken.

Don't get too gay. It is easier to keep the lid on than it is to put it back on again.

CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS AGAINST M. S. DAUGHERTY

Washington, April 14. — A motion ordering M. S. Daugherty, president of the Midland National bank of Washington Court House, Ohio, and brother to the former attorney general, cited before the bar of the senate to answer a charge of contempt was adopted today by the senate committee investigating the department of justice.

Resolutions containing notice of the committee's action will be prepared for presentation to the senate either tomorrow or Wednesday. The committee acted after complete access to the records of the Ohio bank had been refused it.

WESTERLY

Henry J. Goulet has entered the employ of the Lorraine Manufacturing Co., on Mechanic street, to be connected with a silk department of the mill. Mr. Goulet was a former superintendent of the New England Silk Co. mill on Friendship street, leaving there to go to New Bedford, Mass. He will complete his duties in New Bedford this week and return to Westerly.

The annual meeting of the Pawcatuck Seventh-Day Baptist church was held Sunday evening in the church auditorium. Previous to the annual meeting the church supper for members of the church and congregation was held in the vestry, in charge of a committee, Mrs. George H. Lamphear, chairman, Mrs. William H. Healey, Mrs. Hiram W. Barber, Mrs. C. T. Cundall and Mrs. L. K. Burdick.

The Pawcatuck Seventh-Day Baptist church was organized in 1340 under the ministration of Rev. Alexander Campbell, who became its first pastor. Dr. Clayton A. Burdick, the present pastor, who now enters on the 21st year of his ministry there, is the youngest son of the youngest sister of the church's first pastor. The meeting house on Main street was erected in 1845, and the parsonage was purchased in 1865. In his report as pastor Rev. Mr. Burdick stated that he had attended 36 funerals during the past year, not as many as in the previous year. The total number of funerals at which he has officiated since he became a pastor was 366. There were 15 marriage ceremonies performed by him during the past year, or a total of 706 during his ministry. During the year past 310 pastoral calls had been made by him.

The annual dinner arrangements were in charge of the L. D. E. society of the church and were cared for by a committee of which Mrs. P. D. Maxson was chairman. The table decorations for the dinner served at 6.30 were pussy willows and daffodils; 235 enjoyed the following menu: Baked spiced ham, macaroni and cheese, pineapple salad, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake. The speakers at the dinner were G. E. Utter, Mrs. Lewis R. Greene, S. H. Davis, who spoke on the subject of Seventh-Day Baptists in Rhode Island; and Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor. Dr. Edwin Whitford with his family gave a song composed by himself. Adjournment was taken to the auditorium for the business meeting.

A nominating committee of which Samuel H. Davis was the chairman named the following officers and they were elected: President, G. [illegible] Utter; clerk, Allen Whitford; trustees, Chas. P. Cottrell and H. M. Barber; collector, John H. Austin; assistant collector, Mary L. Burdick; auditor, Karl G. Stillman; chorister, John H. Tahnarr; treasurer, E. Howard Clark.

Reports showing favorable progress were read by the treasurer, E. Howard Clark, and Collector John H. Austin. For the Woman's Aid society the report of Mrs. John H. Austin, secretary for the past year, was read by Mrs. LaClede Woodmansee, the newly elected secretary. The secretary and treasurer's report for the S. D. B. society was read by Miss Mabel A. Saunders. S. H. Davis gave a verbal report for the Sabbath school, as its superintendent. Under the head of new business a committee on baptism was appointed, comprising the wives of the deacons, Mrs. J. Perry Clark, Mrs. Howard Langworthy, Mrs. John H. Austin and Mrs. James A. Saunders.

A resolution was adopted to be sent to the Rhode Island congressmen at Washington directing them to avert any change in the Volstead act and if possible to seek a stronger enforcement of the eighteenth amendment in the constitution.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Everett Hoxie arrived in Westerly Sunday afternoon from Daytona, having passed the winter months in Florida.

Peter Corsi returned to Providence Sunday night to resume his duties as an instructor in the public schools, after a week end visit with Westerly relatives and friends.

Pawcatuck students of Stonington High school resumed their studies in Stonington borough Monday after a week's vacation.

Harry L. Bolles was a Providence visitor Monday morning.

Paul Jennings visited relatives and friends in Westerly Sunday night, returning to New York Monday morning.

Collector Everett E. Whipple of the Westerly Fire District began the collection of fire district taxes at the Westerly town hall Monday.

Dr. Harold Kenyon was in Providence Monday.

A Western Union train consisting of a sleeping car, dining car, baggage supply and freight car was backed on to the freight yard siding near the Westerly station of the New Haven road, Monday morning.

Miss Ruth F. Wilcox has resumed her duties in the office of the Westerly town clerk, after a visit to New York.

Fire alarm 33 was sounded at 4.30 Monday afternoon, for an out-of-the-district fire, which had gained considerable headway in the brush and wood in District No. 6. Fire Chief Egger had several 33's sounded and the R. I. One truck and 15 or 20 men responded going down the Post road and through the Bradford road at Dunn's. The fire had burned through the brush along the Woody Hill road and the efforts of the firemen were successfully directed in keeping the flames away from the few houses in the vicinity. Other brush fires were reported near McGowan's Corner, also near Quonochontaug.

A surprise party was tendered to Councilman and Police Commissioner Farquahar Smith and Mrs. Smith on Monday evening by twenty friends, the date being the ninth anniversary of their wedding. The ladies of the party had gathered earlier in the afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, 20 George street and were joined by the men at 6.30 when a roast beef dinner was served. During the evening bridge, mah jongg and radio were enjoyed. In bridge first honors went to Henry Stahle and Mrs. Hobart Saunders, the consolation going to Leonard Hiscox and Mrs. Henry Clark. A handsome electric bridge lamp was presented Mr. and Mrs. Smith as a reminder of the anniversary.

GETTING TOO FAT? TRY THIS—REDUCE

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world over. Get them from your own druggist or send price direct to Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. By doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and be able to reduce steadily and easily, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise.

MYSTIC

Miss Edith M. Rathbun entertained at auction Saturday evening, in honor of Mrs. William E. Allen, of Providence. The prize for high score went to Mrs. John F. Noyes and the consolation award to Mrs. J. Alpheus Schoonover. At the conclusion of the game refreshments were served. The guests were: Mrs. William E. Allen, Mrs. John F. Noyes, Mrs. J. Alpheus Schoonover, Mrs. L. E. Kinney, Miss Lodise Paige, Miss M. Josephine Dickinson, Miss Clara Frink, Miss Geneva Rathbun, and Miss Annie A. Rathbun.

Word was received here Monday morning of the death at George E. Scott, which occurred Sunday night at eleven o'clock at his home in New York. Mr. Scott had been ill for about ten days with pneumonia and complications and throughout his illness very little hope was entertained of his recovery. He was well known here for he had spent a number of months in the village each year with his family, at the home of his father-in-law, the late David L. Gallup. Mr. Scott's health was not of the best and he spent much time out of doors when here, being a great lover of nature, and his long walks into the surrounding country had made him an authority in the collection of wild flowers. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lelia Gallup Scott, and a son, David G. Scott, a student at Princeton.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church is to meet Thursday afternoon in the Parish house.

Mrs. Charles R. Geer has returned to Boston after a visit with her sister, Mrs. E. C. Cameron.

Miss Elizabeth T. Mallory has returned home after a visit of several weeks in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Clarence Rippel and son were guests Sunday of Mrs. Rippel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Malms.

The Monday Club met yesterday with Mrs. Ebenezer Morgan, the paper of the afternoon was by Miss M. Geneva Rathbun on "Unusual Things About Egypt."

Mrs. A. C. Colby and Mrs. Walter A. Clarke left Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the annual congress of the national society, Daughters of the American Revolution, as representatives of Fanny Ledyard Chapter.

Herbert S. Davis was home from New York for the week end.

Mrs. Annie D. Gates was a visitor in Jewett City Sunday.

Delegates from Mystic Rebekah Lodge to the Rebekah State Assembly, to be held in Willimantic Wednesday, are Mrs. Catherine Gilbert and Mrs. Sadie Van Pelt, who will be accompanied by other members of the local lodge.

George Godfrey of New London called on relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Fowler and Mrs. Sackett of Westfield, Mass., were guests over Sunday of Mrs. H. Emeline, Allyn.

There was an attendance of 204 at the Union Baptist Sunday School last Sunday which is pretty good evidence that the lifting of the quarantine restrictions made those who had been under the ban glad to get back. The collection amounted to $10.94.

Friends of Mrs. Leander Park, who has been confined to her home by illness for some days, were glad to know that she was able to sit up Sunday.

Mrs. James Hudgins is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. G. Osborne.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Union Baptist church is to meet this (Tuesday) afternoon with Mrs. F. A. Coates.

Miss Jessie Surber of Westerly and Miss Annie Robertson of Boston were callers here Sunday.

H. B. Lamb of Pontiac, Mich., is the guest of relatives here.

Mrs. William E. Allen and son Burrows returned Sunday to their home in Providence after a visit with Mrs. Allen's father, B. F. Burrows.

The Visiting Nurse Association of Mystic met Monday evening in the office of Dr. G. S. B. Leonard.

Miss Marguerite W. King has returned to Providence after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. King.

Miss Grace D. Wheeler of the Road church district is the guest of Mrs. Hiram Clift.

Mrs. Benjamin Lapin has been in New York on business recently.

Mrs F. Noyes of New Haven, was here for ever Sunday.

Paul Donch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Donch of Forsythe St., was seriously injured Monday morning when he was run over by an automobile in Greenmanville. A steam roller was passing at the time and a number of children were following on after it which might have caused some confusion. The boy was taken to the office of Dr. A. H. Meyers and later was taken to Lawrence Hospital for treatment.

Friends here of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Snell, who have been spending the winter in St Petersburg, Florida, received word Monday that they expected to leave that place Monday en route for Mystic.

The trip is to be made by automobile and they will make a number of stops on the way home, expecting to arrive in the village, April 26th.

The World Wide Guild of the Union Baptist church met Monday evening with Mrs. J. Harold Thorpe at Quinnbaug.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church meets this (Tuesday) afternoon in the chapel.

During the evening refreshments were served and music was furnished for dancing.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. G. H. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, took for his subject Palm Sunday, "The Irrepressible Christ." If these should hold their peace, the very stones would cry out, Luke 19:40. The passover in April was a feast that lasted a week in Jerusalem, a festival around a religious center, not at the people's homes, the speaker said. People expected this feast and looked forward to it. Into this established order appeared a procession, people enthusiastic, shouting Hosannas before One riding in their midst. This was a spontaneous event. As they came down the slope of Olivet, people came from the city who tried to quiet them. Jesus turned and said, If these shall hold their peace, the stones would cry out. His friends must have been as much surprised as His enemies. They couldn't grasp the high points of Christ's ideals.

What did Jesus mean by stones crying out? That His claim was just and undeniable. The power of Jesus was quiet and dominant. He had His adherents, growing in number all the time. That power of Christ has come down through the centuries to you and to me. The rich were in that throng, the outcast who had been redeemed, the poor, loving friends, Mary, Martha, Lazarus, Zacheus were there, all people who must cry out as an expression of the power that Jesus generated in human hearts. You cannot silence such as these.

Can we stop the tides that come and go? Can we hold back the sunrise? With all your plans, fretting and dissatisfaction you are helpless. These are only a few of the majestic forces in God's world, Christ is just as irrepressible as the tides, the sunrise, the seasons. No one can look upon this Palm Sunday procession without a rebuke who thinks that pomp and ceremony mean power. Where is Caesar's army today? The echo has long died out with the setting of the years.

If you want underlying forces, take those that have quiet vitality that will endure, forces that are built upon God's eternal truth. How futile to try to fight divine force! You may try to block the forces of Christ, you can't do it; the stars in their courses are fighting for the right, you cannot defeat the purposes of God. God's cause may be delayed but never suppressed. Christ couldn't be held, though crucified and buried, He walked forth majestically among men. The church has seen cloudy days, times of defeat, but never has it been conquered. Through the hearts of the peasants came the great Reformation. "I can live, I shall live by faith." The emancipation of the slaves came; now are the open doors of the nation; gates are being lifted up to the oncoming of the Man of Galilee.

Jesus turned back and went to Bethany. On the eve of victory He threw His chance away, seemingly. He throws away a temporary advantage to realize the lasting verities. Sometimes the Master turns us aside, He must have the consecration of immortal souls to make His conquering sure. The Lord Jesus comes: shall we give Him a welcome? Does His coming interfere with our programme of life? Are we going to take down the barriers, that He may enter into every sphere of our life?

Joseph Loccasio, said by the police to be wanted in Bridgeport, Conn., in connection with a shooting was arrested in Philadelphia, charged with making and passing counterfeit $100 bills.

VERNAL PARING.

I knew them wind-swept and I see them barren,
The giant ridges that before me range,
But spring will come as with the rod of Aaron,
And work a wondrous change.

Although the heights and cavernous clefts are sterile,
Rearing like ramparts with embrasures bold,
They then will wear a lustrous glint of beryl
And shimmering sage brush gold.

Alluringly I feel that they will beckon
My still adventurous feet to fare and climb;
I shall forget mayhap that one must reckon
With the stern touch of Time.

And over all the severing leagues so lithely
With desert odors round about me blown,
And gain like Youth, the shining summits blithely,
Hailing the world my own.
—Clinton Scollard, in New York Herald.

SILAS SLOCUM.

Old Silas Slocum always said
That he'd about as leave be dead
As livin', if he had his way,
On ev'ry February day!

But Silas Slocum was th' man
That used to take his palm-leaf fan,
An' set outside his door an' coax,
Whenever July bothered us.

An' in th' Spring, Old Silas groaned
About th' farms his brother owned,
And said th' rains had been so bad
They'd washed out ev'ry crop he'd had;

And when September an' its smiles,
Come loafin' in across th' miles,
Old Silas sighed, an' said th' drought
Had ruined people—jest about!

As for December, Silas thought
There wasn't nothin' God had brought
To plague th' dwellers in this clime
That could compare with Winter time.

But February—O, my gosh!
How Silas and his boots'd slosh
Across th' street—then, weak an' wet,
He'd git back home—an' set, an' set!
—Walter Greenough, in Indianapolis Star.

BUCKLAND MAKES PLEA FOR TROLLEY COMPANY

When the public utilities commission gave a hearing at Hartford on Monday upon the matter of increased fares for the Connecticut Co., a plea on behalf of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company was made by Edward G. Buckland, the railroad's vice president and general counsel, that the Connecticut Co. be accorded the right to earn, if it can, a fair return upon the value of its property, which is devoted to the service of the public.

The following was Mr. Buckland's statement:

On October 17th, 1914, a decree was entered in the District Court for the Southern District of New York requiring The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company to transfer to trustees named therein the entire capital stock of The Connecticut Company. In obedience to this decree the stock was so transferred, the New Haven company receiving certificates of beneficial interest entitling it in case of sale to the proceeds of the sale. The trustees were required to exercise their powers so as to assure for The Connecticut Company a management solely in the interest of said company without regard to the interest of the New Haven Company or any other corporation or person, but with due regard to the public interest.

When the decree was entered and the stock transferred, the New Haven's investment in the property of The Connecticut Company consisted of $40,000,000 of stock and $2,175,000 of notes. The stock had been received in return for a deed of the property to The Connecticut Company on February 28th, 1910. The notes represented cash actually advanced to The Connecticut Company for additions and betterments.

Prior to the decree The Connecticut Company had paid the interest upon its indebtedness and for the previous three years dividends of $1,500,000 upon its stock, slightly less than four per cent. After the decree the following dividends were paid:

For the year ended June 30th, 1915, $400,000,000; for the year ended June 30th, 1916, $500,000,000; for the six months ended December 31st, 1916, $200,000,000.

Since that time not only have no dividends been paid, but the New Haven between July 15th, 1917 and June 30th, 1921, advanced in cash $4,568,916.51 to enable The Connecticut Company to maintain the integrity of its system and save it from insolvency. Between those dates The Connecticut Company earned enough so that it could have paid the amount thus advanced by the New Haven, but apparently the trustees under the pressure for additional capacity and service elected to use The Connecticut Company's income as required by the decree solely in the interest of The Connecticut Company and of the public and without regard to the interest of The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. Today, the New Haven's investment in The Connecticut Company stands on its books as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital stock | $40,000,000.00 |
| Overdue debentures | 1,000,000.00 |
| Demand notes | 4,568,916.51 |
| Total | $45,568,916.51 |

Excepting the payment of interest upon these overdue debentures and demand notes the New Haven has received no return since 1916. In other words, it has been compelled to give $40,000,000 worth of property to the people of Connecticut upon which for the last seven years it has received not one cent of return, not only that, but in, order to maintain the integrity of that property and preserve the solvency of The Connecticut Company, and incidentally its own, it has been forced to take out of its treasury over $4,500,000 in cash, an amount which it sorely needed at the time to provide transportation capacity for its patrons. Stated in terms of a six per cent. return on the investment the New Haven has contributed to the trolley using public property worth $2,400,000 a year for the last ten years, a total of $24,000,000 and has received a total of $4,200,000.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company as the owner of the beneficial interest in this property respectfully protests against a continuation of this confiscatory policy and asks that there be accorded to The Connecticut Company a right to earn if it can a fair return upon the value of its property devoted to the service of the public.

CIVIL WAR DRUMMER DIES IN HARTFORD HOSPITAL

Francis E. Barney, better known as "Captain Harry Howard" Civil war veteran and professional entertainer for 58 years, died at the Hartford hospital Saturday afternoon, after a short illness. He was born in Springfield, Mass., November 7, 1848, a son of Mason Barney and Harriet (Broad) Barney. During the World war, Mr. Barney entertained the army and navy in camp and on deck, and since the war he had again taken up his career as professional entertainer at clubs, entertainments, church and on the vaudeville stage, and had appeared at entertainments in this city. At the time of the Civil war, he enlisted in New Haven, 1861, as a member of Company A, 14th Infantry, Connecticut Volunteers.

Mr. Barney leaves a wife; four sons, Homer Barney, of Lakewood, R. I.; Robert Barney of Albany, N. Y.; Harry Barney of Walpole, N. H.; Burton Barney of Los Angeles, Cal.; and one daughter, Mrs. Earle Wilson of Carlisle, Ind.

His home was in Stoddard, near Keene, N. H., and he was only 12 years old when he enlisted for the Civil war as a drummer. He served four years. When he first appeared in this state in 1923 was, as he described it, "73 years young." He called himself the drummer boy of the Army of the Potomac and after the war could play several instruments, the drum, bugle, bandonian, accordion and tamborine and could sing camp meeting songs and negro melodies. During the Civil war he was captured and was a prisoner at Andersonville, Ga.

Two glasses of deadly poison, mistaken for a harmless family remedy, and mixed for headache relief, were at the lips of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Bander in Boston when their 8 months old baby commenced to cry. Mrs. Bander set down her glass and went to the child. Her husband drained his and fifteen minutes later was dead.

MARKET WAS BEARISH.

New York, April 14.—Stock prices continued to melt away today under the incessant hammering of professional bear traders. Net losses in the active issues ranged from fractions to 3 1-2 points, both the rail and industrial averages touching new low records for the year.

Unfavorable trade reports, which the speculative community interpreted as forecasting a further slackening in business activity, continued to furnish the basis for the selling which reached sufficient proportions to rout out rather heavy liquidation on the part of timid investors. A late drive against the general list was predicated on the decision of the senate finance committee in giving the bonus measure precedence over the tax bill.

One of the features of the day's trading was the sharp reaction in a number of the oil shares, which previously had been offering stubborn resistance to selling pressure. Liquidation of this group was inspired by the fear of over production likely to result from the large increase in the number of new wells. Tidewater Oil broke 8 points; Houston 2 3-8 and California Petroleum, Phillips, General Asphalt, Houston, and few others dropped a point or more.

Sixty-seven stocks created new low prices for the year during the session, including 16 motor, 15 sugar and food, seven equipment, six textile, five oil, five steel and 13 miscellaneous shares. These included Baldwin, Studebaker (old and new stock), American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Chandler, Stewart-Warner, Stromberg, Willys-Overland preferred, American Woolen, Davison Chemical and Baltimore and Ohio.

The stock market continued to ignore foreign news developments although French governmental and municipal bonds moved up to new highs for the year, apparently in speculative expectation of Germany's prompt acceptance of the Dawes report.

U. S. Steel common, regarded by many as a bell-weather of price movements, duped its previous low of 93 1-2, closing at 95 3-4 for a net loss of 3-4. Studebaker fell to a new low at 52 despite President Erskine's denial of rumors that the dividend is to be reduced. Baldwin's which has sold as high as 131 this year, broke more than 3 points below 110.

Only a few stocks were able to move against the current trend, Woolworth being pushed up 21 points to 318 and then dropping back to 305. Marine Pfd., crossed 32 and then slipped back to 30 7-8, up 1 5-8, and the Burns Brothers issues moved up briskly on what appeared to be pool operations based on high current earnings.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent. and then advanced to 4 1-2. Time money was somewhat firmer but business continued in small volume. Lenders showed a disposition to hold out for 4 3-4 per cent. but borrowers declined to pay over 4 1-2, loans up to 90 days being arranged at the smaller figure. The commercial paper market was steady with 4 1-2 per cent. the ruling rate for prime names.

Establishment of a new high record by French francs a 6.14 cents was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled above $4.34 and most of the other European rates showed marked improvement. Creation of a new 1924 low by Japanese yen was attributed to the passage of the Johnson immigration bill by the house of representatives.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 14. — Contrasting sharply with general depression of bond prices in today's trading, French governmental and municipal loans rallied to the highest levels of the year on improved prospects for acceptance by Germany of the Dawes report. The advance was accomplished in the face of dulling trade in domestic liens, which was fatured by a sharp break in Wilson and company issues.

Selling at par for the first time in many months, the French republic issued a wide variety of the country's bond issues into new high ground. The government's 7 1-2s and the Seine 7, Bordeaux 6s, Soissons 6s, Lyons 6s and Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s all sold at the best figures of the year.

Uneasiness over possible unfavorable developments from the Wilson and company annual meeting tomorrow contributed to the liquidation of the company's bonds. The convertible 6s and 7 1-2s broke more than 7 points each to new 1924 lows at 66 and 71 1-2 respectively, while the first 6s yielded 2 3-8 to 87 3-4.

Recessions were general throughout the speculative railroad and industrial lists, with losses of some of the sugar, copper and oil bonds ranging from 1 to 2 points. Declines were attributed to a sympathetic reaction with stock prices.

Announcement by the international committee of bankers on Mexico that first interest payments would be made on eight additional issues deposited under the debt agreement discharges the first year's service on one-half of the $500,000,000 total.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 14.—Grain prices developed a downward tendency today. With speculative demand lacking in volume, the wheat market closed easy at the same as Saturday's finish to 5-8c lower, May $1.01 5-8 to 1.01 3-8 and July 1.02 1-2 to 1.03 5-8. Corn finished 3-8c to 3-4 @ 1-2c corn oats a shade to 1-4c off, and provisions at a decade to 1.00 advance.

At first the wheat market here had an upward slant, owing chiefly to higher quotations at Liverpool and also more or less to favorable advices about the reception given abroad to the Dawes plan. Fine weather for the seeding and growth of the new domestic crop, however, promoted a little increase of selling when values here showed some gain. Then a setback in prices took place, and for the remainder of the day the market gave evidence of dearth of buyers. A condition expained as in at least some degree due to fear of restrictive legislation at Washington.

A good-sized decrease of the U. S. visible supply of wheat was announced, but was without any stimulating effect on demand. It was pointed out that the aggregate stock was yet much above the amount a year ago, with Canadian supplies also looming larger.

Predictions of increased acreage of corn planting this season led to some scattered selling in the corn market and to absence of aggressive support for values. Shipping inquiry was slow and the moderate receipts here were more than adequate to meet requirements, despite the near approach of lake navigation.

Oats were firm early, but afterward eased off under profit taking by holders, and in sympathy with corn.

Provisions responded to buying on the part of smaller packers.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 14.—Stock prices developed a decidedly reactionary trend in today's curb market, with bear traders making substantial inroads in the quoted values of oil shares for the time since the present decline started. Liquidation of the oils was based on reports that the higher crude prices has resulted in the drilling of so many new wells as to revive the dread of over production.

Losses of 1 to 2 1-2 points were registered in standard lots of industrials, Kentucky Oil & Gas and Ohio Fuel Supply, while Submarine Boat lost 3 points.

Strength of National Tea, which rose from its initial quoted price of $22 on Saturday to $31, was the outstanding development in the industrial group. The advance in this issue followed the increase from $2 to $6 in the quarterly dividend, which was taken to indicate that stockholders would be given a greater participation in the profits of the company, most of which previously were reinvested in the business. Durant Motors broke to another record low at 16 1-2 and Lehigh Power securities dropped 1 1-2 points to 57.

HOPKINTON

At the meeting of the town council and probate court, held at the town hall Monday afternoon, April 7th, a list of persons liable to serve as jurors was made.

Victualing licenses were granted John J. Hollander and Charles E. Greene, both of Hope Valley.

The surveyors of highways were instructed to remove at once all warning signs on the state highway erected without the consent of the state board of public roads.

Two hundred dollars were allotted each of the four highway districts for repair of roads.

Everett P. Palmer, George N. Crandall, Alexander C. Kenyon and Robert L. Coon were appointed appraisers of damage done by dogs.

Julian T. Crandall, Elmer C. Smith and Wilfred E. Bartlet were appointed a Memorial day committee. Wanton E. Edwards was appointed to make a list of dogs.

Stephen B. Andrews was appointed to purchase a road machine.

Jurors drawn to serve at the April session of the superior court at West Kingston: Grand, Jesse C. Reynolds and George H. Wilcox; petit, John J. Hollander, James P. Park, Frederick A. Bailey and Leon Ashworth.

Bills to the amount of $1,682.23 were ordered paid.

The first and final account of Adelbert R. Clark, administrator of the estate of Mary E. W. Clark was examined, allowed, ordered recorded and an order of distribution entered.

Petition for appointment of an administrator of the estate of Orin G. Woodmansee was received and referred to May 5th with order of notice.

The first account of Lawrence H. Hopworth, administrator of the estate of James Hopworth, was received and referred to May 5th, with order of notice.

Herbert H. Crandall was appointed administrator of the estate of Mary E. Burdick, with Everett P. Matheweson, appraiser.

Petition of Clarence E. Roche, administrator of the estate of Elizabeth A. Gardiner to sell real estate was referred to May 5th, for action.

Ray Barber of New London, visited at the home of Alonzo P. Kenyon last week.

Hon. Samuel R. Avery, Everett P. Mathewson and Mrs. Henry D. Bailey, attended the republican convention in Providence last week Monday.

In the probate court, the first and final account of the Washington Trust Co., administrator of the estate of Sarah Champlin, showing no balance, was examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

ADMINISTRATION SENATORS ARE DEFENDING MELLON

Washington, April 14—Administration senators were again in a fighting mood today in resisting the Pinchot-Hensel onslaught at Secretary Mellon by way of the internal revenue bureau investigating committee.

Through Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, committee chairman, they gathered new support from conferences with President Coolidge and Mr. Mellon, while Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey raided the democratic side with a prepared speech defending the president's action in the controversy.

The challenge was taken up promptly by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, who trained his guns on the white house and republican leaders generally, charging an attempt to strangle senate investigations. The word battle on the senate floor was interrupted at its height, however, by an unexpected motion for an executive session to consider Japanese exclusion, made by Senator Lodge, the republican leader.

The armistice is destined to be brief, if leaders on both sides make good their promises to air further the three-cornered political comb

WEATHER
Conditions

The disturbance that was over Ontario Sunday night moved rapidly eastward to the Canadian maritime province where it was centered Monday night as a storm of considerable intensity. A disturbance of vast extent covered practically all sections Monday from the east Gulf states and the lower Ohio and upper Mississippi valley westward and pressure was abnormally lower over the plain states, the Rocky Mountains, and southern plateau regions. Pressure was high and rising considerably above normal Monday in the middle and south sections east of the Rocky Mountains, while cooler weather overspread the lake region, the interior of the north Atlantic states, Minnesota, the Canadian northwest and plateau and northern Rocky Mountain region. The weather will remain fair in New England, until Wednesday night. The temperature will be lower Wednesday in the middle and north Atlantic states.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh to strong northwest and north and weather fair Tuesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh, possibly strong and north and northwest and weather mostly overcast Tuesday, probably showers over south portion.

Forecast

For southern New England: Fair and cooler Tuesday; Wednesday increasing cloudiness; continued cool.

TAFTVILLE

The Sacred Heart School is closed this week for the annual Easter vacation.

John P. Plante of Norwich avenue and Wilfred Linderson of North Third avenue spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Verpason of North Stonington.

The Community Sewing Class met Monday evening in the Red Cross Rooms in the Ponemah building.

The Ocawesin Camp Fire Girls held a ceremonial meeting in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church, Friday evening, to which the mothers of the members of the Ocawesin Campfire were invited.

Sebastian Gabriga of Norwich avenue has purchased a plot of land on the Newent Road, near the schoolhouse.

Several men responded to a call for help in fighting a grass and brush fire in the vicinity of North Third avenue, Monday afternoon. It was some time before the fire could be extinguished.

On Sunday and Monday, a gang of youngsters were enjoying the swimming at the Blissville bridge.

John Thoma is confined to his home in Taftville with an attack of the grippe.

Dr. Martin E. Mullen of Hunters avenue has purchased a new sedan.

Charles Hammond of Taunton, Mass., was a recent caller on friends in town.

Edward Duprey, Alfred Benoit and Joseph E. Hoselton brought home a catch of 21 trout, which they obtained in the brooks of North Stonington. This is the best catch reported so far by village anglers.

Peter Delisle (French Pete) has sold his property located at Riverside Grove to Peter Shorrock (Johnny Bull Pete).

A recent meeting of the J. B. Martin baseball team elected Fred Erlbeck as manager.

Mike Morin of Merchants avenue has been in Boston representing his home town, Northhampton, Mass., in a bowling match.

Miss Gertrude M. Young of North Third avenue has returned from a three weeks stay in Auburndale, Mass.

NORTH STERLING

Miss Elsa Johnson, teacher at Titus school, spent the week-end at her home in Woodstock.

Mr. Hart, the rural carrier, had bad luck the past week, breaking two axles of his car while delivering the mail.

Mrs. Marion Brown has recovered from a recent illness.

The tax collector was here this week looking for money.

Bertrand E. Benway and family and Dan Cutler of East Killingly, were visitors Sunday at G. C. Spooner's.

Frank Murtha of Brooklyn, N. Y., is at his home for the summer.

On some of the roads people have made money pulling out cars from the bad places, where the mud was deep.

Trout fishermen were here Sunday from Massachusetts and other places. So far as one can learn, not a trout was taken from the streams.

Changing fish to water of a different temperature from that to which they are accustomed will, according to a Danish scientist, after several generations, produce a new type, modified in form and structure, especially in the rays of the fins and the number of vertebrae.

PLAN LARGER SCALE OF WORK FOR BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

Plans are being consummated for the reorganization on an enlarged of the Woman's Auxiliary to the William W. Backus hospital, under the supervision of the ladies' advisory board. During the past two years the splendid work done by a small auxiliary, under the leadership of Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., has demonstrated the need and importance of an enlarged program, and an opportunity is now offered for definite service to the hospital.

For many years, in other cities of the state, organizations of a similar character have given loyal support to those in direct charge of hospital work, enabling them to meet the needs of their respective institutions to the fullest extent. In Norwich, in the past special committees have brought cheer to the hospital with flowers to make the wards and corridors attractive, with services and musicals on Sundays, with gifts and decorations at holiday seasons, while a committee on donations has added necessary supplies as they have been required. The drive for funds for the erection of a new home for nurses and an increased endowment so successfully conducted last October disclosed in the community a sincere interest in the welfare of the hospital and encouraged the ladies' advisory board to enlarge the existing auxiliary and broaden its scope, including not only those residing the limits of the town and city, but also those in the adjacent communities.

Any woman is eligible to active membership in the auxiliary upon the payment of an annual membership fee of one dollar, and any man is eligible to honorary membership under the same condition. A life membership may be secured upon the payment of one fee of $25.

Upon the recent appointment of Mrs. Mitchell to membership on the ladies' advisory board, Mrs. Walter P. Lester was chosen to succeed her as president of the auxiliary. Associated with Mrs. Lester are the following officers and chairmen of standing committees, comprising the executive board of the Woman's Auxiliary:

Vice presidents, Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson, Mrs. Witter K. Tingley, Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg; secretary, Mrs. Frederick W. Cary; treasurer, Miss Isabel Mitchell.

Committees—Membership, Mrs. Allyn L. Brown; finance, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert; visitation, Mrs. Frederick W. Lester; holiday, Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, Mrs. Walter Camp; religious services, Mrs. Luther D. Packer; suburban, Mrs. William G. Park; publicity, Miss Edith Young; donation, Mrs. E. LaRue Bliven; flower, Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings; nurses' recreation, Mrs. J. J. Donohue; literature, Mrs. Carl W. Brown.

The first public meeting is to be held in the Community House on the evening of Tuesday, April 22nd, at which the aims and ideals of the new organization will be presented in full detail. It is confidently expected that a membership campaign, to be launched at that meeting, will make the Backus Hospital Auxiliary one of the largest and most successful organizations of the kind in the state of Connecticut.

IOWA WOMAN LEADER TO ADDRESS W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, director of the Department of Citizenship of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and widely known as a speaker on law enforcement, will address a special W. C. T. U. jubilee meeting to be held at the Central Baptist church April 24th, when plans will be discussed for obtaining better law enforcement co-operation.

Leading educational, religious, philanthropic and social organizations with a combined membership of 10,000,000 women have already pledged themselves to work for better law observance and enforcement in their own communities. Citizenship and its relation to temperance, is the special problem that Mrs. Smith is handling nationally in the 10,000 communities where there are local W. C. T. U. organizations. Through the local unions, Mrs. Smith is arousing a strong public sentiment for better law enforcement and allegiance to the Constitution. She is president of the Iowa State W. C. T. U. and is a leading club woman as well as an ordained minister of the Church of Christ, and she was recently honored by being acclaimed one of the ten most distinguished women in Iowa.

In a special interview, Mrs. Smith said of the W. C. T. U., "No organization in the world is as little understood, and certainly none is so much misunderstood as the W. C. T. U. The W. C. T. U. created a public sentiment which resulted in the eighteenth amendment. It is now our task to create public sentiment in favor of the fullest enforcement of the law.

"Enforcement of the prohibition laws in the United States means prohibition for the world. Other nations are just waiting to see if we can and will enforce the law, and let me emphasize this, millions of women are praying for our victory because it means the saving of our homes, the future of the children, the protection of their welfare and happiness.

"Good men, with high standards of home and family life, who believe in a democracy and respect for law and order must be enlisted on the side of the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment."

Mrs. Smith explained that it is the plan of the W. C. T. U. to cultivate in the minds of business and professional men of prominence, and others, a realization of their responsibility in matters of law enforcement, a civic consciousness that will prompt them to obey the law because it is the law.

PLAN BOARDING PLACE FOR NEW YORK CHILDREN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Oneco, April 14.—A party of New York people were at Flat Rock Sunday looking over the old Allen Davis farm, now owned by Earl Davis, with the intention of starting a summer boarding house for New York children. This farm is located next to the land of the Jewett City Water Co., has 125 acres of open land, one of the main springs of Jewett City water works being on it. There has been talk of the property being purchased by the Jewett City Water Co., but Mr. Davis has a flattering offer, it is said, from the New York people owing to the farm being high and a perfect location for a summer boarding home on a large scale.

TAKE AWAY SACRIFICE, NO RELIGION, SAYS PRIEST

How literally has the prophecy of Malachi been fulfilled, the prophecy which told of the great name of God, who said, My name is great among the Gentiles and there are many who offer My name in sacrifice? This prophecy has been fulfilled, said Rev. Walter Doyle of LaSalette order, Hartford, speaking Sunday night at St. Patrick's church, for when it is midnight in New York, the holy father in Rome is vesting himself for the altar. An hour later, in France, and then in England, the same sublime sacrifices are being offered up. Even on the broad spaces of the Atlantic ocean some God-inspired missionary fulfils the prophecy and then still later, throughout America, priests are offering sacrifice to the Almighty, in the name of the Catholic people. Later, on the isles of the Pacific, and again in Asia, the same continuous, divine sacrifice is offered.

If we would learn what the sacredness of mass really is, we must go back to the first Good Friday and Holy week. There on Calvary is the dying Guide, there is the crucifix, there the most beautiful of the sons of men, a God giving himself up to His enemies that they might wreak their petty vengeance, all that you and I might live—have eternal life. That is the holy sacrifice that only a God could think of and carry out.

We celebrated not long ago the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. At the time of that discovery the holy sacrifice of mass was acknowledged by every people, that God-given adoration that it is; every spire that pointed to heaven had beneath it an altar from which offerings were made to the Almighty, Who gave His divine son in sacrifice.

Who was it that spread the knowledge through the world? Surely these people, these sacred men who took the message to France, Germany, England, Ireland and Bohemia, were not governed by selfish motives. Who then dared to stand up against these men and try to wrest from the people the holy mass and sacrifice?

History tells us that these kind of people were princes governed by pride and envy. Yet today we laugh at their puny efforts. The early apostles could never fail; whereas Luther and his kind tore the heart, the vital principle, out of the sacrifice.

Modernism is a natural consequence of such beliefs. Take away the sacrifice, the holy sacrifice, and man must fail to see into the mysteries of God. Without grace all is hopeless. If, some day the holy sacrifice is again given its place, the saints of God will unite with the Almighty and rejoice, that another lost lamb has returned to the fold.

If at the altar Calvary is perpetuated unto the end of time, certainly the message of Him who died for us shall be forever perpetuated.

During the service the choir sang Weigand's vespers; directed by Prof. Frank L. Farrell, at the organ. Soloists for the service were Mrs. Bernard Coyle, Mrs. George Roberts, Miss Loretta Beilefeur, Frank J. Aubrey and Frank R. Murphy. During the service Mr. Murdy gave a most pleasing interpretation of Jerusalem, by Henry Parker.

DESCRIBED PALM SUNDAY IN LIFE OF JESUS

In his talk Monday at noon at the Richmond Radiator plant, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts gave a minute description of the doings of our Lord on Palm Sunday, illustrating by a chart. The address as usual was under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The workmen of the plant listened with keen interest as the speaker described the closing scenes of our Lords Perasan ministry.

The speaker said in part: Christ's earthly ministry may be roughly divided into three parts, the Judean, or the first part, because most of His time was given to that section of Palestine; the second and largest portion of His three years was devoted to His Galilean work; and thirdly and most briefly, His labors in the desolate region of Perea.

Rejected in Galilee, He turns toward Jerusalem by way of Samaria, but being opposed in the latter place He turns with a few of His disciples to the valley of the Jordan and here a series of wonderful sayings and deeds were made known; the cleansing of the ten lepers, the curing of the infirm woman, the question of divorce, the blessing of little children, dealing with the young lawyer, sending forth of the seventy and the matter of priority in the kingdom of God.

This brings us to Thursday afternoon preceding Palm Sunday. Early Friday, Christ with His followers cross the Jordan, where He cures two blind men. About noon He enters Jericho, converts Zachhaeus and dines with him. Later in the day the company disperses, some pitching their tents between Jericho and Jerusalem, while others push on to Jerusalem before the Sabbath begins.

Saturday immediately preceding Palm Sunday was mostly a period of silence. Jesus himself retiring to the home of Simon the Leper, or, who had been a leper and who many scholars believe was the deceased husband of Martha. Here transpired the beautiful scene of Mary pouring the costly ointment on the head and feet of Jesus.

At this point the speaker made use of a chart showing in detail the doings of Jesus when he left Bethany for Jerusalem, tracing the probable route taken; the bringing of the steed, the enthusiasm of the crowd shown in throwing their garments before him, and breaking down branches of palm, olive and walnut and shouting, "Hosanna to the Son of David, blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest."

The spot was pointed out in the pass between the Hill of Offense and the Mount of Olives where a full view was given of Jerusalem where Jesus wept over the city and pronounced its doom. It was shown where the delegation from Jerusalem met the one coming from Bethany and where unitedly they entered the city and the wonderful scenes subsequent to the entry. The speaker concluded by showing what this "coming in the name of the Lord" meant to humanity.

Larger and more powerful locomotives than those formerly used are being introduced on English railways.

AUTOS LEAVING CURB PERIL TO TROLLEYS

Only education of the automobile drivers can cure the habit of driving into trolley cars, according to Lucius S. Storrs, president of the Connecticut company, who gave in New Haven last week what is believed to be the first scientific analysis of accidents in which autos and trolleys are mutually involved. He told delegates to the conference held under the Hartley Foundation by Yale University and the State of Connecticut that of the 17,000 automobile accidents reported by the motor vehicle department of Connecticut for 1923, at the present conference only 646 involved trolley cars.

The records of the trolley company throw a different light upon the situation for they show 5258 such collisions, including the most trivial. Analysis of President Storrs disclosed that easily the largest number were caused by careless auto drivers turning their cars out into the street from the curb directly in front of the trolley cars. Since 1917 the number of joint auto and trolley car accidents has risen from 3338 to 5258. President Storrs said:

There is no question as to the necessity for the education of the automobile drivers and the general public, nor is there any question but that education is the one means to accomplish the desired results of a safer use of the highways of the state. Any number of police regulations or legislative statutes may be enacted, but unless the public is thoroughly informed as to the necessity for such regulations, and convinced of the reasonableness of their terms, it will take constant police surveillance to obtain the desired results.

Constant repetition of the facts that are advanced is even more important than the educational campaign itself. For instance, the instructions given to drivers a year ago, here in Connecticut, of the proper signals to use, when turning corners, backing or leaving the curb was most carefully followed by the great majority for a considerable period, but today there is hardly an automobile driver in the state who takes pains to signal with his hand when pulling out from the curb, although most do indicate the intention to turn a corner.

A very large portion of accidents occur to automobiles when leaving the curb. If any motorist can have a motor vehicle breakdown, it will come from the constant efforts to escape striking autos that pull out from the curb directly in front of a street car, without any indication having been given of the drivers' intention.

At the first session of this conference Professor Leary of Yale presented a chart showing the accident experience of the Connecticut Company as compared with the state records. Our records include reports upon the most trivial cases, a total of 5258 during 1923, whereas the Motor Vehicle Department lists but 646 auto accidents reported in which trolley cars are involved; the law does not require a report to that department unless there is a personal injury or property damage. Therefore, our data will give another angle to the habits of drivers and may throw additional light upon the customs which if persisted in may prevent serious results.

One of our motormen who has a most exceptional record for safe experience it as his opinion that no automobile driver should be considered a safe driver until he had been personally involved in some kind of an accident, no matter how trivial.

Our General Claim Agent, A. W. George who has had twenty years experience investigating and settling accidents and damage cases, states it as his positive conviction that the main cause for the great number of minor accidents, any one of which might be a serious one, is inattention on the part of the driver.

The following is a statement of the total number of automobile and trolley casualties:

1917, 3338; 1918, 2505; 1919, 4155; 1920, 4627; 1921, 3895; 1922, 4538; 1923, 5258.

The increase in numoer of 1923 over 1922 is very largely accounted for by the records of the months of January, February and March. During these months in 1923, the city streets and country highways were covered with a heavy sheet of snow and ice, which we managed to keep off from our track areas, with the result that all motor vehicles were compelled to use this portion of the road. These conditions were so extreme that in several cities taxi-cab companies refused to send cars out in answer to calls except upon streets having trolley tracks.

The increase in total accidents in 1923 over 1922 was 1203 of which 67 were additional automobile casualties during the first three months of the year. During these months in 1924, however, there have been 474 less automobile collisions than during the same months of 1923; as has been shown during these months the total automobile accidents reported to the department have been greatly in excess of those in 1923.

The following is a tabulation of the 5258 accidents reported in 1923:

| Autos turning out from curb, | No. | Pc. |
|---|---|---|
| hit by trolley | 698 | 13.3 |
| Autos coming out of intersecting streets, at motorman's right | 281 | 5.5 |
| Autos coming out of intersecting streets at motorman's left | 298 | 5.5 |
| Autos hit in rear, trying to get ahead of moving trolley same direction | 528 | 10.0 |
| Autos colliding head-on with trolley cars | 340 | 6.5 |
| Autos hitting standing trolleys, excluding head-on | 688 | 13.2 |
| Autos side-swiped trolleys in passing, same direction | 634 | 11.8 |
| Autos side-swiped trolleys, opposite directions | 506 | 9.7 |
| Autos struck, backing out of driveways, or buildings | 92 | 1.7 |
| Autos struck in rear, running ahead of trolleys, caused by sudden stopping | 375 | 7.1 |
| Autos ran into moving trolley cars, same direction | 224 | 4.2 |
| Parked autos hit by trolley cars | 588 | 11.2 |
| Autos hit at grade crossing | 17 | 0.3 |
| Total | 5258 | 100. |

It will be noted that 3383 instances are due solely to carelessness on the part of the autoist, 1269 are cases which there is a question as to whether there might not have been inattention on the part of either the motorman or the autoist and 392 are instances in which the occurrence might have been due to carelessness on the part of the motorman, but doubtless in most cases the autoist was at fault, such as the 17 automobiles that were hit at grade crossings.

The cases of automobiles hit in coming out of intersecting streets develop the fact that the present road rule giving the right of way to the vehicle approaching from the right has little bearing upon highway safety, 281 having been struck approaching from the right and 298 from the left. There is no question but that few auto drivers make any effort to observe this rule and a much more simple and decidedly more effective regulation is contained in the Ohio statutes, in which the definition of main thoroughfares is clearly set forth.

The largest number of cases are those in which autos were hit pulling out from the curb; in this instance it is of interest to note that in the city of Middletown, but one automobile has been hit in this way along the very wide Main street, while in Bridgeport, with the very narrow streets, there were 200 such cases.

There were 1370 cases where autoists have tried to get ahead of trolleys in their desire for speed.

In St. Louis, a survey developed the fact that 9843 vehicles entered the business district daily, the total area available for parking will accommodate but 2500. In Chicago it was found that 51.3 per cent. of the vehicles entering the loop district were autos, carrying 18.9 per cent. of the passengers. Two per cent. were street cars which carried 74 per cent. of the passengers. It is clear, therefore, that in New Haven 56 per cent. of the people are being inconvenienced in order that the remainder may enjoy the questionable pleasure of driving their autos through the central districts; the average number of passengers per automobile in no case where checks have been made being over 1.75 passengers per auto.

RECEIVED YOUNG PEOPLE INTO CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

The celebration, which took place Sunday morning at the First German Lutheran church, Franklin street, when nineteen young Christians were received into church membership, was very impressive. The church was tastefully decorated with palms, flowers and laurel and was filled to capacity. The topic of the pastor, H. Hunzinger was "A chain of 19 young hearts will be fastened to the congregation on earth and to the heart of God in heaven by faith in the Christ who lived yesterday, by love to the Christ, who will live and reign forever." The choir under the leadership of John Eckstein rendered a fine selection. After the sermon the solemn rite of confirmation took place, during which the 19 young people pledged to be faithful to God and their church unto the end of their lives.

WETMORE VS FARLEY IN COMMON PLEAS

The attention of the court of common pleas, with Judge Charles B. Waller on the bench, was occupied all day Saturday in New London with the suit of Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr., New London real estate operator, against Mrs. Mary Farley, of that city and New York. The suit involves the sum of $225 which Mr. Wetmore claims as commission on a sale of a piece of property on Ocean avenue, near the entrance to Neptune park, which he alleges he negotiated.

The sale was recently aired in the superior court when Mrs. Farley was sued by Mrs. John Callahan for specific performance of the sale contract. Due to the fact that the description of the property was not clear, the court decided in favor of Mrs. Farley.

Attorney Gilman of Norwich and New York represented Mrs. Farley at the common pleas hearing on Saturday and wished to submit the case on briefs. This move, however, was opposed by Attorney Max Boyer, counsel for Wetmore, and the case was argued. At the conclusion of the arguments, Judge Waller took the papers and reserved decision.

State Chamber of Commerce.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce is to be held at the Hotel Stratfield, Bridgeport, May 21 and 22, 1924. President Bullard has appointed various convention committees and indications are that the convention this year will equal, if not surpass, those of previous years. The speakers' committee, of which William T. Hincks of Bridgeport is chairman, has assured Mr. Bullard that he will have several first rate speakers of national repute for the convention and banquet.

Motor Meter Theft Case Continued.

In the city court Monday morning the theft cases against Francis Bazinej, Louis Bazinet, Romeo Archibald, all of Taftville, and Calvin W. Edmunds, of New London, were continued until today, (Tuesday). The men are alleged to have stolen a motor meter from a Norwich automobile Saturday night. Bonds of $200 each were furnished for their appearance in court today. It was expected that they would be presented in the Jewett City court Monday.

Stephen Lucas charged with intoxication and breach of the peace was given a sentence of six months on the state farm. Two other men charged with intoxication gained their freedom after paying fines and costs amounting to $14.40 each.

SERGEANT KILLAM GIVES FACTS TO THE PUBLIC

Veteran Boston Police Officer Tells of Winning Back Health After 2 Years Suffering — Gives Tanlac Full Credit.

The long list of Tanlac endorsements is now honored with the name of A. L. Killam, for forty years a sergeant on the Boston police force, now retired, and residing at 48 Bradfield Ave., Roslindale, Mass.

"I didn't expect much from Tanlac," declared Mr. Killam recently, "but I am indebted to that and that alone for the full recovery of my health and strength after nearly two years of suffering. Indigestion played on me so persistently that a feeling of discomfort and utter weariness stayed with me all the time. Rheumatism also attacked my legs and feet, and my strength declined to just about the lowest point of my recollection, threatening me apparently, with a long sickness.

"Tanlac accomplished everything I wanted it to in my case, so I have all faith in it now, and am anxious to recommend it to all. Tanlac has no equal."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

SEC'Y HUGHES SEES SECURITY FOR NATION IN THE CHARACTER OF CALVIN COOLIDGE

As Temporary Chairman of the New York State Republican Convention, Mr. Hughes Asserted No Platform Was Needed Further Than President Coolidge's First Message—Declared It Was a Comprehensive Survey of Conditions, Requirements and Purposes—Advised Republicans Not to Become Discouraged by "Scandal Mongers" and "Tale Bearers"—Paid Tribute to Secretary Mellon For His Conduct of Post-War Financiering.

New York, April 15—Secretary of State Hughes was given a rousing ovation when he was introduced as temporary chairman of the republican state convention tonight. He was introduced by George K. Morris, state chairman and the audience rose and cheered for several minutes while the band played "America."

Inviting a candid appraisal of past achievements and expressing unbounded confidence in the leadership of President Coolidge, Secretary Charles E. Hughes, told New York republicans tonight that their party could look forward to the presidential campaign undismayed by "scandal-mongers," and "tale-bearers."

Coolidge is His Own Platform

"You will search in vain for a more ideal executive than President Coolidge," said the secretary in a keynote address before the state convention in town hall. "The American people have already indicated their determination to keep him where he is. He is his own platform. His first message was a comprehensive survey of conditions; requirements and purposes which has charted the course of the republican party and commanded the approval of the country. No other platform is needed.

"No one can foresee the exigency which an administration may have to confront. It is the unexpected that happens to presidents, as to others. For this reason, character is more important than declarations. Today is no occasion for experiment, no reason for uncertainty. The best assurance of the future is the character of Calvin Coolidge."

Paid Tribute to Mellon

The secretary also paid tribute to Secretary Mellon for his conduct of post-war government financing; recounted the increase in foreign trade that has resulted under the new republican tariff; contrasted present industrial conditions with those of 1921; recalled that the agreements reached at the Washington arms conference] asserted that the country's international relations had been improved in Latin America and the far east; and reaffirmed the policy of helpfulness toward Europe, unhandicapped by political entanglements.

Only a passing reference was made to the report of the Dawes reparation committee. Without touching on the merits of the findings of the experts he said the service of American private citizens in the enterprise had demonstrated again the willingness of American ability to help a stricken world.

Mr. Hughes plunged directly into the senatorial investigations at the outset of his speech, declaring the republican position had been stated by President Coolidge in his announcement that he would not be swayed by partisanship in his efforts to punish wrong-doing.

"Let it be understood that we do not condone wrong; we extenuate no crime," said the secretary. "We would not put any obstacle in the way of discovery and punishment of any official dereliction. We would bring to the bar of Justice every dishonest officials and every perverter of administration in or out of office. This is a duty which can be and will be completely discharged by the appropriate agencies without any sacrifice of constitution procedure.

Crooks in Every Party

"Neither political party has a monopoly of virtue or of rascality. There are crook sin every community and in every party. Now and then, one gets into office. Let wrongs be exposed and punished, but let not partisan pack sniffs affect 'a holler than thou' attitude. The corrupting currency may be found in democratic satchels. One who is corrupt is as faithless to his party as to his government. Guilt is personal and corruption knows no party.

"Today, counsel of eminent ability and unimpeachable integrity, selected from both the great parties by a republican president are taking appropriate legal proceedings by which all the questions which have been raised as to the leasing of the public domain will be threshed out. Every public interest will be safe-guarded, and every guilty person punished. These cases are in the courts where they belong, and the courts will decide.

Not Fond of Scandal Mongers

"While the American people detest crookedness and corruption they are not fond of scandal mongers. Throughout this favored country, in countless jury rooms our people are dealing directly with the credibility of witnesses with the exhibition of the grudges and personal animosities of tale-bearers, and they know the difference between evidence and hearsay, between proof and malicious reports, between bourritious innuendoes and sustained charges. They do not wish the guilty to escape but they know that there is no security for life or liberty or character if the standards of justice are ignored and guilt is assumed before it is established. The injunction of Jehovah to the great law-giver of Israel is still pertinent: 'Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment; thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honour the person of the mighty; thy neighbor. Thou shalt thou judge thy neighbor. Thou shalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer among the people.'

"The workers of this country are entitled to an administration of government which safeguards the opportunities of industry, which lives within its income, which reduces governmental expenditures and thus makes possible relief from oppressive taxation, which practices national thrift, the key to national prosperity. Four years ago, the republican party promised this, and it has kept its promise. We point not to promises, but to actual extraordinary achievement. Every business man, every wage earner has a stake in the continuance of this sort of administration.

Effective Budget Control

"The republican administration has established an effective budget control. The highways of politics are strewn with broken promises of economy in government. This time the pledge has been redeemed. The reduction in governmental expenditures during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, as compared with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, was about $1,706,000,000. There was a surplus of about $300,000,000.

Wise Fiscal Management

"It was this rigid economy in governmental expenditures and this wise fiscal management which made it possible for the secretary of the treasury to propose a through-going scientific, plan of tax reduction which has met country-wide approval. Certainly the responsibility for delay must rest with those who oppose the plan and not upon those who proposed it.

"When the republican administration came into power we were still in a technical state of war. In the far east our relations were embarrassed by suspicion and distrust, giving rise to grave apprehensions. In this hemisphere old sores were still festering.

"It is not intended to revive an old dispute, but it is believed that dispassionate history will record the serious mistake of making a permanent plan for international organization, or for a society of nations, a part of a treaty embodying the terms of peace laid down by the victories in the great war, and of introducing into that plan political commitments which were opposed to the genius of our institutions When President Harding took office it was manifest that it would be worse than futile to reopen that debate, on any point or proposal and he followed the only course in which there was promise of achievement, and this promise was abundantly realized.

"Perhaps there has never been a more important contribution to the course of peace than that which was made under the auspices of this government through the Washington conference. For the first time, a limitation of the naval strength of the great powers was agreed upon. The most important result of the conference was the establishment of a new understanding in the far east. The darkening clouds were dispelled. Distrust yielded to mutual confidence. The Anglo-Japanese alliance was brought to an end, and provision for the future was made by an agreement which did not violence to American tradition but in its very simplicity and adaptability contained the highest promise of continued accord. Peace in the Pacific, so far as this generation can see ahead, is undoubtedly assured.

Reason for Gratification

"There is sound reason for gratification in the increasing good will and helpfulness which have characterized during the last few years the development of the relations between the United States and her sister republics of the American continent. The troublesome difficulties which for many years have disturbed our relations with Mexico have yielded to a friendly adjustment. I am glad to be able to add that the efforts to secure an independent and stable government in Santo Domingo, so as to permit the ending of our occupation, have met with gratifying success.

"Our record as a government in the cooperation we have maintained during the past three years in matters not involving political entanglements or injurious commitments, — one which should afford a gratification to all our people irrespective of party. We have always advocated the judicial settlement of international disputes, and to this end both President Harding and President Coolidge recommended, upon appropriate conditions, the support of the permanent court of international justice. In the meantime, we are promoting the use of the processes of arbitration.

American Aid Sought and Given

"Whoever says that America stands aloof and witholds her support from a stricken world is guilty of reckless slander. We do stand aloof from political entanglements, but not otherwise. American aid, American advice, American impartiality in dealing with difficult problems, are sought and given.

"There has just been dramatic illustration of this American brains, American experience, American competency of the highest order have been given to the solution of the most urgent European problems. A practicable adjustment of the questions pertaining to reparations is the essential foundation of the economic recovery for which the world is waiting. Central Europe has been in an economic chaos and has suffered the resulting evils of mistrust, of industrial distress. Nor has the injury due to the inability to find a settlement been limited to Europe. Our farmers have suffered through the decreased consuming power and the lack of markets. With a sound basis for economic recuperation abroad there will be new hope and the promise of the dawn of a new era of general prosperity and peace. Had this government attempted to make this contribution we should still be in controversy, and be held, as Europe has been held, in the grip of politics, and racial antagonisms.

"The world needed the unfettered service of men of affairs to deal with the vital problems of industry and finance upon their merits. It is none the less an American contribution because it has been made by such men in the only practicable way."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Series of Earthquakes.

Hamburg, April 15:—A series of earthquakes covering a period of three hours was recorded at the seismographic institute here beginning at 5.30 yesterday afternoon. The center of the disturbance was estimated to be 9,500 kilometers distant.

THAW AND EVELYN COME FACE TO FACE IN COURT

Philadelphia, April 15.—Six special jurors, who in 1917 declared Harry K. Thaw a lunatic, today testified he is sane and entitled to freedom, at a jury trial in common pleas court to determine Thaw's mental status.

The second day of the trial proved replete with surprises. In addition to the revised opinion of Thaw by the former jurors, Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit, his divorced wife, came face to face in the court room in a tense duel of glances; the name of Stanford White, who Thaw shot and killed in 19206, was suddenly mentioned, causing Thaw to manifest emotion; and Dr. Charles K. Mills, noted alienist, under grilling cross examination by counsel for the trustees of the Thaw estate, admitted Thaw was suffering from aphasia, although maintaining his opinion that he is sane and competent to manage his own affairs.

There was a dramatic moment when a careless remark as to what Thaw might do if released, whispered by a spectator, caused Evelyn Nesbit to shudder convulsively. Shortly afterward, she left for Atlantic City.

Harry W. Mace, a politician, who was foreman of the 1917 jury that adjudged Thaw insane, was emphatic in declaring he now believed the Pittsburgh millionaire a normal man.

"I would not have recognized him as the same man," Mace said, refering to a recent interview with Thaw. 'A great improvement and change has come over him. He is different in every way, mentally and physically."

"What impressed you about him?" Mace was asked.

"His alertness and his sincerity," was the reply. "I talked to him about a number of things, especially his plans for release. He told me I want to go home to my mother. She is getting old. She has been mighty good to me and now she needs me." That is rational, and talks as clearly as you and I are talking now."

VIGOROUS DEFENSE OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU

New York, April 15.—A vigorous defense of the bureau of internal revenue today was made by Thomas S. Adams, professor of political economy at Yale university, before the national conference on wealth, debts and taxation, meeting under the auspices of the Academy of Political Science.

Until recently an advisor to the senate committee, investigating the bureau, Professor Adams said he resigned when the committee's activities "degenerated into child's play."

"I know," he said, "that the personnel of the bureau has been singularly clean; that its responsible officials have been with few exceptions zealous and intelligent; and that its leaders have fought with vigor and success against the interjection of politics and politicians of the undesirable type.

"The internal revenue bureau is suffering from overstrain. It is attempting to carry or enforce a tax system too complicated and difficult for any organization to administer successfully."

Professor Adams asserted the bureau collected annually $2,500,000,000 in taxes and refunded $100,000,000 and that the task, because of the various elements involved, was enormous.

"Under such circumstances," he continued, "there inevitably occur mistakes in judgment, instances of favoritism and sporadic cases of graft. The committee will have no difficulty in finding cases of each kind, but they signify nothing. There is no reason to believe that graft and favoritism are widespread and chronic in the work of the bureau."

NEW YORK DELEGATES PLEDGED FOR AL SMITH

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (By the A. P.)—Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, was acclaimed as the candidate of his party in the state for the presidential nomination at the democratic state convention here today.

His candidacy was formally launched in two resolutions, one calling upon the state's eight delegates and eight alternates-at-large to the democratic national convention to support him loyally and faithfully as candidate for nomination to the exalted office of president;" and the other, the concluding paragraph of the party platform, hailing him as the "type of public official imperatively demanded by the times."

The governor, whose appearance in the convention auditorium was the signal for a vociferous demonstration, told the delegates that he had not sought the honor, which they would thrust upon him. But if the necessary votes could be obtained in the national convention, he would be "honored beyond power of expression, to lead the forces of the party in the next campaign."

FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKED AT BERKSHIRE JUNCTION

Danbury, Conn., April 15.—A 40-car freight train carrying beef and automobiles valued at approximately $800,000 was derailed and wrecked at Berkshire junction, four miles east of here tonight, blocking all train service to and from Waterbury and Pittsfield, Mass. Sixteen of the cars were strewn across the tracks, piled three cars high. The train was from Maybrook, N. Y., to New Haven.

ILLEGAL VOTING CHARGED IN HERRIN CITY ELECTION

Herrin, Ills., April 15 — Charged with illegal vote gathering from beyond the city limits, E. M. Bowen, judge of the Herrin city court, John M. Garavalis, president of the board of health and their chauffeur were arrested late today as the climax of a hot city election in which the issue was klan and anti-klan.

Coolidge Keen For States Sovereignty

Advocates the Principle of Local Self-Government in Harmony With the Needs of Each State.

Washington, April 15—Retention of sovereignty by the states is essential to maintenance of the founding principles of the nation and its government, President Coolidge declared in an address today at the unveiling of the Arizona Memorial stone in the Washington monument.

"If we are to maintain the nation and its government institutions with a fair semblance of the principles on which they were founded, two policies always must be supported," the president said.

"First, the principle of local self-government in harmony with the needs of each state. This means that in general the states should not surrender, but retain their own sovereignty, and keep control of their government. Second, a policy of local reflection of nation-wide public opinion. Each state must shape its course to conform to the generally accepted sanctions of society and to the needs of the nation. It must provide a workable similarity of economic and industrial relations it must protect the health and provide for the education of its own citizens. This policy is already well recognized in the association of the states for the promotion and adoption of uniform laws. Unless this policy be adopted by the states, interference by the nation cannot be resisted.

"Throughout our whole nation there is an irresistible urge for the maintenance of the highest possible standards of government and society. Unless this sentiment is heeded and observed by appropriate state action, there is always grave danger of encroachment upon the states by the national government. But it must always be realized that such encroachments, is a hazardous undertaking, and should be adopted only as a last resort.

"The true course to be followed is the maintenance of the integrity of each state by local laws and social customs, which will place it in comparative harmony with all the others. By such a method, which can only be the result of great effort constantly exerted, it will be possible to maintain an 'indestructible union of indestructible states.'"

The president's address was a part of a ceremony attending the unveiling of the Arizona stone, a block from the petrified forests of that state. The ceremonies were held at the 200-foot landing in the monument.

SENATOR GLASS RESENTS PRESIDENT'S LANGUAGE

Washington, April 15.—The cross fire of senate controversy that has raged for three days about presidential intervention in the Pinchot-Heney-Mellon wrangle, continued unabated today with Senator Glass, of Virginia, delivering what his democratic colleagues hailed as the formal declaration of their resentment at the president's language.

The Virginia senator spoke after careful preparation. He had not been assigned to the task, his party colleagues said; but when he concluded they crowded about him to grip hands in congratulation while Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, was kept waiting for order that he might make brief reply.

Senator Glass disclaimed any partisan purposes. He voiced respect and admiration for the president and Mr. Mellon; declared himself opposed to the action of the investigation committee in proposing to employ Francis J. Heney at the personal expense of Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan; but added that he could not remain silent in the face of the message that contained the president's amazing arraignment of the senate of the United States as a menace to orderly government."

"I've had no immediate part in any investigation and have contributed no word of consequence to the discussions of them, Senator Glass said, "but I refuse to remain silent when a presidential message is put upon the desk which asperses the patriotism and even the honesty of the senate."

GERMANY ACCEPTS REPORT OF REPARATION EXPERTS

Berlin, April 15 (By the A. P)—Formal notification of Germany's acceptance of the experts' reports as a basis for renewed reparation parleys was sent to Paris this afternoon and will be transmitted to the reparation commission by Secretary Fischer of the German war burden commission.

The German action reflects the concurring opinions of the Marx-Stresemann cabinet, the premiers of the federated German states and reichstag party leaders, and although the conferences which have been going on for the past two days developed diverging opinions with respect to some of the essential features of the reports, there was unanimity on the final issue that Germany must forthwith indicate her readiness to accept the reports in their entirety as affording a comprehensive groundwork for renewed deliberations.

LEONARD FOUND GUILTY OF THE MURDER OF DODGE

New York, April 15.—John Leonard, charged with three other men with the killing of Edward H. Dodge, wealthy Mount Vernon real estate dealer, on January 5, was found guilty of first degree murder late today. The Bronx county court jury deliberated one hour.

He is survived by a wife, one son and a daughter.

Philippines Not Fit For Independence

Governor General Leonard Wood Declares It Would Be "a Serious Blow to Western Civilization."

Washington, April 15.—Immediate independence of the Philippine islands, sought by special commissions to the United States, would be "a serious blow to western civilization" and a "heartless betrayal of our trust," Governor General Leonard Wood said today in a report made public by Secretary Weeks.

"I sympathize deeply with the desire of the Filipino people for independence," General Wood said, "but know they are not yet prepared to assume its responsibility, either from the standpoint of instructed of instructed public opinion, preparedness for defense, a common language or economic resources. I am convinced that the president's letter to Spencer Roxas voices the true interests of the Filipino people and indicates the sound, sane, humane policy which should be followed. The present organic act, with certain amendments is adequate to carry out this policy until such time as the final relations which are to exist between the United States and the people of the Philippine islands may be determined.

"To grant immediate independence would be a heartless betrayal of our trust and result in turning over the $8,000,000 people of these islands to strife and disorder in the near future, for it would result in almost immediate serious clashes between the Moros and Christian Filipinos, the former being an unit against independence and desiring the continuance of American sovereignty.

"It would defeat true independence both economical and political, ruin the sugar and tobacco industries, destroy confidence in investments with resulting wrecking of the finances of the islands with attendant idleness and disorder. It would be a serious blow to western civilization and to the Christian effort in the far east, and render unavailing or destroy much of out work here.

"I am convinced the true situation in the Philippines is not understood either by congress or the American people who have been misinformed and deceived by misleading propaganda and information which has been circulated by the independence mission, press bureau and others, and I urge that the fullest opportunity for a hearing be given to those who have lived here long years, have had wide experience, and are thoroughly familiar with existing conditions. The people are contented and public order is excellent except for occasional clashes in the Moro country and disturbances arising from fanatical religious outbreaks against the authorities, such as the recent Colorum disturbances.

"I am convinced that the people are as a whole in their hearts, appreciative of the benefits which have come to them under our flag and that our government here is conducted for their best interests. In the two and one-half years I have been here as governor general I have received but one petition from the people on the subject of independence, and during all this so-called crisis, during which agitators, and I am sorry to say, some of the leaders, have tried to line up the Filipinos against the government and representative of the United States, I have not received a single signed or unsigned communication of an unfriendly character from any of the 12,000,000 inhabitants of the islands. This tells the story.

"The bulk of the people want independence at some future time, and, generally speaking are under our protection. Those who understand present conditions know that they are not yet ready for independence. This, most of the political leaders, indeed all the prominent ones, have admitted to me, some of them repeatedly and very recently, but they admit freely that a considerable number of years will be required before the people will be prepared for independence, either from the standpoint of national defense or resources. They all labor under the impression that whatever trouble they may get into, troubles which are certain to occur with neighboring powers, due to racial immigration, and other problems, we will come to their assistance and they do not realize that once we leave here we cannot return.

"In conclusion, as I see it, the responsibility rests squarely upon us to continue our work here until we ourselves are satisfied these people are prepared to maintain an independent national existence."

SLATE OF N. Y. REP. DELEGATES TO NATIONAL CONVENTION

New York, April 15—The slate of New York state delegates-at-large to Cleveland, announced in advance of the opening of the republican state convention tonight, was denounced by Orville S. Poland, counsel for the state anti-saloon league, as "a direct affront to the dry constituency of the state which makes up the bulk of the republican vote."

Mr. Poland declared that "if this slate is any criterion by which to judge the policies of the party during the next campaign its presages certain democratic victory in New York in 1924." He said further:

"The slate is headed by U. S. Senator Wadsworth and Charles D. Hilles, who must be held responsible for the distribution of patronage and the appointment of the large number of corrupt or inefficient prohibition officers who have infested this state.

"George K. Morris specifically refused to stand with President Harding in his Denver speech for prohibition enforcement.

"Perhaps the worst offense is given in the selection of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, long known as an opponent of prohibition in season and out of season.

LOCAL EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS IN SWITZERLAND AND ITALY

London, April 15.—The reports from widely separated parts of the world of a great earthquake have received no elucidation here, but in the absence of definite news as to the locality or localities affected it is assumed that the phenomenon was submarine.

There have been local shocks in Switzerland and Italy today, but no serious damage was reported. There has been no recurrence in England of the tremors of April 5 and April 8. London itself is outside the area which occasionally feels slight shocks. These disturbances usually occur in the North Midland and Eastern counties.

JAPANESE EXCLUSION IN SENATE IMMIGRATION BILL

Provision, Was Voted Into the Immigration Bill Without a Record Vote—Action Was Taken Late in the Day With Only a Few More Than a Score of Senators present—There Was Neither Roll Call Nor Debate—Amendment Adopted is Almost Identical With That Approved by the House Last Week.

Washington, April 15—Japanese exclusion was written into the immigration bill today by the senate over the protest of both Secretary Hughes and the Japanese ambassador.

There was neither a roll call nor debate on the exclusion amendment, action on which came unexpectedly late in the day. Only a few more than a score of senators were present.

Adoption of the amendment, which is almost identical with that approved last week by the house, was nothing more than a formality as senate approval was made certain yesterday with the refusal of that body to sanction by law the "gentlemen's agreement" with Japan on the immigration question.

There has been no indication from the white house as to President Coolidge's attitude with regard to the exclusion question, but there were intimations in some administration quarters today that he might veto the immigration bill because of the Japanese provision.

Congressional leaders appear confident, however, that the executive will attach his signature to the measure. Should he veto it they have little doubt that the necessary two-thirds majority for its re-passage could be obtained in both the house and senate.

It may be two weeks or more before the president is called upon to act. After the bill is passed by the senate, probably this week, it will have to go to conference for the ironing out of differences between the two houses on a number of its provisions.

The chief executive already has given the subject considerable study, however, having discussed it several times with Secretary Hughes and again today with Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, the republican leader and chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Senator Lodge went to the white house to inform the president officially of the sentiment of himself and his colleague and to suggest that he consider the overwhelming votes on the question when the bill reaches him.

Whether the subject came before the regular Tuesday cabinet meeting was not made known at the white house, officials there maintaining complete silence on the whole subject. Secretary Hughes attended the cabinet session, but left Washington immediately afterwards for New York.

Ambassador Hanihara plans to confer with Mr. Hughes upon his return to the city tomorrow and meantime officers at the Japanese embassy decline to make any statement either regarding the ambassador's letter or the action of congress.

Tokio dispatches carrying an announcement by the newspapers there that "new important instructions" were being sent to Ambassador Hanihara after a meeting of the Japanese cabinet were received in official and legislative circles here with considerable interest. If such instructions have been forwarded the Japanese embassy has not yet received them, according to embassy officials

After five hours of debate during which the immigration question was touched upon only briefly, the senate was prepared for an executive session when Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, in charge of the immigration measure, asked unanimous consent to consider the Japanese exclusion amendment out of order. There was no objection and before the crowded galleries had time to realize what was occurring, the amendment had been adopted.

Until this amendment had been offered, the exclusion question had not even been touched upon in the senate debate. Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, opened discussion of the immigration bill immediately after the senate convened by delivering a prepared address attacking the quota policy.

More than four hours later, after there had been half a dozen addresses and sharp changes in the Pinchot-Heney-Mellon controversy, Senator Hflin, democrat, Alabama, read a prepared address urging that the doors be closed entirely to all immigration, at least for one year.

SENATE REJECTS NOMINATION OIL COUNSEL SAMUEL KNIGHT

Washington, April 15.—The senate today rejected the nomination of Samuel Knight, of San Francisco to be special government counsel in prosecuting oil suits involving sections 16 and 36 within the boundaries of naval reserve number 3 in California.

The vote, taken in executive session, was reported unofficially as 39 to 36.

JAPAN TO UPHOLD ACTION OF AMBASSADOR HANIHARA

Tokio, April 15—(By the A. P.)—Foreign Minister Matsui, replying to questions by the Associated Press, declared this afternoon that no new instructions had been sent to Ambassador Hanihara at Washington relative to any future action on the immigration question.

The foreign minister said that although Ambassador Hanihara had written his letter April 11 urging congress not to pass the Japanese exclusion legislation without specific instructions from Tokio, he nevertheless had full authority to act on his own discretion.

The foreign minister was emphatic in stating that the action of Ambassador Hanihara had the full approval of the foreign office. Minister Matsui declined, however, to amplify the much-discussed "grave consequences" phrase contained in the Hanihara letter.

The cabinet, the foreign minister said, discussed immigration at a meeting this morning, but arrived at no decision.

There was no basis Minister Matsui declared, for America agree surmises that the "consequences" referred to by Ambassador Hanihara might be Japanese retreat to cooperate in keeping the "open door" of China and peace in the far east.

"We fully intend to observe honorably all obligations we assumed in signing the treaties and conventions in regard to China, and oriental peace," said the foreign minister, "We have no reason to change our policy in that respect."

Minister Matsui stressed the great responsibility of the press, both in America and Japan at "this critical juncture," he said that earlier in the afternoon he had met members of the Tokio press and cautioned them against the dangers of irresponsible inflammatory expressions.

DEM. NAT'L CONVENTION IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

New York, April 15—(By the A. P.) Members of the democratic national committee definitely decided late today that the national convention of the party would be held in Madison Square Garden, as originally planned, and not in the 258th field artillery armory in the Bronx as suggested by some members in order to admit more spectators.

This decision was reached after members of the committee had visited the Bronx armory, which is about 40 minutes by subway from the hotel and theatre district, and it was said the subject would not even be discussed by a sub-committee on arrangements which had planned to take up the proposal.

Chief among the reasons for deciding against the uptown move was said to be the additional expense involved. About $70,000 additional would have been needed, it was said. Elaborate plans also had been made for holding the convention in historic Madison Square Garden and it was felt that these had progressed so far that it would be difficult to change them.

Committeemen who had advocated the change were actuated by a desire to accommodate the thousands of applicants for seats in the great political arena. The demand was said to have been the greatest in political convention history. They pointed out that only about 12,000 persons could be seated in Madison Square Garden, while the Bronx drill hall would hold between 22,000 and 25,000. Even in the armory, they said, all the applicants could not be accommodated.

SOLDIER BONUS BILL REPORTED IN SENATE

Washington, April 15.—Report of the soldier bonus bill to the senate by the finance committee today revealed somewhat clearer lines of members on the measure. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, a democratic member of the committee, announced he would present a separate report for democrats asking inclusion in the bill of an option for full cash payments, while Chairman Smoot of the committee, voiced opposition to the measure.

Senator Walsh predicted that, while it was not likely the fight for a full cash payment option would be made a partisan issue, nevertheless most of the democrats and probably some republicans, would support it. Democrats of the house through a special committee appointed to consider the bonus bill when it was before that body approved an option for full cash payment but when they failed to obtain it supported the measure as adopted

The bill as passed by the house and approved with some minor changes by the senate committee provides for 20-year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments only to those veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service credit.

Senator King, Utah, a democratic member of the committee, joined today with Chairman Smoot in opposing the bill, but both admitted that their forces were too slim to prevent its passage by the senate.

BOOTLEG TESTIMONY AT DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION

Washington, April 15.—A tale of bootlegging ventures in Ohio, with sidelights on alleged parole and pardon fixing at the Atlanta federal penitentiary was spread today before the senate committee investigating the department of justice, while for the second time, a witness long sought by its processes entered a flat refusal either to appear or testify.

Howard Mannington, of Ohio, once a resident of the "Little Green House on K street," in Washington, a figure involved in almost every chapter of previous testimony before the committee and who voluntarily returned to the United States from Paris to accept subpoena service in New York, was the witness who refused the committee's behest.

The committee tonight tentatively prepared papers in a proceeding to be defended at least to enforce his attendance. Chairman Brookhart, however, said that Mannington would be instantly released if he cared to claim immunity from examination, since he has been named by several committee witnesses as being a close friend of former Attorney General Daugherty, and sharing payments for liquor permits which got to the hands of New York bootleggers, who received 20-case shipments of whiskey and entertained for the "Columbus crowd."

DEAD MAN WAS TAKEN FROM TRAIN IN PUTNAM

Putnam, April 15.—A man identified by letters on his person as Fred Dailey, of Elm street, Waterbury, was taken from a train here today, dead. He had told the conductor a short while before that he had recently come out of a hospital and was on his way from Waterbury to New Bedford, Mass.

The medical examiner pronounced death due to heart failure. A check book on a bank in Barton, Vt., was found in his pocket and a flask containing liquor, which the medical examiner said the man probably used for a heart stimulant.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church St. Telephone 1023

Rev. F. F. Foshay, pastor of the Baptist church delivered a most interesting talk at the weekly session of Willimantic Rotary club Tuesday noon. Another guest of the club was Dwight Pierce, of Hartford, a relative of Frank M. and Ellison S. Smith.

John F. Ahern was chosen chairman of a committee to make arrangements for local members who will attend the first anniversary celebration of Putnam Rotary club, April 30.

A communication was read from the Norwich club informing the Rotarians here that Ladies' night would be held in Norwich April 23. Ten tickets have been allotted the local organization.

A letter was read from the state educational board for the blind, calling attention to the sale at the Boston Store today (Wednesday) of articles made by blind people.

James P. Mustard, past president, will represent the club as a delegate at the international convention of Rotary, to be held in Toronto in June. "Dick" Dodge, chairman of the committee in charge of boys' week reported that considerable progress was being made and he gave an outline of the program for the week. He requested the co-operation of other organizations in the city in making the week a success.

An invitation was accepted to participate in a parade opening a carnival under the auspices of the American Thread Athletic association. Rev. Mr. Foshay was then introduced by Jim Bath of the entertainment committee. Adjournment was taken at 1.30 o'clock.

L. A. Giroux and E. J. Lapan, who have been awarded the contract for the sale of the city ice filed a $1000 bond Tuesday, as surety that they would abide by the terms of the contract. The committeemen feel confident that all the ice at the municipal plant, some five thousand tons, will be disposed of this year. The contract is effective for one year and the contractors have an option on obtaining it for an additional year, provided they give written notice on or before February 5 next.

Thirty of the thirty-five members of the local postoffice force gathered in the office of the new postmaster, Walter R. King and expressed their regret at the departure of ex-Postmaster John O'Rourke and pledged loyalty to the incoming official. The men who had labored under former Postmaster O'Rourke for the past nine years gave expression of their regard by presenting him a handsome gift, a complete smoking set, novel in its way, a five-foot high brass standard with attachment having holders for pipe, cigarette, cigar and ash tray, with electric light attachment. A beautiful morocco bound case enclosing two choice briar pipes with amber stems was given as part of the equipment with the stand. Hugh M. Smith, dean of the employes, in a very neat rounding out his thirty-first year of service, made the appropriate speech.

The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. O'Rourke, who thanked the employes and refreshed to the happiness of the nine years which he had spent as postmaster. He concluded by wishing Postmaster King much success in conducting the affairs of the office and wishing health and prosperity to the boys of the office. A brief address was also made by Postmaster King. Engineer John N. Williams and Edward Fay, his assistant, then gave former Postmaster O'Rourke a $5 gold piece as a mark of appreciation for his being a "square fellow." Employes who figured in the gifts to Mr. O'Rourke were: Assistant Postmaster Daniel A. Sullivan; City Carriers John N. Smith, Clarence O. Barrows, Dennis Haggerty, Dwight W. Ide, William Harold, George K. Allen, Joseph F. Faulhus, Anson J. Olds, Clarence C. Palmer; substitute Carriers Norman Pulis, William Geer, William Rigney and Henry Ryder; railroad postoffice clerks: A. L. Burdick, star route, Mansfield; Henry Moseley, star route, Scotland; George Dutton mail messenger; Arthur F. Ellsworth and William Cummings, rural free carriers; regular office clerks, J. Cyprian Faulhus, Edward J. Eagan, Louis Moran, Archie Blond, Orlando P. Smith, Joseph R. Morrissey; substitutes, J. Twomey, Maurice King, Charles Perkins. Special Delivery Carrier Stanley Williams.

Louis Henry Titterton, of Andover Hall, Cambridge, Mass., pleaded guilty in police court Tuesday morning and begged the court's pardon for the offense, when charged with driving an automobile without a license. He was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $3.15, which was paid.

Alice Lorraine Rathbun, 19-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rathbun, of Hartford, died at that city recently. The parents have three other children, a daughter and two sons, Gertrude, George and Frank Jr. Burial was in Hartford. Mr. and Mrs. Rathbun formerly resided in Willimantic.

Annie E. Brown, 58, wife of Charles R. Grant, died at St. Joseph's hospital Monday. Mrs. Grant was born in Ledyard, a daughter of C. Jeffery and Phoebe Peckham Brown. Her home was in North Franklin.

The funeral of Mrs. Delia Leyer was held Tuesday morning from the home of her daughter, Mrs. James B. Forgey of 64 Park street. Requiem high mass at St. Mary's church was sung at 9 o'clock. Mrs. J. F. Gaudreau, organist, played Chopin's Funeral March as the body was borne into the church. Several numbers were sung by the quartette of St. Cecilia's choir. A large number of relatives and friends attended. The floral forms were beautiful. Thomas Rowan and Frank Gelinas were flower bearers. The bearers were Charles Montigney, James Summers, Jr., Joseph Sullivan, Thomas Moran, Henry Desormeau and John Moriarty. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery. The Hurteau-Bosse Corp. was in charge of the arrangements.

Monday afternoon, Prudent Guilmette died at St. Joseph's hospital after an illness with pneumonia. He was born in Berthier, Canada, Aug. 8, 1856, a son of Anatasee Guilmette. He is survived by five children, Frank of Central Falls, R. I., Albert of Millbrook, N. Y., Joseph, Mrs. Parse Marcoux and Mrs. Joseph Nagoin, of this city; two sisters, Miss Celina Guilmette and Mrs. Samuel Guilmette of Berthier and eight grandchildren. He was a devout member of St. Mary's church, also a member of the Holy Cross and Sacred Heart societies.

The manufacturing department of the local mills of the American Thread company jumped from a three day to a four-day-a-week working schedule, according to an announcement made Tuesday. The new schedule which will bring joy to the hearts of many a mill worker, will go into effect this week until further notice. The finishing department is now operating on practically a full schedule. The new schedule seems favorable to the coming of better conditions in the textile situation. Thursday afternoon all the departments will close until the following Monday morning, because of Good Friday.

Fathers' Night held at the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday evening, went over the top as regards the success of the affair. Some one hundred boys and their fathers were present. A fine program of entertainment and exhibitions was in charge of Physical Director Leroy A. Dissinger. Luncheon was served.

President M. E. Lincoln presided at the April meeting of Willimantic Welfare Bureau, held Monday evening at the quarters at the organization on Meadow street. The unemployment situation in the city was discussed and urgent cases of need will be investigated when reported to the bureau. The report of the secretary, Miss Elizabeth Anderson was read.

TWELVE LIQUOR JOINTS CLEANED UP TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, April 15.—Willimantic was put through a course of spring cleaning Tuesday, when three groups of federal prohibition and local police officers made the rounds of reputed houses and succeeded in landing evidence in nearly all of twelve liquor joints. The organizing and resulting work of the raiding squad was the aftermath of considerable criticism about town which finally penetrated to the common council chambers, Monday night rumor charging that the city was in a deplorable condition. County Detective William E. Jackson had the goods on several of the places subjected to raids, having secured actual sale evidence on the proprietors during the past few months.

During the absence of Prosecuting Attorney Samuel B. Harvey, who had gone to Rockville, the office of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank P. Fenton was invaded and all necessary warrants were promptly issued.

The evidence consists of any quantity of powerful homebrew, moonshine, mash and other kitchen manufactured concoctions which might be classified as "death on rats." A band of proprietors was placed under arrest and taken to police headquarters to await bonds. All will be presented in the police court this (Wednesday) morning and it is expected that convictions will be secured in every case.

Backed with search warrants, the following officers of the law staged the raids: County Detective William E. Jackson; Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officers William S. Congdon and Stanton L. Briggs and Police Officers Chief Allen MacArthur, Captain Thomas Grady, Lieutenant Frank McLean and Patrolman Arthur Hurley, Edward Leahy and Roderick Larviere. Three automobiles were commandeered for the work.

Shortly before noon surprise visits were made at the home of liquor violators in the Sedom section of the city.

The David Mosier place, 7 Main street, yielded two 26-gallon stills which were torn down by the officers, also sixteen one-gallon bottles, all filled with moonshine, about a hundred empty bottles, a large box of corks and a substantial quantity of mash. The proprietor was taken to the police station, along with the contraband load.

Mosier pleaded leniency in the court about a year ago. He promised at the time that he would never engage in the business again.

While the Mosier home was under scrutiny, another party of the raiding crew was doubling time to the Mike Rosek place at 15 Main street, near the Horseshoe bridge. At this place the officers were just in time to prevent Mrs. Rosek from placing a half pint bottle of moonshine in the innermost regions of her clothing, where it would have been safe from seizure.

The famous "House of David", 36 Chapman street, conducted by Mrs. Mary Nowak was next honored with a visit. Five dozen bottle of home brew were found, also a bottle of strong liquor. Across the street from this place at the Mike Malago home two bushel baskets filled with bottles of home brew were taken by the officers.

Simultaneously, the home of Eva Goldstein, 49 Jackson Place, was entered by officers. Mrs. Goldstein also tried the old stunt of concealing the evidence in "no man's land" and she put up quite a fight when prevented from doing so. An additional charge of resisting an officer was recorded against her. The bottle which she tried to hide contained twelve ounces of home-made gin. The woman was escorted to the police station.

Mrs. Celia Chasen's store, 44 Union street, was next visited. The store proper did not contain any incriminating evidence, but in the woman's home on the floor above the officers found a bottle containing a half pint of what appeared to be a mixture of alcohol and water. Mrs. Chasen upbraided the raiders severely for taking away her home made "rheumatism remedy."

No liquor was found at the store conducted by Joseph Kannell, 33 Bank street, but the proprietor was arrested on a warrant charging him with actual sale made within the past 48 hours. The evidence of the sale is in possession of the officers.

The raiding party failed to secure evidence at a little store conducted by Frank Aramos, 113 Jackson street, opposite St. Joseph's church, but Aramos was placed under arrest on an alleged actual sale charge, for which evidence will be presented in police court today (Wednesday.)

The home of Philip Pagano, 6 Babcock Court, was raided during the noon hour. At this place the officers found four barrels of wine for which Pagano produced a permit. Wine presses and other equipment were about the premises.

The officers returned later and secured some of the wine as samples for analyzing purposes. In a raid at Paganos store on Main street over a month ago a quantity of wine was seized. This has since been tested and found to be 14 per cent. alcohol. It is probable that the wine samples seized Tuesday will contain the same quantity which is an unlawful percentage and grounds for a conviction.

Following a short period of rest, the squadron again set forth in three detachments. Two crews went respectively to the home of W. Andrusavage on Brick Top Road and to the Andrew Klobas place, 11 Chapman street, apparently the word had spread quickly that the broom of the law was being used with vigor about the city, for no evidence was found. The Klobas people said that they had not sold any moonshine in over a month.

The third party had better luck at the home of Daniel Wack, 51 Chapman street. About 50 gallons of mash were found and destroyed by the officers. Sixty bottles of home made beer and a glass jar smelling strongly of liquor were taken as evidence along with a sample of the mash.

Mrs. Chasen and Mosier were released on bonds of $500 each. Mrs. Nowak, Aramos and Mrs. Goldstein were allowed their freedom under $500 bonds each.

The successful raids of Tuesday are most gratifying to the officers and to the general public. Conditions in the city have probably not been worse than those existing in practically every other town in the country, nevertheless, than was room for improvement. County Detective Jackson, the federal officers and members of the police department realized this long since, according to Investigator Jackson, but warrants have been as scarce as hen's teeth in Willimantic and the results have been evident.

WINDHAM

Holy week services at St. Paul's church include morning prayer at 9.30 Good Friday; at 5 p. m., Saturday service in preparation for Holy Communion. Easter Sunday, holy communion at 7 a. m. Evening prayer at 3 o'clock. Sunday school will be omitted.

The mid-week prayer meeting at the Congregational church will be omitted Thursday and instead a union communion service will be held at 7.30 with the branch church in South Windham. Easter Sunday morning the pastor will preach and the choir will be assisted by Bertram R. A. Smith, of Storrs College who will sing two tenor solos. The leader appointed for the Easter L. E. meeting is Alfred P. Abbe.

There were seventeen present at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary society held with Mrs. F. F. Webb at Miss Noales. The devotional exercises were led by the president, Mrs. F. E. Guild. In the absence of the secretary Miss Dorothy Brown, the monthly bulletin of the C. H. M. U. and several letters were read by the vice president, Mrs. S. C. Higbee. Miss Clara Johnson gave the treasurer's report. The president, Mrs. Guild was chosen delegate to the annual meeting of the Connecticut Congregational Home Missionary union in New Haven on the 30th. Mrs. G. W. Clifford gave the fifth chapter of the study book "The Child in America's Future," while the others present served for Tougaloo College. After the current events roll call, the meeting adjourned.

With deep regret, the members of the Congregational church heard their pastor, Rev. A. W. Clifford, read his resignation Sunday morning to take act May 31st, when he will go to Plymouth, Mass. Rev. and Mrs. Clifford have made many friends during their four years residence here.

Where Do You Want Your Car to Perform?
On Paper or on the Road?

PERFORMANCE is now the popular theme in automobile advertising—particularly among the makers of moderately priced sixes.

Over-bold claims and counter claims are being hurled at the public to establish some sort of performance supremacy.

Manufacturers whose engineering staffs have not yet developed a compact, powerful, efficient motor, dwell on the bigness of their power plants.

To impress the layman they print statistics; and the engineer who knows the tendencies of modern motor design, enjoys a smile.

Please forget the statistics—many a perpetual-motion machine performs beautifully on paper.

Please remember this unarguable fact: There is only one place to prove automobile performance, and that is on the highways and up the hills!

If a car takes the hardest, stiffest hill with masterful ease; if it sweeps along at high speeds with Pullman car smoothness; if it can literally leap from a crawl to twenty-five miles an hour, statistics and over-bold claims are unnecessary.

We make the simple statement that, in each and every phase of performance, the Cleveland Six has no equal in its class!

Will you come in and let us convince you? We promise to do it on the road, not with a pad and pencil.

WHY WOMEN LOOK 60 AT 40.

With dark circles under their eyes, sallow complexions, drawn expressions, drooping shoulders, a lagging step, many women of forty have the appearance of women of sixty. In many cases this condition is caused by overwork or neglect of such warning symptoms as headaches, backache, nervousness, displacements, and irregularities which indicate ailments peculiar to women. If all women so afflicted would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound it would restore them to a normal healthy condition, and the premature signs of 45c will soon disappear.

At a date to be announced later, Miss Margaret K. Stack, R. N., will speak on Public Health Nursing, the Need of Special Preparation, the Scope of the Work and Opportunities in the field. Pictures; no admission.

BROADWAY THEATRE

"America", D. W. Griffith's photo-dramatic epic of the Revolutionary days, which has received the most superlative praise ever accorded any motion picture by the New York critics, will have its Norwich premiere at Broadway theatre, for three days beginning Monday, April 21.

The picture is merely an attempt to suggest the great sacrifice made by our forefathers that America might become a free and independent nation. No efforts were spared to have the historical incidents as correct as possible. The villages of Lexington and Concord were designed from authentic drawings and descriptions by writers of the day. The battle lines at Lexington are exact reproductions of the original. In the magnitude of his task, Griffith ever held to historic accuracy with remarkable fidelity.

Audiences are grasped with trembling and thrills as the little village of Lexington, birthplace of American liberty, comes before the eyes, the scenes taken on the very spot where American liberty had its beginning.

Never in filmdom has there been such a spectacle as the ride of Paul Revere. It is the most thrilling episode the screen has ever achieved, without an equal for spectacular dash coupled with tremendous historic significance.

To students of history it will be an inspiration, to the school-boy, it will be an education, and to the man ignorant of the country's early struggles, it will be a revelation.

The great drama will not be seen in any part of this district this year.

BROADWAY THEATRE

Besides an excellent program of 5 acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville the management has also arranged for the showing of an equally strong picture program.

Betty Peggy was the object of a dual love interest during the filming of "The Darling of New York," her first big starring vehicle for Universal—on the set and off.

The tiny starlet is the centre of the entire love interest in the picture. She was only a waif, cast by accident in with a bunch of crooks and gem smugglers. Before she was with them very long they were responding to her every whim, with kiddie-cars and other toys.

"The Darling of New York" is an original story, written especially for Peggy by King Baggot, who directed the picture, and Raymond L. Schrock of the Universal scenario department. It will be shown for the first time locally at the Broadway theatre tomorrow.

Among the principal players in the cast are Gladys Brockwell, Sheldon Lewis, Pat Hartigan, Frank Carvier and Max Davidson and others of equal note.

Backus Hospital Auxiliary Meeting

The first meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the William W. Backus Hospital will be held on Tuesday evening, April 22nd, at the Community House. The president, Mrs. Walter F. Lester, has appointed the following a committee to arrange an interesting program:

Mrs. W. K. Tingley, Miss Elizabeth F. Fuller, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Mrs. Howard L. Stanton, Mrs. Charles A. Saxton, Mrs. Carl W. Brown.

All persons, both men and women, who have the interest of the hospital at heart are expected to make an effort to be present, in order that the new organization may begin its career with energy and enthusiasm.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Double Feature Bill at the Bread

John Gilbert, in Just Off Broadway, his latest starring vehicle heads the double feature bill at the Bread today and Thursday. This picture, conceived by Frederick and Fanny Hatton, is one of the most absorbing dramas of international crooks and the secret service which has come to the screen this season.

Gilbert, as Stephen Moore, a mysterious associate of the members of a band of world-wide counterfeiters, portrays a character which gives him ample opportunity to act. He is as romantic and handsome as ever and as a lover he proved as intrepid as he is fearless in the role of a secret service agent. Marian Nixon, an attractive little brunette, shows that she has dramatic ability, too. Others in the cast are Trilby Clark, Ben Hendricks, Jr. and Pierre Gendron.

Edmund Mortimer is the director. He has produced a thrilling, interesting picture, set in the colorful haunts of Paris, Deauville and Broadway, which scores a well deserved success.

Critical Age is the title of the second feature and is the story of a poor country boy who is a dreamer and loves the great outdoors has a sudden awakening when he finds that he has a rival for the hand of the girl. How he risks his life rescuing her from death in the rapids is entertainingly and thrillingly told in The Critical Age, a Shipman-Hodkinson feature picturized from the famous novel, Glengarry Schooldays, by Ralph Connor. James Harrison, Pauline Garon, Harlan Knight and Wallace Ray are in the cast. The fox news and a comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

PALACE THEATRE

Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Bert Lytell, Richard Bennett, Madge Bellamy and Love.

Five names of international screen and five real stars of the silver sheet.

And all five of them are appearing in a single picture, The Painted City, which is now playing at the Palace theatre the last showing today.

Any one of these five names appearing in the cast of a production, would be sufficient to assure its success. I required considerable inducement to assemble them for one picture; to share the stellar honors with others.

The story was that inducement, aided by the fact that it would be directed by George Fitzmaurice and released by First National.

For years covetous producers had made vain efforts to obtain the picture rights to the story, for its powerful appeal was widespread. Mr. Fitzmaurice was the fortunate bidder, for the author was convinced that he was the best fitted to transfer the tale to the screen.

Filmed in Rome, the locale of the story, The Eternal City has been called the greatest hit of a decade.

Added attraction, Will Rogers in The Cowboy Sheik, Pathe News.

Coming—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Age of Desire

The superficiality of a certain species of women is the theme of The Age of Desire, a First National picture produced by Frank Borzage. The story was written by Dixie Willson and appeared originally in McClure's Magazine.

Janet Loring, the heroine of the tale, was a widow. Penniless, and with a son to care for, she felt rebellious against the pangs of poverty, and became so desperate that she determined to obtain riches, and the happiness which she believed accompanied them, even at the expense of her son. Through her wiles she ensnared a millionaire, and deserted her son to live with him, keeping her parentage a secret from her husband.

Eventually she came to a realization of her selfishness, and she asked her husband for permission to adopt a baby, intending to use this subterfuge to regain possession of her child. But it was too late. When, many years later, she again saw her son he had come to her with criminal intent, unaware of her identity.

Myrtle Stedman has the role of the supercilious mother in The Age of Desire, and Frederick Truesdell and William Collier, Jr., respectively, are the husband and son. Another important member of the cast is Mary Philbin.

STRAND THEATRE

Characterized as the most thrilling motion picture ever woven around life in crookdom, "Through the Dark," featuring Colleen Moore, will have its first presentation in this city on Thursday, when it begins an engagement at the Strand.

"Through the Dark" is a screen version of "The Daughter of Mother McGinn," a "Boston Blackie" story by Jack Boyle, author of "The Face in the Fog" and "Boomerang Bill," both of which pictures met with great success.

In bringing this Jack Boyle story to the screen, the Cosmopolitan Corporation, assembled a brilliant cast of players to appear in support of Miss Moore. Forrest Stanley, who played opposite Marion Davies in "When Knighthood Was in Flower," is cast in the role of "Boston Blackie". Others in the cast are Hobart Bosworth, Margaret Seddon, Eddie Phillips, George Cooper, Carmelita Geraghty, Wade Boteler and Tom Bates.

George William Hill directed "Through the Dark" from the scenario by Frances Marion.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Woof! Woof! Allen hill, over in the town of Brooklyn, has a faunal mystery. To forestall any spoofing, it must be immediately stated that this isn't a hooch story thanks to all the deities of which mankind knows.

There's a strange animal roaming around over in that section, an animal strange to these parts, an animal estimated to weigh as much as 80 pounds, tan color predominating on his hide or fur, whatever it may be, and short-legged and low-hung, like an underslung roadster.

According to Joseph Bouthillier, a responsible farmer who lives on the old Putnam farm on Allen hill, the animal stood in a barway on the hill between the Bouthillier and Benham places, last Friday, when Mr. Bouthillier was driving home from Wauregan about 10.30 at night. At first glance Mr. Bouthillier thought it was his dog and he stopped his machine to call the animal; but at that the strange thing sidled off through a field and was lost to sight in the darkness. For several days prior to this experience Mr. Bouthillier has listened to the calls of a strange animal while he has been at work around his farm. To double-check the story about this strange thing, it may be stated that a sister of Mr. Bouthillier has also seen the beast, early in the morning, while it was near a brook on the farm. A large mouth is one of the characteristics of the strange animal—but he isn't using it to broadcast to the world who or what he is or how he happens to be in a neighborhood where a coon rates as high as an elephant in Africa and where the timid rabbit is in comparison to a lion in the jungle.

Everyone is entitled to just one guess as to what species of animal has roamed into the Allen hill territory. Mr. Bouthillier is certain that it is not a beaver. He is not so certain that it is not a large porcupine. The fact is, he doesn't know and does n't claim to; but he is positive of what he has seen. It certainly isn't a wolf—the legs are too short for that. But there's something over in that country not ordinarily inhabitating the territory. Where is the brave hunter who will solve the mystery?

There appeared to be very general approval Tuesday over the fact that the annual borough meeting Monday evening voted for a better system of street lighting in Danielson, over all the borough. Everyone will share in the better illumination.

The real bright spot, however, will be the business section. On the basis of candle power represented in the present lights as compared to those that are to be installed it will be five times brighter, as 400-candle-power bulbs are to be used.

Samples of these put in service by the lighting company a few weeks ago undoubtedly served to demonstrate to a great many what an improvement, exclusive use of them would bring about. Danielson will be more attractive with the new lights—the best lighted in its history.

As no formal lighting contract exists between the borough and the lighting company, the change from the present system to the improved one can be undertaken at any time. It was stated at the office of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and electric company Tuesday afternoon that the change likely will not be made for about a month.

Installing the new system involves, in the business section, taking down all the brackets and lights now in use and replacing them with new fixtures and lights. The borough system of street lighting also is to be divided into three circuits. The present system is antiquated and in cases of trouble too many lights are out at the same time. Under the new arrangement, it is not likely that more than one lighting circuit will be lost at one time. Eventually, the three circuits will each be divided into sections, so that in cases of trouble it can be quickly located and remedied.

No delay other than that necessary to procure the required equipment and the time taken to install it will be involved.

The additional cost to taxpayers for lighting the borough according to the new program will be only in the neighborhood of 3-4 of a mill.

A petition is being circulated for presentation to the selectmen relative to the improvement of Broad street. It is understood that a considerable number of signatures have been obtained to this petition, which if favorably acted upon, will involve the expenditure of upwards of $3,000, possibly as much as $3500. Broad street has been in poor condition for several years, especially since the decided increase in automobile traffic. Tearing it up last year for the installation of sewer pipes has left the lower section of it in rather bad condition.

Mrs. Orray E. Potter, his sister, has received a message that Herbert Flagg who has been critically ill for weeks, has passed into a state of coma. His condition, at Foxboro, Mass., was regarded critical Tuesday.

Lester Wheeler, who has been employed at the School street garage for several years, is to enter the employ of the Larkin Reed Company.

The annual report of Dr. W. H. Judson, health officer of the borough, shows that there have been twelve cases of scarlet fever in the borough during the past year.

Tomorrow, Holy Thursday, will be marked by special religious observances in Dayville.

New rails have been put in south almost to Dayville from Putnam, where the work has begun about ten days ago. In another week the new rails will have been laid as far south as this place.

A week from Thursday is the date set for a special town meeting that will pass upon the matter of authorizing a general audit of the books of the town over a period of five years past.

The first of the spring plowing in surrounding territory is being done on farms where quick drying areas have arrived at condition to be worked.

Collections by the police for night-watching and [illegible] amounted to $973 during the past year.

Following funeral services in Providence, the body of Miss Mabel [illegible], who died in Sawtelle, Cal., was brought to Dayville Tuesday afternoon, for burial in High street cemetery.

Holy Thursday services are to be held at St. Alban's church tomorrow.

Tuesday morning the temperature dropped to the freezing point and winter wraps were again in vogue.

About 4% mill of the taxes assessed in the borough goes to meet the interest charges on the borough indebtedness.

Recently a mission was conducted in Sterling by Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., who is stationed here when not engaged in preaching special mission services.

McGregor Woman's Relief corps has a meeting scheduled for this (Wednesday) evening.

PUTNAM

Nothing very sensational developed here Tuesday, by which time the fact that a civil suit had been brought against four members of the police department by Mrs. Lea Smith had been broadcasted to the world. The city was engaged in digesting this action and others involving court procedure that seemed more or less in relation to it.

The civil suit against the officers being more or less of a public nature, it commanded more attention than such suits usually do. Expression of opinion on the matter was given free rein. The affair has stirred Putnam as it has not been stirred in many years.

Tuesday was a great night at the State Trade school. It was the annual open night and it attracted to the institution the usual large gathering. The deep interest with which many inspected the trade school equipment and what is being done by the students without doubt will be the means of bringing other students into the institution.

Outstanding was the practicality of the entire system of instruction, fitting boys to earn their living in good trades and girls to be masters of the art of domestic science.

There was a special lighting arrangement at the trade school and the plant otherwise made attractive for the occasion. The assembly hall of the high school, which provides joint courses with the trade school, was interestingly fitted up to show an apartment consisting of a kitchen, dining room, parlor and sleeping rooms, this a feature of the domestic science part of the show. Products of the sewing and cooking classes were for sale

This will be Guest night at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association. Each member will bring a guest. An orchestra assembled by Samuel Rich from several small orchestras will play during the evening.

The evening's program has been arranged as follows: March, On Parade, orchestra; solo, Wallace Smith; Dreamy Town, teachers' chorus; Liszt Transcription, Mrs. Nelson Lown; Plantation Medley, O. South, orchestra; Roses of Picardy, duet, Mrs. W. A. Wheaton, Miss Katherine Byrne; Stars Brightly Shining, teachers' chorus; Dance of the Clowns, orchestra. Life size silhouettes of the teachers in Putnam's schools will be used as a feature of the evening's arrangements. The person guessing correctly the greatest number of silhouettes will be rewarded with a prize. Punch and wafers will be served during the evening.

Chief Engineer Ralph E. Thurston, of Putnam's fire department, has a watchful eye out for fire hazards. Recently he discovered some wooden barrels into which hot ashes were being regularly dumped. These barrels were in the rear of one of the buildings in the very heart of the city—in a district—where some disastrous fires have occurred in recent years, and forthwith he ordered the wooden barrels removed and metal ones substituted.

Wooden barrels as receptacles for hot ashes are everywhere considered a dangerous proposition. The risk is that a fire originating in them, as is often the case will spread until it inflicts widespread destruction on valuable property.

For the safety of the property of this city, which has suffered from fire losses in the last decade, all of the wooden ash barrels and boxes should be done away with

Business depression throughout the country does not seem to lessen the amount of mail matter coming into this city. In so far as number of pieces and pounds go, the carriers are about as heavily burdened as ever. Due to the closing of the Mannasset mills and the moving out of some families who lived in that village of the city, less first class matter is distributed in that particular quarter, but enough second and third class matter is coming through to make up that deficiency. A real mail drive is on by hundreds of advertisers doing a nation-wide business in an effort to boost their sales during the spring period of the year.

Pomfret Manor inn again fully opened for the season. Banquets for private parties, wedding parties, clubs, fraternities etc. Splendid cuisine, attractive surroundings.—adv.

Interior work on the new Putnam Savings bank building is far advanced. When completed and ready for occupancy some time during May this building will not only provide very modern quarters for the banking institution that has erected it, but also for offices.

George Potvin, Armand Magnan and Joseph Plessis will be the delegates representing the Putnam St. John Baptist society at the convention of Franco-American societies of Connecticut to be held in this city June 2-3. The convention will bring about 200 delegates here.

Mrs. Clarence Willis is chairman of a committee of St. Phillip's Guild that is making arrangements for a whist to be given later.

A brush fire near Modoc lodges Monday evening attracted attention from this city and other towns in the vicinity.

Relatives here heard that Herbert Flagg, formerly employed as a compositor in a newspaper office here, was dangerously ill in Foxboro. Mr. Flagg who has been employed on a newspaper at Franklin, Mass., has been in a critical state of health for several weeks.

All idea of building a race track here and having Putnam included in a circuit with Woonsocket, Windsor, Cherry Park and other places has been abandoned, at least for the present. There was considerable enthusiasm for such a project during the winter

Good Friday in this city will be observed by many as a holiday, as has been the custom for many years. There will be special church services on that day.

William Wheaton and Clinton S. Andem have been drawn for jury service at the present term of the Windham county superior court, sitting in Willimantic. They represent Putnam in the panel.

James O'Hara and Marcella O'Hara of Woodstock Valley having sold their farm this week to John and Mary Krushefsky will go to New York, where Mr. O'Hara is following his trade as a mason.

F. S. Bruce was reported Tuesday as being seriously ill.

Herbert J. Smith, member of the water commission of the city government, is now able to sit up for a time after having been seriously ill for several weeks.

Putnam attorneys will be in Willimantic today (Wednesday) attending a session of the superior court at which criminal matters are receiving attention.

JEWETT CITY

With the possible exception of Raymond Ditmars of the New York Zoological society, Old Cluey Watson is the best authority on the reptile life in this end of the state. Cluey has fished for trout in the brooks down below Mt. Misery, where the rattlesnakes infested the locality through which Willow brook runs. Both he and the late Calvin Wilcox, who used to accompany him on these excursions, were obliged to wear white ash bark tied around their ankles, as a sure preventive against the rattlers' attacks. He tells of a black snake hunting trip that he made some years ago in company with Joseph M. Burdick, then chief of police of the city of Norwich. This peculiar hunt took place on the south side of Lambert mountain, that snows up to good advantage, when seen from the Bethel meeting house, and is situated off east of the lesser Brown mountain.

Last week Old Cluey was down in that section to visit a friend, William Billings, manager of the farm belonging to William H. Oat of Norwich. A part of Lambert mountain is within the survey of this farm. While there, Cluey casually inquired as to how the Lambert mountain blacksnakes were getting along.

Mr. Billings was fully equipped to give all the necessary information, for a week ago Saturday, the day it was so warm, he had been over to see if the population of Lambert mountain had awakened as yet. They had, and a few less than a thousand, some six feet long, were right around on the job, disporting themselves in the warm sun.

Now then, after many years, another hunt is contemplated, and the Lambert mountain wigglers may soon expect sundry doses of carefully prepared spring medicine, applied through the barrel of a shotgun.

Thomas Moraney, who lost an even two quarts of blood last week, as the result of a gash in his arm, which severed an artery, may get a new job. Tom is of the sturdy sort and is around as though nothing had happened.

The new job may include furnishing a Class A sanguinary fluid for transfusion purposes. A man in New York last week received $1,500 for two quarts of blood. Those figures look agreeable to Thomas, who is now a plumbers' helper employed by J. H. Tracy.

A Jewett City man has a Dahell's almanac of an even fifty years ago. Within its well preserved pages is the advertisement of N. S. Gilbert of Norwich, with the top line, reading in large letters, "At Head of Tidewater." The man who owns it was alive then. He now wonders, if Uncle Sam doesn't dredge out the Thames channel pretty soon, how long the Tidewater part will apply to what was then called the "Landing."

John LaFavre, has the foundation laid, for a two-story tenement house on North Main street. Mr. Bean, for that is the name by which he is known to most people, will occupy one of the tenements. He also owns the big double tenement house, next to his new one, which is valuable property. His double lot is between the property of Charlie Butts and Earl S. Hiscox.

Tuesday, being like a summer day, was marked with real spring activity all about the town. Several gardens are already plowed and early peas are breaking ground. One older resident said Tuesday, that he was glad to have lived to smell the smoke of a garden bon-fire again, adding that no spring medicine equals it.

A man was up through Stone Hill fishing last Sunday, and over east of the reservoir ridge he says he found the busiest man, in New London county. Calling no names, he says the man had the salt rheum, and while down to the town to get some Poslam, he bought a Waterbury watch. Now when he isn't scratching himself he is winding his watch.

Easter suits pressed for men [illegible] women at Gittleman's.—adv.

E. W. Gray of the A. O. U. W. and Dr. Frank D. Browning, master of Mt. Vernon lodge, have received notification of the death of David A. S. Money, 78, in Eden Park, R. I., April 5, his funeral being on the following Thursday. Mr. Money was for many years prominent in the Griswold side of Voluntown, where he was superintendent of the Carroll mill. This large stone mill, known for more than a half century in this section, is now the property of the Briggs Manufacturing company.

Mr. Money was for years a familiar figure in Jewett City, and at the time of his death was a member of Mt. Vernon and the A. O. U. W. He lived with his daughter, Mrs. Caleb Kenyon.

The Peddlers' Parade, which took place in the Congregational church vestry Monday evening, proved very profitable, as well as diverting. As Miss Irene Stewart played a march, the peddlers marched about the room with their wares, and then seated themselves on the platform. Each was costumed for the part, and as the different peddlers exhibited their wares or trade, each told in verse what he or she had to sell, and why. Four little flower maidens were Edith Munn, Charlotte Albertine, Janet Wilcox and Olga Zegeer, who sang together. Ruth Munn and Margery Webster were tambourine girls, Russell Carpenter a bootblack, Donald Nicols the orange and banana man, William Stebbins, the peanut man; Earl Robinson, a blind musician; Walter Richardson, the corn doctor; Christine Marshall, the pieswoman; Loretta Alley, a cake vendor; Marian Jeffers, the candy seller; Bessie Thompson, a fortune teller; Doris Johnson, the doughnut girl; Ethelle Parkhurst, the Spanish girl; Ethel Fiske, the "poor widdy" popcorn woman and Sadie Thompson, the apple and pear woman who had "fourteen children and lived up nineteen flights of stairs." After this programme Charlotte Albertine, in costume, sang a Japanese song. Easter plants from Whiting's greenhouses were sold by Irene Stewart; homemade candy was sold by Bernice Wolf and Ethel Fiske. Anna Littlefield and Ethel Thompson had a flower garden, the roots of which were mystery packages. Cake and coffee were sold under the direction of Mrs. Walter Marshall, Mrs. John Stewart and Mrs. Frank Robinson. Miss M. A. Burdick, chairman of the Christian Endeavor society, flower committee, arranged the programme. The net receipts will be about $30.

Easter sale, plants and cut flowers, beginning Wednesday. Maynard Blk, Whiting Greenhouses.—adv.

Hugh McLaughlin, one of the three Civil war veterans surviving in this town, was very much pleased Saturday when he received a basket of fruit from Sedgwick W. R. C. of Norwich. Mr. McLaughlin is confined to his room by the infirmities of age, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Velo Sharkey.

Miss Sue L. Gallup's name was omitted from among those who sent flowers to the funeral of George A. Haskell.

Mrs. Arthur Strickland and three children of Middletown are visiting at Mrs. H. E. Paul's.

St. Mary's parochial school closes today (Wednesday) for a ten days' Easter recess.

PLAINFIELD

The April meeting of the Lincoln club was held in the vestry of the Congregational church, Monday evening. Supper was served by the C. J. S. Sunday school class at 6 o'clock. The menu was as follows:

Roast Beef
Potato, Mashed Turnip
Creamed Carrots
Rolls
Tapioca Pudding
Cookies Coffee

The coffee was furnished by a representative of the Cheek-Neal Coffee company, manufacturers of Maxwell House coffee, who made the coffee, and served it to the diners. He also supplied the waitresses with aprons, and each of the men was presented cards of matches. The coffee was voted delicious.

After the supper, the business meeting was called to order by the president of the club, Alfred Ashley. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard. The program, which was in charge of Ray W. Greene, and Christopher Krauss, included a violin solo by Lawrence Krauss, accompanied by Mrs. Krauss, and a vocal solo by James Royle. The feature of the evening was an act by Myles Standish of Providence, who kept his audience in continuous laughter, with his witty impersonations, and his contribution to the program was enjoyed to the highest degree. The men showed their appreciation of his performance by a rising vote of thanks.

This meeting is the last regular meeting of the year, until October, excepting Ladies' Night, which will be held in May.

The meeting of Plainfield Parent-Teacher association is to be held at the Community House, this (Wednesday) evening. The feature of the program is to be the exhibition of the gymnasium work by a class of grammar school students, under direction of the supervisor of physical training, Miss Nelsie Hartwell.

The first of the mid-week meetings, in preparation for Easter, was held in the vestry of the Congregational church, Tuesday evening. The subject of the sermon by Rev. William Fryling, was Abounding Grace. A solo was given by Mrs. Cecil L. Butler, with Miss Helen Gallup pianist. The second meeting is to be held this (Wednesday) evening, the sermon being by Rev. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn. The soloist will be Mrs. Percy Wilcox, with Earle Butler pianist. At the meeting Thursday evening, the Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered, this service taking the place of the May communion. At this meeting the fifteen candidates for admission to the church, will receive communion, preparatory to their reception into the church Easter Sunday. Rev. William J. Reynolds of Lisbon, will assist the pastor at this service, which will be held in the auditorium of the church.

There was a serious fire in Oneco Thursday, when a brush fire, which started in a way known to no one, set fire to a house and the shed, destroying both. The house was on the farm known as the Love place. The house contained a great deal of furniture, and the shed all the farming implements of the occupant, everything being a total loss. The damage done by the brush fire alone was considerable, about two hundred acres of land being burned over. The farm, which contained a large quantity of hay, and in which was all the livestock kept on the place, was saved after a great deal of hard work by neighbors. The farm is just over the state line between Rhode Island and Connecticut, on the state highway between Oneco and Greene, R. I.

A Better Clay

White, refined—amazingly effective
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I owe my youthful beauty largely to a super-clay, perfected by French experts.

The first clays I used were crude and muddy, as many clays are still. But they multiplied my beauty. The clay I now use has been perfected by 20 years of scientific study. It is white, refined and dainty. The results it brings are amazing, compared with old-type clays.

Now, after 40 years as a stage star, I still look a girl of 19.

Every woman's duty

The use of clay is every woman's duty to herself. No girl can look her best without it, no woman can keep her youth.

Look about you. Note the wonderful complexions due to clay. The mothers who look like daughters.

Clay purges the skin of all that clogs it—the cause of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles. Many women, with one application, seem to drop ten years. No woman can afford to miss the benefits of clay.

Manifold effects

But my new-type clay does vastly more than others. I call it my White Youth Clay. And I have arranged so all who wish may use it.

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream, which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

I can do no woman a greater kindness than to urge her to use this clay. Go try it. See the new complexion that it brings. If lines have come, watch them disappear. You will ever thank me for telling you about it. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

THE EXCLUSION ACT.

It is not exactly a good impression that is created by the action of the house and then the senate in upholding the exclusion feature of the alien act by which the Japanese would be kept out of the country and the "gentlemen's agreement" would be terminated.

Much help may have been given by the communication of the Japanese ambassador, or at least much stress may be laid upon the fact that it was presented in the manner and words that it was, in connection with the seeming resentment that crops out in the almost unanimous support of the exclusion provision. It was held up as being a veiled threat to this country.

On that point opinions may differ, but it cannot be forgotten that the secretary of state gave warning to congress some time ago, before the Japanese ambassador's communication, that the proposed exclusion was inadvisable. The attitude which this country has taken regarding the Japanese has always been bothersome to Japan. There is no question but what we have a right to regulate our immigration and to say who can come in and who must stay out. That point is recognized very plainly in the ambassador's protest when he says there is no question as to our sovereign right to regulate immigration. His purpose and the purpose of his country was to endeavor to get careful consideration from this government before action was taken upon this matter which is disturbing to Japan. Restrictions are maintained by Japan Japan expects that other nations will do the same thing but in this instance under the provisions of the existing "gentlemen's agreement" there are restrictions, there is avoided the irritation that would accompany exclusion and there is preserved that good relationship between the nations which has hitherto been considered of no little importance.

Congress seems to have entirely disregarded the advice of the state department and to have been guided by imaginary troubles rather than by the actual facts.

SAFE DRIVING.

"As no two witnesses to an accident are able to exactly describe how it happened, so no two drivers exactly view an emergency in the same way. The only safe course to pursue is to drive in such a manner as to be able to stop within the zone of safety constantly confronting each driver every foot of a journey." That is the advice given by the Automobile Legal association which also insists that every pedestrian should be considered by auto drivers as deaf, dumb and blind. If such advice were followed there can be little question but what there would be a marked reduction in the number of accidents. There is responsibility resting upon all who use the highway in any manner, but the auto driver has reason to be on the alert to avoid emergencies instead of creating them. It may mean the sacrifice of a few minutes of time, but in most cases this would mean nothing to the driver in the average accident. Speed and irresponsible driving are invariably unjustified.

The association is organized for dealing with trouble when it develops but its preference is that there should be none, or at least that the accident phase of its business should be eliminated. To make driving as nearly safe as possible, it makes these suggestions:

Consider yourself as the person wishing to cross the street in front of your car. Then act as you would have that other driver act.

If you have reason to believe there is the slightest risk in doing what you are about to do, think quickly of the possible result, and stop before it is too late. This covers hundreds of risky situations.

If children are seen ahead of you about the street or sidewalks, call on every bit of reserve you possess, slow your car, especially if other cars are present, and watch the children's movements to almost the exclusion of all else. You must reason, anticipate and act for them. Save them from injury at all hazards. If every driver will do these things to the best of his ability, and give proper consideration at all times to the erratic personality of foot travelers, accidents will lessen.

Well may this be heeded, but it cannot be overlooked that those crossing or using the streets afoot must give some thought to their own safety.

PROTECTING THE FISH.

Fish is a subject that is quite general in the public mind just at the present time, for if all do not care for the sport of fishing most all are interested in the stories or the importance of fish as a food.

For that reason, more than the members of the Izaak Walton league are interested in the statements that were made before its convention at Chicago this week relative to the manner in which certain fish are being driven from the rivers and waters where they were formerly found in great numbers and the number to be had is seriously depleted.

Is it because there have been such great raids upon the fish and such wastes, or because we have failed to surround the fishing industry with adequate protective safeguards that we are facing today the elimination of many fish? Is it getting to be much the same situation in regard to fish that it is relative to forests in this country? Are we burning the candle at both ends and are we making no provision for preventing the inevitable?

According to the secretary of commerce salmon, shad and sturgeon have been practically eliminated from the Atlantic coast while several other varieties have been greatly reduced in numbers, the deep sea fishing suffering, though perhaps not as seriously as that in the rivers. And as the amount of fish decreases the result is always reflected in the price.

Excessive fishing is not given as the cause for the situation. Rather is it attributed to the effects of pollution in the rivers where much fish was available, while in the deep waters serious effects upon the fish come from the practice of discarding so much oil waste into the sea.

In the opinion of Secretary Hoover interstate and international compacts are necessary to offset the existing situation. Others have struck at the same conditions with none too effective results thus far. Whether the Izaak Walton league can give the needed impetus to the situation remains to be seen. The folly of delaying action must be apparent.

WHAT GRASS FIRES DO.

What the danger is from grass and brush fires and what damage they do is repeatedly illustrated in most every community at this season of the year, when a few days of brisk wind or warm sun makes the leaves, the dry grass and underbrush just the right kind of fodder for the flames once they get started.

A grass fire was responsible for the destruction of the exhibition hall, part of the pavilion seats, one stable and other buildings at Narragansett Speedway, Cranston, R. I., this week resulting in a loss of $20,000. It was one of those fires which might easily have been prevented had there been the proper care exercised in connection with the burning of the grass.

The existence of the material that burns so quickly is something which cannot be prevented. It is the result of the processes of nature. Prevention of fires through its removal is out of the question. What is needed is the exercise of care in the use of firebrands in connection therewith. It is no secret as to what is likely to happen when a match is dropped into leaves and dry grass when there is a brisk wind blowing.

The fires that are started intentionally, or unintentionally through carelessness cause the loss of millions of dollars each year, to say nothing of the lives sacrificed thereby and the waste that is entailed. And it is not buildings alone but woodland that suffers heavily at this season of the year.

A BASIS FOR AGREEMENT.

It did not require long for the reparations commission to accept the report of the Dawes committee. It recognized its merits and presented them to the respective countries. That there should be an endorsement of them by the nations concerned is believed.

Whether it is with surprise or not there cannot fail to be gratification over the attitude that is expressed in Berlin. The disposition of Germany to accept the report as a basis for parley is good as far as it goes. It would be much better if it means a full acceptance. In the meantime, however, much the same attitude is being displayed among the allies. Thus far there appears to be no disposition to kick over the traces. The allies have the opportunity to get together once more upon the terms as set forth by the experts and among them there is evidence of such a purpose.

The situation in Europe because of the reparations situation is such that the sooner it can be ended the better for all. Straight thinking and straight acting are now called for. There has been an investigation for the facts and the Dawes committee has presented the situation and shown how Germany can pay, and the methods for stabilizing conditions in that country have been carefully outlined.

The plan is not solely for the purpose of a talkfest. There is the foundation if not the actual structure for rehabilitation. The way to meet the situation has been set forth and there should be no unnecessary delay in making the most of the valuable service.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Some people are never satisfied with the weather until the mosquito season arrives.

Congress has brought enough disfavor upon itself without trying to rebuke the president.

The man on the corner says: The casualty list in the fly-swatting campaign continues short.

Even though the reparations commission has accepted the experts' report, the hardest job is yet to come.

There cannot be much surprise over lack of law enforcement when prohibition agents are caught with rum running operators.

Ponder well on the statement by the president that if there were more law observance there would be less need of law enforcement. It is golden advice.

Those who are pushing the investigations at Washington to the point of overflow don't seem to realise that the public is getting sick and tired of such tactics.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania shows anxiety over federal matters but he displays no interest in forcing Pennsylvania to do its part in straightening out the coal difficulties.

When it is claimed that in other states than New England practically all the ice used is artificial it would be interesting to know by how much that has decreased the cost of living.

Knowing that Senator Coupens and his former partner, Henry Ford, are not bosom friends, the former opposes Secretary Mellon because the latter endorses him and his tax reduction plan.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

Yesterday when Betty and I were buying some prizes for a mah jong party that she and I are going to give next week at her house, we happened upon a wonderful sale of fur coats. I suggested that we try on the most attractive of the garments.

"But why Lucile?" asked Betty. "We aren't thinking of getting fur coats. I'm thinking of spring clothes now."

"We might find some marvelous bargains. You know, Betty, at this time of the year the merchants will sell furs at any price rather than keep them over. Just look at that luscious light brown caracul with the stunning brown squirrel collar and cuffs! Don't you wish to see how you'd look in a handsome garment like that?"

Betty's eyes sparkled when she saw herself in that long, slim-lined coat, which the saleswoman said was a Jenny model. "I must take it off quick," she said, "before I'm tempted."

"Do you realize that this coat was originally priced at $660, and now it is only $300?" asked the saleswoman. "If you need a fur coat, here's an exceptional chance to get one."

"But I don't need one," murmured Betty weakly.

"Your old seal is direfully shabby, dear," I remarked. But perhaps there's another you'd like better."

"Oh no. If I were buying one this is just what I'd like. But I haven't any idea of getting a coat now."

"I'm afraid you'll regret it if you don't take this coat," said the saleswoman. "Doesn't she look beautiful in it?" she turned to me and I nodded.

"Do you know, Lucile, I just believe I'll ask Bob tonight if I can have it. I simply love it. Do you think you could keep it until early tomorrow morning?"

"We aren't permitted to save the coats in this sale, but I'll hang it away out of sight and perhaps it won't be sold. I'll do my best."

"Oh, thank you ever so much," cried Betty. "You're awfully kind and I feel almost sure that my husband will approve of my buying it."

Then I tried on several coats, but none especially attracted me and it was not until after Betty and I had separated that I went back and tried on the caracul. Never in all my life that I had on such a ravishingly becoming wrap. The colors of the fur just suited my auburn hair and I could not hold seeing at a glance that I looked a great deal nicer in it than did Betty.

Unfortunately, father is out of town, so I dashed over to Uncle Bob's office and told him that he must lend me $300 so that I could get the coat at once. I said that I could pay him all but $50 right away, as I had two $100 bonds and $50 in the savings bank, which I had been saving toward a trip to Europe, which I began to fear would never become a reality.

"I'll pay you the other $50 just as soon as I can. Dad will probably advance it on my allowance," I said.

"Your cheeks are pink, Lucile, when you get excited," said Uncle Bob, looking at me admiringly. "I wonder wonder whether they'd get real crimson if I suggested giving you that last $50."

"Oh, you darling!" I cried. "You're the best uncle in the world."

Betty telephoned me from downtown this morning and she appeared to be almost in a rage. "I was just horribly disappointed," she said, "when I found that caracul coat was sold and I learned that you had bought it, Lucile. I could hardly believe you would do such a thing. Bob told me last night that you were getting a new coat and that he had helped you out with it, but I never dreamed that it was the one I wanted. I think it was just—just despicable of you!"

"But, Betty, dear, you see when I tried it on, just for amusement, I found it was so much more becoming to me than to you that I felt sure you would not be satisfied with it after all. With your lovely golden hair you ought to have a darker fur that would contrast."

"Do not let us discuss the matter further," she said icely. —Chicago News.

PADEREWSKI'S THUMBS "TOO STUBBY."

Ignas Jean Federewski changed his plans for life several times, and at each important starting post he was told that he was not qualified to accomplish what he desired.

Born on a farm in Poland, he was three years old when his father was exiled to Siberia. He inherited his musical talent from his mother, and she died when he was a child, so he was taught by decrepit itinerants.

Sent to Warsaw Conservatoire, when 12, to learn composition, he wanted to study the piano, and his teacher said that his "thumbs were too stubby and his fingers were not suited," so he had "better play a horn." In his first public recital he could not play the difficult passages, so improvised.

At 16, teaching from morning to night, poverty compelled a concert tour, and 80 performances netted a total of $90. He was married at 19, and a widower, with an invalid son, at 20.

Paris and London received the pianist with indifference, then enthused. America welcomed him. Then came world success and prosperity. He retired to his beautiful home in Switzerland.

The war began and Poland suffered. He played and pleaded for his country. Statesmen thought the "pianist-beggar" of Poland not equipped for statesmanship, but he raised funds, united factories and organized armies.

Peace came, he again retired, and Poland called him to be Premier. Pilsudski had made himself Chief of State and Paderewski's life was threatened several times. At Versailles he signed the treaty that made Poland free, then reorganized his country's finances.

Back to Switzerland once more, to rest, and he was called to Spa after Pilsudski's defeat, and saw part of his then discredited country ceded to the Czechs.

Again in retirement, he suddenly realized that nearly all his fortune, gathered in 30 years of hard-earned success, had been given for Poland.

At 63, after six years away from the platform, he surely could not play or attract audiences, critics said.

But his tour was an ovation and a financial success never known before by an instrumentalist.

NEW BOOKS

Six Days, by Elinor Glyn. Cloth 284 pages, 12 mo. Published by the J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

Mrs. Glyn is a writer whose skill in portraying the emotions of love and passion has made a strong appeal. In Six Days she recounts the thrilling romance of two young Americans in France. David Lamont and Laline Lester while touring the battlefields are entombed in an abandoned dugout by an explosion. With them is an impromptu guide in the person of an old French priest, who, when the explosion occurs, is severely injured. Lament had met Laline in America shortly before leaving for France on a secret government mission and had crossed on the same boat with her. His feelings toward her at first had been amused contempt, but this on more extended acquaintance changed into one of irresistible attraction. Faced with the possibility of death he realizes the depth of his love. Days of dreadful trial follow for the man and girl lightened only by the joy of their great love. Rescue comes in the nick of time when both have abandoned hope and are barely conscious.

When Lament regains his strength he finds himself torn between love and duty. In the end his sense of duty prevails, and denied the opportunity of seeing Laline, he leaves for the Balkans on his mission. Fate, however, plays one of those tragic tricks which cannot be foreseen, with the result that Laline is plunged into the depths of despair. The future for her grows darker until it seems naught but lasting sorrow remains, but it leads up to a dramatic climax that thrills. It is an intensely human story of six days of love in the very face of death.

Patriotism of the American Jew. By Samuel Walker McCall. Cloth, 288 pages, including appendix. Published by Plymouth Press, Inc., New York. Price $2.50.

This volume is the result of a long search on the part of the author in what he considered a supreme duty to his country—collating, confirming, making available, a historical survey of the Jews of America, "their part in the development of our history and their established title to all the rights of citizenship."

Manifestly, though the name of Henry Ford does not anywhere appear in the dignified exposition the former governor of Massachusetts had much in mind the lurid outbursts of that publicist. In opposition thereto the author says: In opposition thereto I have chiefly concerned myself with the accusation that the Jew can be true to no country and is lacking in the capacity of patriotism. I have thought the best way of dealing with this and similar charges was to point to what individual Jews had done and from that to derive the characteristics applicable to the race as a whole. This process is more rational than to have recourse to the imagination and produce from it some race trait by which all of its members are to be judged. When a fault is shown by a Jew it is because he is a Jew; in the case of other men the race is not mentioned. For instance if a Jew is charged with treason the indictment is made to lie against the whole race; but in the case of Benedict Arnold he is not imputed to the English race and certainly not as a representative. Not the least of the wrongs inflicted upon the Jew is that he is judged as one of a mass and not as an individual.

Joined in the McCall work is Harvard's great leader, President Emeritus Eliot. His contribution is an enthusiastic "Foreword" in which, hailing the author's service as fine citizenship, he appeals that the governor be widely hearkened to by the thinking people of the United States "particularly by those who are in the habit of trying to take an active part in the formation of a wise public opinion."

Portland Cement Prices; Their Basis, Character and Present Position. By Henry Parker Willis and John R. B. Byers. Cloth, 125 pages. Published by The Ronald Press Company, New York. Price $1.25.

This volume deals with a detailed analysis of the current position of prices and price levels in the Portland cement industry. The opinions of the authors are offered as the result of a careful examination of price quotations as well as of data obtained from all accessible sources.

It gives the history, nature and organization of the industry, sets forth the economic ground for the uniformity of cement prices, presents the question of fairness and reasonableness of cement price levels, discloses the earnings of leading cement companies and furnishes comparative price tables for Portland cement and other building materials.

Many a genius thinks that he has discovered a flying machine until he tries it.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

At the Tumbled Down House

"Wear your last year's bonnet
With the faded ribbon on it;
Don't you buy a single thing,
But save up for the wedding ring."

Sang Grandmother Magpie, tightening the strings on her three-and-a-half-year old bonnet and poking one of her claws through a hole in her raiment.

"I haven't bought anything at the Three-in-One Cent Store this spring," answered Little Jack Rabbit, swinging his red striped candy cane up and down and wiggling his pink nose 12 times. After that he scratched his left ear with his right-hind foot and Old Mother Mischief didn't know what to say, she was so puzzled wondering what the little rabbit would do next.

"Honk! honk! honk!" went the horn and Uncle Lucky, the dear old gentleman rabbit drove up in his Luckymobile.

"Gracious me!" exclaimed Grandmother Magpie, "How you startled me! I'm not used to new-fangled things like Luckymobiles." And the old lady magpie folded her shawl around her shoulders and looked scornfully at Uncle Lucky.

"My dear ma'am," said the old gentleman rabbit, "people with wings have little cause for worry; but when one has to depend on rheumatic legs, I tell you there's nothing better than an automobile."

But Grandmother Magpie only shook her head and flew away. As soon as the little bunny had hopped into the Luckymobile, away they went, Uncle Lucky with his old wedding stovepipe hat and blue silk polkadot handkerchief and Little Jack Rabbit with his knapsack and striped candy cane.

By and by, after a while they came to a flagpole on the top of which waved Old Glory. Just as dear Uncle Lucky had taken off his old wedding stovepipe hat to give three cheers, all of a sudden a regiment of bunny Boy Scouts jumped out of a fort and cheered.

"Hurrah! Come over here boys and I'll give you all some lollypops," shouted the old gentleman rabbit.

Pulling a big box from under the seat, he handed every one a pink, green or white lollypop. Then, starting up the Luckymobile, away went the little bunnies, and after a while maybe a mile, he and his bunny nephew came to an old broken down house by the roadside.

The roof had fallen in. The front door hung on one hinge and the glass in the windows all broken to bits. From an old apple tree nearby lots of bad boys had thrown green apples at the windows.

"Let's pick some roses," said Uncle Lucky, hopping out of the Luckymobile and up to the old house where a big red rose vine climbed over the little front porch.

All of a sudden, after he had picked a lovely nosegay, a voice from inside the little old house asked:

"Why do you pick my roses and take them far away?
They are the only lovely things that I have left today."

And in the next story you shall hear who it was who spoke in rhyme.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Elwood Mead, the new commissioner of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, has had wide experience as an irrigation and reclamation expert in the service of the American government, and also in Australia; where he served for some years as consulting engineer for waterworks and irrigation companies. His is an interesting case of specialization in the engineering profession winning for its practitioner adequate academic and professional honors. Purdue University, Indiana, and the State College of Iowa gave him his technical education in the broad outlines of his future calling. He then became a civilian aide to the United States Army engineers, and later shifted to teaching at Colorado college for a time. For many years he was state engineer of the state of Wyoming, for 10 years was head of an investigation commission of the Department of Agriculture that had special oversight of irrigation and drainage, and then went to the University of California as professor of the institutions and practice of irrigation.

Stories That Recall Others

Not to be Outdone

It was the last day of school before the annual spring vacation and a teacher was having little success with a class whose thoughts were bent more on the vacation than on studies. With the training of a first rate school mistress she feigned that all was well but her, but school children are not "fooled" by a teacher.

Just as the last class of the day adjourned she made this remark to the pupils:

"I hope you all have a very enjoyable spring vacation, and hope that when you come back you will be in your right minds—"

"Same to you," the children replied in unison.

A woman's train of thought is apt to run toward the dressmaker.

NEW BUILDING LOANS BY NORWICH ASSOCIATION

Several applications for new building loans were received and favorably acted upon at the regular monthly meeting of the Norwich Building and Loan association Tuesday evening in the chamber of Commerce rooms, President E. O. Rodier presiding. The meeting discussed the plans for the annual convention of the Connecticut League of Local Building and Loan Associations to be held in Waterbury, May 24. The local association will send three delegates to be appointed by President Rodier. The meeting adjourned about 9.45 o'clock.

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED IN HOME IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, April 15.—Trapped in their bedrooms by flames that quickly destroyed their little home, four children, the bodies of two of which have been recovered, are believed to have been burned to death at 10.30 o'clock tonight, when fire broke out in the old stable of the former Greenlawn club at 2,336 Fairfield avenue. One 11-year-old child is in St. Vincent's hospital and will probably die.

The two bodies were recovered at 12 o'clock, and firemen are digging into the ruins of the building for the other two.

Erlich, father of the children burned, is in St. Vincent's hospital painfully burned, together with his 11-year-old son, Sam, who will probably die. The father will live. The mother died a year ago.

The children, ranging in ages from 8 to 14 years old, did not have a chance of escape and were caught by the flames as they fought to get out of their lone bedroom. Erlich and his son Sam, in another part of the house, tried to get to the aid of the four trapped little ones. They were finally forced to flee for their lives.

Distracted, Erlich ran screeching to the front of the old club. At that time two men, L. W. Mills and F. J. Graham, employed in a garage across the street, saw the flames and ran for the house. In the yard they discovered Erlich and the boy writhing in pain on the ground. They were rushed to the hospital.

Erlich, distracted by the thoughts of his little ones' tragic end, was unable to give details of the fire and he was not questioned. He was not told of the tragedy, but it is believed that he knew the plight of the children before he struggled from the burning building, his continual cry being, "They can't get out! They can't get out!"

Clifford Wheeler, son of Detective Sergeant Wheeler, who was passing in an automobile, with two firemen, rushed into the house. A shout from the outside warned them that the roof of the building was about to fail. They had just got out when the top of the frame structure tumbled.

The building was formerly a stable and one-half was renovated into a garage when the Greenlawn club was in existence. The other half was occupied as living quarters. The property is now owned by a Chicago man. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

Traffic was tied up on Fairfield avenue for more than an hour.

Sparks from the burning structure ignited a fire on the roof of the old club, but it was quickly extinguished.

Firemen brought the fire under control a half hour after their arrival As the bodies were found they were taken to the city morgue.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE CONVENTION OF D. A. R.

Washington, April 15.—The Daughters of the American Revolution concluded the second days business of their thirty-third continental congress tonight with one of the principal social events of the occasion, the reception of the president-general and national officers. Continental Memorial hall was thronged with the several thousand delegates and alternates. The national officers were assisted by the state regents.

Official colors were adopted by the society and ites chapters participate. A proposal for a more spacious auditorium in Washington was put forward to be reported upon at next year's congress. The present auditorium is considered inadequate for the delegates who will come to future congresses to represent the increasing membership of the society.

A reception at the White House by the president and Mrs. Coolidge tomorrow afternoon will feature the third day's program. The morning session will be devoted to reports of committees on international relations, conservation and thrift, legislation before congress, memorial monuments, and other subjects. In the afternoon patriotic education, immigration and kindred subjects will be reported upon.

You can't tell by the size of the bill what the size of the ton of coal is.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Daniel H. Main

After an illness of but a few days the life of Olive May Stimpson, wife of Daniel H. Main, came peacefully to a close Friday morning, April 11, at her home in North Stonington from pneumonia.

Born in Columbia, Conn., April 27, 1885, the daughter of Henry and Mary Champlin Stimpson, she removed with her parents when a girl to Chaplin where her young womanhood was spent. She joined the Chaplin Congregational church when twelve years old and later became a member of the Peckham church of Ledyard, of which she was a member at the time of her death.

In Voluntown on Feb. 8, 1900, she became the wife of Daniel H. Main of Ledyard, the service being performed by Rev. Eli Dewhurst, pastor of the Voluntown Baptist church. Most of their married life was spent in Ledyard but in November 1921 they moved to North Stonington where they have resided since. Four children were born to this union, all of whom survive.

The funeral was held Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the North Stonington Baptist church with Rev. F. S. Robbins of Preston City officiating. Burial was in North Windham, where Rev. J. H. Knott read the committal service. There were many beautiful floral pieces sent by loving relatives and friends. The bearers were Clarence and Arthur Main, Ernest Paulson and Samuel Stimpson.

Mrs. Main was a loving mother and a kind neighbor. In her passing her family has lost a beloved member, whose joy was to be with her children and her friends have lost one who was held in the deepest regard.

Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss a mother, Mrs. Mary A. Stimpson of Willimantic, four children, Clarence of North Windham, Arthur of Willimantic, Mildred and Elsie of North Stonington, a sister, Mrs. Ernest Paulson, a brother, Samual Stimpson both of Willimantic, and three half brothers, Alvin of Columbia, Courtland of Mposup and Louis Stimpson of North Windham.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Rachel Wright.

With relatives and friends present, funeral services for Mrs. Rachael Wright were held Tuesday morning from the parlors of Cummings & Ring on Main street, followed by requiem mass in St. Patrick's church at 11 o'clock. The mass was conducted by Rev. Rocco Guerriero.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service at the grave was read by Rev. M. H. May. The bearers were George P. Nolan, John P. Flynn, J. W. Dunn and William McDonald.

Peter Ver Steeg

Funeral services for Peter Ver Steeg were held at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning from the parlors of C. A. Gager, 70 Franklin street relatives and friends attending from Stamford and other places. There were many beautiful floral pieces, among them a number from local florists with whom Mr. Ver Steeg had been associated while in that business.

Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D. pastor of the Central Baptist church, who was in charge of the services conducted a committal service. The bearers, all members of the park commission, were James C. Macpherson, John M. Lee, Henry F. Parker and Henry D. Johnson.

Mrs. Joseph McNierney

The funeral of Mrs. Joseph McNierney was held at 8.15 o'clock Tuesday morning from the home of her niece, Mrs. Frank J. Murtha of 415 North Main street, followed by a solemn requiem high mass at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Patrick McCormick, instructor in the Catholic University, Washington, D. C., a nephew of the deceased. He was assisted by Rev. J. J. McCabe of Jewett City, deacon, and Rev. William A. Keefe, sub-deacon. Rev. Frederick Coholan was seated in the sanctuary. During the mass Henry LaFontaine presided at the organ and for a waiting hymn he rendered Lead Kindly Light. For the processional Mr. LaFontaine and Mrs. Timothy Donovan sang Nearer, My God to Thee.

Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where a committal service was conducted by Revs. McCormick, McCabe and Keefe. The bearers all nephews, were Charles P. Lynch, Elmhurst, L. I.; William H. Lynch, Norwich; Frank P. Murtha, Melrose, Mass.; George W. Maloney, Norwich; John T. McCarmick, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; and Daniel G. McCormick of Norwich.

Arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

WEDDING.

Smith—Thompson

Freulon Smith and Bertha Thompson, both of 341 West Thames street, were married Saturday, April 12, by Rev. Henning Johnson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church. The groom is the son of Winslow and Alma Wills Smith and was born at Rangeley Lakes, Maine. The bride, who has been married before, was born at Newark, N. J., and is the daughter of Charles and Anna Nelson Thompson.

Scout Field Meet

Scouts of the various troops will meet at Chelsea Parade, Saturday, April 26th, at 2 p. m., to hold a standard contest meet preparatory to the state meet to be held in New Britain, May 17th. The best contestants will be picked to go to New Britain on that date.

The customary Holy week services are being held in the local Catholic churches.

MANUFACTURING PLANTS TO ADOPT DAYLICHT SAVING SCHEDULE

Although the town clock, street clocks and clocks in public buildings will remain on standard time, Norwich will in effect be on a daylight saving schedule beginning the last Monday in this month until the last Monday in September. It is understood that practically every manufacturing plant in the city and town will begin operating on daylight time Monday morning, April 28th. It is also understood that the merchants will fall in line and that the Connecticut company will re-arrange its trolley schedules to conform with the working hours in the local plants. The town schools will pprobably operate on a re-arranged schedule and it is expected that the churches will hold services on the daylight schedule.

Although no official announcement has been made it was learned Tuesday night that the officials and employes of the local industries and mercantile establishments are in favor of daylight saving. As far as the New Haven railroad is concerned their summer schedule which is in effect a daylight schedule operated on standard time will go into effect at 2 a. m. and close at 4.30 p. m. Eastern Standard time.

RAILROAD GIVES NOTICE OF CHANGING TIME

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co. has issued notice of a change of schedule on Sunday, April 27, to conform to the daylight saving law of Massachusetts and the daylight ordinances of New York and many other cities through which the trains operate.

The notice was as follows:

New Haven, Conn., April 12, 1924.
To All Concerned:

Effective 2.00 a. m. Sunday, April 27th, and continuing until 2.00 a. m. Sunday, September 28th, 1924, the train schedules of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and Central New England Railway will be changed to conform to the daylight saving law, state of Massachusetts, and daylight saving ordinances of the city of New York and many other cities through which we operate.

The law requires the operation of trains upon a standard of time as fixed by congress.

Effective during the period of daylight saving, the hours of all offices, including freight offices, shops, storehouses, and other departments, will be set ahead one hour. In other words, offices now opening at 8.30 a. m. and closing at 5.30 p. m. will open at 7.30 a. m. and close at 4.30 p. m. Eastern Standard time.

President,
The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co.
C. L. BARDO,
President, C N. E. Ry Co.

TERRORIZED ROOM AT UNITED STATES FINISHING

Mike Apostolos of 197 North Main street caused suspension of work in the room where he is employed at the United States Finishing company Tuesday about noon when he developed an insane streak. When the police, with first selectman W. S. Murray, arrived in response to a telephone call for help, Apostolos had possession of the room with his terrified fellow employes standing in groups at either end at a safe distance.

Apostolos was taken in charge by the police and brought to the Greeneville police headquarters where he was examined by Dr. F. J. Harper, upon whose report he was committed to the Norwich state hospital and taken there. He had previously been a patient at the hospital.

R. C. PLAUT'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED ON SHIP

Copies of the Wireless Press of the steamer Empress of China, which have been received from J. W. Codden, tell of the celebration of the birthday anniversary of R. C. Plaut on March 15 on the ship. The paper says:

A birthday cake was noted on table 34 last evening, in front of R. C. Plaut, of Norwich, Conn., but we did not stop to count the number of candles. Mr. Plaut entertained a family party with a special menu. His last birthday was spent at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

UKRANIAN PRIEST OF COLCHESTER UNDER BONDS

Branded by Donald P. Gorman, assistant Federal prosecutor, as "the unscrupulous leader of the largest smuggling ring in the United States," Rev. Father Nicholas Selombro, Ukranian priest of Colchester, Conn., entered a plea of not guilty when presented before Federal Judge Frank Cooper at Syracuse, N. Y., on a charge of conspiracy to defeat the immigration law.

The Ukranian priest, indicted by the Federal grand jury at Albany was released on bail of $2,500 for trial later in the term.

CONNECTICUT SENATORS WILL VOTE FOR BOTH BILLS

Senators Brandegee and McLean were reported to have declared at Washington Tuesday that they intended to vote for the bonus bill reported to the senate and for the Mellon tax reduction bill. Both believe that the two measures can be passed by congress without bringing disaster to the treasury. "I believe the Mellon tax bill is the best revenue raising measure proposed. I will support it and the bonus bill," said Mr. McLean.

Practic Week for Circus

This is practice week at the local Y. M. C. A. for the "Bagnyard and Balehay" circus, which the gym members of the "Y" are planning to put on under the direction of Physical Director Fritz. The gymnites are manifesting considerable interest in the coming event and look forward to the circus being the best ever, and are making plans to have enough thrills and pink lemonades to please even the most exacting visitor.

The "Y" Seniors are scheduled for a number of feature gymnastic stunts and are putting in some hard practice work, as the junior and employed boys gym class groups. One of the features this year is to be the program of clown antics, and some good stunts are being arranged by the clowns. Among those to be seen in "clown alley" this year are Louis Tompesta, Gerald Goldfadden, Stanley Henschel, Linus and Herby Charnetski, Ray Boynton and Fred Williams.

CUT OUT TRAILS AT CAMP TIPPECAN

Scout Executive F. A. Benton and Frederick Benton, Jr., camped over the week-end at Camp Tippecan, Voluntown, where they cut out the roads and trails that had been obstructed by the many fallen trees. A heavy windstorm following snow and sleet had caused much destruction in the forests in that locality, trees being broken out and uprooted over a large area.

Freshman Swimming Captain

Miss Lorna Noyes, daughter of Charles F. Noyes of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly of this city, is captain of the freshman team for the swimming meet to be held April 30 at Wheaton college, Norton, Mass.

BALTIC WORSTED MILL HAS PROMISING BUSINESS

Frank Malloy of Chicago, Ill., formerly of Baltic, general manager and sales agent of the Daniel Boone Woolen and Worsted chain of mills was in Baltic recently for a few days, in the interest of Worsted Division No. 9. While in Baltic he was the guest of Resident Manager R. B. Murray and stated that a large order had been placed with the Baltic plant and that business would be booming at that plant within the next two weeks.

Mr. Malloy said that the other eight mills owned by the company are running full time with orders ahead and that the Baltic plant would soon be running on a 24 hour schedule, three shifts of 8 hours each.

This news was pleasing to residents of Baltic, especially to employes of the company.

LETTERS AND PRAYER OF PETER LANMAN, 1854

In connection with the letters of Peter Lanman, of Norwich, to his son, Admiral Joseph Lanman, which series of letters The Bulletin is publishing from time to time, there is local interest in the following letter and the prayer, which was composed by Mr. Lanman and sent to his granddaughter, the "Belle," of his letters.

"Belle" is Mrs. William Readio, sister of Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, of the Pequot, and now resides in Erie, Penn. Mrs. Readio is still in the 70's, although a great-great-grandmother; one of her four great-great-grandchildren is James Lanman Walker, living at Fort Smith, Kansas.

The prayer composed for Miss Belle Lanman by the worthy Norwich pioneer citizen is filled with the true spirit of faith and would fit into any Christian denomination, all readers will agree.

From Father to Son.

Norwich, Conn., June 11th, 1854.

My dear Son: You have my very warmest thanks for your letter of the 5th—nothing is as pleasant to a parent as the affectionate remembrance of his absent Sons and Daughters especially when the vivid thought passes the mind that at the best it is but a short term further; before we meet no more in this changing sublunary world.

I feel greatly indebted to you for the kind tenor of your letter — my health is much the same as it has been for some time except perhaps that the blood continues to grow less and less stronger.

We were all of us sorry that the spirits of your dear wife should any degree droop at the present time. We all love her very affectionately tender to her our kindest regards & our best wishes that all things will be well with her!!! Say to dear Belle that we rejoice to hear of her Ladylike deportment and that she continues to improve in her education and we have no doubt that she will be a great comfort to her dear mother under all circumstances. To Captain Williams and to Mrs. Williams please make best regards. When you see Mr. Wally make my kindest regards to him also—and though I do not wish to see you promoted through the influence of friends at court it is pleasant to have friends there!! I have a very warm friend in our recently elected senator, Mr. Foster!

I note what you have said in regard to the Navy—the Secretary of the Navy I think will give no contract to any one on the ground of favoritism—to Pensacola or any other Navy Yard. I judge from his letter.

Yous Sister (Abby Trumbull Lanman) gives all her attention to me & your Dear Mother. Continue to write to me. I am pleased to see you attentive to the British officers. We are of that stock & there should be no bickering between us about Cuba or Scotia.

Remember us to all your dear ones.

Affectionately
Yours,
P. LANMAN,

To Lieutenant
Joseph Lanman,
Washington.

The Prayer of P. Lanman written out for "Belle," Mrs. Isabella Currie Readio of Erie, Pa.

Almighty and everlasting God, in whom we live, and move and have our Being—We come before Thee this morning with our thank offering for Thy kind care of us during our past lives and that thou hast again watched over us during the silence of the night and brought us to behold the light of another morning under circumstances of mercy—for all they mercies we bless and magnify thy glorious name humbly beseeching Thee to accept our morning sacrifice of praise & than[k]sgiving for His sake, who hath loved us and given Himself for us; thy Son Jesus Christ.

Since it is of thy mercy O gracious Father, that another day is added to our lives; we renewedly dedicate our souls and our bodies to Thee & Thy service in a sober, righteous & Godly life, in which resolution do Thou, our God confirm and strengthen us—that as we grow in age we may grow in Grace & the knowledge of our Lord & Saviour Jesus Christ.

But O God, who knoweth the weakness and corruption of our nature and the manifold temptations which we daily meet with—We humbly beseech Thee to have compassion on our Infirmities and to give us the constant assistance of the Holy Spirit, that we may be effectually restrained from sin and be duly excited to imprint upon our hearts such a dread of thy Judgments and such a grateful sense of thy goodness to us, as to make us afraid and ashamed to offend Thee. And above all keep in our minds a lively remembrance of that great day when we must give an account of our thoughts, words and actions, and according to the deeds done in the body be eternally rewarded or punished by Him whom Thou hast appointed the Judge of quick and dead, Thy Son, Jesus Christ, our Lord.

We implore Thy grace & protection for the ensuing day—Keep us temperate in our meats & our drinks, grant us patience under any afflictions Thou shalt see fit to lay on us, and minds contented with our present conditions—give us grace to be just & upright in all our dealings; quiet and peaceful full of compassion & ready to do good to all, according to our abilities & opportunities. Have in Thy Holy keeping all that are near & dear to us, wherever scattered abroad in the World—whether on Land or Sea. Be Thou their God, keep them as in the hollow of Thy hand, choice as the apple of Thine eye and grant that we may again behold them laden with the experience of Thy loving kindness & Thy tender mercies.

These things we ask not in our own name, for we have no merit to claim, but we come in the all-worthy name of Him who hath loved us; and given Himself for us, Thy Son Jesus Christ, our Lord and Redeemer.

Norwich, June 13th, 1854.

My dear Bell: You will see by the prayer I send you this P. M. that we remember you every morning—and in the daily aspiration for you we include your beloved Parents, as also your Grand-parents, Captain Williams & his Beloved wife. Remember me to them & to your Dear Parents also with much affection—and believe me Your Affectionate Grand Parent.

P. LANMAN.

ARSON CASE OPENS IN ORANGE TOWN COURT TODAY

Bridgeport, April 15.—The cases of Edward Gillett and George Shaw, charged with arson in connection with the fire which on the night of March 29, destroyed the farm house and barn, and in which eight cows perished, on the farm of Alma Holmgren, on the Milford turnpike in the town of Orange, will come up for preliminary hearing in Orange town court tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Arrangements will be made with State's Attorney Aaron A. Allinz, of New Haven county, for a special prosecutor in the case. Shaw is being detained in bonds of $5,000, and Gillett is free in bonds of $5,000. Shaw confesses to the crime, and implicates Gillett as the arch-conspirator of the plot to collect $13,000, insurance, part of which was to be put into a business with himself, Miss Holmgren and Gillett as partners.

State police today continued their probe to uncover evidence to substantiate Shaw's confession, which Gillett vehemently brands as "a pack of malicious lies." The case, they expect, will go over to the criminal superior court.

PLANES NEARING LAST STOP ON THIS CONTINENT

Seward, Alaska, April 15.—(By the A. P.)—With Lieutenant Eric H. Nelson, pilot of the cruiser New Orleans, temporarily in command, the four United States army planes flying around the world, took the air here today for the 450 miles journey to Chignik, Alaska, the last stop of the aviators on the North American continent.

The New Orleans, the Boston and the Chicago arose at 11.49 a. m.

Major Frederick L. Martin in the Seattle had difficulty in arising from Resurrection bay, but succeeded in getting away at 12.05 p. m. The fliers arose to an approximate altitude of 4,000 feet and headed for Shelikof straight, leaving Seward by the Sarding gateway.

HURLEY IN CHARGE OF THE BLAIR MURDER INVESTIGATION

Killingworth, Conn., April 15.—Superintendent of State Police Robert T. Hurley, it was learned today has taken full charge of the investigation into the death of Charles Blair, who last Tuesday was murdered by his housekeeper, Mrs. Johanna Teli, according to the latter's confession to the New York police. Superintendent Hurley has ordered all papers found in the house to be brought to his office and, if necessary, to include the wall paper in the room where Blair is said to have met his death.

Judge Daniel J. Donahoe today was appointed by William Thomas, a New York attorney representing Mrs. Teli in that state, to act as counsel for the defense in Connecticut.

DUGAS BEATS BARBER, TAKING EIGHT OUT OF ELEVEN IN MATCH AT TAFTVILLE

Chip Dugas of Taftville was returned a winner in the first match with Frankie Barber of Danielson in the Eastern Connecticut Bowling tournament at Taftville Tuesday evening. Dugas took eight of the eleven strings rolled and strengthened his hold on first place.

Barber was far from his usual form and he missed easy spares that even a beginner would be ashamed to miss. It was not a case of hard luck and bad breaks but it was a case of unsteady rolling. Dugas on the other hand was not so exceptionally good but his scores were just high enough to nose out Barber. Dugas had a total pinfall of 1,140 for an average of 105.5, while Barber's total was 1,136 for an average of 103.33.

The tenth string was a tie and an extra string was rolled at the end of the match, Dugas winning 109 to 103. The scores:

JOHNSON PITCHES SHUTOUT VICTORY IN FIRST GAME

Washington, April 15.—Walter Johnson, ace of the Washington team, opened his 18th campaign in the American league today with a shutout victory over Philadelphia, 4 to 0. The veteran was in grand form, allowing only four hits and issuing but two passes.

President Coolidge officially opened the season by tossing out the first ball. The president was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and an official party. Secretary Wilbur of the navy led the parade of the two teams to the flagpole in deep centerfield, where the flag was raised prior to the opening of the game.

It was the 101st shutout victory for Johnson and by striking out eight of the visitors he increased his total in this line to more than 3,000. Judge, Rice, Ruel and Goslin supplied the hits that gave Washington its runs.

A crowd of more than 25,000 witnessed the contest.

SENSATIONAL FIELDING IS FEATURE OF DETROIT VICTORY

Detroit, April 15.—Detroit opened the American league season here today by defeating Cleveland, 4 to 3, in a game replete with sensational fielding. Cobb, Heilmann, and Speaker shared honors in fielding almost impossible catches. The Tigers' manager cut off a possible tie in the eighth inning when he raced far to his left for a leaping catch that robbed Summa of what appeared to be a certain home run.

Bike the Tiger first baseman, hit a home run over the centerfield fence in the sixth inning, starting a rally that gave Detroit three runs and a point margin in that inning.

Although ground rules were necessary, the crowd did not break the record for opening days, being estimated at approximately 34,000.

SIGLER MAKES GOOD IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Chicago, April 15.—George Harold Sisler, outstanding star of the 1923 American league season, came back to the game today after a year's absence due to impaired vision and making his debut as manager of the St. Louis Browns, contributed largely to the team's 7 to 2 victory over Chicago by smashing out two hits in four attempts.

Sisler, back in his old position at first base fielded perfectly with 15 putouts and no errors, drove in the first run and also the run which broke the tie in the fifth. He finished with a .500 average at bat although he did not score.

Urban Shocker, who quarrelled with the Browns management most of the winter, pitched in mid-season form, holding the Sox to six hits, only two of them bunched.

The Sox were without the leadership of Frank Chance, who is confined to a hospital. Johnny Evers, acting manager, was on the side lines today.

Favored with a dash of real spring weather, the game drew an opening attendance of about 28,000. The score:

YANKS START SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER BOSTON

Boston, April 15. — Twenty-five thousand enthusiasts saw the world champion Yankees defeat the Red Sox, 7 to 1, in the opening game of the season here today. The winners made both their runs in the ninth when Ruth and Ward singled, Pipp sacrificed and Wambsganss made two errors in ground balls. The single run resulted from Shanks single, Lee's bunt and Ehmke's single.

Shawkey held Boston to two hits in seven innings and then Hoyt pitched hitless ball. Mayor Curley threw out the first ball to President Johnson of the American league, who attended the game.

DODGERS TAKE OPENING GAME FROM GIANTS

New York, April 15. — Playing a strong game behind Dutch Ruether's efficient pitching, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the New York Giants in the opening game today, 4 to 3, before a crowd of forty-four thousand, the greatest that ever saw a national league opening in New York.

Ruether had complete control of the situation for the first six innings, yielding only one hit. New York rallied in the seventh and scored two runs but Southworth was retired with the bases full.

Brooklyn made all its hits and runs off Ryan in the early innings. Two left-handers, Gearin and Nehf, held Brooklyn hitless during the last five innings.

Mayor Hylan threw out the first ball, while the Giants raised the National league pennant of 1923.

NINTH INNING RALLY WINS FOR CARDINALS

St. Louis, Mo., April 15.—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 5, today in the first 1924 National league game here. A crowd of about 15,000 attended the game.

A ninth inning rally with the score 5 to 3 in favor of the Cubs, turned the tide from defeat to victory for the Cardinals. Baseball Commissioner Landis pitched the first ball with Mayor Henry Kiel of St. Louis receiving.

ALLEN WINS HIS SECOND STRAIGHT GAME

Philadelphia, April 15.—Sonny Allen, of Kansas City, scored his second straight victory today in the playoff for the National pocket billiard championship when he defeated Andrew St. Jean, of Minneapolis, 125 to 92 in eleven innings. Allen's high run was 59 and St. Jean's 17.

St. Jean's failure to score was not so much the result of poor playing but the remarkable position play of Allen who placed the ball where there was little chance to count.

Allen appeared at his best, playing with a recklessness born of confidence in his ability to do the unusual. Time and again he made shots with uncanny skill and his stroking was almost perfect.

Villa-Ash Bout Cancelled.

Toronto, Ont., April 15.—The proposed boxing match between Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion and Frankie Ash, which was to have been held tomorrow night, was cancelled tonight. The showing made by Ash against Frankie Mason recently was such that the promoters did not think he would be able to give Villa a worthwhile contest.

How It's Done in the Majors

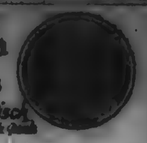
By Frank Frisch



It is the last half of the sixth. One man is out. Score is 3-2 in favor of the team in the field. There is a runner on second.

How should the play be made when a ball is hit sharply to the shortstop.

As the team in the field has the advantage of a one run lead, the shortstop should try first to cut off any possible runs. If the runner on second is slow, that is, if he did not get off to a good start, the shortstop should never fail to make this play if he has a possible chance of throwing the runner out at third. If not, he should make the play to first to nail the batter. A great many infielders make the latter play anyhow. They play it safe. That is not good baseball when the other play is possible.

RECORD CROWD SEES REDS BEAT PIRATES

Cincinnati, April 15.—Before a record breaking crowd, Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh in the first game of the championship season today, 4 to 3. Morrison was hit freely and his infield support was somewhat ragged. Donohue allowed only one hit in five innings, but was pounded hard in the sixth when the visitors bunched four clean singles and a triple by Bigbee for four runs.

Sheehan finished the game in good form. The Reds tied the score in the eighth on Hargrave's second triple and Bohne's sacrifice fly, and won off Meadows in the ninth on two passes, a single by Burns and two singles out of four times up. The actual paid attendance was 35,747, the largest number ever at a ball game at Redland Field.

PHILLIES AND BRAVES BATTLE TO 11-INNING TIE SCORE

Philadelphia, April 15.—Philadelphia and Boston engaged in an eleven inning deadlock in the first game of the 1924 season, the score standing at 6 runs each when the game was called by darkness. Twice the locals came from behind to tie the count but lacked the punch to win.

In the ninth inning Jess Barnes went into the box with the bases loaded and none out and retired the side with only one run crossing the plate. This run, however, gave the Phillies a tie. The usual opening day exercises preceded the game.

WOMEN'S TENNIS SINGLES REACH THE SEMI-FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., April 15. — Miss Martha Bayard, Short Hills, N. J., Mrs. H. S. Green, New York, Miss Leslie Bancroft, Boston, and Mrs. E. F. Briggs, Pelham Manor, New York, will meet tomorrow in the semi-finals of the annual women's north and south tennis championship tournament.

The draw was seeded to put Miss Bancroft, who ranks number eight among American women players, and Miss Bayard, number two, in national standing, in separate divisions. As a result it was expected that these two would be the finalists.

Miss Green defeated Mrs. De Forest Candee, New York, 6-3, 6-3, and Miss Eleanor Wetmore, New York, defaulted to Mrs. Briggs. Miss Bayard and Mrs. Green will meet tomorrow in the semi-finals as will Miss Bancroft and Mrs. Briggs.

In the second round of the men's singles, A. L. Bruneau, Brooklyn, defeated J. T. Stockton, New York, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Josiah Wheelwright, Boston, won from Paul Dunn, Pinehurst, 6-1, 6-0 and A. W. Merriman, Farmingham, Conn., defaulted to T. J. Mangan.

CHANCE IN HOSPITAL, UNABLE TO SEE GAME

Chicago, April 15.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Charles Comiskey, owner of the club, were not among the 28,000 fans who saw the Sox drop the opening battle of the season to the Browns today.

Chance and the "Old Roman" are patients in the same hospital and received the news of the contest, inning by inning over the telephone.

Comiskey is recovering from an operation for gall stones, while Chance is attempting to fight off a relapse due to influenza.

It was the first opener that Comiskey had missed in years.

LAST GAMES IN LIGHTWEIGHT BASKETBALL LEAGUE TONIGHT

The city lightweight basketball championship tourney is scheduled to close tonight when the Taftville Celtics and the Battery B Seconds meet at the "Y" gym to play off the tie. Following the game the beautiful trophy cup donated by Lee Clegg, the Main street jeweler, will be presented to the winning quintette and refreshments will be served to the players who participated in the series.

CROWD OF 216,747 FANS SEE OPENING BALL GAMES

New York, April 15.—Small crowds at Philadelphia and St. Louis in the National League prevented all major league baseball opening day attendance records from being shattered today when 216,747 fans flocked through the turnstiles in eight cities. The unofficial figure was 18,253 less than last year when the total of 220,000 was swelled by the 78,000 persons who attended the dedication of the Yankee Stadium.

DUWELLS TO OPEN NEW BALL PARK NEXT MONTH

The newly organized Duwell Baseball association will soon open its new baseball park on the East Side opposite the silk mill and the fans of Norwich will finally have a real fast baseball field centrally located. When taken over three weeks ago the grounds seemed almost impossible but after much expense and much labor this field which at one time was a cow pasture, is slowly retuding into shape and by the second week of May should be one of the best baseball fields in this section of the state. No doubt the people of the city will appreciate the fact that this new park will soon be opened for them and will help in every way to make it a great success. A committee has been selected and will soon visit the fans and receive any donation towards helping the good cause along.

The fans of the city have been pretty well fed up on high priced professional baseball players who have made their appearance in this city, during the past few years and the object of this newly formed Duwell Baseball association is to form a team composed of the fastest players in the city.

Every local lad with any baseball aspirations will be given a chance to play on this team which during the season will represent the city of Norwich. The best teams of the state will be booked to appear here and every possible precaution will be taken to have the rival teams evenly matched. Baseball during the past has been mainly a money making proposition in this city but with local lads playing to represent their home town many a real red hot baseball game should take place on the new Duwell Baseball Field.

BULKELEY OPENS SEASON WITH EASY VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 15.—The Bulkeley High school baseball team opened its season with an easy victory over the Engineers nine of the Dungaree league at the Submarine Base this afternoon. After the dust of the battle cleared the final score was 13 to 5 in the high school players' favor.

Bulkeley took the lead from the very first and had an easy time keeping in the lead throughout. The Engineers never even threatened to catch up with the high school team and were hopelessly outclassed from the very start. The wearers of the Orange and Black were strong in all departments of play and when hits were needed for scores they were made.

The Bulkeley batsmen hopped on O'Neil, the first pitcher to face them, in the very first inning for a total of four runs and made him retire from the game before the inning was two-thirds over. Braun relieved the tottering O'Neil and for a short time fared well. But the Bulkeley players would not be kept down and a barrage of hits laid down in the third inning brought three runs. In the fourth one more run was added and in the sixth the Bulkeley team had a regular merry-go-round on the bases, scoring five runs in this inning, forcing Braun to retire in favor of Harrel. Harrel was on the mound but one inning and he did well the time he occupied the mound.

The Engineers were kept well in hand by the Bulkeley twirlers, Parisi and Daniels, Parisi occupied the mound for four innings and Daniels threw up the ball from the elevated plateau the remaining three. Parisi got himself into hot water on one or two occasions but got himself out of holes in big league manner. Daniels, who relieved Parisi, twirled a good game after he was properly warmed up to the task that stood before him.

Mansfield led the Bulkeley batters with the stick, getting two doubles and a single out of three times at the bat. Booth had two hits out of three to show for his day's work. Dinty Moore for the Engineers played exceptionally well at the dizzy corner, accepting 11 chances.

4-PASSENGER COUPE

To see this car is to commend its beauty.

It stands out strikingly, both in the symmetry of its design and in the excellent good taste and smartness of its equipment.

In the final analysis, however, the most popular feature will unquestionably prove to be its exceptional riding ease.

The seats, the new spring suspension and Dodge Brothers special 6-ply balloon-type tires unite in achieving an altogether new efficiency in protecting passengers from the ruts and jolts of the road.

FIRPO REFUSES OFFER OF HALF MILLION TO FIGHT HARRY WILLS AND DEMPSEY

Buenos Aires, April 15.—(By the A. P.)—Luis Angel Firpo has refused to listen to the latest overtures of Tex Rickard, made through the promoter's agent, Juan Homs, for fights in the United States this summer with Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey, and has reiterated his recently announced intention to retire from the ring.

Homs, bearing an attractive offer from New York on behalf of Rickard, was met by Firpo at Montevideo where the Argentine battler several days ago bade farewell to Hugh Gartland, his American business manager, who sailed for the United States. Returning here today Firpo said that he had read a letter from Rickard empowering Homs to sign him to an agreement, but had refused to listen to details of the offer.

Homs, however, declares that he has not abandoned hope of influencing Firpo to accept and intends to remain here for a few days, to outline the promoter's proposals.

Denying the latest of reports that he would change his mind about retiring—this one credited in New York to William McCarney, Gartland's partner, to the effect that Firpo intended to sail for the United States on April 24—the Argentine heavyweight complained that no one seemed to credit his announcement that he did not want to fight any more.

Firpo added that prominent countrymen who are pressing him to change his mind are proving troublesome, as proof of the fact that he does not contemplate an early departure for the United States he said he would attend on April 27 an automobile race at Cordoba in which he had entered a car. Previously it had been reported that he would sail for New York April 24 on the Southern Cross.

Asked how his contract with Gartland would figure in his plans, Firpo asserted it had no significance as it provided that Gartland could arrange matches only subject to his approval. Aside from this nominal arrahgement Firpo declared he had severed business connections with all bo

DUGAS BEATS BARBER, TAKING EIGHT OUT OF ELEVEN IN MATCH AT TAFTVILLE

Chip Dugas of Taftville was returned a winner in the first match with Frankie Barber of Danielson in the Eastern Connecticut Bowling tournament at Taftville Tuesday evening. Dugas took eight of the eleven strings rolled and strengthened his hold on first place.

Barber was far from his usual form and he missed easy spares that even a beginner would be ashamed to miss. It was not a case of hard luck and bad breaks but it was a case of unsteady rolling. Dugas on the other hand was not so exceptionally good but his scores were just high enough to nose out Barber. Dugas had a total pinfall of 1,160 for an average of 105.5, while Barber's total was 1,154 for an average of 105.05.

The tenth string was a tie and an extra string was rolled at the end of the match, Dugas winning 109 to 108. The scores:

JOHNSON PITCHES SHUTOUT VICTORY IN FIRST GAME

Washington, April 15.—Walter Johnson, ace of the Washington team, opened his 18th campaign in the American league today with a shutout victory over Philadelphia, 4 to 0. The veteran was in grand form, allowing only four hits and issuing but two passes.

President Coolidge officially opened the season by tossing out the first ball. The president was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and an official party. Secretary Wilbur of the navy led the parade of the two teams to the flagpole in deep centerfield, where the flag was raised prior to the opening of the game.

It was the 101st shutout victory for Johnson and by striking out eight of the visitors he increased his total in this line to more than 3,000. Judge, Rice, Ruel and Goslin supplied the hits that gave Washington its runs.

A crowd of more than 25,000 witnessed the contest.

SENSATIONAL FIELDING IS FEATURE OF DETROIT VICTORY

Detroit, April 15.—Detroit opened the American league season here today by defeating Cleveland, 4 to 3, in a game replete with sensational fielding. Cobb, Heilmann, and Speaker received honors in fielding almost impossible catches. The Tigers' manager cut off a possible tie in the eighth inning when he raced far to his left for a leaping catch that robbed Sutman of what appeared to be a certain home run.

Blee the Tiger first baseman, hit a home run over the centerfield fence in the sixth inning, starting a rally that gave Detroit three runs and a point margin in that inning.

Although ground rules were necessary, the crowd did not break the record for opening days, being estimated at approximately 34,000.

SISLER MAKES GOOD IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Chicago, April 15.—George Harold Sisler, outstanding star of the 1922 American league season, came back to the game today after a year's absence due to impaired vision and, batting his debut as manager of the St. Louis Browns, contributed largely to the team's 7 to 5 victory over Chicago by smashing out two hits in four attempts.

Sisler, back in his old position at first base fielded perfectly with 15 putouts and no errors, drove in the first run and also the run which broke the tie in the fifth. He finished with a .500 average at bat although he did not score.

Urban Shocker, who quarrelled with the Brown management most of the winter, pitched in mid-season form, holding the Sox to six hits, only two of them bunched.

The Sox were without the leadership of Frank Chance, who is confined to a hospital. Johnny Evers, acting manager, was on the side lines today.

Favored with a dash of real Spring weather, the game drew an opening attendance of about 28,000. The score:

YANKS START SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER BOSTON

Boston, April 15. — Twenty-five thousand enthusiasts saw the world champion Yankees defeat the Red Sox, 2 to 1, in the opening game of the season here today. The winners made both their runs in the ninth when Ruth and Ward singled, Pipp sacrificed and Wambsganss made two errors in ground balls. The single to win run resulted from Shanks single, Lee's bunt and Ehmke's single.

Shawkey held Boston to two hits in seven innings and then Hoyt pitched hitless ball. Mayor Curley threw out the first ball to President Johnson of the American league, who attended the game.

DODGERS TAKE OPENING GAME FROM GIANTS

New York, April 15. — Playing a strong game behind Dutch Ruether's efficient pitching, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the New York Giants in the opening game today, 5 to 2, before a crowd of forty-four thousand, the greatest that ever saw a national league opening in New York.

Ruether had complete control of the situation for the first six innings, yielding only one hit. New York rallied in the seventh and scored two runs but Southworth was retired with the bases full.

Brooklyn made all its hits and runs off Ryan in the early innings. Two left-handers, Gearin and Nahf, held Brooklyn hitless during the last five innings.

Mayor Hylan threw out the first ball, while the Giants raised the National league pennant of 1923.

ALLEN WINS HIS SECOND STRAIGHT GAME

Philadelphia, April 15.—Benny Allen, of Kansas City, scored his second straight victory today in the playoff for the national pocket billiard championship when he defeated Andrew St. Jean, of Minneapolis, 125 to 22 in eleven innings. Allen's high run was 59 and St. Jean's 17.

St. Jean's failure to score was not so much the result of poor playing but the remarkable position play of Allen who placed the ball where there was little chance to count.

Allen appeared at his best, playing with a recklessness born of confidence in his ability to do the unusual. Time and again he made shots with uncanny skill and his stroking was almost perfect.

Villa-Ash Bout Cancelled.

Toronto, Ont., April 15.—The proposed boxing match between Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion and Frankie Ash, which was to have been held tomorrow night, was cancelled tonight. The showing made by Ash against Frankie Mason recently was such that the promoters did not think he would be able to give Villa a worthwhile contest.

How It's Done in the Majors

By Frank Frisch

It is the last half of the sixth. One man is out. Score is 3-2 in favor of the team in the field. There is a runner on second.

How should the play be made when a ball is hit sharply to the shortstop.

As the team in the field has the advantage of a one run lead, the shortstop should try first to cut off any possible runs. If the runner on second is slow, that is, if he did not get off to a good start, the shortstop should never fail to make this play if he has a possible chance of throwing the runner out at third. If not, he should make the play to first to nail the batter. A great many infielders make the latter play anyhow. They play it safe. That is not good baseball when the other play is possible.

RECORD CROWD SEES REDS BEAT PIRATES

Cincinnati, April 15.—Before a record breaking crowd, Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh in the first game of the championship season today, 6 to 5. Morrison was hit freely and his infield support was somewhat ragged. Donohue allowed only one hit in five innings, but was pounded hard in the sixth when the visitors bunched four clean singles and a triple by Bigbee for four runs.

Sheehan finished the game in good form. The Reds tied the score in the eighth on Hargrave's second triple and Bohne's sacrifice fly, and won off Meadows in the ninth on two passes, a single by Burns and Rousch's sacrifice fly. Hargrave was the batting leader with two triples and two singles out of four times up. The actual paid attendance was 35,747, the largest number ever at a ball game at Redland Field.

PHILLIES AND BRAVES BATTLE TO 11-INNING TIE SCORE

Philadelphia, April 15.—Philadelphia and Boston engaged in an eleven inning deadlock in the first game of the 1924 season, the score standing at 6 runs each when the game was called by darkness. Twice the locals came from behind to tie the count but lacked the punch to win.

In the ninth inning Joe Barnes went into the box with the bases loaded and none out and retired the side with only one run crossing the plate. This run, however, gave the Phillies a tie. The usual opening day exercises preceded the game.

WOMEN'S TENNIS SINGLES REACH THE SEMI-FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., April 15. — Miss Martha Bayard, Short Hills, N. J., Mrs. H. S. Green, New York; Miss Leslie Bancroft, Boston, and Mrs. B. F. Briggs, Pelham Manor, New York, will meet tomorrow in the semi-finals of the annual women's north and south tennis championship tournament.

The draw was seeded to put Miss Bancroft, who ranks number eight among American women players, and Miss Bayard, number two, in national standing, in separate divisions. As a result it was expected that these two would be the finalists.

Miss Green defeated Mrs. De Forest Candee, New York, 6-3, 6-3, and Miss Eleanor Wetmore, New York, defaulted to Mrs. Briggs, Miss Bayard and Mrs. Green will meet tomorrow in the semi-finals as will Miss Bancroft and Mrs. Briggs.

In the second round of the men's singles, A. L. Bruneau, Brooklyn, defeated J. T. Stockton, New York, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Josiah Wheelwright, Boston, won from Paul Duna, Pinehurst, 6-1, 6-0 and A. W. Merriman, Farmingham, Conn., defaulted to T. J. Mangan.

CHANCE IN HOSPITAL, UNABLE TO SEE GAME

Chicago, April 15.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Charles Comiskey, owner of the club, were not among the 28,000 fans who saw the Sox drop the opening battle of the season to the Browns today.

Chance and the "Old Roman" are patients in the same hospital and received the news of the contest, inning by inning over the telephone.

Comiskey is recovering from an operation for gall stones, while Chance is attempting to fight off a relapse due to influenza.

It was the first opener that Comiskey had missed in years.

LAST GAMES IN LIGHTWEIGHT BASKETBALL LEAGUE TONIGHT

The city lightweight basketball championship tourney is scheduled to close tonight when the Taftville Celtics and the Battery E Seconds meet at the "Y" gym to play off the tie. Following the game the beautiful trophy cup donated by Lee Clegg, the Main street jeweler, will be presented to the winning quintette and refreshments will be served to the players who participated in the series.

CROWD OF 216,747 FANS SEE OPENING BALL GAMES

New York, April 15.—Small crowds at Philadelphia and St. Louis in the National League prevented all major league baseball opening day attendance records from being shattered today when 216,747 fans flocked through the turnstiles in eight cities. The unofficial figure was 18,253 less than last year when the total of 235,000 was swelled by the 70,000 persons who attended the dedication of the Yankee Stadium.

DUWELLS TO OPEN NEW BALL PARK NEXT MONTH

The newly organized Duwell Baseball association will soon open its new baseball park on the East Side opposite the silk mill and the fans of Norwich will finally have a real fast baseball field centrally located. When taken over three weeks ago the grounds seemed almost impossible but after much expense and much labor this field which at one time was a cow pasture, is slowly rounding into shape and by the second week of May should be one of the best baseball fields in this section of the state. No doubt the people of the city will appreciate the fact that this new park will soon be opened for them and will help in every way to make it a great success. A committee has been selected and will soon visit the fans and receive any donation towards helping the good cause along.

The fans of the city have been pretty well fed up on high priced professional baseball players who have made their appearance in this city, during the past few years and the object of this newly formed Duwell Baseball association is to form a team composed of the fastest players in the city.

Every local lad with any baseball aspirations will be given a chance to play on this team which during the season will represent the city of Norwich. The best teams of the state will be booked to appear here and every possible precaution will be taken to have the rival teams evenly matched. Baseball during the past has been mainly a money making proposition in this city but with local lads playing to represent their home town many a real red hot baseball game should take place on the new Duwell Baseball Field.

BULKELEY OPENS SEASON WITH EASY VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 15.—The Bulkeley High school baseball team opened its season with an easy victory over the Engineers nine of the Dungaree league at the Submarine Base this afternoon. After the dust of the battle cleared the final score was 13 to 5 in the high school players' favor.

Bulkeley took the lead from the very first and had an easy time keeping in the lead throughout. The Engineers never even threatened to catch up with the high school team and were hopelessly outclassed from the very start. The wearers of the Orange and Black were strong in all departments of play and when hits were needed for scores they were made.

The Bulkeley batsmen hopped on O'Neil, the first pitcher to face them, in the very first inning for a total of four runs and made him retire from the game before the inning was two-thirds over. Braun relieved the tottering O'Neil and for a short time fared well. But the Bulkeley players would not be kept down and a barrage of hits laid down in the third inning brought three runs. In the fourth one more run was added and in the sixth the Bulkeley team had a regular merry-go-round on the bases, scoring five runs in this inning, forcing Braun to retire in favor of Harrel. Harrel was on the mound but one inning and he did well the time he occupied the mound.

The Engineers were kept well in hand by the Bulkeley twirlers, Parisi and Daniels, Parisi occupied the mound for four innings and Daniels threw up the ball from the elevated plateau the remaining three. Parisi got himself into hot water on one or two occasions but got himself out of holes in big league manner. Daniels, who relieved Parisi, twirled a good game after he was properly warmed up to the task that stood before him.

Mansfield led the Bulkeley batters with the stick, getting two doubles and a single out of three times at the bat. Booth had two hits out of three to show for his day's work. Dinty Moore for the Engineers played exceptionally well at the dizzy corner, accepting 11 chances.

To see this car is to commend its beauty.

It stands out strikingly, both in the symmetry of its design and in the excellent good taste and smartness of its equipment.

In the final analysis, however, the most popular feature will unquestionably prove to be its exceptional riding ease.

The seats, the new spring suspension and Dodge Brothers special 6-ply balloon-type tires unite in achieving an altogether new efficiency in protecting passengers from the ruts and jolts of the road.

FIRPO REFUSES OFFER OF HALF MILLION TO FIGHT HARRY WILLS AND DEMPSEY

Buenos Aires, April 15.—(By the A. P.)—Luis Angel Firpo has refused to listen to the latest overtures of Tex Rickard, made through the promoter's agent, Juan Homs, for fights in the United States this summer with Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey, and has reiterated his recently announced intention to retire from the ring.

Homs, bearing an attractive offer from New York on behalf of Rickard, was met by Firpo at Montevideo where the Argentine battler several days ago made farewell to Hugh Gartland, his American business manager, who sailed for the United States. Returning here today Firpo said that he had read a letter from Rickard empowering Homs to sign him to an agreement, but had refused to listen to details of the offer.

Homs, however, declares that he has not abandoned hope of influencing Firpo to accept and intends to remain here for a few days, to outline the promoter's proposals.

Denying the latest of reports that he would change his mind about retiring —this one credited in New York to William McCarney, Gartland's partner, to the effect that Firpo intended to sail for the United States on April 24 —the Argentine heavyweight complained that no one seemed to credit his announcement that he did not want to fight any more.

Firpo added that prominent countrymen who are pressing him to change his mind are proving troublesome. As proof of the fact that he does not contemplate an early departure for the United States he said he would attend on April 27 an automobile race at Cordoba in which he had entered a car. Previously it had been reported that he would sail for New York, April 24 on the Southern Cross.

Asked how his contract with Gartland would figure in his plans, Firpo asserted it had no significance as it provided that Gartland could arrange matches only subject to his approval. Aside from this nominal arrangement Firpo declared he had severed business connections with all boxing connections and employes.

Offer Amounts to Half a Million

New York, April 15.—Tex Rickard's latest offer to Firpo was understood here to guarantee the South American approximately $500,000 for fights with Wills and Dempsey. Details could not be learned, however, as Rickard has left the city for a vacation.

Rickard's original offer to Firpo of $300,000 for a Wills battle was rejected by the South American several weeks ago.

FAST BOUTS PLEASE BIG CROWD AT SUB BASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 15.—A howling mob of about 1,000 persons of sporting propensities witnessed the champion boxing bouts held at the Submarine Base Tuesday evening. The bouts were a success from every point of view and the fans present left the government reservation in a highly satisfied manner. The happy hour program provided for something doing during the entire evening once the bouts got under way. People from all sections of the eastern part of the state were on hand to witness the bouts. Commissioner Thomas E. Donahue was also on hand to witness the bouts.

Of the entire five bouts that took place, one resulted in a knockout, two in draws and two in decisions. The singing programs that were arranged by the committee in charge were good. Several numbers were sung over again.

P. J. Bannon stepped out on the platform and announced the first bout of the evening between Kachella of the submarine S-18 and Pankowitz of the first lieutenant's department. Pankowitz entered the ring at 158 pounds and Kachella's weight was announced as 156 1-2 pounds.

This bout, Announcer Bannon said, in his usual stentorian tones, will be for the middleweight championship of the Submarine Base. Kachella went into the ring with a determination to end matters quickly. He secured two knock-downs in the first round and on the second knock-down Pankowitz took the count of nine. Kachella did all the leading and was awarded both the first and second rounds after he pummelled the helpless Pankowitz around the ring from one corner to another, Pankowitz, who was expected to hit the canvas any minute now lingered on and made a remarkable comeback in the next two rounds that won for him a draw. Another round would have been fought, but Pankowitz was in a weakened condition as the result of receiving a hard smash to the right eye that bled profusely throughout the bout.

Anderson of the submarine S-1 entered the ring at 180 1-2 pounds, one pound heavier than O'Rouke, the man he was going to battle. This fight was pretty even all the way and only a whirlwind finish by O'Rouke in the final round won a decision for him. Both O'Rouke and Anderson went at it hammer and tongs almost all the way and both these fighters failed to slow up at any one time. O'Rouke had opportunities for a knockout but failed to follow up his opportunities. Anderson had a trusty left and threatened to bring matters to a close if he was given a chance to measure O'Rouke. But O'Rouke was always on the go and this saved him from a knockout. Anderson had the better punch of the two.

A knockout was registered by Kearney of the Torpedo Shed to Whiteley of the S-1 for the welterweight championship of the base. Although Kearney entered the ring at 142 pounds, four less than Whitely he held the upper hand from the very first round. His infighting gained for him a chance to send his crushing right to the jaw that sent Whitely to the canvas for the full count in the last round. Kearney led throughout and Whitely kept on the defensive. Kearney scored a knock-down in the second round and Whitely took the count of nine before arising. In the last round when Whitely met his doom, Kearney led with a left to Whiteley's stomach and crossed with a right to the jaw felling the latter for the full count. Before Whitely hit the canvas for the full count there was but 20 seconds to go for the last round.

Some science and clever footwork was exhibited by the principals of the bout for the lightweight championship. Woods, who was the prime favorite in this bout, entered the ring at 133 pounds and Antonello of the Barracks weighed 135. From the very first gong this pair were always on the go willing to mix things and the crowd appreciated this fact and applauded them generously. Antonello had a baffling style that made Woods cautious in the early rounds. However, he began to feel his opponent out in the third and fourth round and gained enough points to gain the decision over his Philippine opponent. Woods had a chance to send Antonello down for the count two or three times but failed to follow up when he had his man groggy. When Woods was announced as the winner the crowd took the decision in a manner that showed that it was expected.

The fifth and last bout of the evening proved to be the best of all bouts. The heavyweight championship of the Sub Base was involved in this bout between Spud Murphy of the first lieutenants' department and Gifford of the Sick Bay. Murphy was announced as 160 1-2 and Gifford at 158 1-2. This bout which was to have gone four rounds, had to be extended to seven and then no decision could be reached by the judges. After the seventh round had been fought, the fight was stopped by the Submarine Base commander and he was justified in doing so

The Fellow Who Tried

We hear of the men who succeeded,
Who count their achievement with pride,
Who conquered the while they proceeded,
But what of the fellow who tried?

The mortal, discouraged and weary,
Who battled and strove night and day,
The fellow whose prospects were dreary,
Who tried but who fell by the way.

Who toiled with the faith of a pilgrim,
Who drifted along with the tide,
Who put forth the best that was in him,
But fell out of step in the stride.

Some mortals accumulate riches
And others win honor and fame,
Some crawl from the lowliest ditches
And come out ahead of the game.

While others have failed in the trying
With never a whimper or groan,
The seeds that they planted are dying,
The seeds that were carefully sown.

Some plod on with burdens encumbered
And some forge ahead like a dart,
Some try, though their chances are numbered,
And others fall down at the start.

A toast to the man who succeeded,
Who counts his achievements with pride,
Who conquered the while he proceeded,
A cheer for the fellow who tried.

Ray Hoppman in Good Hardware.

Drifted Over

I did not think I ever would return
To this hill where we watched the sunset's glow
That April night, so many years ago:
Strange how sometimes old memories will burn!
Then we were young, and Spring was at the turn.
Faintly did lines of leaf-mist weave and flow,
And innocents, sky-loving, bluer
Where mingled breath of shad-bush and of fern.

I climbed that slope tonight; I cannot
Just why the hillside called, or why I came;
O'er drifted snows the sunset fires flame,
For it is Winter, and slate-cold the day.
The spot we sat? It does not seem the same
All drifted over, in this snow-sad way!

Agnes Choate Wonson—in the Boston Transcript.

Most people think of steam as something without appreciable weight simply because it is lighter than air. But as a matter of fact a molecule of steam weighs just the same as a molecule of the water from which it came. The difference is, that when water is turned into steam there are fewer molecules in any given space and consequently any given volume weighs less. Above a temperature of 39 degrees Fahrenheit, water gets lighter and lighter as it is heated. Steam on the contrary, gets heavier and heavier if it is heated and compressed for more molecules are crowded into a given space.

NEW LONDON'S NEW POLICE WOMAN GOES TO NEW HAVEN FOR TRAINING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 16.—Bernard S. Crandall has sold a house and lot on Squire street to Charles and Victoria Glassenberg.

Cora Crandall has sold a building lot on Squire street to Charles and Victoria Glassenberg.

William H. Davidson has sold a house and lot on the west side of Montauk avenue to Abraham Gerber.

Patrolman George Labonte, in making his rounds through State street last night discovered the entrance to the dental office of Dr. Ernest J. Abernethy not locked. Dr. Abernethy was summoned and it was then revealed that the place had not been broken into, but that the lock was defective. The place was made secure for the balance of the night.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of C. H. Nicley, stationed at the submarine base to be returned to the owner. The license was suspended a few days ago following the car Nicley was driving being in collision with another machine.

It developed today that the automobile truck in collision late yesterday on Tilley street with a machine owned and operated by Mrs. Mary Kolosky, 53 Squire street, and which resulted in damage to the latter machine, is owned by Ernest T. Watrous of 41 Benham road, Groton. Watrous placed the responsibility for the accident upon Mrs. Kolosky, who, Watrous declared, crowded between parked automobiles in her endeavor to pass his truck.

At the funeral of Attorney Frank Q. Cronin, among the mourners will be delegations of New London lodge of Elks, of which order Mr. Cronin was past exalted ruler and St. John's Literary society. At a special meeting of the former organization this evening it was voted that the members of the order attend the funeral in a body and act as an escort from the home of Mr. Cronin to St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The honorary bearers will be Charles J. Ducy, Graham S. Hislop, Frederick W. Keefe, Cornelius C. Costello, Attorney Frank L. McGuire and Lieut. M. M. Lenny, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base, all special friends of Mr. Cronin. The active bearers will be Sergeants Nelson S. Smith, John J. Cavanaugh, Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, Traffic Officers Frank Linehan and John Courtney and Patrolman Braxton Hill. A squad of police will also act as escort to the procession.

Miss Josephine Lussier of Manwaring street and Robert Royle, Fishers Island, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged.

Miss Loras White, a student nurse at Lawrence hospital, died at the institution this morning where she had been under treatment about two months. Miss White was a daughter of William J. White, 16 Ledyard street. Besides her father she is survived by several brothers and sisters.

The funeral of Eric W. Gustafson, whose death occurred at Lawrence hospital Saturday from bronchial pneumonia, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence in Uncasville and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Oxoboxo lodge, F. & A. M., of which order Mr. Gustafson had been a member many years. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford.

The funeral of Hepsibah DeWolf, wife of Henry A. Champion, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, 14 Franklin street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were A. R. DeWolf, John A. DeWolf, Claude E. DeWolf and George R. Swaney, nephews of Mrs. Champion. Burial was in the family plot in Duck River cemetery.

Peter Falvey, a youth of 19, when presented in the police court this morning, admitted that he had drank a good portion of a half pint of whiskey, and when he was accused of having made an assault that was wholly unprovoked upon Edward E. Burrows, a youth of exemplary character, he admitted that he had brushed against him and that he might have pushed him. The admission indicated that there was something behind the matter that Falvey did not divulge. Burrows declared that Falvey struck him several times and that as a result he (Burrows) was taken into a drugstore nearby and was treated for the abuse he sustained. He said that Falvey was intoxicated. That was what led Falvey to admit that he had drank whiskey, but he said what he drank would not intoxicate him. He said he would not feel the effects of less than half a pint. "Do you make that statement boastfully" queried Judge Prince. Falvey declared that he was only making a statement of fact. He was cautioned that he was only a youth and that it would be for his benedt to abstain from strong drink. The evidence presented was not satisfactory to the court so the case went over until tomorrow morning.

William C. Butler, brother of the late Judge Charles W. Butler, a resident of New York is in this city, his birthplace and where he resided many years, visiting relatives and friends.

Genaro Gentilella is to go to Home hospital this afternoon to undergo an operation for appendicitis. He has not been in his usual health since the close of the last school year, when he was graduated from Chapman Tech and it is now decided that he has appendicitis.

Theodore H. Stead, of 32 Pleasant street, driving near Shaw and Truman street, this afternoon ran over Lyman Meadnis of 317 Pequot avenue, a boy 13. The boy was taken to Lawrence hospital, where an examination revealed that he had suffered only muscular bruises and he was taken to his home. The place where the mishap occurred is a dangerous one because of excessive travel, rendered of larger volume since Howard street has been closed to traffic because of the rebuilding of the bridge on the latter street and repairs to the highway.

Mrs. George A. Gerten of 35 Franklin street, is annoyed by boys crossing her premises on the way to their playground on the Palmer lot in the rear. She has complained to the police of the nuisance and officers will abate it.

A woman representing herself to be a nurse, is selling a tonic by going from house to house. The tonic is put up in Providence, she says, and she represents that it is effectual if used according to direction. But there is an ordinance that forbids the sale of any such tonic except at the drug stores, and Dr. Douglass has made complaint to the police. The nurse had not been discovered at her calling this evening.

Hundreds of friends and acquaintances visited the home of the late Frank Quinn Cronin this evening. The body was lying in the north parlor of the home of his father surrounded by blooms that covered every inch of space about the room and rose in a solid bank wherever there was a chance to put them. Many telegrams have been received from acquaintances in all parts of the state and particularly from the departments in Hartford where Mr. Cronin had a wide acquaintance through his practice as an attorney and his service in the legislature.

The streets of the city show wear that must receive attention from the highway department soon. In every section of the city the streets are badly worn, the result of automobile travel. At the corners the wear is particularly noticeable.

The five successful candidates who took the examination for appointment to the police force as supernumerary officers will be assigned to duty within a short time for the afternoon City Manager William A. Holt stated that he would administer the oath of office to the five young men just as soon as they appeared before him for that purpose. With traffic conditions becoming more congested every day because of the mild weather, additional traffic officers have been assigned to duty and the new officers will be assigned to beats ordinarily patrolled by regular officers, who are to be transferred to traffic duty. The successful candidates are Dennis J. Murphy, 19 Tilley street; C. E. Martin, 548 Williams street; E. H. Reardon, 32 Squire street; Harry C. Sylvia, 19 Winthrop street and W. J. Reardon, 32 Squire street. Murphy is a former pugilist, having appeared in bouts in the state with success, two years ago.

Mrs. Jane Cassidy, formerly of Norwich, who has taken up her residence in New London and who was appointed police woman by City Manager Holt, at the meeting of the city council last evening, will assume the duties of her office May 1st. This was made known today when the city manager informed Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney of the appointment of Mrs. Cassidy and that the police woman had been sent to New Haven for the purpose of receiving instructions on police work as it is done in that city. During her stay in New Haven Mrs. Cassidy will be instructed by Mrs. Nevin, police woman of the New Haven department. Mrs. Cassidy will receive such information as will aid her in the performance of her work for a fortnight, when she will return to New London and report to Captain Pinney. Her principal duties will be to keep in touch with the conditions at the dance halls in the center of the city and especially at Ocean Beach when that resort opens in June. Another duty of the police women will be to investigate cases involving the female sex, together with keeping a vigil over young girls who frequent the streets at night.

WESTERLY

The bi-monthly meeting of Westerly probate court was held in the probate court rooms Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Probate Judge Edward M. Burke. The following business was disposed of:

Estate of Susan G. Williams. First and final account received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Foster Jagger. First and Final account of the Washington Trust Co. and Mary E. Jagger, executors, received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of George Rae. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Theodore T. Picard. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Mary Ellen Picard. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Leola Evelyn Craig. Release to guardian received., Discharge to guardian, Leola A. Craig, received, allowed, and ordered recorded.

Estate of Fred Staiger. Has Frederick Staiger, alias Gottlieb Staiger. Petition of the widow, Robina Staiger that real estate be set off for her received, it being represented that the husband died intestate and without issue. Petition granted.

Court adjourned at 2.45 o'clock.

By deed on file in the Westerly town clerk's office the F. W. Coy Realty Co. April 14th transferred a lot or parcel of land with dwelling and improvements, on the west side of East avenue, to Thomas A. Lynch.

Miss Alice N. Leonard of Newport, R. I., sister of George E. Leonard of Pawcatuck, whom she has frequently visited in town and other friends, was elected city treasurer of Newport Monday night by the Board of Aldermen and the Representative Council. In all probability Miss Leonard is the first woman to hold such office in Rhode Island, if not in New England.

Miss Leonard has been connected with the office of the Newport city treasurer for 16 years, prior to which she was employed by various business firms as an expert accountant. For the past seven years she has been deputy city treasurer, and during the three months' illness of the late city treasurer Taylor and since his death she has been in full charge of the office.

She is a native of Newport, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard, her father being a veteran of the Newport fire department.

Due to an ambiguity in the Newport city charter with reference to what body shall fill vacancies occurring in city offices between elections, Miss Leonard was twice elected to the office. In spite of a ruling by the city solicitor that the Board of Aldermen shall fill such vacancies, the Representative Council in every instance has elected over again the officers chosen by the Aldermen to fill vacancies, and Miss Leonard's case was no exception.

Judge William A. Wilcox of the West Side was a business caller in Narragansett Pier, R. I., Tuesday.

A stated communication of Franklin Lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., was held in the Masonic rooms on High street Tuesday evening.

Misses Grace Stantonand Miss McGrath of Stonington were callers in Westerly Tuesday.

Miss Emma Huter has returned to her home in Westerly from the Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The funeral of J. Burnside Babcock, 62, who died at his home in Varietyville early Friday evening, took place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Born in the old family homestead in Varietyville, March 23, 1862, Mr. Babcock was the son of James and Sarah Lewis Babcock. Twice married his first wife was Hattie Phillips. They had two children, Alice, residing at home and Edwin, killed during the World war in an explosion at the Newport Torpedo station. He is survived by his second wife, Alice M. Babcock, and two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Main and Miss Jessie Babcock, both residing in Moosup.

Burial was in River Bend cemetery, the bearers being members of Bowen lodge, No. 30, Knights of Pythias.

Officiating at the funeral of Mrs. Pamale Esther Watrous Babcock, whose death occurred Friday, and which was held at her home at 7 School street, Monday afternoon at 3 p. m., was Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church. Burial was in the Babcock lot, River Bend cemetery, the bearers being Otis L. Burdick and Thomas McKenzie of Deborah chapter, No. 3, Order of the Eastern Star of which Mrs. Babcock was a past matron and charter member, John C. Lougheed and Edward Congdon of Westerly, DeWayne Burdick, of Stamford, and George Perkins, of Mystic.

Holy Week at St. Michael's church to be observed as follows: Tuesday and Wednesday—Mass at 7.30. Confessions Wednesday afternoon and evening in English, French, Polish and Italian.

Holy Thursday—Holy Communion at 5.30 and 7; high mass at 8 o'clock, followed by procession to the repository. Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament throughout the day and evening until 9.30 o'clock.

Good Friday—8 a. m., unveiling of the crucifix and consecration by the clergy; mass of the pre-sanctified; veneration of the cross by the laity. 2 p. m., stations of the cross and veneration of the cross. 4 p. m. stations of the cross in Italian and veneration of the cross.

Holy Saturday—8 a. m. blessing of the new fire, Paschal candle, Easter water, baptismal water; reading of the prophecies; Litany of the saints; high mass.

Saturday afternoon, confessions for women and children; Saturday evening, confessions for men only.

Easter Sunday—Men's communion Sunday. Four masses, 6.30, 8, 9.15. High mass at 10.30, followed by Benediction of the most blessed sacrament. Gantz' mass sung by the full choir, Raymond Mullaney, violin accompaniment. Music at 9.15 mass by Boy and Girl Scout choir under direction of George F. Chapman.

One hundred children trained by the sisters of St. Michael's school will take partin the procession Thursday and Friday mornings.

Joseph Carney, 7, son of George Carney, a painter, residing at 103 Franklin street, sustained painful injuries Tuesday afternoon, about 4.30 o'clock. In company with other children he was swinging on a 4-inch steam pipe in the greenhouse of Dobrizinia & Sons, 97 Franklin street, when the pipe hanger gave way and the pipe in falling struck the boy on his right leg, resulting in the fracture of both bones below the knee, Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called and gave the injured boy attention.

Masonic club members enjoyed an excellent musical program in the Masonic room, Barber Memorial building, Monday night. The entertainers were the Overseas male quartette, Stanley D. Rogers, Walter L. Rogers, Robert A. Lawder and Ray A. Gardner, the last named a former resident of Stonington, who will again be heard in Westerly as the bass soloist in the Good Friday evening services with the choir of 50 voices at Christ Episcopal church.

Most Worshipful Arthur G. Newell, grand master of Masons in Rhode Island, made an unannounced visit to Franklin lodge Tuesday evening, was informally received and made a short talk before his departure. He is a past master of Barney Merry lodge, Pawtucket, R. I.

The annual federal inspection of Battery E, 243rd Field Artillery, was held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the state armory on Dixon street. During the day the property and equipment at the local armory was gone over and this was followed by company inspection in the evening, with Capt. Christy McConnell in command of the company, the first platoon under First Lieut. John F. Dateon and the second platoon under First Sergeant Clarence Maxwell, in the absence of Second Lieutenant Sydney Moorehouse, whose resignation took effect March 20. There were 49 members of the company on the drill shed floor when the inspection began. The federal inspecting officers were Lieut.-Col.-Schartle of the Citizens' Military Training camp last year, and Sergeants H. E. Ray and T. Coy with Capt. Murphy instructor. Representing Rhode Island was the commanding officer, Col. C. R. D. Wells, Major J. J. Collins, Lieuts. Danaker and Moore. The company was required to fall in as a battery and then change to infantry formation. The inspection of rifles was expedited by having the men draw his rifle belt, port his gun and came to shoulder arms with the piece held horizontally so that the barrel might be clearly inspected from the rear. Following the infantry formation and battery drill, signal practice and first aid were given. An excellent showing was made by the battery, an improvement over last year.

Westerly public school construction debt was bonded in the sum of $350,000 by a special meeting of the Westerly town council held at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. The notes of the town, which have been issued from time to time in payment for the building of the new grammar schools, corner of Pleasant and High streets, Westerly, and the new school at Bradford, were taken up by this bond issue, which is to be offered May 1. The issue will be in series form at 4 1-2 per cent and $10,000 is issued each year for 30 years, and $15,000 each year for the following 10 years. Councilmen present at the meeting were President Campbell, Morrison, Nichols and Smith.

MYSTIC

A family party gathered Tuesday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn, when Mrs. Bucklyn's mother, Mrs. Permelia A. Watson observed her ninety-fifth birthday. Mrs. Watson is remarkably young looking for her age, her mind is keen and she is deeply interested in the affairs of the day and in the people she has always known. There were fifteen in the company which sat down to the birthday dinner, four generations being represented among those present. One outstanding feature of the feast was a birthday cake topped by ninety-five candles. Mrs. Watson received many gifts and numerous cards from friends here in Mystic, Norwich, Danielson, Brooklyn and other places. Those present were Mrs. Watson's four daughters, Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn, Mrs. Lydia Burdick, of Providence, Mrs. George A. Witter of Brooklyn, Conn., and Mrs. Ida Frink of Sterling, Conn., Miss Isetta Lewis of Providence, Hermon Frink and Mortimer Frink of Sterling, George A. Witter of Brooklyn, Conn., Miss Ida Beverly of Westerly, Miss Clara Frink of Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bucklyn. Mrs. Watson is of cheerful temperament and her keen sense of humor is an inspiration to those with whom she converses. Friends are wishing her many more happy days.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Witter of Brooklyn, Conn., are guests of Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn.

The residence of Frank H Hinckley on Broadway is being renovated and painted.

The annual meeting of Elm Grove Cemetery Association was held Monday afternoon at the Mystic River National bank. Reports for the year were read and the following officers were elected: President, Frederic Denison; secretary and treasurer, Jesse B. Stinson; trustees, B. L. Holmes, Clarence T. Noyes, Jesse B. Stinson, A. H. Schoonover and Henry B. Noyes.

Mrs. Florine Larkin and Mrs. Alice Ledwidge of Westerly were guests Tuesday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mabbett.

Williams Woman's Relief Corps, No. 42 met Tuesday evening in G. A. R. Hall.

Mrs. Ada Sweet, Mrs. Lillian Price, Mrs. Sarah Van Pelt, Mrs. Bertha Asherafi and Mrs. Catherine Gilbert went to Willimantic Tuesday to attend the Rebekah State Assembly.

Mrs. Ira F. Noyes has returned from a stay of several weeks in New Haven.

At the meeting of Charity and Relief Lodge, No. 71 Tuesday evening, the entered apprentice degree was conferred on a class of candidates.

Tomorrow (Thursday) evening a union communion service of the Methodist churches of Mystic, Old Mystic and Noank is to be held with Noank Methodist church.

Vernon Clarke broke his arm near the wrist Monday while cranking an automobile, and Tuesday went to Jewett City to consult Dr. Sweet.

Carl Thompson of Gales Ferry was a caller in the village Tuesday.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WESTERLY

The bi-monthly meeting of Westerly probate court was held in the probate court rooms Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Probate Judge Edward M. Burke. The following business was disposed of:

Estate of Susan G. Williams. First and final account received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Foster Jagger. First and Final account of the Washington Trust Co. and Mary E. Jagger, executors, received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of George Rae. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Theodore T. Picard. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Mary Ellen Picard. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Leola Evelyn Craig. Release to guardian received., Discharge to guardian, Leola A. Craig, received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Fred Staiger, alias Frederick Staiger, alias Gottlieb Staiger. Petition of the widow, Robina Staiger that real estate be set off for her received, it being represented that the husband died intestate and without issue. Petition granted.

Court adjourned at 2.45 o'clock.

By deed on file in the Westerly town clerk's office the F. W. Coy Realty Co. April 14th transferred a lot or parcel of land with dwelling and improvements, on the west side of East avenue, to Thomas A. Lynch.

Miss Alice N. Leonard of Newport, R. I., sister of George E. Leonard of Pawcatuck, whom she has frequently visited in town and other friends, was elected city treasurer of Newport Monday night by the Board of Aldermen and the Representative Council. In all probability Miss Leonard is the first woman to hold such office in Rhode Island, if not in New England.

Miss Leonard has been connected with the office of the Newport city treasurer for 16 years, prior to which she was employed by various business firms as an expert accountant. For the past seven years she has been deputy city treasurer, and during the three months' illness of the late city treasurer Taylor and since his death she has been in full charge of the office.

She is a native of Newport, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard, her father being a veteran member of the Newport fire department.

Due to an ambiguity in the Newport city charter with reference to what body shall fill vacancies occurring in city offices between elections, Miss Leonard was twice elected to the office, in spite of a ruling by the city solicitor that the Board of Aldermen shall fill such vacancies, the Representative Council in every instance has elected over again the officers chosen by the Aldermen to fill vacancies, and Miss Leonard's case was no exception.

Judge William A. Wilcox of the West Side was a business caller in Narragansett Pier, R. I., Tuesday.

A stated communication of Franklin lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., was held in the Masonic rooms on High street, Tuesday evening.

Miss Grace Stanfomand Miss McGrath of Stonington were callers in Westerly Tuesday.

Miss Emma Huter has returned to her home in Westerly from the Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The funeral of J. Burnside Babcock, 62, who died at his home in Varietyville early Friday evening, took place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Born in the old family homestead in Varietyville, March 21, 1865, Mr. Babcock was the son of James and Sarah Lewis Babcock. Twice married his first wife was, Hattie Phillips. They had two children, Alice, residing at home and Edwin, killed during the World war in an explosion at the Newport Torpedo station. He is survived by his second wife, Alice Hall Babcock, and two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Main and Miss Jessie Babcock, both residing in Moosup.

Burial was in River Bend cemetery, the bearers being members of Bowen lodge, No. 30, Knights of Pythias.

Officiating at the funeral of Mrs. Fannie Esther Watrous Babcock, whose death occurred Friday, and which was held at her home at 7 School street, Monday afternoon at 3 p. m., was Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church. Burial was in the Babcock lot, River Bend cemetery, the bearers being Otis L. Burdick and Thomas McKenzie of Deborah chapter, No. 8, Order of the Eastern Star of which Mrs. Babcock was a past matron and charter member, John C. Loughead and Edward Congdon of Westerly, DeWayne Burdick, of Stamford, and George Perkins, of Mystic.

Holy Week at St. Michael's church is being observed as follows: Tuesday and Wednesday—Mass at 7.30. Confessions Wednesday afternoon and evening in English, French, Polish and Italian.

Holy Thursday—Holy Communion at 5.30 and 7; high mass at 8 o'clock, followed by procession to the repository. Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament throughout the day and evening until 9.30 o'clock.

Good Friday—8 a. m., unveiling of the crucifix and veneration by the clergy; mass of the pre-sanctified; veneration of the cross by the laity. 2 p. m., stations of the cross and veneration of the cross. 4 p. m., stations of the cross in Italian and veneration of the cross.

Holy Saturday—8 a. m., blessing of the new fire, Paschal candle, Easter water, baptismal water; reading of the prophecies; Litany of the saints; high mass.

Saturday afternoon, confessions for women and children; Saturday evening, confessions for men only.

Easter Sunday—Men's communion Sunday. Four masses, 6.30, 8, 9.15. High mass at 10.30, followed by Benediction of the most blessed sacrament. Gams' mass sung by the full choir, Raymond Mullaney, violin accompanist. Music at 9.15 mass by Boy and Girl Scout choir under direction of George P. Chapman.

One hundred children trained by the sisters of St. Michael's school will take partin the procession Thursday and Friday mornings.

Joseph Carney, 7, son of George Carney, a painter, residing at 103 Franklin street, sustained painful injuries Tuesday afternoon, about 4.30 o'clock. In company with other children he was swinging on a 4-inch steam pipe in the greenhouse of Dobrindnia & Sons, 97 Franklin street, when the pipe hanger gave way and the pipe in falling struck the boy on his right leg, resulting in the fracture of both bones below the knee. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called and gave the injured boy attention.

Masonic club members enjoyed an excellent musical program in the Masonic room, Barber Memorial building, Monday night. The entertainers were the Overseas male quartette, Stanley D. Rogers, Walter L. Rogers, Robert A. Lawder and Ray A. Girdner, the last named a former resident of Stonington, who will again be heard in Westerly as the bass soloist in the Good Friday evening services with the choir of 50 voices at Christ Episcopal church.

Most Worshipful Arthur G. Newell, grand master of Masons in Rhode Island, made an unannounced visit to Franklin lodge Tuesday evening, was informally received and made a short talk before his departure. He is a past master of Barney Merry lodge, Pawtucket, R. I.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET CONTINUED BEARISH.

New York, April 15.—Bear pressure was renewed against today's stock market but met with little success except in the rubber and oil shares. The improvement in the rest of the list was attributed to the buying based on the belief that many stocks had been oversold.

Activity and strength of the copper shares was one of the features of the session. Buying of these issues undoubtedly was influenced by speculative expectation that the recent sharp reduction in the stocks of the refined product and the increased foreign demand would lead to higher commodity prices. Gains of a point or so were registered by American Smelting, Utah, Kennecott, and Calumet and Arizona.

Weakness of the rubber issue was due to the passing of the Kelly Springfield 8 per cent. dividend. New Low records for the year were established by Kelly Springfield common at 12 1-2, U. S. Rubber common at 38 and the first preferred at 68, but all three issues made good recovery from their low prices of the day.

Active short coverings in the steel group was reported to have been inspired by the publication of statistics showing that pig iron booking for the last week totaled nearly 4,000 tons, the best weekly showing in the last month, and by the return to this country of E. H. Gary, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation who is expected to have something optimistic to say regarding business conditions.

Steel common touched 97 1-8 for a net gain of 1 3-8 with approximately similar gains being recorded by Bethlehem, Republic, and Gulf States Steel.

Studebaker, which has been under under considerable pressure for the past month, rallied 2 points to 54 1-2. A concerted drive was made, however, against a group of so-called Chicago specialities. Chicago Yellow Cab was hammered down five points to 52 1-4 and then rallied to 53. Yellow Cab broke 8 points to 66 and then rallied to 67 1-2, while Stewart-Warner and Montgomery Ward established new 1924 lows at 67 and 23, respectively, the former, however, regaining most of its loss. Selling of these issues was attributed to Chicago professional traders. Fisher Body jumped 8 points to 200 in the late trading on rumors that the General Motors Company was planning to make an offer for the minority stock interest in that company.

Rails held relatively steady throughout the session, price movements in this group were rather narrow except in Norfolk and Western which dropped from 128 1-4 to 125 1-8 and then rallied to 127 1-4.

Call money held at 4 1-4 per cent. all day. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

Establishment of a new 1924 high record by French francs around 6 1-4 cents was the feature of the irregular foreign exchange market. Japanese yen broke 80 points to 41.10 cents, the year's low, in reflection of congressional action on the Japanese exclusion measure. Demand sterling advanced about a cent to around $4.35 or within one cent of the year's high on the announcement that Great Britain had approved the report of the Dawes reparations committee.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 15.—Stock prices moved irregularly lower in today's market as selling pressure was renewed against the oil issues.

While the net losses in the active oil shares were held to fractions except for a three point drop in Prairie Oil and Gas net losses of 2 to 7 points were registered by Borne and Scrymser, Buckeye Pipe, South Pennsylvania Oil, Solar Refining and Swan and Finch. Fear of over production continued to be the impelling reason for the selling of these issues.

A bear raid on Glen Alden Coal which forced that stock down nearly four points, was the feature of the industrial list. National Teal closed 3 points higher at 37 in reflection of the proposed declaration of a stock dividend of 150 per cent. This represented a gain of 15 points since last Saturday. Ford Motors of Canada advanced four points to 447 on a few odd lot sales.

Establishment of a new high record by Kay Copper at 1 1-4 in sympathy with the strength of the copper issues on the "Big Board" was the feature of the mining list.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 15.—Dissolution of the syndicate which handled the sale of the new Japanese 6 1-2s, coming simultaneously with the senate's approval of the Japanese exclusion measure, brought heavy offerings of the bonds into the market today, forcing the price down 1 1-4 points to a new low figure at 91 1-4. Weakness of the Japanese issues together with erratic fluctuations of Wilson & Company liens unsettled the entire list.

Although bankers were certain that the critical political situation would have no effect on the financial relations of the two countries, heaviness of other Japanese issues, including the government's 4s, Tokio 5s, and Oriental Development 6s, reflected general uneasiness. Two blocks of the 6 1-2s, totaling $250,000, were absorbed by the market at the offering price but the steady flow of orders which followed forced a gradual decline.

With Wilson & Company stockholders holding their annual meeting today the erratic movements of the company's bonds enlivened trading in domestic issues. Reports that sinking fund provisions of the convertible obligations would be altered under the new financing plans brought declines of 5 to 12 points, from which levels buying support was effective in causing rallies of 9 to 16 points. Net gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded by all issues at the close.

Profit taking cancelled most of the gains registered by French governmental and municipal bonds today, and also made inroads into the railroad list.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 15.—Fresh downturns in the price of grain took effect today through general lack of buying support. The wheat closing was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 2-2c lower. May $1.01 1-2 and July $1.03 1-2 with corn 3-8c to 1-2c down, oats a shade to 2-8c off, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

Notwithstanding that no decided selling pressure developed in the wheat market exceptionally favorable crop reports from the southwest acted as a weight on values and so, too, did meagerness of cash demand here for either wheat or corn. Under such circumstances, little attention was given to adverse conditions said to be manifest in numerous sections east of the Mississippi river where the beginning of harvest will be much later than for the southwest. What slight purchasing of wheat there was here today came chiefly from the northwest and appeared for the most part during the late trade. On the other hand, some foreign selling earlier was noted.

Corn prices were inclined to sag owing more or less to talk of larger receipts here when seeding of oats is complete.

CONFLICTING MOVEMENTS IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKET

New York, April 15.—Political developments today were responsible for conflicting movements in the foreign exchange market, carrying French francs up to a new high record for the year above 6 1-4 cents and forcing a reaction in Japanese yen to a 1924 low at 14.10 cents.

Germany's ready acceptance of the experts' report, combined with Great Britain's approval, resulted in fresh buying of both sterling and French francs and a stiffening of the nominal quotation for German marks. A new top figure of 6.29 cents was established by the francs before it reacted at the close to 6.18 1-2 a net gain of about 4 points for the day. Sterling, selling above $4.35, was within a cent of the year's peak price, but shaded fractionally at the close. Spanish pesetas also climbed to new high levels around 13.70 cents.

Senate approval of the Japanese exclusion measure contributed to the 30-point drop in yen and also was reflected in the weakness of Japanese bonds.

DESTRUCTIVE BRUSH FIRE IN SUBURBS OF STAMFORD

Stamford, April 15.—Wade from a fox hunter's shot gun are thought to have started a brush fire in the woods on th eRockhill farm five miles from the city's center today, and the spreading flames later destroyed three buildings, damaged two and entailed a loss of between $50,000 and $75,000.

The fire sweeping through brush and grassland and into the woods went over a wide area. Firemen from this city and Greenwich joined in an effort to control it, the former laying 1200 feet of hose from a pond to protect buildings. The main barn was partly destroyed, the loss in this instance being fully $40,000. The three structures entirely burned were much smaller.

The property was purchased some years ago by Captain E. D. Greene, who afterwards was prosecuted by the federal government on fraud charges. He lost the farm and the present owner is Mrs. Delia Martin, of New York city, whose son John, operates the enterprise. Captain Greene fitted up the barns with lavish outlay and the farm became known as one of the best for sanitary arrangements in this section and its output had a national reputation.

Shortly before the fire was discovered shots were heard in the woods and fox hunters were known to be out. The only water available for apparatus was in a small pond on the property.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The soldier bonus bill was reported to the senate.

The senate adopted a Japanese exclusion amendment to the immigration bill.

President Coolidge spoke at the unveiling of Arizona's stone in the Washington monument.

The house committee investigating the shipping board questioned Commissioner Plummer of the board.

Major General Leonard Wood reported to the war department against immediate Philippine independence.

The house adopted a senate resolution for $1,000,000 to relieve drought-stricken New Mexico farmers.

The senate rejected the nomination of Samuel Knight, of California, to be special government counsel in oil prosecution suits.

Howard Manington, friend of former Attorney General Daugherty, refused to appear before the Daugherty investigating committee.

The Swift and Armour interests went into court with a brief declaring void the famous packers' consent decree with the government.

The senate oil committee devoted another day running down reports of an oil deal at the Chicago republican convention of 1920.

The democratic assault on President Coolidge's message relating to investigations was renewed in the senate and met with a defense from republicans.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, opposed changes for the present in the transportation act before the senate interstate commerce committee.

Coffee was unknown to the ancient Romans; but they had cloves.

PROGRESS IN LITIGATION OVER SEARLES ESTATE

New York, April 15.—Letters written by the late aged millionaire, Edward F. Searles to Michael Angelo Ellison, a bellboy, were declared without significance by William M. K. Olcott, Ellison's attorney, testifying today at the trial of the $325,000 suit of Judge Harry C. Curtis of Warwick, R. I., against Victor A. Searles, nephew of the Methuen millionaire, for legal services.

Judge, Olcott declared the letters a sign of "weak-mindedness of the millionaire," but deplored the fact that the boy "pampered" and treated for five years as the son of a wealthy man, was cut off in the will with $10,000.

The bulk of the $35,000,000 Searles' estate was left to the man's secretary, Arthur T. Walker, who, Judge Curtis said, was jealous of Ellison's intimacy with the millionaire.

LEGAL NOTICES

ORDER OF NOTICE
To All Persons Whom It May Concern.
Notice is hereby given you that at a meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich held on the 7th day of April, 1924, there was presented to said Court of Common Council the following petition of The Connecticut Company, to wit:
To the Honorable Mayor and Board of Common Council, City of Norwich, Connecticut.
THE PETITION OF THE CONNECTICUT COMPANY, RESPECTFULLY REPRESENTS:
1. That it is a Company organized and existing under and by virtue of a charter granted by the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, for the purpose of constructing and operating street railways, and having its principal office at New Haven in said state.
2. That it has the right to construct and maintain lines of poles and wires through certain highways in the City of Norwich.
3. That it desires to relocate and reconstruct certain of said pole lines and that it has caused a plan to be made showing such changes in the location of said poles and wires as are proposed to be made in such highways, which plan is entitled: "The Connecticut Company. Combination trolley and lighting poles—to be used jointly between the Connecticut company and City of Norwich. Gas and Electric Department. Office of Chief Engineer Power and Equipment, New Haven, Conn. Scale ... inch = 1 ft. Date March 7, 1924. Approved: C. B., Supr. of Lines. Approved: P. W. R., C. E. P. & E., O.-in-C."
Wherefore it prays your Honorable Body, after public notice and hearing thereon, to accept and adopt said plan and make all necessary orders for the removal and relocation of said permanent structure not of this company in said highways, to render available the location of said railway and its structures as approved by your Honorable Board.
Dated at Norwich, Conn., this 19th day of March, 1924.
THE CONNECTICUT COMPANY.
By S. Anderson, Mgr.
That said petition was referred to the Committee on Public Works.
That also at said meeting the following report of the Board of Water Commissioners was received and accepted, to wit:
"To the Honorable Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich.
Gentlemen: At the regular meeting of the Board of Water Commissioners, held Friday evening, April 4th, 1924, the following schedule of meter rates was adopted subject to the approval of the Court of Common Council:
It was also voted that, if approved by your Honorable Body, it be effective on bills due October 1st, 1924, for water used during the three months preceding.
SCHEDULE OF METER RATES
500 cu. ft. or less—$1.25 per quarter.
500 to 750 cu. ft.—$1.50 per quarter.
750 to 1,000 cu. ft.—$2.00 per quarter.
More than 1,000 cu. ft and less than 5,000 cu. ft.—$2.00 per thousand.
For more than 5,000 cu. ft. and less than 50,000 cu. ft, $10 for 5,000 cu. ft, and $1.00 per thousand in excess of 5,000 cu. ft.
For more than 50,000 cu. ft.—$55.00 for 50,000 cu. ft, and 50 cents per thousand in excess of 50,000 cu. ft.
Respectfully submitted,
BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS.
By WILLIAM H. CALLAHAN,
April 7, 1924. Clerk."
It was further resolved by said meeting that a public hearing on the matters contained in said petition of the Connecticut Company and said report of the Board of Water Commissioners be given at the Council Chambers on the 16th day and that legal notice be given to all persons interested to appear, if they see cause, and to be heard.
YOU WILL ACCORDINGLY TAKE NOTICE, That a hearing on the matters set forth in said petition of The Connecticut Company and said report of the Water Commissioners will be given to all persons interested on the 16th day of April, 1924, at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Council Chamber in the City of Norwich, State of Connecticut.
To either Sheriff of the City of Norwich to serve and return.
Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 9th day of April, 1924.
MILO R. WATERS,
Mayor of the City of Norwich.
State of Connecticut, County of New London, ss, City of Norwich, April 9th, 1924.
The within and foregoing is a true copy of the original order of notice placed in my hands by the Mayor of the City of Norwich to serve and return. Attest:
MAURICE B. LOOBY,
Sheriff of the City of Norwich.

OFFICE OF BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS
City Hall, Norwich, Conn.
SPRINKLING NOTICE
All persons, whether owner or tenant, wishing to use water for sprinkling purposes, must have a written permit from the Board of Water Commissioners, unless water is taken from metered service.
Unless notice to the contrary be given at the Water Department Office in the City Hall, all bills issued for sprinkling last year will be considered payable again this year.

TAFTVILLE

The rogue grounds on Ponemah heights have been repaired and games are being played there each evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Young and Miss Gertrude H. Young of North Third avenue have been visitors early in the week in Meriden, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pollard and son, Ernest, Jr., have moved from South B street to South Second avenue.

Men employed by the state highway commission have been working this week on Norwich avenue and the Newent road in Lisbon.

David Lambert of South A street has returned from a stay of several days in Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. George Adams of Ocsum road have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ensbler of New York.

A local angler who has spent considerable time whipping the streams in this vicinity and has not yet made a catch, was helped to go home with a prize, when several of his friends found his car stopped outside a Norwich pharmacy, and tied a huge codfish to his steering wheel.

The three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beausejour narrowly escaped serious injury and perhaps death when she was struck by the northbound 2.10 trolley on South Second avenue, Tuesday afternoon. The little girl attempted to run across the street and became confused when she saw the car and ran against it. The motorman stopped the trolley immediately and the little girl was found underneath the rear steps very close to the wheels. She was rushed to the office of Dr. George Thompson on North Second avenue where it was found that she had a bad cut at the base of the skull. Dr. Thompson attended her and it is believed that there will be no bad results.

Selectman William Murray was a business caller in the village Monday evening.

George Kay has accepted a position as overseer of mule spinning at a mill in Northbridge, Mass. Mr. Kay was a former Taftville resident and was employed in the Ponemah mills. For some time he has been second hand in the mule room of the Lawton Mills corporation of Plainfield.

The children's dancing class taught by Mrs. William Ballantyne Penfield met Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 in Ponemah hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leurette and family have taken a house on North A street.

A farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Lake on Norwich avenue Saturday evening in honor of James Newcombe. Mr. Lake presented Mr. Newcombe a gold cigarette case. Games of all kinds were enjoyed by the guests. At 9.30 o'clock a buffet lunch was served and piano selections were rendered by Mrs. James Stewart of Baltic. The out of town guests were from Plainfield, Norwich, Jewett City, Baltic and Taftville. Mr. Newcombe was discharged from the U. S. Coast Guard academy, New London, on Monday, April 14, and left in the evening for his home, Richmond Virginia.

GOLD WATCH PRESENTED TO SUPT. W. L. O'BRIEN

W. Lester O'Brien, superintendent of the Shore Line Street Railway Co. and the Groton & Stonington Traction company, who expects to complete his duties at Westerly within the next few weeks, was presented a gold Hamilton watch, with gold chain and Elks' charm, by the G. & S. employees. Mr. O'Brien has been popular with the men and has worked for their welfare since taking charge of the division.

VERDICT OF $8,000 IN SUIT OVER DEATH OF ARTHUR W. BATES

A verdict for $8,000 damages, which is about $500 more than was awarded on the first trial of the case, was returned by the jury in the superior court at New London, Tuesday, in favor of Mrs. Mary Bates of Preston, administratrix, in her suit against George W. Carroll of this city, who she sued for $25,000 damages on account of the death of her husband, Arthur W. Bates.

The jury was out about an hour before it returned with its verdict at 4.55 o'clock. The evidence was concluded late Tuesday morning and Attorney Telley E. Babcock made the opening argument for the plaintiff before the noon recess. In the afternoon, Attorney E. W. Brodeur made the argument for the defendant, which was followed by the closing argument for the plaintiff by Attorney Arthur M. Brown and the charge to the jury by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin.

The original action in this case was started as a result of injuries received on Oct. 24, 1920, in the town of Lisbon when a Stutz car driven by Mr. Carroll in attempting to pass the car occupied by Bates and others failed to swing wide enough and struck Bates' car. The car turned over and was badly damaged and Bates alleged that he was seriously injured.

While this action was pending the plaintiff on Aug. 28, 1921, died from the effects of an internal tumor and his widow filed an amended complaint in which she alleged that the tumor was the direct result of the injuries received at the time of the accident and she asked for $25,000 damages. The suit was heard in the civil superior court in New London county and a verdict of $7,500 was returned in favor of the plaintiff. Motions for a new trial to set aside the verdict failed and counsel for the defense appealed to the supreme court of errors. The supreme court sent the case back to the superior court and ordered a new trial.

The defendant denied that his machine hit the Bates car, but claimed that the damage to the car and the injury to the people in it was caused by the Bates car hitting the fence.

The jurors in the case were Charles E. Field, Edwin B. Foster, Charles W. Elliot, Herman Daniels, Hervey E. Rogers, all of New London, Frank G. Denison of Groton, Frank O. Burroughs, Alexander Marr and Albert F. Kenyon of Stonington, Albert W. Avery of Montville, Willis E. Miner and Edward Grandit., of Waterford.

There are three other cases pending as a result of the same accident including the one brought by M. E. Bates, A. Halyburton and F. Halyburton. None of these three cases has been tried yet and they will have to be tried before a different jury than those that heard the first case.

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MOTOR METER THEFT

At the Tuesday morning session of the city court Judge H. H. Pettis discharged Francis Bazinet, Louis Bazinet, Romeo Archibeau, of Taftville, and Calvin W. Edmunds, of New London, all charged with theft of a motor meter from an automobile owned by William E. McKenzie of this city. Mr. McKenzie testified to parking his machine on Shetuckot street below the Aetna Bowling alleys about 11.45 o'clock Saturday night. When he returned to the machine at 12.15 the motor meter was gone. He reported the theft to the police.

Officer Peter Driscoll told of seeing the men on Shetucket street and of one of them going down Shetucket street. A Jewett City officer testified that he found a motor meter in the car used by the accused quartette when they arrived in Jewett City. The four men denied that they had been around the Majestic building.

Joseph Berchard was presented in chambers on a non-support charge and his case was continued for six months. John Geno, charged with breach of the peace had his case nolled on payment of $5.

Harry N. Howard charged with failure to have his auto driver's license with him had his case nolled on payment of $3. Howard reported at police headquarters Monday night that a team of runaway horses had hit his machine when it was parked on West Thames street near a garage. The horses belonged to a man named Fallochn. Howard was summoned to court when it was found he was without his driver's license.

MOTORING TO WYOMING, SPENT NIGHT IN NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 15.—"We're going west, stranger", said Owen Armstrong, of Providence, to an old pal of his, P. J. Arrigan, now resident here, when Teddy happened to meet Owen and his traveling buddies down in the business section Tuesday afternoon. With Armstrong were George and John Webster, brothers.

They had an automobile all decked up with flags and other regalia, and they had a camping outfit, good warm clothing and a trainload of enthusiasm and pep. They are bound for Cheyenne, Wyoming, a town they expect to make sometime in July.

Danielson happened to have the honor of their first brief stop-over, after leaving Providence Tuesday morning about 10:30.

They left here for Norwich, planning to spend the night in that city and to get in some time at the Y. M. C. A., where Armstrong gave an exhibition last year, while he was making his way across the continent on foot.

Their journey west will be made by leisurely stages. The trio has the necessary abilities for earning a comfortable living while motoring across the long trail that finally will bring them to the home of Armstrong's uncle in Wyoming.

Automobile Ran Into Truck

An automobile driven by Walter Streach of Dunham street ran into the rear end of a motor truck of the New System Wet Wash, Taftville in front of the post office Tuesday afternoon. The truck was driven by George R. Lamanoreaux. The truck had bolts broken out of a step and the other car sustained a broken headlight and bent mudguard.

NORWICH ROSE CROIX TO OBSERVE PASCHAL FEAST

Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix of the Ancient Scottish Rite of Masonry will observe the feast of the Paschal Lamb Maundy Thursday at 8.20 p. m. at the First Baptist church in New London. Every knight is summoned to gather at this solemn ceremony to break the bread and drink the wine to which all knights are entitled by the faithful performance of duty. The observance of the feast is obligatory and all knights are to fulfill one of the light obligations to the sacred order of the Rose Croix. Nothing but physical inability, serious illness or the most imperative call to duty elsewhere will excuse any knight from observance of this service.

The doors of the church will be open at 7.30 so all knights and their guests are expected to be seated in order that all confusion during the ceremony of extinguishing the light be avoided. The doors will close at 8.15 and will be tyled until the close of the beautiful ceremony.

Admission to the church will be by card only to guests not members of Norwich chapter.

SPEAKER AT MEETING AT BELT CO. PLANT

Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church, the speaker at noon Tuesday at the meeting at the Norwich Belt Manufacturing Co., under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., spoke on the topic, "In The Name of The Lord." In part he said:

Holy Week has come to be a precious week to many people. The real purpose of the Lenten period is to prepare our hearts and souls for the anniversary of the greatest event the world has yet known, the resurrection of the Saviour of the world. If we carefully follow the events through Passion Week we see a week of mingled joy and sorrow, injustice and grief. Finally joy came to the supreme position in the act of resurrection.

The week opened with a day of triumph. It closed with a day of triumph. Yet every act during the week was "in the name of Lord," on Jesus part of course. In fact throughout His life this was Jesus' criterion. His words were tested by it. We notice a great difference between His words and sayings and those of others. Socrates lived a hero during his years in the army. He lived after the convictions of his heart as a judge. He is reported to have uttered many wise sentences. The book of proverbs is a collection of the wisdom of many minds, probably from several races of people and covering many years. We hold them inspired by God. Yet the wonderful words of a great hero of the past, or the proverbs become dim when placed beside the reported sermon Jesus preached on the mountain side.

Jesus' will was governed by these same words, "in the name of the Lord." He determined that in the beginning of His ministry after forty days of hard thinking and intense prayer. As a result we see every act of His life stamped by that intention. Jesus was absolutely sincere. He was honest. He was consistent to His teaching. If our Christ had been otherwise his enemies would have published it before the world. They tried their best to do that very thing. Soon after His ministry began spies were hired to dog His footsteps. Finding Him true to Himself in this respect the best lawyers of the times were procured to entangle him with puzzling questions. In every case Jesus sent them away confounded. Each word, His will and every act in Jesus' life can be labeled with "in the name of the Lord."

Jesus was perfect. We may never gain perfection in this world, but we can ask ourselves this question, "How many of my acts and words can be stamped with those words?" Isn't Holy Week a good time to make the test? Many conversations which are taking place today were better unsaid. There are mighty questions before the world today, in our discussions of them with our friends let us always take a Christian's view point. We may not agree with the popular mind. How many of our acts can stand the test which all of Christ's stood? We can make our reading, our work, our pleasures, in fact all we do come nearer to God's purpose in our lives if we will. That is the secret of Godly life, willing to do what is right. Jesus won. We can win if we will line up with the great power for right and justice.

THREE SMALL FIRES CALL OUT DEPARTMENT

Central fire station received three calls for small fires Tuesday, the first call coming in at 11.10 o'clock for a grass fire on the bank off Cliff terrace. This was quickly extinguished with water and three gallons of chemical.

The second call came in at 2.30 for another grass fire this time on Spring street. This fire was more difficult to put out and the men were kept busy for over an hour before the return to the station was made. Another call came in at 3 o'clock for a fire in some old railroad ties lying between the trestle and Preston bridge. The firemen assisted by yard men of the New Haven railroad soon had this fire out, little damage being done.

TROLLEY CO. APPEALS TO SUPREME COURT

The suit of Alexander Plona of Waterford, administrator of the estate of his wife Cecelia, against the Connecticut Co., and others is to go to the supreme court. The defendant company filed its appeal to the supreme court session in Norwich on April 29 with the clerk of the court, George E. Parsons, here Tuesday.

Plona obtained a verdict for $5,000 on trial of the case, which Judge C. L. Avery refused to set aside on such a motion by the defendant who now takes appeal to the supreme court. The suit was for $10,000 for the death of Mrs. Plona on Nov. 29, 1922 when she was struck and run over by a trolley car near Station 12, Waterford.

GAVE REALISTIC TALK ON INDIAN ART

The regular meeting of the Art Students' Association was held Monday evening in the annex of Slater hall and was devoted to Indian art and handicraft. Several handsome Navajo blankets were displayed and some Indian relics. One of the latter, a mortar made of quartzite from Lantern Hill, once belonged to Dr. Philip Turner and was used by him for grinding medicines for the soldiers of the revolution. A small bowl is resembling animal heads on which it rested. There were several fine specimens of basketry from the Rockies and Alaska.

As an opening for the evening, Miss Lucile Howard sang a very plaintive melody with much feeling.

The speaker was Miss Annie Beecher Scoville who has spent some time teaching the Indians among the Dakotas. Her subject, "An Artistic Age, Arts and Crafts of the Wild Indians" was developed most fascinatingly. Her intimate knowledge and study of the Indian and her deep interest in his art and the simple unaffected manner in which she spoke made a most unusual and memorable evening.

She traced the efforts of primitive peoples to express themselves, the first creation of something beautiful the return of the warrior to the tent, the drawings, simple but expressive of the fight.

The need for beauty is shown in the clothing which is ornamented. In this there is a fixed standard of design for the men, another for the women, and no departure from this is permitted. The blankets for the women have one design, those for the men another. Sisters will have straight bands on the back.

Always there is a symbolism. Belts for a man will have the circle for the earth, and the cross for the four winds.

Art developed by change of material and change of habitat. For 200 years we have been importing beads from Venice for the Indians.

One of the many interesting facts given by Miss Scoville was this: that no Indian ever makes anything quite so beautiful or perfect for a stranger for one who will pay money for it. The Indian woman will make a beautiful bead bag, for instance, a saddle cloth or blanket for her own, for the love of it. Why should she put forth her best effort when it is to be exchanged for money?

The position of the grandmother in the family life is most important. She it is who takes the care of the infant, who teaches and trains the child during the first years of his life. When the child begins to talk he is many times corrected and told to speak "man's English", for the line is very sharp and rigidly adhered to between what is proper for the man and that for the woman, not only in speech but in the decorations on clothing and in every detail of life.

When the boy is eight or ten, grandma gives a feast. To show his bravery, a bit of touch-wood is placed on the back of his hand or arm and slowly burns till certain rites are performed. It burns to the skin, but the boy must not flinch.

It is a disgrace not to have many relatives, equally a disgrace to have to hire work done because there is no one of the family to do it.

In the tepee the family sits around in a circle, a fixed place for each one. As the tepee is like an inverted cone and the sides slope, there is a space behind the circle of persons where everything is kept. The food is there and smelling it, the mice run in under the tent to get it. One of the delights of the small children is to hunt these mice and when one is caught to run it over the baby's back, saying "Creepy, creepy mouse." This may have been the origin of our "Creep mouse, creep mouse," when we play with the baby.

The Indians use no titles but always give the relationship. "So and so's father came," "My sister's husband went away," and always these are given so as to show the social status.

All Indians can draw. In the family of Red Horse a record was kept of the chief events from 1787 to within a short time ago by means of a little drawing for each year, a complete family record.

It is quite impossible to give a complete report of all the interesting things Miss Scoville related to show how primitive art developed among the Indians and how nothing was represented thoughtlessly but always with a purpose.

After Miss Scoville's talk there was an Indian dance by Reginald Lauben in costume so realistic all present felt a whole tribe must be just outside ready to come in. A song by Miss Howard closed the evening's entertainment.

RESTORED LOST BULLDOG TO FORMER NORWICH OWNER

An interesting case recently brought to the attention of the Connecticut Humane society was that of an expensive bull dog, owned by Louis Markow, a former resident of Norwich.

The dog was a loyal companion to Mr. Markow's father, who died a few months ago. Because of this attachment, after the death of the elder Markow, the dog was so grieved that he continued to go from place to place where he had accompanied the man when alive, trying to locate him. Finally through sympathy for the dog, his owner decided to change its surroundings and so took the dog to New York and left it with his brother, Dr. Harry Markow of 136 Summer avenue. One day while out with Mrs. Harry Markow, the dog got lost and was picked up by Reginald Wallach of 611 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, who finding that the dog displayed registration for this state, sought the assistance of the Connecticut Humane Society in locating the owner.

District Agent Frederic H. Wyant, of this city representing the Humane society, eventually located Mr. Markow, who although formerly residing in Norwich, where the dog was originally registered, is at present located in business in New London.

Mr. Markow, who was greatly elated over the finding of his dog, through the efforts of the Humane society, left immediately for New York, to claim his property and adjust matters, etc., now having the dog in his possession.

This is just another incident of the faithfulness of an animal when separated from its master, also kind consideration displayed by the man who found him, as well as the gratefulness of the owner in his appreciation of what the Hu- accomplished.

HOME CHAPTER POUND PARTIES WERE SUCCESSFUL

Home Chapter of the King's Daughters had a large attendance at the April meeting, held Monday afternoon at the Johnson home, with the leader Mrs. William E. Manning presiding.

The minutes of the last meeting were submitted and approved. The house committee reported that it was expected that the hall runner for the Johnson Home, would be purchased this week. Considerable work has been accomplished on the aprons, also patch work given out for quilts, by the work committee, as was reported at the meeting on Monday.

Two new members were received into Home Chapter, Miss Ida Edmond and Mrs. Allen Gordon. It was voted to hold a rummage sale during May, and the afternoon of the same day an apron and food sale.

An interesting feature at the meeting Monday was the reading by Mrs. Manning of an original poem written by Miss Lucy Geer, a member of the chapter. This article was in the form of a Christmas letter to the home, and brought in the names of different members.

As the result of the pound party which was conducted under the auspices of Home Chapter, the Johnson Home was favored with many useful articles. Several members having formed clubs, each giving a nominal sum, made it possible to purchase two bed spreads, also two table cloths and one half dozen towels. In addition to these, individuals brought sugar, coffee, raisins, jam, condensed milk, cake and soap. Mrs. Manning explained the object of the pound party, for which the home was benefited; the matron, Mrs. May Rollins extending thanks to the chapter. A social hour with refreshments brought the meeting to a close.

Rummage Sale Nets Over $50

Over $50 was realized Tuesday, from a rummage sale held at Buckingham Memorial by the Catholic Women's Club of St. Patrick's parish. Mrs. James J. Dutton president. Mrs. Nelson C. Disco and Mrs. Frank T. Sylvia were co-chairmen of the sale. Others assisting were Mrs. Maurice F. Kelly, Mrs. Abner B. Hill, Mrs. John Kennedy, Mrs. D. J. Hayes, Mrs. John J. O'Rourke, Mrs. JJ. Casey, Mrs. J. Cunningham, Mrs. John B. Gallivan, Mrs. William Farrell, Mrs. John J. Murphy, Mrs. Thomas F. Burns, Mrs. Richard M. Powers.

Automobiles were loaned by Chester E. Wright, Mrs. George P. Madden and William P. McGarry. The Boy Scouts of the parish aided in collecting the articles for the sale.

POSTMASTER GENERAL NEW'S STAND ON POSTAL SALARIES

Declares That His Department is Not Trying to Kill Any Attempt to Raise Salaries—Admits There Should Be a Revision, But Contends It is Not Possible to Make Such an Increase as is Proposed in Bills in Congress, and Cover the Raise by a Revision in Postal Rates—Believes Parcel Post Rates Are Too Low.

Washington, April 16—Postmaster General New reiterated today that his department was not trying to kill any attempt to raise postal salaries. The department, he declared, conceded there should be a revision but it did not agree that there should be anything like what is called for in bills now in congress, and contended that it was not possible to make such an increase as is involved in the bills and cover the raise by a revision of postal rates.

"The amount to pay those increases in salaries", said Mr. New, "has to come necessarily from some source, and if it is to come from the postoffice department in the way of receipts the department is anxious and on its part insists that it shall not be drawn in such a way as to damage the business and thereby reduce the receipts of the department.

"I have seen statements that purport to be estimates of what can be obtained by the imposition of this, that and another fee, on parcelpost for instance, and that is possible to meet an increase of $30,000,000 out of the parcelpost; to meet an increase of $30,000,000 in the way of salaries. No increase as that can be made without wrecking the parcel post."

Mr. New explained the postal rate increases suggested recently to congress as aims to meet a raise in postal pay which he recommended at the same time and which would amount to approximately $43,000,000 a year. The increases in postage rates, he said, were based on the best judgment of the department as to what can be obtained without seriously impairing the service. If there was an increase in rates it ought to fall with some regard to equity upon the different classes, he declared.

"I believe now as I have believed ever since I have been connected with the department," said Mr. New, "that we carry parcel post too low, and parcel post rates can be very justly raised to the extent that would give up $30,100,000. Increases in other services will bring the balance of the $43,000,000 necessary to meet increases in pay we have recommended to congress."

The parcel post rates proposed to congress by Mr. New in connection with other increased rates would make the following changes:

Local delivery: 10 cents for first pound (an increase of 5 cents) and 1 cent for each additional two pounds (unchanged).

First and second zones: 10 cents for first pound (an increase of 3 cents) and one cent for each additional pound (unchanged).

Third zone: 11 cents for first pound (an increase of 5 cents) and 2 cents for each additional pound (unchanged.)

Fourth zone: 12 cents for first pound (an increase of 5 cents) and 3 cents for each additional pound (an increase of 1 cent) up to and including 9 pounds.

Fifth zone: 13 cents for first pound (an increase of 5 cents) and 5 cents for each additional pound (a decrease of 1 cent) up to and including 8 pounds.

Sixth zone: 14 cents for first pound (an increase of 5 cents) and 7 cents for each additional pound (a decrease of 1 cent) up to and including 9 pounds.

Seventh zone: 15 cents for first pound (an increase of 4 cents) 9 cents for each additional pound (a decrease of 1 cent) up to and including 5 pounds.

Eighth zone: 16 cents for first pound (an increase of 4 cents) and 11 cents for each additional pound (a decrease of 1 cent) up to and including 5 pounds.

No changes are suggested in existing rates for weights in excess of six pounds in the 4th, 5th and 6th zones, or for weights in excess of five pounds in the 7th and 8th zones.

Opposition to an increase in parcelpost rates was expressed today by the national grange to Chairman Edge of the joint congressional committee on postoffice which is considering the postal increase bills. In a letter to Senator Edge, the Washington representative of the grange said any increase at this time for any purpose whatever would be resented by country people, by merchants who send their goods to customers by parcel post service, and by city people who are supplied with produce from the farms by the service.

SERIOUS ACCUSATIONS AT DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION

Washington, April 16.—Two former attorneys general of the United States, A. Mitchell Palmer and Harry M. Daugherty, and one former governor-general of the Philippines, Francis Burton Harrison, were accused of serious and personal wrongdoing during rapidly shifting testimony today before the senate Daugherty investigating committee.

Only two witnesses were heard, one Gaston B. Means, investigator long active in international and domestic affairs, and the other George W. Storck, accountant for the department of justice, but out of the web of their stories were developed repeated accusations of monetary misconduct and later of default in department of justice prosecutions.

Means took his account of bribe-taking straight to the door of Mr. Daugherty by repeating statements he ascribed to Jess Smith, the late companion of the former attorney general. He also confirmed and extended impressions left by Storck, whose testimony was a prolonged report of the investigation made by himself, upon the orders of John W. H. Crim, former assistant attorney general, into the conduct of the alien property office.

In the brisk play of question and answer, Means described Mr. Palmer, "looking scared to death," coming out of Mr. Daugherty's office after charges against his administration of alien property had been pushed to the point of a mention of indictment.

One moment of the session the committee devoted to Howard Manington, of Ohio, when its "prosecutor," Senator Wheeler, Montana, demanded the production of this witness by Mr. Daugherty's counsel, in spite of his own refusal to appear. He demanded likewise to know whether it was true that indictments had been returned in New York against Manington and Jess Smith, for liquor permit transactions, but "pushed up." He was advised by George E. Chamberlain of Mr. Daugherty's counsel, to reply to the district attorney for this information.

Two other issues arose during the day, one in the hearing, when Means quoted William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, as advising Mr. Daugherty against pressing the Montana indictment against Senator Wheeler. The other developed after the hearing when the Western Union Telegraph company, by letter to the committee, confirmed its previous verbal refusal to give the committee any more telegrams exchanged between principals in the senate investigation.

MESSAGES OF CONGRATULATION POUR IN ON GOV. AL SMITH

Albany, N. Y., April 16.—The acclaim with which Governor Smith was hailed yesterday at the democratic state convention has a possible contender for the presidential nomination had decreased but slightly today, as hundreds of congratulatory telegrams reached the executive offices.

"Good work, Al, go to it," said one message, but it echoed the sentiment in the others—all phrased in the simple language for which the governor made a strong appeal in his address before the convention.

On his acceptance of the presidential nomination "if enough votes can be obtained," Governor Smith would say nothing tonight but he admitted he was tired and for the moment he would appreciate much more than a week evening at the executive mansion.

COOLIDGE "GREATEST OF ALL LIVING NEW ENGLANDERS"

Boston, April 16.—President Coolidge was hailed as "the greatest of all living New Englanders" by speakers at a Coolidge dinner given at Symphony hall tonight by the Republican club of Massachusetts and attended by 1,500 men and women from all sections of New England. United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, in the "keynote speech" declared in the coming presidential election Mr. Coolidge would "lead the American people along the safe route of their national ambition," and that public opinion already had indicated the malignery of the president.

A representative of each state in the New England region presented a tribute to Mr. Coolidge. Governor Channing Cox, of Massachusetts, described the president as "a courageous and incorruptible leader." With others, Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, called him the greatest of living New Englanders. Judge John F. Derring, of Maine, who was Calvin Coolidge's roommate at Amherst college, praised the honesty and integrity of his fellow student. Major W. F. Knox, of Manchester, N. H., candidate for the republican nomination for governor of New Hampshire, spoke on behalf of his state.

"While Calvin Coolidge is president," his former college roommate said, "there will never be the slightest stain of disgrace, of any oil transaction or any other wrongdoing, within the doors of the White House."

Major Knox pointed to the work of the international reparations commission as the greatest accomplishment under the Coolidge regime.

"He sent two of the finest Americans overseas to work on that commission," he said, "and for the first time since the armistice the nations of Europe are about to agree upon the reparations plan that has been perfected."

BEQUESTS IN THE WILL OF DR. THEOPHIL M. PRUDDEN

New York, April 16.—The will of Dr. Theophil Mitchell Prudden, filed for probate today, leaves $5,000 to Yale university for the study of American archeology, $2,000 to the Children's Aid society, and $1,000 each to the New York Association for the Blind, and the Visiting Nurse Association of New Haven, Conn. Forty thousand dollars and all Dr. Prudden's household and personal effects are bequeathed to his sister, Lillian E. Prudden of New Haven.

The residue of the estate, which is valued at $100,000, is to be divided between Dr. Prudden's nephew, Theodore Prudden, and four sisters.

Copyrights to four books written by Dr. Prudden are left to Theodore Prudden, and the copyright to "a text book on Pathology" is left to "my friend" Dr. Francis Carter Wood.

LEGISLATION AFFECTS JAPANESE BONDS

New York, April 16.—Reflected continued uneasiness over the political situation arising from exclusion of Japanese immigrants, the Japanese government's 6 1-2 per cent bonds and the yen today declined to new low levels for the year.

The market for the bonds was flooded with selling orders at the opening, and on transactions exceeding $500,000 in the first half hour the price dropped to 90 1-8. Support encountered at that level carried the quotation back to 90 5-8, about 2 points below the original offering price. A break of about 25 points in the Japanese yen to a new 1924 minimum figure below 40 3-4 cents was attributed partly to the country's unfavorable trade balance and poor outlook for export business.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Dawes Leaves Rome.

Rome, April 16.—Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes left Rome for Paris this evening after a three days' visit, in which he devoted most of his attention to the Roman ruins. When asked about the reparation reports, all he would say was "There it is; it speaks for itself."

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The senate by a vote of 71 to 4, reaffirmed its action in favor of Japanese exclusion.

Selection of a grand jury to deal with disclosures of the senate oil committee was deferred until April 28.

The house passed a bill for disseminating information to aid the farmers in adjusting their crops to world needs.

The senate committee to investigate the indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, decided to begin hearings tomorrow.

Members of the new naval oil conservation commission decided on a broad policy of preservation of the navy's oil reserves.

Robert Lansing, former secretary of state, was selected by President Coolidge as one of the members of the new Mexican claims commission.

Huntington Morse, European shipping board director, was questioned by the house shipping board investigating committee on foreign conditions.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican leader, defended President Coolidge's special message in regard to investigations in a senate speech.

Congressional circles speculated on a reference of Secretary Hughes in his New York speech to possibility of sending an American official representative to the league of nations.

The Daugherty committee heard new charges by Gaston B. Means relating to former Attorney General Daugherty and allegations of irregularities in the administration of alien property under the Wilson administration.

LODGE DEFENDS CENSURE OF SENATE BY COOLIDGE

Washington, April 16.—Another tier was added today to the rhetorical defenses being raised in the senate against criticism of President Coolidge for is stand in the controversy arising from activities of the interna. revenue bureau investigating committee.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican leader, declared the president was well within his rights in calling the senate to task for permitting one of its committees to "vastly exceed its authority," and asserted the committee program had reached the point where it could only be aimed at Secretary Mellon, personally.

"There can be no question," he asserted, "that the purpose was to seek something relating to the character of the secretary. Like an honest man, he proceeded to answer at once. The president was well within his constitutional authority in bringing the matter to the attention of the senate; he only followed innumerable precedents set by past presidents."

Addressing himself to the speech yesterday of Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, which he described as "to importune to permit to rest unanswered" the Massachusetts senator denied that the executive message had been designed to cover more than the incident arising from the decision of the internal revenue committee to authorize Senator Cousens, republican, Michigan, the committee prosecutor, to employ Fracis J. Heney, of San Francisco, as "a personal counsel and investigator."

"It meant that an individual senator would be empowered to send a civilian to dig in the official files" Senator Lodge insisted.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, and other democrats questioned this interpretation of the committee's action. The president could have blocked any such intention, Senator Glass declared, by informing the committee that under the law executive approval was unnecessary for the inspection of any tax return. The Arksans senator called attention to the "entirely different" interpretation placed by Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, chairman of the committee under discussion, upon the president's message

PREMIER OF JAPAN REGRETS ACTION OF THE U. S. CONGRESS

Tokio, April 16.—(By The A. P.)—Premier Kiyoura, in a statement to American newspaper correspondents today, expressed deep regret "that the congress of the United States has seen fit to deal with us Japanese so drastically."

Premier Kiyoura Kug said "it seems to us hardly to have been necessary in view of the fact that our whole history has shown us to be willing to be reasonable. We were willing to accept only a nominal privilege. If we have not made this clear in a language which is foreign to us we have at any rate shown it by that long record of friendship which may now be impaired but not broken.

"It is the right that the United States should arrange for its own immigration. If this is denied us, we shall regret it because we had hoped that a further act of consideration was to be added to several that your nation has previously shown us. You gave us moral and financial support in the greatest crisis in our history; you gave us impressive sympathy in our greatest disaster. These things we shall not forget."

DEM. CHAIRMAN ASSAILS HUGHES' KEYNOTE SPEECH

Washington, April 16.—The speech of Secretary Hughes at the republican state convention in New York last night was assailed in a statement today by Chairman Hull of the democratic national committee as an attempt to "gloss over the wholesale corruption found in the government during the past three years."

"Having publicly offered an earnest defense of Newberry and Newburryism some months ago," Mr. Hull said, "it is not surprising that Secretary of State Hughes is willing to attempt a defence of any republican national administration, no matter how low its standard of ethics and of morals. In the face of the undisputed fact that no other administration in American history has been responsible for as much jobbery, incompetency and corruption as now lie at the door of the present national administration, the casual reader will not be able to discover from the speech of Secretary Hughes at the New York republican convention that the present republican administration is less lacking in morals and honesty in many of its departments and bureaus than any former administration having the most outstanding record on these points."

New Proposition in Soldiers Bonus

That the First Sixty Days of Service Be Omitted in Computing Service Credit.

Washington, April 16.—While consideration of the soldier bonus bill in the senate continued to await disposition of the immigration bill today, Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, in charge of the bonus measure, completed plans to have it taken up immediately after the immigration measure Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, in charge of the latter bill, after making an unsuccessful effort to limit debate, announced he would ask for a night session tomorrow in an effort to conclude work on it.

Meanwhile attention was again centered on the pending tax reduction measure with the return to Washington of Senator McCormick, Illinois, a republican member of the finance committee, who recently announced he would ask seek a compromise among republicans for higher surtax rates than carried in the Mellon schedule adopted by the committee. He immediately opened inquiries to determine the prospects for such a compromise.

At the same time some leaders, particularly among the farm bloc have indicated they believed considerable republican support will be given the democratic income schedule which carries rates similar to those in the Longworth compromise adopted by the house.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, predicted today at least four days of debate would be required for the bonus bill. He gave support to the move to bring the bonus measure up jammed through disposition of the immigration bill.

The fight on the bonus bill is expected to center in the effort of democrats to incorporate in the measure an option for full cash payments.

The democratic program, however, has not yet been definitely outlined. Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, a democratic member of the finance committee, expects to submit a minority report on the bill for democrats tomorrow.

Another move was in sight today to amend the bill so as to cut out the provision that the first sixty days of service shall not be counted in computing the amount of adjusted service credit due. This was backed by the American Legion in committee.

SENATE INVESTIGATION OF WHEELER BEGINS TODAY

Washington, April 16.—Senate investigation of the indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, prosecutor of the Daugherty committee, by a federal grand jury in his own state, will get under way tomorrow before a special committee of which Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, is chairman.

Gordon Campbell, a geologist of Great Falls, from whom Senator Wheeler is accused in the indictment of accepting money for prosecuting oil lease claims before the interior department after his election to the senate, probably will be the first witness.

Campbell arrived here today from Montana. He was accompanied by James Baldwin of Butte, law partner of Senator Wheeler, and former Representative Thomas Stout, of Lewiston, who also have been summoned before the committee.

Blair Coan also arrived here today from Montana to appear as a witness. He was summoned as an agent of the department of justice, but W. J. Burns, director of the justice department's bureau of investigation has stated that Coan is an agent of the republican national committee.

Edwin S. Booth, solicitor of the department of the interior, and other officials of that department also will be called before the committee together with additional witnesses from Montana, including C. L. Stevens and L. B. Beaulieu, for whom subpoenas were issued last week.

A change in the personnel of the investigating committee was made today by President Cummins of the senate, Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, being named to replace Senator McLean, republican, Connecticut, who resigned because of pressure of work flowing from his duties as chairman of the banking committee and a member of the finance and other committees.

The investigating committee will proceed under a senate resolution adopted last week on the day after the indictment was returned against Senator Wheeler at Great Falls. The resolution was offered by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, after Senator Wheeler in an impassioned address to the senate had denied the charges brought against him and had declared the indictment the result of a "frame-up."

Senator Wheeler said today he would attend the opening session of the investigating committee, which will have public hearings. He also stated that as soon as a warrant for his arrest had been sent to Washington from Great Falls, he would appear before the proper tribunal here and furnish bond for his appearance in Great Falls for trial. The district attorney there has said that it probably would be two months or more before his case would be called in the usual course.

DECISION RESERVED IN CASE OF SAMUEL MATZKIN

New Haven, April 16.—Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the United States court today reserved decision in the releasing of the case of Samuel Matzkin of Waterbury when Judge Thomas recently granted a motion for the return of evidence alleged by Matzkin to have been illegally seized by prohibition enforcement agents. The court awaits the decision in the supreme court of the United States in a similar case in the Michigan district.

Matzkin was arrested April 18, 1923, in Waterbury, and, according to testimony during the trial, a five gallon can said to have contained alcohol, was found in his automobile. When the case came before the court counsel for the defense declared the seizure to be illegal and asked the return of the evidence, which the court granted. In the decision handed down by Judge Thomas at that time, the court held that a search of an automobile is illegal without a search warrant unless the agents can see, smell or otherwise have actual knowledge that liquor is in the car.

The case was reopened at the request of anti-saloon league officials and others asking a review of the opinion.

World Flight Delayed Six Weeks

Mishap Necessitates the Installation of a New Engine in the Cruiser Seattle.

Anchorage, Alaska, April 16.—(By the A. P.)—Continuation of the flight around the world by the United States army aviators will be delayed at least a week in order that a new engine may be installed in the cruiser Seattle, which was forced down yesterday near Cape Igvak, according to a wireless message received here from Major Frederick L. Martin, pilot of the plane.

Major Martin, commander of the army flying squadron, sent his message from the Destroyer Hull, which is taking him and his plane to Kanatak, at the head of Portage Bay.

LEAK IN CRANK CASE CAUSED WASTE OF FUEL.

Cordova, Alaska, April 16.—(By The A. P.)—A leak in the crank case causing waste of fuel, forced Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of an army round-the-world air expedition, to alight yesterday in Portage Bay, according to word received here from the destroyer Hull, which found him today.

Major Martin, his mechanician, Sergeant Alva Harvey and their machine, the flag plane Seattle, are to be taken to Kanatak.

DESTROYER RESCUED MARTIN IN PORTAGE BAY

Cordova, Alaska, April 16.—(By The A. P.)—Major Frederick L. Martin, lost yesterday in Portage Bay, with the flag plane Seattle, of a squadron on its way around the world, was rescued at 9 o'clock this morning by the U. S. destroyed Hull.

Major Martin, and his mechanician, Sergeant Alva Harvey, were found by the Hull in Portage Bay this side of Cape Igvak, where the Seattle disappeared yesterday while the four planes of the squadron were on their way to Chignik, Alaska, from Seward, Alaska, in a snow and wind storm characteristic of the region.

AVIATORS MUST REMAIN IN SIGHT OF EACH OTHER

Washington, April 16.—The army aviators making the world flight were sent orders today to remain in sight of each other when in flight. The orders were dispatched to Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, upon direction of Major General Hines deputy chief of staff, as a result of the forced descent in Portage Bay of Major Frederick L. Martin.

THAW TO TAKE STAND IN HIS OWN BEHALF TODAY

Philadelphia, April 16.—Harry K. Thaw is expected to take the witness stand in his own behalf tomorrow at the jury trial to determine his sanity, Judge John M. Patterson, chief counsel for the Pittsburgh millionaire, announced at the conclusion of today's session of the case.

According to plans of his attorneys, Thaw will be examined at the forenoon session of court. Cross examination probably will not begin until next Monday.

"Cheerio!" was Thaw's greeting to bystanders as he left for lunch, after expressing to appear as his own witness. His optimism prevailed despite several incidents that have proved unnerving to him. Repeatedl mention of the name of Stanford White, whom he shot and killed in 1906; and an allusion to the electric chair by counsel for the trustees of the Thaw estate who are opposing his release, failed to dampen his spirits except momentarily. The presence of his former wife, Evelyn Nesbit, at prior sessions, while arousing his interest, has so far produced no visible effect upon him.

"I can't tell how the trial is going yet, but I'm hoping," was his comment. "I was hoping they'd get through today and let me have a chance. I want to testify and let them judge for themselves."

ACTION BY STOCKHOLDERS OF THE NEW HAVEN ROAD

New Haven, April 16.—Under authority voted to the board of directors by the stockholders of the New York, New Haven and Hartford company today provision can be made for dealing with the so-called "European" loan of the company which now amounts to $24,825,946 of 7 per cent debentures bonds due on April 1, 1925. The bonds were issued in 1907 to the amount of $27,863,000.

Vice President E. G. Buckland explained that bonds had been reserved to refund the loan but "authorization by the stockholders to do this was necessary. The authority to do financing as regards the loan was in general terms, Mr. Buckland stating that the directors have never exceeded the power given them. The exact method of retiring the "European" loan, he said, had not been worked out.

The annual meeting was short and discussi nowas brief. The present directors were re-elected.

DECISION RESERVED IN CASE OF LOUIS N. SMALL

Greenwich, April 16.—Judge James R. Mead, in the borough court this afternoon reserved decision on the motion offered by counsel for the defense to discharge Louis N. Small, charged with reckless driving and manslaughter in connection with the death of Frederick Webster, who was struck and killed on the night of January 30. Coroner John J. Phelan, of Bridgeport had exonerated Small of all blame in the death. Small was brought before the court as the result of a petition signed by 200 residents of Riverside demanding his trial.

WOULD PROTECT VERMIN AND PREDATORY ANIMALS

Cambridge, Mass., April 16.—The American Society of Mammalogists at its annual meeting here today unanimously adopted a resolution pointing out what it considered the danger of active propaganda for the extermination of "so-called vermin and predatory animals" and declaring that there is no need for a nation-wide campaign against such animals.

A committee was authorized to study policies for the preservation of wild animals. Dr. Wilfred H. Osgood, of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, was elected president. It was voted to meet next year at Washington.

EXCLUSION OF JAPANESE IS ENDORSED BY D.A.R. CONGRESS

Daughters Appeal to President Coolidge to Sign the Immigration Bill Containing Such Provision—Senate Reaffirms Its Approval of Japanese Exclusion by Readopting the Shortridge Exclusion Amendment by a Vote of 71 to 4.

Washington, April 16.—Endorsement of Japanese exclusion with an appeal to President Coolidge to sign the immigration bill containing such provision and a reception by the president and Mrs. Coolidge to the delegates and alternates were the features of today's meetings of the annual continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The political side of the congress got into play during the day when alignments were made for the nominations tonight for the eight vice-presidents general, the one honorary vice-president general and the chaplain general who will be voted upon tomorrow. Routine committee reports occupied most of today's sessions.

Action on the proposal for endorsement of Japanese exclusion was deferred by reference of the resolution, introduced by the Maryland delegation, to the resolutions committee, but it will be passed upon before the congress closes Saturday. The resolution recites that for the society has always favored the principles of restrictive immigration and particularly that restricting orientals, the congress endorse without qualification the action of the senate and house in passing the bill and urge President Coolidge to sign the bill.

The White House was thronged with the many delegates and alternates late this afternoon when the president and Mrs. Coolidge received and shook hands with each one in the east room.

State regents made their reports to nomination of officials was made from the congress tonight, after which the floor.

SENATE AGAIN VOTES FOR EXCLUSION OF JAPANESE

Washington, April 16.—The senate put itself formally on record today on the question of Japanese exclusion by readopting the Shortridge exclusion amendment to the immigration bill, 71 to 4.

Reconsideration of the amendment, which was approved yesterday without a record vote, was had at the request of Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, in charge of the bill, who explained that opponents wanted an opportunity to be recorded.

The only surprise developed by the roll call was in the number of opponents, as only two senators had voted to recognize in law the "gentlemen's agreement," with Japan on the immigration question. They were Colt of Rhode Island, and Sterling of South Dakota. Joining them today in opposing the exclusion amendment were McLean of Connecticut, and Warren of Wyoming, all republicans.

After the vote on the exclusion question, the senate disposed of two other amendments, accepting without a roll call an amendment relating to "origin of nationalities," and rejecting, 49 to 16, another by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, which would have closed the doors to immigration for five years.

Only one republican, Jones, Washington, supported the Harris amendment. The fifteen democrats voting Smith, South Carolina; George and for it were Adams, Colorado; Dial and Harris, Georgia; Harrison and Stephens, Mississippi; Mayfield and Sheppard, Texas; Caraway, Arkansas; Heflin, Alabama, Neely, West Virginia; Overman, North Carolina; Pittman, Nevada, and Shields, Tennessee.

A compromise amendment relating to the "origin of nationalities" as a basis for immigrant quotas agreed upon by Senators Reed of Pennsylvania, and Harrison, was approved by the senate. Under its provisions, the "origin of nationalities" would be made the basis for immigration after July 1, 1927, unless congress had meantime otherwise directed.

The secretaries of state, commerce and labor would make an estimate showing as nearly as possible the several national origins of the persons who in 1920 comprised the whole population of continental United States; and would make known by March 1, 1926, the quotas of each nationality, the annual quota to bear the same ratio to the maximum total number of immigrants as the number of inhabitants of the United States having that national origin bear to the whole number of inhabitants.

The question of the percentage of the quotas which are to be in force until the origin of nationalities basis is adopted was pending when the senate recessed until tomorrow. The bill as reported proposes the 1910 census as a basis for determining the quotas, and there are three proposals on percentage—one by Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, for one per cent. Another by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, for three per cent.; and one by the committee for two per cent.

This question and that of the census furnish the remaining real fighting points in the bill. While the committee has proposed the 1910 census, a determined fight will be made by a number of senators to adopt the house plan of the 1890 census with two per cent. as the quota.

TOKIO NEWSPAPER HINTS AT POSSIBILITY OF WAR

Tokio, April 17.—(By The A. P.)—The Yoromi Chohi, an afternoon newspaper representing the Jingoes, declares editorially today that the action of the American congress is pulsing the exclusion legislation amounts to a challenge to Japan. It says the nation must prepare for whatever may come, even war. The Kokumin demands the immediate reignation of the ministry.

FACTS REVEALED OF THE BOBBED-HAIR BANDIT

New York, April 16.—Still baffled in their search for Brooklyn's notorious bobbed-hair bandit identified by them as Celia Roth, 19 year old expectant mother and the wife of a war veteran who is the partner-in-crime, the police said tonight they had dug up evidence which convinced them the slim woman was a two-in-one robber.

They said she was both the blonde and the brunette girl they have been seeking for several weeks for a series of daring robberies which culminated March 29 when the much-sought robber in skirts shot down a clerk of the National Biscuit Company in Brooklyn until today the police believed the original Brooklyn bobbed-hair bandit was a brunette, and that she had a daring imitator in a blonde. But they found a Brooklyn landlady at whose house Mrs. Cooney, as that time Celia Roth, had a room early last year. She told there the girl dyed her hair, and sometimes appeared with bobbed tresses of rich brown and at other times with a head enriched by curls of reddish gold.

A few weeks after she left the Brooklyn boarding house—in May, 1923—the police learned, Celia Roth became the bride of Edward Cooney, tall and dapper motor mechanic.

On the day of the biscuit concern holdup, the police learned, the couple moved from an expensively furnished apartment in Brooklyn, to a Manhattan hotel. It was from the hotel, where they had registered as "Mr. and Mrs. Parker, of Boston," that the two took a taxicab for the scene of the Broklyn crime.

The police said they had abandoned $1,000 worth of furniture in their flight.

NURSERY WILL HOLD 100,000 SEEDLING PINE TREES

Hartford, April 16.—A nursery that will hold 100,000 seedling pine trees each year was opened today in the Simsbury state forest when the work of setting out 50,000 white pine two year seedlings and 50,000 red pine two year seedlings was begun. The trees will remain in the nursery one year and will then be set out in open fields and recently lumbered areas in the state forests. Each year hereafter, State Forester Austin F. Hawes said today, 100,000 trees will be placed in the nursery, so that the state forests will receive the same number of new trees each year. These will re-forest 100 acres of land. This is the first state nursery that has been maintained for the past fifteen years. Mr. Hawes also announced that 75,000 trees will be planted in the various state forests this year.

P. O. INSPECTORS TESTIFY IN TEXAL LAND FRAUD CASE

Washington, April 16.—Two post office department inspectors who investigated alleged land frauds in the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas told the senate committee investigating the matter today that they had encountered no evidence of attempts by officials either in their department or the department of justice to "stifle" the investigation. Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, committee prosecutor, has charged that R. B. Creager, Texas republican national committeeman, was implicated in the alleged frauds and that he used political influence to head off the investigation.

FRIDAY, MAY 9, PROCLAIMED AS ARBOR AND BIRD DAY

Hartford, April 16.—In his proclamation designating Friday, May 9, as Arbor and Bird Day, Governor Templeton calls upon the elders of the state to join the school children in the "fitting observance" of the day which the statute enjoins, "to consider how best we may all co-operate with those of our fellow citizens who, quietly and with small reward, labor early and late to make nature's bounty more abundant."

The proclamation, issued today, follows: "We are apt to accept our daily bread as a matter of course. In this complicated modern life it is easy to forget that our very existence depends upon agriculture. Nature is generous, but she demands that we develop and take care of our natural resources."

"In accordance with the law of the state, which calls upon us once a year to consider especially the need of preserving our forests and of protecting our bird life, I designate May, the ninth of May next, as Arbor and Bird Day.

"In that fitting observance of the day which the statute enjoins upon the schools, I recommend that the children be joined by their elders. This spring season affords a wholesome opportunity to give thought to the fields and trees and their living things, to plan for the protection of our woodlands from the menace of fire, and to consider how best we may all co-operate with those of our fellow citizens who, quietly and with small reward, labor early and late to make nature's bounty more abundant."

NEW YORK STATE REP. CONVENTION HARMONIOUS

New York, April 16.—Delegates to the republican state convention today unanimously tuned in on the keynote struck by Secretary of State Hughes last night, and burst into the 1924 campaign with a programme of national issues and a strong endorsement of the Coolidge administration.

Reassembling at town hall for the second and last day of the convention, it took the 988 party representatives—men and women—just 40 minutes to conclude their business. They elected State Senator Parton Swift of Buffalo permanent chairman; heard him set forth party issues for the state; adopted a platform constructed entirely of national issues; elected seven delegates-at-large and seven alternates to the Cleveland convention; and adjourned sine die.

Complete harmony marked the proceedings, Delegates will go to the national convention uninstructed. The unanimity with which President Coolidge and his workers were endorsed left no doubt, however, that the New York state vote was to be solidly for the president.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY JUMPING IN FRONT OF CAR

Westport, Conn., Apr. 16.—An unidentified man about 60 years old committed suicide at 6:30 o'clock tonight on Turkey Hill by jumping in front of a trolley. Police have failed to identify the man who was evidently a fruit peddler, for two small bills in his cloths recorded the purchase of a quantity of fruit from a Bridgeport wholesaler. A box of fruit was found in his pockets. Several witnesses told police they saw the man jump in front of the trolley

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church St. Telephone 1062

The outlook for the several proprietors of liquor places who were arrested Tuesday following a series of raids is rather gloomy as in most every case indications are that jail sentences will be imposed.

Two of the liquor law violators are now serving time at Brooklyn jail. They are David Macha of 7 Main St., who pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and given a sentence of sixty days in jail and Mrs. Mary Nowak, 39 Chapman street, owner of the so-called "House of David" who was fined $100 and sentenced to spend 30 days at Brooklyn. At the Macha place some 64 bottles of moonshine and a still were found and the owner pleaded guilty in court Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Nowak said that the reputation came from impositions made upon her by other people and that she was not responsible for the sale of liquor. She pleaded not guilty. In court she asked the authorities to tell her who had squealed on her. The woman also wanted to know who would take care of her five small children, but it developed that she had made arrangements for this Tuesday. Macha took his sentence easily. He admitted that he was in a bad business, but said that he had quite a family to support and times were hard. After obeying the law since his previous arrest and conviction, he had not resumed the practice of making liquor until seven weeks ago.

At the twelve places raided by the officers Tuesday, ten arrests were made. Eight of the cases were taken up in court Wednesday morning. County Investigator William E. Jackson stated that he would not be ready to bring three of the cases before the court until a later date.

Mrs. Celia Chasen of 44 Union St., through her attorney, waived the reading of the complaint. The case was continued to Saturday, April 26 and she was released under a bond of $500 furnished by Merrill H. Jones.

Attorney H. S. Gaucher appeared for three of the cases on trial.

Daniel Week of 51 Chapman St., was also granted a continuance of his case to April 26 and he was released on a bond of $500 furnished by Thomas Lucas.

The cases of Mrs. Eva Goldstein of 59 Jackson Place and Frank Aramos, 113 Jackson street, other clients of Attorney Gaucher, were continued to April 26, under bonds of $500 each.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rosek, 15 Main street, both pleaded not guilty to violating the liquor law and at the suggestion of County Detective Jackson, their case was continued to April 26. The case of Mike Malago of Chapman street was not taken up.

An analysis taken of the wine found in the cellar at the home of Philip Pagano of 10 Babcock Court disclosed that it was from 13.34 to 15.49 per cent. alcoholic content.

Some four hundred members of the Connecticut Assembly, representing every town in the state gathered in this city Wednesday for the annual convention of Rebekahs. The sessions were held in the town hall. The convention festivities opened Tuesday as noted in Wednesday morning's issue of The Bulletin, with a welcome to the assembly officers by Rebekah Lodge, No. 57, of this city.

At the first session of the twenty-eighth annual convention Wednesday, Miss Ethel D. Barrows of New London was elected president. Mrs. Emma E. Wilson of Stamford, vice president, Mrs. Mary E. Johnson secretary and Mrs. Clara B. M. Douglass, of Versailles, treasurer.

It was announced that a total of $31,835.53 had been raised for the infirmary fund, this to be utilized for the equipment of the infirmary to be erected by the Odd Fellows in connection with their home at Groton. Work will be started on the building at an early date.

An address of welcome by Mrs. Margaret B. Sears, noble grand of Violet Rebekah Lodge marked the opening of Wednesday's meeting. The president, Mrs. Mary E. Lovett then called the session to order. Committees were appointed to serve during the coming year.

The report of the president covered all phases of activity of the assembly. Mrs. Lovett's report was accepted as read. Mrs. Lovett said:

"It is a pleasure to welcome you one and all to this, our 28th annual session. To those who are with us for the first time I extend greetings and trust that this meeting will be of special interest and benefit to you. To those who have been with us in years past, whose presence has helped to make our order what it is, I bid you a hearty welcome. I gladly welcome the grand officers and past presidents here today. Your kindly advice and assistance is of untold value to this assembly. By giving of your time and experience you have done much in bringing our assembly to its splendid condition.

"Visitors from sister jurisdictions, in behalf of our assembly I bid you a most hearty welcome. May you receive both pleasure and profit from your stay with us."

The speaker went on to express her deep appreciation of the honor conferred on her by the assembly in electing her to the presidency, two years ago.

The secretary was in charge of the roll call. The initiation of the past noble grands of the Rebekah lodges and the past grands of the subordinate lodges throughout the state followed.

The report of the vice-president was accepted as read. The report of the secretary disclosed the fact that the total membership of the Rebekah lodges in the state was 13,861, December 31, last, a net gain of 399 over the previous year. The gain in funds was $1,553.45. The treasurer's report was also accepted. Adjournment was taken at 12.30 o'clock.

Dinner was served by the local lodge members shortly before one o'clock in the G. A. R. rooms to assembly officers, past presidents and guests.

The afternoon session opened at 2.15 o'clock. An invitation was read from the New London lodge suggesting that the assembly hold its next annual meeting in that city, the third Wednesday in April, 1925.

Further business was transacted during the afternoon, adjournment being taken before six o'clock, when an excellent repast was served in the G. A. R. hall by the local members.

Wednesday evening the initiatory degree was conferred on a class of candidates for Violet Rebekah lodge of this city. The work was in charge of noble grand, Mrs. Sears. The sessions will come to a close this (Thursday) noon with a dinner served at Odd Fellows' Hall, on Main street, by the local past noble grands to the past presidents.

Other guests present in addition to those mentioned in the account of Tuesday evening's reception were: Emma C. Wilson, Stamford, warden; Mrs. Harriet Wilson, Bridgeport, conductor; Miss Isabelle E. Wilson, inside guardian; Mrs. Louise Beyer, Hartford, outside guardian; Mrs. Nellie Stewart, New Canaan, chaplain; Mrs. Mary Gilbert, Ridgefield, left supporter to the president; Mrs. Florence Palmer, Stamford, right supporter to the warden; Mrs. Augusta Barthel, South Norwalk, left supporter of the warden; Mrs. Ruth A. Brigham, Cheshire, assistant marshal; Mrs. Lillie E. Morris, assistant conductor; Miss Mabel Frost Johnson, Torrington, assistant secretary; Alice B. Fitts, president of the Rhode Island assembly; Francis E. Douglass, junior past president of the Massachusetts; Selma Olive Server, junior past president of the New Jersey assembly; Mary G. Bamford, junior past president of the Rhode Island assembly; Emma M. Fellows, past president of the Rhode Island assembly; Clara V. Kelley, conductor of the New Jersey assembly.

A large audience attended the annual guest night of The Woman's Club, held at the Congregational Church House Tuesday evening, Mrs. Frank P. Fenton had charge of the entertainment program. A four piece orchestra directed by Charles H. Caswell rendered delightful music.

Mrs. Arthur Clifford pleased with readings. A one act play was cleverly interpreted and the temple male quartet gave several numbers. The quartet members are: Arthur L. Clark, first tenor; Harold C. Lincoln, second tenor; Charles H. Caswell, baritone; and Harry W. Standish, bass.

The Harvard play, from "The 47 Workship" by Eugene Pillot, "Two Crooks and a Lady" in two acts, was the feature entertainment of the evening. The cast included: Miller, a crook called The Hawk, Arthur L. Clark; Lucille, the maid, another crook, Mrs. Charles W. Tryon; Mrs. Sims-ine, the lady, Mrs. William A. Buck; Miss Jones, ladys companion, Miss Nellie Harbison; Garrity, the policeman, Frederick W. Staebner. Refreshments were served by a committee.

The Ku Klux Klan scare has taken quite a hold in the village of North Windham. A blazing cross on the hill top on the J. B. Burnham farm last Thursday night and again Saturday night was the source of much attention and led many to believe that the K. K. K. was showing its hand. It is said that on the first appearance of the blazing cross no one in the group who saw it would dare go anywhere near the spot until the following morning, when they found two scantlings arranged in the form of a cross covered with burlap which had been soaked with kerosene and a match applied. Members of the Burnham family took it upon themselves to conduct an investigation and feel assured that the cross was not the work of the hooded band but of certain young men of the village. One of the suspected youths had already been taken to task. It is believed the act was that of young men between 14 and 18 whose actions were revealed by younger boys who caught the gang "dolling up" the Saturday night cross in the woods. It was stated Wednesday that the matter has been reported to the state police barracks at Stafford Springs and that it was possible an officer would come to investigate the affair.

The funeral of Prudent Guilmette was held Wednesday morning from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Nasein of 38 Maple avenue. Requiem high mass at St. Mary's church at ten o'clock was sung by Rev. J. J. Papillon, the pastor. A delegation from the Sacred Heart society met the body as it was being borne into the edifice and acted as an escort to the sanctuary railing. The banner bearer was Victor Chasse. Friends and relatives attended in large numbers. There were beautiful floral tributes. Mrs. J. F. Gaudreau was at the organ. Hymns were sung by St. Cecelia's requiem quartet. The bearers were: Elwerne Cote, Alfred Chenier, Joseph Leblond, Adjuter Tardis, Joseph Cyr and Gedeon Cote. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Papillon conducted a committal service. The Hurteau-Bosse Corps was in charge of the arrangements.

From the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Haggerty, 136 Main street the funeral of John McCartney was held Wednesday morning. Requiem high mass at nine o'clock at St. Joseph's church was sung by Rev. John E. Clark, the pastor. Mrs. E. R. Portelance was at the organ. Hymns were rendered by Miss Monica McKeon. The attendance was large and there were beautiful floral forms. The bearers were: Charles F. C. Wheeler, John W. Pickett and Frank Teevans of this city and William Baker of Greenport, L. I. Rev. Father Clark conducted the committal service at the grave in St. Joseph's cemetery. Killeavey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Josephine Marino, of Flanders Road, was taken into custody, late Wednesday afternoon, by the state police from the Stafford Springs barracks on a special bench warrant from the Tolland County superior court, charging her with the sale of liquor. Mrs. Marino was taken to Rockville where it is expected her case will come up for trial at today's (Thursday) session of court. The arrest marks Mrs. Marino's fourth offense within a year on the charge of violating the liquor law. The warrant was issued by State's Attorney Thomas Noone and signed by Grand Juror Robert Hopkins, of South Coventry.

The criminal session of the Windham county superior court continued from last Friday until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock was adjourned to this (Thursday) morning at the same hour, by Sheriff Charles A. Gates. It was stated that Judge John P. Kellogg had made a legal appointment for Wednesday on a previous occasion and could not be present. Members of the jury chosen at last Friday's session have been summoned to report at the opening of court today. It is expected that at least one of the three cases assigned for trial by jury will be started during the day.

LIBERTY HILL

Rev. W. S. Woodworth attended the Willimantic Ministers Union meeting held at Windham Monday.

Palm Sunday was observed at the church by special sermon by the pastor. The very pleasing solo, The Palms, was sung by Mrs. H. C. Payson.

The C. E. meeting Sunday evening was led by Mrs. Horace Foote. During the service Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Caples sang a duet in fine voice.

Mr. Worron, who recently cut his foot necessitating going to the hospital to have it treated has returned to his home and is able to be about on crutches.

E. E. Caples and Frank A. Davoll have just completed a brooder house for Z. Federman.

Abraham Lerner has just purchased a valuable six year old mare for farm work. This matches another horse.

The roads are nearly dry now, but very rough. Mr. Lerner is still carrying with horses the milk for the Providence Dairy Co.

There will be a Fast Day service at the church Friday evening with lantern pictures, The Last Days of Christ.

The sewing circle is to meet at the church rooms this (Thursday) afternoon for work.

There was an April shower Monday morning, then clearing, with strong northwest wind all day, growing much colder at night, mercury 60 in the middle of the day.

OHIO METAL WORKER A VICTIM

Ray S. Ball, Huron, Ohio, was a victim of coughs and colds. Both he and his sister suffered with them, but found "speedy relief" through the use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the old favorite cough remedy. He writes: "I have found Foley's Honey and Tar Compound a most excellent remedy for coughs and colds. My sister had a severe cold and cough a year ago and found speedy relief in Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." Lee & Osgood Co.

For the first time—a laundry soap that is really modern!

Because it is entirely dissolved
this new soap rinses out thoroughly

There are no bits of soap left sticking to garments to turn them yellow under the iron—there cannot possibly be—because Rinso is all dissolved into a rich cleansing soap solution. This solution has more cleansing power than bar soap—it soaks dirt out.

HOW hard you have to rub with bar soap to "soap" the clothes. Then how hard you have to rub to get out all the dirt.

And that isn't all! You still have to struggle a lot more to get out all the soap you had to rub in. Today you don't have all this work to do. A wonderful new soap now soaks dirt out.

WITH Rinso—the new kind of laundry soap—you are spared the drudgery of washday—that old hard rubbing. Simply soaking your clothes in the rich soapy Rinso solution loosens all the dirt.

Be sure to use enough Rinso to get big lasting suds after the clothes are in. Then even all those mean grimy places—cuff edges, neck bands, etc.—come spotless for you with only a light rubbing.

Then a good, thorough rinse takes out not only all the dirt, but also all the soap! Your clothes are snowy white the way you love to have them.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux. Already over a million packages are used every week by progressive housewives.

Get Rinso today from your grocer—regular size or big new package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Manufacturers of famous fabrics recommend Rinso for washing their products—makers of Van Heusen Collars, Wamsutta Percale Sheets, Boott Toweling, Fruit of the Loom Fabrics.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

A real up to the minute vaudeville show will open at the Broadway theatre today, which is sure to draw capacity houses.

Heading the Keith programme is the Eight Mascotte Girls, presenting "Class Personified in Original Dances."

Another headliner is "Bungalow Love," a comedy playlet by Willard Mack, splendidly interpreted by Lee Morgan and Maude Dunn.

Other star acts include Frank Jerome and Miss Evelyn, "The Variety Wanderers."

Miss Physical Culture, a living tribute to exercise.

Frank Brown and Kary LaVelle offer "Don't Handle the Goods."

Baby Peggy, the tiny starlet who has created such a sensation in film circles for her characterizations as a comedy kiddie, has been lifted into the ranks of big feature stars. She makes her initial appearance in a multi-reel production in "The Darling of New York," a dramatic crook story which has its setting in the New York Ghetto. The picture was filmed from an original story by King Baggot, who also directed, and Raymond L. Schrock, which shows at the Broadway theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

Besides Baby Peggy, other outstanding figures in the cast are Sheldon Lewis, Gladys Brockwell, Pat Hartigan and Carl Stockdale.

The picture is very dramatic and exceptionally entertaining. It was directed by King Baggot, who, with Raymond Schrock, wrote the story.

Broadway Theatre.

Famed in poetry and prose, the historical ride of Paul Revere was never before invested with the significance the thrills and the daring that it is in D. W. Griffith's "America," the photodramatic epic of the War of Independence, which will have its premiere at the Broadway theatre on Monday night, April 21.

And Mr. Griffith's picture gives the lie direct to Longfellow's poem on the ride, for while the poet stated that "Hardly a man now alive remembers that famous date and year," the vociferous applause which greets every hoofbeat of Revere's horse shows very well that women and children as well as men remember Paul, his steed, and the occasion of their journey very well indeed.

Revere is shown waiting in the moonlight on the Charlestown shore, "booted and spurred and ready to ride." The two lanterns flash, giving warning that the British are coming by sea, and then begins a ride through Middlesex county which brings every beholder to his feet. Over fences, stone walls and streams, across pastures, down lanes, and along the highway Revere's noble steed pounds his way at a furious gallop to the accompaniment of the heart beats of an audience aroused to the loftiest possible state of patriotic fervor.

Strand Theatre.

Presenting a brilliant cast of prominent screen players, headed by winsome Colleen Moore, "Through the Dark," from Jack Boyle's "Boston Blackie" story, "The Daughter of Mother McGinn," a Cosmopolitan production released through Goldwyn Cosmopolitan, is described as one of the greatest crook photoplays ever brought to the screen. The new film opens at the Strand theatre today.

"Through the Dark," is a crook picture that should find an appeal among all classes of film fans. That love leaves all ranks and that the straight path is the only one to follow are the twin theses of the story. The film is replete with action and dramatic thrills and moves swiftly from the interior of the famous San Quentin prison through the haunts and dives of Frisco's Chinatown. How "Boston Blackie" after making a realistic escape from prison is led to give up the life of crime that has made his name famous throughout crookdom, furnishes a succession of melodramatic thrills that vie with any ever brought to the screen.

Jack Boyle, author of the famous "Boston Blackie" stories from one of which "Through the Dark" was filmed, was formerly a newspaper reported in San Francisco and his knowledge of criminals and their methods is admirably displayed in this picturization of his creation.

George William Hill directed the picture which was adapted for the screen by Frances Marion.

A new Andy Gump comedy, Watch Papa, is the second feature, and the Kinograms tops a perfect show.

Real Estate Sales.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran has sold for John and Rosana Hotchkiss the modern two tenement house and large lot located at 943 Laurel Hill avenue to R. Abrahamson, of Montville. Mr. Abrahamson buys this property as an investment.

Broker Moran also sold the three family house No. 91 Thames street, belonging to A. Cohn to Thomas Murphy. After a few alterations Mr. Murphy will make his home in one of the apartments.

Mr. Moran has sold the cottage house 101 Boswell avenue to Jack Allegretti. The house has a large extra lot on Boswell avenue being a part of the premises recently conveyed by Broker Moran to Louis Lillina and John Bellone, who have started to erect two beautiful two-tenement house on their recent purchase. Mr. Allegretti will move his family into his new home at once.

Frank R. Combois has also sold his six-room cottage house, No. 97 Boswell avenue, through the same agency to Ulysses J. Sakellandas. This property has a large frontage on Boswell avenue and also on Arnold street. Mr. Sakellandas will occupy his newly acquired property as a home.

Despite seventy-two years and furrowed brow, Mrs. Margaret McMillan, of Toronto, Canada was social as Toronto's most popular shop girl, having won over hundreds of flapper contestants.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Solid Trainload of Studebaker Cars Shipped to Hartford

South Bend, Ind., April 17.—A solid trainload of cars was forwarded today from the big Studebaker factories with Hartford, Conn., as their destination.

This is one of the biggest single shipments of automobiles made this year.

Leaving South Bend, this train consisted of fifty-two freight cars of Light and Special-Six models. It was routed by way of Detroit to pick up twelve more carloads of Big Sixes.

Altogether, the train contains 761 Studebakers, valued at approximately $800,000.

This large shipment to the east indicates the insistent, heavy demand for Studebaker cars.

The Studebaker factories at both South Bend and Detroit are running at capacity.

COMING TO THE BREED

Writing talent in large quantities was found among the members of the cast of Scaramouche, Rex Ingram's newest Metro production, coming to the Breed theatre next week.

Rex Ingram himself is the author of Trifling Women, one of his recent successes. Earlier in his career Mr. Ingram wrote, Should a Mother Tell? Song of Hate, The Cup of Bitterness, The Wonderful Adventure, The Flower of Doom and many other gripping stories.

Lewis Stone, who is Marquis de la Tour d'Azyr in Scaramouche, wrote and acted in According to the Code in Essanay production. He has written a few screen stories since, but his time has been taken up chiefly with acting.

William Humphrey, the Chevalier de Chabrillane in the Ingram production, wrote several scenarios for Vitagraph and also directed them. George Siegmann and Bowditch Turner are also screen authors.

Lloyd Ingraham, who in this picture portrays the role of Quintin de Kercadiou, wrote The Dance at Eagle Pass, the first screen play he directed. He then directed sixty one-and-two-reel pictures, most of which he wrote himself.

Scaramouche, a Rex Ingram production for Metro was adapted from Rafael Sabatini's famous novel of the French Revolution by Willis Goldbeck by arrangement with Charles L. Wagner. John F. Seitz photographed the production. Curt Rehfeld was production manager and Grant Whytock editor. The costumes were designed by O'Kane Cornwell and Evamay Roth and executed by Van Horn.

BREED THEATRE

John Gilbert will break the Deauville bank for the last time today and tonight at the Breed theatre, where he has been playing in Just Off Broadway, his latest screen starring vehicle from the pens of Frederick and Fanny Hatton. The adventurous Gilbert in this picture essays the role of a Secret Service man on the trail of a band of international counterfeiters. He not only gets the crooks, but he wins the heart of the girl, Marian Nixon. The story of Just Off Broadway, pulse quickening and intense in its dramatic situations, carries the audience from the Great White Way to Paris and Deauville in a whirlwind of gripping action that cannot fail to stir the most phlegmatic theatre goer.

Ralph Connor's The Critical Age is shown as the second feature. Ralph Connor, the great Canadian author of outdoor life, has never been known to write a failure. The Critical Age, adapted from his novel Glengarry Schooldays, is one of his greatest stories and promises to carry all the Connor touches that have endeared him to the hearts of the American reading public.

The Fox News and a scenic complete the bill.

PALACE

How a youth posed as the son of a wealthy woman, as a member of a blackmailing gang, unaware that she was in truth his mother, forms one of the big dramatic moments in The Age of Desire, a First National picture produced by Frank Borzage, which is now playing at the Palace theatre.

It is one of the most unusual situations ever created in the mind of an author, and the credit in this instance is due to Dixie Wilson, who wrote the story from which the photoplay was adapted. The denouement of the plot is a striking and unexpected one.

William Collier, Jr., plays the boy while Myrtle Stedman is cast as the mother. Other members of the cast are Mary Philbin, Josef Swickard, Frederick Truesdel, Bruce Guerin, Frankie Lee, J. Farrell MacDonald, Mary Jane Irving, Aggie Herring and Edith Yorke.

The Age of Desire is a gripping drama of women who are ever grasping for the things they covet. And the director of Humoresque and Children of Dust has turned out a picture which has won fresh laurels for him. Added attraction Ride 'em Cowboy and Pathe News.

Broadway Theatre.

You've seen his picture everywhere and often wondered who he was—the man whose likeness stares down upon you from billboards and electric signs, car cards and store windows.

So let us introduce you to Allan Simpson, erstwhile nationally famous artist's model, at present playing an important supporting role opposite Gloria Swanson in the Allan Dwan Paramount production, "A Society Scandal," which will be shown at the Broadway theatre next Sunday.

It's a great story, an adaptation of Alfred Sutro's stage play, "The Laughing Lady."

An adjustable shade features a new automobile dash lamp to relieve a driver's eyes from glare.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A special town meeting called for a week from this (Thursday) evening promises to be very interesting. It has to do chiefly with a plan to have books of the officials of the town of Killingly audited over a period of the past five years. Proponents of the plan insist, in view of developments relative to the tax collectors accounts during the past few months, that it would be a good thing, this in reference to the accounts of former Collector George A. Williams, which have been carefully checked up since his retirement from office.

Already one hears of men who will support that plan for the audit and of the men who will oppose it in the meeting and vote against it when the opportunity offers thereat.

Arguments in favor of the audit include the statement that the taxpayers are entitled to a general audit that will carefully cover all the town's accounting for a period of at least five years. If some mistakes have been uncovered, others may be, it is held.

Opponents insist that the cost of such audit as is proposed is prohibitive, and that there is not a chance in a hundred that it will be worth anywhere near what it is likely to cost. They point out that a resolution presented at the adjourned annual town meeting called for an appropriation not less than $1,000 for the audit, which was to be done by public accountants selected by a committee to be named under certain provisions of the resolution. Commenting on this the opponents say that if real worth while accountants are obtained to do the work that the cost of their services in auditing the books of the town over a period of ve years will be nearer $5,000 than $1,000

As between the proponents and the opponents of the audit there are citizens who are entirely neutral in the matter, and say so. It has been pointed out also that should the special meeting make an appropriation for the audit that the amount of it cannot be exceeded without the liability of a penalty under the law.

Viewed from any angle, the special town meeting promises to be very interesting and to bring out a very considerable attendance.

Tuesday evening about a score of young women friends of Miss Blanche Bousquet, who is to be married Monday next, gave a miscellaneous shower in her honor at her home on North Main street. A delightful evening was devoted to the presentation of gifts, to entertainment, which included vocal and instrumental numbers, and to the enjoyment of refreshments.

Relatives here received word Wednesday morning of the death Tuesday afternoon in Foxboro, Mass., of Herbert Holmes Flagg, formerly a resident of Danielson. Death came after an illness of of a number of weeks.

Mr. Flagg was born in Abington, Conn., August 22, 1876, a son of Joseph and Ann Holmes Flagg. As early as 1895 he had entered the employ of J. Q. A. Stone here in Danielson as an apprentice in the printer's trade, which he was destined to follow throughout his life. For the past 20 years Mr. Flagg had been employed in the office of The Sentinel, a newspaper published at Franklin, Mass.

Mr. Flagg was a veteran of the Spanish-American war, in which he served as a corporal of F company, Third Connecticut infantry. This was a Danielson unit. Mr. Flagg was mail orderly during the period he was in service.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ann Holmes Flagg, of Danielson, two sisters, Mrs. Orray F. Potter of Danielson and Mrs. Harry Horse of Putnam, and two brothers, Frederick of Waterbury and Robert M. Flagg, resident in St. Louis. The body is to be brought to Abington for burial.

Mrs. Herbert Pepler is ill at her home on Riverview.

An item in this column Wednesday relative to a strange animal roaming about on the Allen hill section stirred great interest among sportsmen.

Danielson prospects are receiving announcement relative to the camp periods arranged for Camp Woodstock this summer. Camps for boys will be held from June 27 to August 1, inclusive. Camps for girls will be held from August 2 to August 30 inclusive.

Tomorrow, Good Friday, Danielson's banks will be closed in observance of the holiday.

This being Holy Thursday there will be large congregations at the services to be held at St. James' church.

Borough streets are being piaped by road working crews and otherwise improved for the summer season.

Knights Templar from this section will be in Norwich Friday to witness the conferring of the Temple degree on a class of candidates that will include men from Danielson and Moosup.

TWO BOSTON MOTORISTS CRASH INTO A TREE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 16.—M. E. Greene of 79 Revere street, and A. B. Putnam of 80 Revere street, Boston, were badly injured here tonight when the Ford sedan Greene was driving crashed headon into a big tree in Reynolds street near the Congregational church. Greene has a fractured left leg near the knee and it is possible amputation may have to be resorted to. He also suffered minor cuts and bruises. Furnam was rendered unconscious and removed to the office of Dr. F. P. Todd. He has a badly injured leg, a fracture of the skull and a bad scalp wound baring the skull. This was possibly caused by a piece of glass from the windshield.

Greene was taken to the hospital in Putnam immediately after the accident which occurred just before dusk. Furnam was taken there later in the evening. Greene was able to tell State Officer Gardner who investigated the accident that he had looked over his shoulder to read a road sign for direction to Providence, as he turned from Main into street. In doing this he evidently turned his steering wheel and the car struck the tree. The front end of the car is badly damaged. Greene and Furnam appeared about 40 years of age.

Walks Down Elevator Shaft

Frederick Pelletier, 59, sustained a fractured left wrist and a fractured left thigh and cuts over and under the left eye when he fell down an elevator well, at the Connecticut mills, where he is employed, just after 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. Pelletier has very poor sight and it is believed that he thought he was entering the lavatory when he walked into the entrance of the elevator and dropped about 15 feet into the well. After receiving treatment by Dr. George M. Burroughs he was taken to the Day Kimball hospital, Putnam.

PUTNAM

Over ownership of a coffee percolator and a tea kettle, a battle was staged at the home of Levi Bousquet, in the north end of the city, Wednesday and there was subsequent accounting before Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court.

Before that tribunal Jacob Weinstein, Worcester manager for the Standard Tea Company and Thomas Jackson, his assistant, appeared as accused. Charges of assault and breach of the peace were filed against them. It appeared from testimony that they had gone to the Bousquet house Wednesday morning and sought the recovery of a coffee percolator on which they claimed installments were overdue. There was some talk about that before it finally passed back into possession of the visitors, who then set up a claim for a tea kettle that was merrily singing away on the stove. This aroused the ire of Mrs. Bousquet, who claimed that it had been given to her as damaged and as a present. She refused to give it up, whereupon Jackson, it was charged, took it.

That started Leo Bousquet, son of Mrs. Bousquet, into action. In a scuffle with Jackson he was knocked down. Then appeared Ernest Bousquet, another of the woman's sons and he also was knocked down in the struggle for the kettle. In the mixup one of the men also was charged with having seized Mrs. Bousquet by the arm. And it all ended in the police seizing Weinstein and Jackson and presenting them at an afternoon session of the court.

Weinstein conducted his own case and that of Jackson, doing very well in his examination of witnesses. He was found guilty of breach of the peace, but not of assault, and was fined $1.00 and costs of $12.74. Jackson was found guilty of both assault and breach of the peace and fined $5 on each count and costs of $12.74. The men decided they would not pay and appealed. They afterwards changed their minds about this and paid the assessments the court levied against them.

Stick a pin in this statement: The common council of the city of Putnam is 100 per cent. strong for Prosecuting Attorney J. E. Carpenter, Captain William J. Jarvis of the city police and Sergeant George Laird and Patrolman John Ryan and Alphonse Spencer in their present difficulty with Mrs. Lea Smith, wife of Samuel Smith, this difficulty having to do with a civil suit for $2,000 damages against the members of the police force mentioned. The suit was filed this week and has been the principal topic of conversation here since Monday.

Assembled in an adjourned session, the mayor and members of the common council listened to a statement from Prosecuting Attorney Carpenter in which he assumed full responsibility for any possible mistake the officers involved may have mad ein carrying out their instructions. No such mistake is admitted.

Having heard what the prosecuting attorney had to say relative to the Smith civil case, the council proceeded to pass a vote of thanks to Prosecuting Attorney Carpenter for his past services to the city in the office he is filling and a vote of confidence as to his future activities in that office. The council also voted to stand solidly back of Captain Jarvis and the members of the police department and also to appropriate such amount of city money as may be required in the defense of the case that Mrs. Smith has filed against them, in order that they may not individually be required to expend any of their own funds in defending their actions as agents of the city of Putnam, engaged in the performance of their duties.

The straightforward action of the common council has decidedly cleared the atmosphere. It makes their position clear beyond any doubt. It officially insures the police that they may count on the city fathers to staand back of them. In reality it is, through the council, a reflection of public sentiment, in so far as can be ascertained through conversations with the average citizens whom one meets going about his daily duties.

Mrs. Smith's suit against the police, taken with related hppenings of the week, has stirred up a tempest in Putnam. No one denies her right to sue. But there are many angles of public opinion as to the whole situation involving this particular suit and the incidental arrest of her husband for violation of the liquor Laws.

No good feeling is in evidence in any phase of the entire situation. It has engendered bad feeling, bitterness and turmoil. What will come of it no man can say. The whole situation is another product of prohibition—promised healer of all evils!

At the meeting of the directors of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce it was voted to sponsor a clean-up and paint up week campaign and April 28th to May 3rd inclusive were the dates decided upon.

The general plan of the undertaking will be followed out much after that of a year ago.

The cooperation of the Mayor and members of the Common Council was accorded at their meeting Tuesday night, when they voted to lend their support by making available tipcarts and men to go around the city on two days during the campaign and collect rubbish, etc., that had been raked up in the process of cleaning front and back yards, etc. Such rubbish must be at the curbstone handy to the drivers of tipcarts. This service is free, and will be given by the city as its evidence of approval of the undertaking and of the desire on the part of the city officials to cooperate 100 per cent. in any undertaking having for its object the making of Putnam a more attractive, cleaner place in which to live. The days on which this tipcart service will be available will be announced at a later date, the teams to go on the east side of the city on one day, and the west side on another.

Superintendent of Schools Jenkins has been asked to enlist the support of the school children in the undertaking. Ralph E. Thurston, Chief of the Fire Department, will lend his support by examining the premises of business places, etc., with a view to seeing what the conditions are and if any fire hazards exist because of the careless collection of combustible rubbish.

Clergymen have been asked to call attention to the campaign by either making announcements to their congregations, or making the campaign the subject of a sermon.

Sanitary conditions which are always under the watchful eye of the health officer, will be especially carefully examined during the week by Health Officer Peter A. Gardner, who has pronounced himself as heartily in favor of the annual Clean Up Drive.

Assistance of officials and others, as outlined, is going to mean much in making the annual undertaking a success, but maximum results cannot be obtained unless there is hearty cooperation on the part of the people of Putnam. If they do not open their eyes to uncleanly and insanitary conditions existing on or about their premises, and are not awakened to the civic duty of making front and back yards and adjacent open lots just as free from rubbish as possible; if they do not clean up such untidy spots; then the campaign will not be a success. It is a civic duty, therefore, for everyone to examine his or her premises and get busy with a rake. If such cooperation is given and everyone does his or her part, the city can be made more attractive, sanitary conditions will be enhanced and Putnam will be a far pleasanter and healthier place in which to live and work.

A special city meeting is called for April 28 to pass upon a number of appropriations, totaling $12,000. These appropriations are largely routine.

The report of the police covering March and as filed with the common council shows that there were 17 arrests during that period. Of those arrested 6 went to jail. Four violators of the liquor laws were presented. Fines and costs collected by the court during the period amounted to $1800.

A committee of the common council has reported on conferences with the Putnam Foundry and Machine company relative to the sale of two parcels of land owned by the city in the vicinity of the manufacturing company's plant. A deal has been closed whereby one parcel of land was sold for $100 and an option on a second and larger parcel given the Foundry company for $900.

Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows has accepted an invitation of Rev. S. E. Cozad, pastor of the Second Congregational church of this city, to attend service there on Sunday morning, May 4.

James E. Murray, Jacob Alpert, J. Alfred Gagne, W. J. Bartlett, William Mansfield, Jr., K. C. Cotter, Chester Young, William W Wheatley, Samuel King and Graydon Sharpe make up the committee of Putnam lodge of Elks to arrange for Ladies' Night, Tuesday, May 20.

Herbert Homes Flagg, formerly a resident here, died Tuesday afternoon at Foxboro, Mass. Mr. Flagg was a newspaper compositor and for nearly a score of years had been employed on the Franklin, Mass., Sentinel, owned by Carl Johnson, formerly of this city. Mrs. Harry Morse of this city is a sister of Mr. Flagg.

Banks will be closed here tomorrow, Good Friday, and during the afternoon there will be a general suspension of business.

As the residuary legatee of the estate of Frances M. Bliven, who died in the town of Plainfield about three years ago, the Day Kimball hospital is expected to receive about $1500 or $1600. A hearing on the final account of the executor, Judge E. M. Warner of this city, recently was held before Probate Judge Joseph Smith of the town of Plainfield.

A number from this city will be in attendance at the second anbual Older Boys' conference in Plainfield Saturday.

Thomas Dobson of Philadelphia, formerly a resident here, was a visitor with friends in Putnam Wednesday.

Camp Woodstock—the tri-county Y. M. C. A. summer station at Black Pond is to be open this year from June 27 to August 1 for boys. From August 2 to Aug. 30 it will be in use as a girls camp. There are to be three camping periods for boys—June 27 to July 11; July 11 to July 25; July 25 to August 1. Two periods for girls' camps will be from August 2 to August 15; August 16 to August 30.

Miss Elsie A. Gallant will leave Friday to spend the Easter season with her sister, Miss Lorena Gallant, student nurse at the Hartford hospital in Hartford.

ASHFORD

School opened Monday, after a recess of one week, there being a new teacher. This school has been very unsatisfactory for quite a while and all hope to see some improvement now.

Mrs. Guy Stevens of Phoenixville was a caller here last week.

The new family who bought Joseph Carpenter's place here are to move in this week.

William Poole of Wallingford was at his home here over the week end and Sunday.

Owing to the roads being washed out between this place and Phoenixville, Mr. Bonnette and sons did not work on Frank Greene's house last week.

Miss Inez Whittemore of Providence, R. I., who has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greene, returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Ella Greene and Miss Inez Whittemore were in Pomfret one day last week.

MYSTIC

The Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. F. A. Coates. Miss Harriet Fish, vice president, presided and the meeting opened with singing, followed by devotional exercises. As the next meeting of the society will be the annual meeting, the following nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. F. W. Batty, Miss Emeline Fish and Mrs. C. R. Hoak. The mite boxes were opened and were found to contain $22 and there was also a donation of $5 from Mrs. Bessie Ludwig and an anonymous gift of $10, with still other mite boxes to come in. The following program, relatives to Japan, which the society has been studying the past winter, was given: A paper on the Story of the Japanese Doll, by Mrs. Frank W. Batty; Creative Forces in Japan, Mrs. C. E. Newbury; Emperor Worship, Mrs. Mary Gordon. The final prayer was by Mrs. C. E. Wheeler, and the meeting closed with singing.

Mrs. C. F. Congdon, who has been confined to her home by illness for several days, was able to be downstairs Tuesday.

Miss Emma Poore, teacher of household economics at Fairfield, Conn., spent a few days of the spring vacation at Lords Point and had now gone to Boston.

George H. Griswold, letter carrier, who has been ill for many weeks with pneumonia is now able to get out of doors, a fact which pleases his friends.

Miss Helen Haas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Haas, of Church street, was ten years old Tuesday and invited several young friends in to help celebrate her birthday. The afternoon passed pleasantly in playing games, the crowning feature of the party being the birthday supper which included a birthday cake and many other good things. Those present were Frances Noyes, Blanche Stalte, Margaret Rippel and Kenneth Newbury.

Miss Marguerite Poore, dietitian at the Rhode Island state hospital, has returned to Providence after a stay of several days at Lord's Point.

Mrs. George Favinger of Wahan, Mass., was a recent visitor here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Noyes have been visitors in New Haven this week.

Mystic Rebekah lodge is to meet Friday evening.

Plans are well under way for the observance of World Service Week, April 21-25, by the Methodist church. The program is to include a bazaar and exhibition, a lecture probably by Rev. Dr. Higley, who superintends Methodist work among the American Indians, a special world service prayer meeting led by the pastor, a pageant given under the auspices of the Sunday school, and stereopticon pictures during the week.

Funeral services for George Stuart Scott were held Wednesday afternoon at his summer home at 55 East Main street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The service was in charge of Rev. George L. Farnham, pastor of the Mystic Bridge Congregational church and Rev. P. F. Eldredge of the Road church. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery.

A stereopticon lecture on the Passion Play was given Wednesday evening at the Union Baptist church by Rev. J. G. Osborne.

Mrs. Samuel Osbourn of Philadelphia was a recent visitor here.

Mrs. George Wood of Westerly has been a visitor here this week.

So numerous have counterfeit $10 federal reserve notes become in Springfield that the police issued a warning to the public to scrutinize carefully all such notes received. The spurious bills are the 1-A series with portrait of Jackson and are not readily detected by the uninitated.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

A Health Beauty talk by the Health Doctor

I WANT to talk about two things:

Why children need protection... How Lifebuoy Health Soap protects their health and good looks.

If you could watch the average healthy child throughout an entire day, you would be horrified, about once every ten minutes, at the germ-covered things they touch and the dirt dangers to which they are exposed.

Thank goodness their robust, splendidly nourished little bodies can fight off the germ menace most of the time. Otherwise they could not live.

But the danger is always there. Science knows but one real every-day protection—perfect cleanliness. Your children have a good chance of never being sick if you can only train them to purify hands and faces frequently with Lifebuoy.

Only healthy skin is beautiful

Let me tell you about Lifebuoy. In the first place, it is absolutely pure soap. It contains no substance which could irritate the most sensitive skin. Its constant use promotes skin health and brings the lovely underglow of a radiant complexion.

The gentle antiseptic released in the creamy, copious lather is just what your skin needs to keep it splendidly alive—stimulated. It drives away sallowness and blemishes, leaving the skin soft, smooth and healthfully beautiful.

You soon become fond of the odor of this antiseptic; it gives you such a comfortable feeling of being genuinely, utterly clean. This odor disappears almost instantly.

For the protection of the family and the daily care of the skin use Lifebuoy. Children always like it. Once a man gets to know it you simply can't get him to use anything else.

And it will agree wonderfully with your skin—I promise.

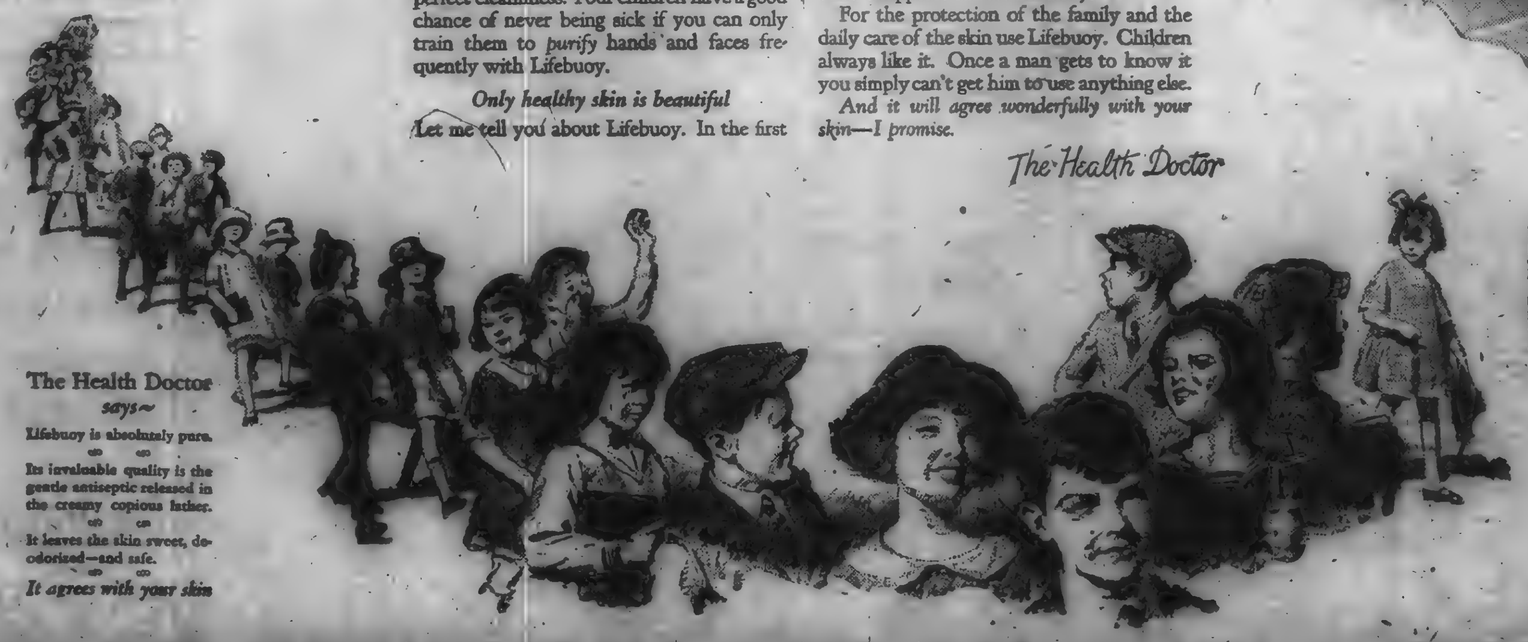
The Health Doctor



The Health Doctor says—

Lifebuoy is absolutely pure.

Its invaluable quality is the gentle antiseptic released in the creamy copious lather.

It leaves the skin sweet, deodorized—and safe.

It agrees with your skin

This remarkable book "HEALTH BEAUTY" costs 10 cents

Doctors have called it one of the most practical and valuable books on health ever printed. Thousands of mothers have praised it.

Beautifully illustrated in color and bound in stiff covers—a regular library book. It will be mailed to you if you will send 10 cents in stamps to Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

HIS OWN PLATFORM.

In his address to the state convention of New York republicans, Secretary Hughes dwelt upon the national administration, referred to the problems with which it has had to wrestle, the manner in which it has faced and handled them, the policy it is determined to continue and found it a great delight to refer to the present chief executive of the nation as "the ideal executive."

With due reference made to the constructive programme of the Harding administration and the declaration that President Coolidge was carrying it on with determination, he dwelt upon the investigations underway at Washington and properly directed attention to the fact that it was the president's stated purpose that the guilty should be found and those responsible should pay the penalty for their acts. He didn't attempt to gloss over the situation when he declared "Neither political party has a monopoly of virtue nor of rascality," and that "while the American people detest crookedness and corruption, they are not fond of scandalmongers."

In his review of the administration's accomplishments he was thoroughly justified in pointing out the rigid economy in government expenditures, the wise fiscal management which has made possible the suggested tax reduction plan, the gratifying effects of the Washington conference, the meeting of the situation left by the failure to ratify the Versailles treaty, the improvement in the Pan-American situation and the improved foreign relations.

Not only has President Coolidge acted on the constructive programme of his predecessor with vigor [illegible] a thoroughly impressed the country by his leadership of [illegible]on, his own policies as set forth from time to time and the record which he has established within a short time.

The manner in which he has administered the office has not only gained the confidence of the country but permitted Secretary Hughes to declare that "President Coolidge is his own platform." He is the type of president that appeals, that inspires confidence and creates an enthusiastic demand for continuance in the office of chief executive.

"CHILD'S PLAY."

For the purpose of giving it expert assistance the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau has had the services of Professor J. T. Adams of Yale. He was employed for the benefit of the committee, not a part of it. His services were sought because of his knowledge of tax matters and not because of a political leaning in either direction. His opinions have been asked and accepted by members of both parties in connection with taxation because of his recognized qualifications.

Little might have been heard of him in this connection but for the fact that he has handed in his resignation as committee adviser, and as he did so he took occasion to display much the same disgust as the public has over the methods that are being followed in connection with the investigation. As a tax expert he declares such shortcomings as exist in the bureau are not hidden but obvious and do not call for any of the probing plans that are contemplated. In his opinion "to probe for the sake of probing impresses me—if I may say so without offense—as a particularly demoralizing form of child's play."

Therein he voices the sentiment of those who have been watching this endeavor to fasten something that doesn't exist upon the secretary of the treasury. He finds the investigating committee is doing no constructive work and in the course of his statement he knows "that the personnel of the bureau has been singularly clean; that its responsible officials have been, with few exceptions, zealous and intelligent; that its leaders have fought with vigor and success the interjection of politics and politicians of the undesirable type."

This from one who not only knows what the committee has been doing and what it contemplates, but who is in touch with the bureau conditions as a tax expert is a condemnation of the probing practice which the senate is asked to bring to an end, which it can not fail to get a rousing backing from the country.

GOING TO EUROPE.

There have been certain extortions, certain taxes and certain bothersome requirements which have served to decrease the interest in travel abroad. Nevertheless there have been thousands who have felt the urge to get to Europe for the purpose of seeing the scenes of the work, to study present day conditions and to enjoy an outing across the water. Since the close of the war there have been various reasons advanced for delaying contemplated visits to the war-torn countries. Notwithstanding many have gone, and this summer will see another flock of tourists headed east for a few, three, or more months.

There are conventions, expositions, musical games and other attractions that will call many, but the idea of "doing" Europe as a vacation has an appeal which grows, and especially so when inviting inducements are offered in the way of transportation.

Steamship lines are best satisfied when their accommodations are booked to the limit. Just at the present time there is considerable competition, and there are those lines which are making strong appeals to teachers, college men and tourists through attractive rates for trips to Europe. One company is reserving all its third class cabins for college men and it will do a big business. Others are making correspondingly attractive offers concerning their accommodations. Taken all in all preparations are being made for a big exodus to Europe for the summer, and such plans invariably result successfully. It is in fact such inducements which make it possible for many to see their way to taking such a trip, and in not a few instances such offers serve as the very inspiration.

While the transportation facilities may be taxed to their limit in accommodating those who are anxious to see Europe again or for the first time, it doesn't necessarily mean that it will be a terribly dull summer at home. There will be enough engaged in seeing America first to prevent us from being exactly lonesome on this side of the Atlantic.

BASEBALL.

Once more the preliminaries to the determination of the world's champion baseball team are underway. The cry of "Play ball" is being heard throughout the land and there is the customary response on the part of those who delight in watching, for baseball would not be the game it is if there wasn't pleasure to be derived from witnessing its progress, offering a little advice and doing a bit of coaching and criticizing.

As is always the case the teams start out with unexcelled confidence. Each considers its prospects better than ever and there is always the goal of the league pennant in the foreground with the somewhat nebulous vision of the world's championship in the distance.

Baseball offers its attractions just as spring is sending forth its many promises. It is the national game without question. It has appeals which are hard to offset. Baseball has had its ups and downs but it has gone through nearly a half century of constant development, it has experienced some severe blows but it has bounded back with a virility that brands it a fixture. Organized baseball is on a better footing today than it has ever been before, while the sport as played by the amateurs has an unshakable hold upon both the young and old boys. This is one game that has not suffered a loss of enthusiasm on the part of the public and has not suffered because of other attractions. The number of baseball fans increases with the years, an unmistakable sign of the grip the game has upon the sport loving public.

STILL UNFIT.

In his cable to the war department regarding the conditions in the Philippines relative to fitness for independence, Governor General Wood holds to the same opinion that he has since the investigation was made which resulted in his choice as governor general.

While there are those who are appreciative of the benefits being obtained under the services being rendered by this country, there are others who are endeavoring to take control and to bring about independence under the belief that this country would still extend its protection and guardianship to the islands.

Sufficient has been disclosed in connection with the islands' conditions to accept the statement of the governor general to the effect that independence at this time would simply be removing a restraint which would open the way to the plunging of those people into strife among themselves or with outsiders. This is just what this country has endeavored to avoid. When the time comes that they can be said to be fit to take care of themselves, they will have to be regarded as fit to so govern that they would not arouse internal strife and make it obligatory for this country to step in and restore peace.

It is something more than the temporary welfare of the islanders that the United States has had in mind for a quarter of a century. There is no desire to have the effort wasted and be obliged to do the job all over again in a few years. The best interests of the island are being served when the present day pleas for independence are regarded as being unjustified.

BURDEN OF WEALTH

"I wonder why that rich old man who lives in the corner house always looks so cross and worried?" wondered the ingenuous little thing. "My, if I had all that money I shouldn't wear a face like that!"

"Maybe his money worries him," suggested the devoted young man brightly. "It must be a strain to know you have a bushel or so of thousands in the bank and no safe investment at hand for them! Well, if I had his money I know what I'd do with it, and I shouldn't look worried, either!"

"Oh, what would you do, Adelbert?" the ingenuous little thing breathed innocently, but right here the absorbed young man, who was always spoiling situations, broke in.

"Maybe his health is poor and he has to live on crackers and milk," he said. "And then maybe he's cross because although he can afford to buy anything he wants he has no place to put it. The poor old rich man goes downtown every day and sees windows full of oriental rugs and Siberian emeralds and African diamonds and suits of clothes and things, but can he enjoy himself by stepping in and ordering them sent home. He cannot get into the home himself, for it is full clear to the brim already."

"He is probably cross because nobody disagrees with him," the studious girl interjected. "Nothing is so bad for a person as always being agreed with, you know! Unless you have opposition to whet your interest things turn flat. If you know that somebody is going to pipe up yes-yes if you remark that Sunday is Thursday and that tea makes good coffee, why what's the use of talking? I suppose nobody has dared disagree with the old gentleman for so many years that his life is practically spoiled. Nothing is so conducive to a bright, cheerful feeling as knowing you've licked somebody else in an argument."

"How clever you are, Sumatra!" murmured the ingenuous little creature as she turned to the devoted young man. "Oh, Adelbert—I am so interested in knowing what you would do if you had all his money!"

"Wouldn't I though!" the devoted young man cried, gazing at her fondly. "Why, Cyclamen, if I wasn't poor as Job's turkey and had that money I'd—"

"On the other hand," obviously broke in the absorbed young man who had no sense of budding romance, "it may be his natural expression. Some people always look as though the bank had just failed or the ship gone down. I've seen a man stand up to get married with exactly that expression on his face, and if a man isn't carefree and happy when he is being married when will he be, I'd like to ask? But maybe he feels that nobody loves him."

"All rich men are loved," objected the studious girl in great surprise. "Anybody knows that! If you can't love a man when he is rich, what chance has he if he's poor? There is an aura about rich men which just draws affection—look at the crowds following them all the time. Maybe that man isn't as rich as he is supposed to be and that makes him cross. Or maybe he doesn't know what to do with all his money."

"Adelbert," the ingenuous little thing murmured, having maneuvered the devoted young man to the other end of the room away from the crowd, "you've just got to tell me what you would do if you were as rich as old Mr. Bullet. You can't guess how interested I am!"

"Cyclamen," the devoted young man told her earnestly, his face alight with resolve, "if I had all of Bullet's money I'd go around the world and buy a racing car, and, golly, if I wouldn't have a good time! That's what I'd do."

"Well," the ingenuous little thing sniffed somewhat tartly when she had taken it in, "I must say I think it is perfectly disgraceful to be planning what one would do with somebody else's money and the somebody not even dead or anything. Such selfishness! No wonder poor Mr. Bullet looks cross. I am just disappointed in you, Adelbert."—Chicago News.

WANAMAKER, THE ERRAND BOY

John Wanamaker, the boy, was a frail, studious lad that did not reveal any special promise of doing in the world.

His father was a bricklayer, and the little fellow had to help after school hours. When he was 14 years old, he was compelled by circumstances to leave the Philadelphia public school and go to work.

First an errand boy for a publishing house, earning $1.75 a week, then for a retail firm, at $2.50, and next in the then largest retail store in Philadelphia.

A promotion and he was a clerk. At 23, with money, he had saved, he and his brother-in-law, started a clothing store just before the effects of the Civil war hit the city. He tried to enter the army but was rejected because of the frailty of his health.

Weathering the storm of war-times, the concern struggled, and grew. Then his partner died. Forming John Wanamaker & Company, he continued the business.

When he founded the department store idea, its failure was freely predicted. When he started to advertise extensively, and when his cooperative payment system gave employes $100,000 a year in addition to salaries, the old-timers, at each step, foretold his ruin.

Then to New York. Buying the once successful A. T. Stewart & Company business, Wanamaker threw every effort into the revival of the corpse. Critics said his Philadelphia ideas would not succeed in Manhattan, and for some time it looked as though they were right. Then success smiled and he built a large addition to the store.

Offered many honorary appointments, he accepted few, one being that of Postmaster-General in President Harrison's cabinet. Tendered several nominations for national and municipal offices, he declined, but ran against Senator Quay, to beat the machine, and was defeated.

At the time of his death, his stores were among the largest in the world, his fortune was rated at many millions, and his great benefactions had made him known to nearly every part of the world.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

GENEVA

Calling on the League of Nations—from within its own household, so to speak—to settle a discussion with France, next door, is an action threatened by the Canton of Geneva of the Swiss Republic, in which this world organization has its seat.

This queer combination of world problem and domestic problem results from Geneva's being a sort of "political and economic peninsula thrust into France," according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society describing the canton.

"The Canton of Geneva seems to hang precariously to the rest of Switzerland like a fragment of food on the bottom of a spoon," says the bulletin. "Though it has an area of more than a hundred square miles its contact with Swiss territory is across a narrow neck little more than three miles wide. The contact with France, on the other hand, is along a border more than 50 miles long.

"Naturally, Geneva has looked largely to French land, only a stone's throw away in every direction, for its fresh food supplies. The fact that this surrounding region is one of France's garden spots increased this natural dependence. Ringing Geneva round are the prolific orchards and gardens and chestnut groves of the Department of Upper Savoy and Ain, and the general farming regions in which they are set with their poultry and small flocks of farm animals.

"Geneva has drawn many of its supplies from this region for centuries, long before the territory near-by was either French or Swiss. The city was virtually independent during the Middle Ages, being ruled as the temporal realm of a bishop appointed by the Pope. For fifteen years after the first French Republic was established, Geneva was annexed to France, and no question of boundaries arose.

"When the canton's independence was restored in 1815, the custom of drawing on the surrounding country for supplies was recognized and portions of Savoy and Ain were apart as regions of free trade, the French economic frontier being maintained some miles back from the real boundary. When the recent Treaty of Versailles was written France inserted a clause moving the customs frontier up to the territorial boundary line. The Swiss citizens voted against their government's accepting the change, and it is the resulting dispute that may go to the League of Nations.

"To see Savoy's frontiers creep closer is no innovation for Genevans. For six hundred years the city had to withstand the intrigues of the counts and later the dukes of Savoy to get possession of its territory." One duke in 1444 even went so far as to have himself elected Pope, in that capacity appointed himself bishop of Geneva, and then resigned the Papacy, retaining the bishopric. After the death of this resourceful bishop a successor of his relatives held the office of bishop of Geneva, but they were finally ousted.

"Another Savoyaard duke used economic pressure that has an unpleasantly modern tone in his efforts to ruin the city he could not gain possession of. He induced his son-in-law, the King of France, to prohibit French merchants from visiting the famous old Geneva fair and to set dates for the Lyons fair that would conflict with those of the Geneva meeting.

"Most dramatic of Savoy's efforts to gain possession of Geneva was the 'Escalade.' In 1602, while apparently friendly toward the city, the duke of Savoy sent his soldiers at night with ladders to scale Geneva's walls. The intruders were discovered, many killed, and the rest driven out. When Geneva became the stronghold of the Reformation, 'the Protestant Rome,' its relations with Catholic Savoy were even more strained. Alliance with cities of the Swiss Confederation afforded protection however, and the city held its own.

"Modern Geneva, besides being the seat of the League of Nations, draws to its confines thousands of visitors and even permanent residents from many lands, and so is in more senses than one an international city. Astride the Rhine where it dashes from Lake Geneva, the city is most picturesquely situated. At its door the lake furnishes a delightful pathway to some of the most beautiful scenery and some of the most delightful resorts in Switzerland."

Scented candles to suit the occasion and daintily colored to match the complexion of the hostess have been used to give tone to some German society events of late.

Stories That Recall Others

Her Idea of Mother.

Emily Ann, age four, and her sister scarcely two years her senior, were playing in the front room.

"Now, Emily," chided Jean, "don't get against that fern any more. You'll make it turn brown and it will die."

Emily looked at her sister with disgust and scornfully said, "Aw, you're not my mother."

A Horn and a Honk.

Five year old Rachel has never ventured near a cow, hence knows little about the animal. Recently the family was in the country when Rachel heard the cow in a nearby field mooing.

"O, mamma," she cried excitedly, "Hear that cow honking her horn."

If the Robin Could Do It.

Anna, five years old, and her mother were standing by a window watching a robin build its nest. The sir was chilly, the ground was covered with the remnants of a snow storm. The robin had alighted in a tree nearby, carrying a match to add to its nest. This Anna quickly observed, and exclaimed to her mother, "Look, mother, it's going to build a fire to warm its feet."

You never hear a man boast that his wife shines his shoes.

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT OF $3,247,257 ASSETS CHARGED

Boston, April 16.—Charging the fraudulent concealment of $3,247,257 assets against G. F. Redmond, James S. Lamont and Arthur H. Diggins, former officers and principal shareholders of the defunct brokerage firm of G. F. Redmond Company, Inc., a petition filed by the receivers in the federal district court today asked that the assets be delivered to them. Lamont was president and Redmond treasurer of the company, petitioned into bankruptcy and closed by federal injunction March 5 last.

In the petition the receivers, J. Weston Allen, Charles P. Curtis Jr., and Bartholomew A. Brickley, said that between December 31, 1921, and January 31, 1924, the firm had received from customers $21,435,310 in cash and had paid to customers $5,645,425. The company's books, the petition recited, showed assets in cash and securities at the beginning of the bankruptcy proceedings of $5,619,964 of which the receivers could find only $373,708.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Miss Alif Stephens, of Pinehurst, has been in Washington for a week's visit with relatives.

Miss Julia Wickham of South Ashfield, Mass., was a recent guest of Mrs. Frederick T. Sayles.

Miss Louise Norton of Broadway has returned to her studies at the Three Arts club, New York, after the spring recess.

Willis Phipps Austin has resumed his studies at Westminster school, after the Easter vacation at his home on Washington street.

Charged With Meter Law Violation.

Samuel Hodes and Joseph Freedman were summoned before the city court Wednesday morning but their cases were continued for a day. The charge made against them is violation of the motor vehicle law because they have had machines parked on North Main street with last year's numbers or without numbers. The men are in the automobile wrecking business on North Main street and the machines referred to are old cars that have been allowed to stand along the street.

Movement of Barges.

Tug Myles Standish towed barge Elisabeth McGuire to Norwich from New London, Wednesday afternoon and took back barge James F. McGuire.

To Keep Hair in Wave on Damp or Windy Days

This is a secret that will be appreciated by my lady who dislikes the "nervous" task of twisting her locks around a heated iron perhaps singeing the hair, burning off the ends, and blistering fingers or scalp. From any druggist procure a few ounces of pure liquid silmerine, pour a little onto a clean tooth brush and draw this down the full length of the hair just before doing it up. The hair will have a wonderfully soft, pretty curliness, much more natural looking, glossier and livelier in appearance than when a waving iron has been used, and the effect will last much longer. Silmerine is neither sticky nor greasy, and there will be no trouble doing up the hair in any style. It will hold its curl even in damp, foggy or windy weather.

BLACK HAND APPEARS IN WILLIMANTIC MYSTERY

A black hand mystery has arisen in Willimantic in the solving of which Postal Inspector Charles Mulvey of New London is expected to take a hand. Samuel Porcaro, Union street, Willimantic, has during the past six weeks, received letters threatening his life, and also threatening other members of his family if he did not comply with demands of $10,000. The money, according to the letters, was to be left in a certain place, the location of which the authorities consider it best to conceal.

Porcaro and his wife are said to deny the receipt of threatening letters, but it is known that letters written in Italian, to Porcaro were turned over to Inspector Mulvey, and that the latter had them translated into English. The letters are said to have been mailed in Willimantic.

The matter has been referred to Washington, and it is expected that the New London inspector will be assigned to make a complete investigation of the circumstances surrounding the affair.

Reports are current in Willimantic that Porcaro is in fear of his life, and has the rear of his store on Union street barricaded as if for a siege.

For some time past there have been rumors about New London that black hand letters were being received by Italians there and in that vicinity, but little attention has been paid to them, it being the opinion of the authorities that the letters were part of a bootleg war that is said to have been waging under the surface.

TWELVE MILLINERY COLORS SELECTED FOR THE SEASON

Twelve special colors for the summer millinery season have been chosen by the Trade Development Committee of the Eastern Millinery Association and representatives of the Retail Millinery Association of America, working in conjunction with the Textile Color Card Association. The new colors, which have also been endorsed by the Millinery Chamber of Commerce, are narcissus, a soft yellow that is described as neither glaring nor dull; terrapin, a brown with a rose tone shining through; aphrodite, a green on the order of the new jade; gladiolus, a red with a blue undertone; sistine, a French blue that is a relative of powder blue; orchid, following the flower of that name; cameo pink, a delicate pastel shade with a yellowish caste; daphne, a strong, bright blue; silver, a silvery gray hue; tarragon, a grayish green; crabapple, a deep salmon shade, and sombrero, a light sand. Navy and white were also stressed. All of the shades named will be played up at the opening in New York of the wholesale summer millinery season on April 28 and at the retail opening two weeks later.

COUNCIL ADOPTS NEW WATER RATES AFTER HEARING PROTESTS

Two of the largest consumers of city water, the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., and the United States Finishing Co., both Greeneville concerns, entered protest against the new water rates proposed by the board of water commissioners, at a hearing held Wednesday evening by the court of common council in the council chamber. Opposition to the new rates was also voiced by Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox, superintendent of the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane, another large consumer of city water. Frank J. Welch, spokesman for the Du Pont de Nemours & Co., and John F. Rogers, manager of the U. S. Finishing company's plant, stated in effect that if their concerns deemed it necessary they could get along without city water by using river water. Mr. Welch pointed out that his company could do this by installing a filter system and Mr. Rogers stated that he could install a pump at the finishing company's plant. John J. Corkery president of the water board, gave as the reason for the increase in the water rates, a desire to conserve the city's water supply rather than to increase the water department's revenue. The council finally adopted the new schedule of rates, which affects some dozen or fifteen large consumers, but changed the date on which the bills figured on the new rates are to be sent out from next October to April 1, 1925, the bills to cover the three months preceding.

On Locating Trolley Poles

One other matter which the council had before it for consideration was the plan for the re-location of certain trolley poles on Main street in connection with the installation of the white way. The council was called to order at 8 oclock by His Honor, Mayor Milo R. Waters. City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read the return of publication of notices for the trolley pole and water rate hearings. The mayor then declared the hearing on the proposed re-location of the trolley poles open.

Alderman Edwards Crooks, chairman of the board of fire commissioners asked if provisions had been made for the fire alarm telegraph wires in the proposed pole changes.

C. W. Taggert, superintendent of the gas and electric department, said that matter all depended upon how much room the fire department needs.

Chief Howard L. Stanton said the department would need one arm space on each pole for its wires.

Mr. Taggert said that in the preparation for the re-location of the poles there was no desire to interfere with the needs of the fire department. Just before the hearing was declared closed Mr. Taggert exhibited blue print sketches of the style of poles and lamps to be installed on Main street and Broadway.

Water Rates Hearing

The council immediately took up the hearing on the new schedule of water rates. In answer to a question from Alderman Crooks as to the reason for the increased rates John J. Corkery, president of the water board, said that the matter of the increase has been discussed at nearly every meeting of the water board for past two years. The consumption of city water is increasing yearly, he said, and it is only a question of time when the city will have to take steps to secure an additional supply. Of the 5,000 water services in the city and town, Mr. Corkery said that 1525 are metered and the remainder unmetered. There has been no change in the price of water for the past 50 years. The proposed increase, he said has not for its object an increase in the revenue of the water department. The new rates, it was felt by the board, will have a tendency to conserve the water supply. The new rates affect only about 15 or 16 consumers, the large consumers, and will not affect any consumer who uses 200,-000 cubic feet, or less, a quarter.

Du Pont Makes Protest

Frank P. Welch of the Du Pont de Nemours Co., one of the largest consumers of water in the city, said the company's bill last year was about $6,200. If the proposed rates had been in effect last year the company's water bill would have been $9,500. Our water service is metered, said Mr. Welch, and we do not waste any water. Under the new rate schedule, if we were running at capacity, our bill would be close to $15,000. Mr. Welch said the company several years ago had under consideration a plan to install a filter at the plant so that river water could be used. After some consideration the plan was given up at that time. Mr. Welch said that if the company deemed necessary a filter could be installed at the plant.

John F. Rogers, manager of the United States Finishing company's plant, said that Mr. Corkery's remarks were not altogether clear to him. Mr. Corkery, he said, stated that the reason for the increased rates was not to increase the revenue of the water department but to conserve water. Later he stated that the price of everything had gone up and the city is entitled to more money for its water. Mr. Rogers pointed out that the new rates will mean a different of some hundreds of dollars a year to the finishing company. Mr. Rogers said that his plant finds the city water a great convenience for certain purposes but that it is not essential. We can dodge it, he said.

Mayor Waters asked Mr. Rogers if he could tell what rates the finishing companies pay in other cities. Mr. Rogers said he could not tell just what the rates are in other cities. The same question was asked of Mr. Welch but he could not supply the information. He said that most of the Du Ponts plants are either located outside cities, where there is no city water supply, or out in the woods where pump systems have to be used.

Mr. Corkery said that in Rhode Island the highest meter rate is 35 cents a thousand gallons and the lowest commercial rate is 14.5 cents per thousand gallons. Our idea is to conserve the water supply, he said. On the other hand if the large consumers intend to use that large amount of water they ought to pay somewhere near the price they pay in other cities.

What would it cost to meter the 31,-000 unmetered services, asked Mayor Waters of Mr. Corkery. I would say about $60,000 answered Mr. Corkery.

Says It Won't Save Water

We are going to stay with you, said Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox, superintendent of the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane. We are going to use your water. We can't help ourselves. Raising the rates won't conserve the supply, if the manufacturers stay with you. You must secure the water supply sooner or later. It is not fair to raise the rates for a few consumers. Why raise the rates? Why not get more water. Suppose the manufacturers go on paying the new rates and using the same amount of water? Then you are going to run out of water.

Mr. Corkery spoke of the huge consumption of water by the manufacturing plants and said he did not think it right to use all that water for manufacturing purposes.

Mayor Waters said that no one had questioned the statement made by Mr. Corkery that the city is selling water at a loss at 25 cents a 1,000 cubic feet, which is considerbly less than other cities are charging.

If we stopped using water, said Mr. Rogers, the expense of the water department would be the same, but the revenue would be decreased.

Mr. Welch said he was not opposed to paying the increased rates if the city is losing money, but that when the rates are increased because of a water shortage to conserve the supply, he was opposed to the new schedule.

The council then took a recess, reconvening shortly after 10 o'clock. On motion of Alderman Henry Gebrath the petition of the Connecticut company to relocate certain of its poles on Main street in connection with the installation of the White Way was granted provided the company consents to an amendment providing that one arm be provided for city wires on each pole relocated.

The new water rates as proposed by the board of water commissioners was then adopted with a change in the date on which the bill figured on the new rates are to be sent out from next October to April 1, 1925, the bills to cover the three months preceding.

The resignation of A. E. Cruthers as street commissioner was read by the city clerk and accepted by the council after which adjournment was taken at 10.15.

No explanation was given of the reason why the street commissioner had resigned, nor was it explained in the wording of the resignation.

Ditch in Broadway.

An example of how one city department will tear up the work of another and not restore it is seen on Broadway between Broad street and Elmwood avenue, where a ditch was dug in the macadam to lay pipe into a new house. The ditch was long ago filled up, but nothing has ever been done to restore the macadam surface and the ditch remains nothing but an uneven gash in the macadam that is fast wearing into a hole.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES IN JEWETT CITY CONFERENCE

The conference of the Congregational churches of Pachaug, Lisbon Plainfield, Preston City, and Jewett City, was held at the Jewett City church Wednesday afternoon, over two hundred attending. The platform was beautiful with its decorations of Easter lilies, daffodils, hyacinths, palms, ferns and pussy willows. After an organ prelude by Fred S. Leonard, Rev. H. S. Stephenson, pastor of the church, presided. The doxology was followed by the invocation by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, of Norwich, and the Lord's prayer. Rev. Roderick MacLeod of Hanover read the Scripture and offered prayer. A choir of fourteen voices sang an anthem with soprano obligato by Irene Stewart and Sadie Thompson.

The sermon of the morning was delivered by Rev. Mr. Abbott of Norwich. He spoke from the verses in the hundred and forty-seventh psalm, which read, He healeth the broken in health, and bindeth up their wounds. He telleth the number of stars; He calleth them all by their names. The speaker emphasized the fact of the privilege he believed it was to have some thing to say about God. He told of the differences that were bound to become incident with progress. His ideas were aptly brought home to his listeners, by the illustrations, touching the thought of what must occur when we, or things in nature, begin to evolve.

The blossom of the rose, the growth of the tree, the existence of the mountain and the life of the child, were made to show the differences inevitably attending progress. Mr. Abbott had something to say in the line of abolishing the common belief that God was away off. He believed that if God was anywhere, He was within the universe itself. Impressively he told of how God has literally called the stars by name, calling them to their assigned work for the grand harmony of the universe.

Dinner was served in the vestry, the tables and parlor being decorated with begonias, Easter lilies, daffodils and cinnerarias. The blessing was asked by Rev. William Prentiss of Plainfield.

In the afternoon, after a praise service Scripture was read and prayer offered by Rev. William J. Reynolds of Lisbon. The business session followed. The scribe of the conference, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, read the report of the last conference which was accepted. She also stated that at the request of the pastors of the conference, she represented the conference at the funeral of Mrs. H. T. Arnold in Norwich on January 7. Rev. Mr. Arnold was for years the scribe of the conference, and has always retained his interest in the churches since he left his pastorate in Plainfield and made his home in Norwich.

The roll was called, numbering 25 from Plainfield, 24 Preston City, 22 Hanover, 14 Pachaug, 12 Lisbon, 65 Jewett City; and 40 visitors. After the offering was received, Mrs. H. S. Stephenson sang The Ninety and Nine by Edward Champion. The resolutions committee were Rev. W. J. Reynolds, Rev. William Prentiss and Rev. William Muttart. They expressed thanks for the bountiful hospitality and splendid service of the church, and emphasized the object and the motto, which, so beautifully expressed the purpose and fellowship of the six church conference. Sympathy was extended to the bereaved families of Deacons James Eadie of Hanover and George Haskell of Jewett City, both so long identified with the religious life of these churches, giving generously of their time and money to the well being of the work of Christ in their community and the world. In their lives beautiful and helpful, and their deaths triumphant.

The address of the afternoon was on The Miracle of Prayer, and Rev. Prof. Wallace L. Gallup, Ph. D. Dept. of Biblical Literature of Connecticut college, was the speaker. He discussed the subject in the practical aspects as the most vital thing in the life of Christians. He divided the subject in three parts, Ask, Seek and Knock. Asking, is not necessarily the noblest kind of prayer. We have no right to ask and not work for the answer, and make ourselves worthy. If a thing is really worth having, it's worth asking for. Then rise up and go and get it. Seeking is a higher form of prayer than asking. Prayer is the glorious way of seeking the best in life. No man ever seeks the Eternal God without finding Him. Prayer is knocking at the doors of opportunity and understanding of self. Amazing and miraculous are the answers. It is a reaching out—a confession—adoration—and a battlefield. Prayers have an amazing, miraculous, extraordinary effect on oneself and humanity. Honestly pray once and it is a great adventure. Rev. Mr. Stephenson expressed thanks and appreciation for the two splendid and helpful addresses. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church.

GEN. AIKEN REACHING HIS 91ST BIRTHDAY

A native of Manchester, Vt., but a resident of this city for many years, General William A. Aiken of 157 Washington street, will reach his 91st birthday anniversary on Friday. The approaching anniversary finds him enjoying good health and maintaining a lively interest in civic and community affairs, although for a number of years past he has retired from active business life.

His many friends in Norwich, where he has long been one of the most respected citizens, will delight in extending him congratulations upon his birthday with good wishes as he increases in years beyond the four score and ten mark.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES IN ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

The parish masses are being read in St. Patrick's church every morning this week at 8 o'clock, except Saturday, when the hour will be 7.30.

Today, Holy Thursday, there will be the customary procession of the Blessed Sacrament to the repository on a side altar, as two Sacred Hosts are consecrated today, the second to be consumed by the celebrant of the mass of the Pre-Sanctified Friday morning. Hundreds will visit the church today, in adoration of the Blessed Sacrament.

Today in St. Joseph's Cathedral, Hartford, there will be the blessing of all the oils for use during the year in the ceremonies of the churches throughout the diocese. Local priests will go to Hartford this afternoon to obtain these holy oils.

Following the mass of the Pre-Sanctified and the procession Friday morning, there will be the veneration of the cross. At 3 o'clock Friday afternoon there will be the devotion of the Way of the Cross; also in the evening again with the veneration of the cross as the symbol of man's redemption.

At Saturday morning's service there will be the blessing of the new fire and the Easter water, the chanting of the Prophecies and blessing of the baptismal font.

The Lenten fast ends at noon Saturday.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASSES ENJOY PLEASANT SUPPER

The Sunday school classes of Emory Davis and Joseph S. Adams held a supper at the Central Baptist church Tuesday evening at which some forty covers were laid.

The supper was held as the result of a membership contest conducted through the month of March, the results showing 94 per cent. of attendance by Mr. Adams class and 103 per cent. of attendance by Mr. Davis' class.

Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt and Superintendent James L. Case spoke briefly to the gathering. This was followed by a social time. Excellent music was furnished by Osmer's dance orchestra of Baltic. The supper was prepared by Mrs. Tefft and the waitresses were the Misses Amy March, Ruth Eaton, Marion Royce and Unabel Harbeck.

THREE UNDER ARREST FOR SCHOOL STREET ROW

Following what was reported to be a general fracas early Wednesday evening at the home of George Fox, 54 School street, the police arrested there George Fox, Albert Pearce and Louis Barber on the charge of breach of peace.

The report was made that Barber had gone to the Fox house to inquire about who had hit his boy, that Pearce took a hand in the discussion and before long there was a general fracas that resulted in a telephone call for the police. Capt. D. J. Twomey sent Officers Farrell, Gwadowski and P. Murphy to the house and the three men were brought to police headquarters.

Petitions Through Senator McLean
(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, April 16.—Senator George P. McLean of Connecticut, introduced the following petitions in the United States senate today:

Petition from Women's Christian Temperance Union of Central Village, Connecticut, protesting against legalization of beer, urging a stricter enforcement of existing Prohibition law and favoring the adoption of the so-called child labor amendment to the Constitution.

Petition from Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution at Bridgeport, Connecticut, urging upon congress the necessity for adequate appropriations for the maintenance of adequate army, navy and air forces.

MISSING OLD LYME MAN HAS RETURNED

Lewis J. Hughes, 60, of Old Lyme, who had been missing from his home in that town since Sunday morning, returned to his home Tuesday evening after spending three days wandering around the woods in the vicinity of the Rogers Lake section of the town. Mystery had surrounded his disappearance and a reward of $100 had been offered for his body.

Hughes appeared Tuesday at the home of Elmer Marvin on Grassy Hill. Upon reaching the Marvin home he seemed to be a victim of aphasia, being unable to recount his experiences except that he had slept under a ledge in the woods Sunday night and had spent Monday in a barn nearby.

Suffering slightly from exposure and lack of food, Hughes, whose disappearance had roused the neighborhood, was resting comfortably at his own home Wednesday, unable to recount any of his travels, except that something told him to remain in the woods.

MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING

Don't go around feeling tired, lacking in energy and strength, because your kidneys are not working properly. The use of Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, will give your kidneys a good flushing, remove injurious waste matter and bring the kidneys back to a normal, active condition. "Your Foley Pills are the only thing I ever got to do me any good," writes Samuel Brenner, Alexandria, Ind. Lee & Osgood Co.

WHY YOU NEED IRON—

To make you strong and "peachy" and put the power into your blood to overcome disease germs

The food you eat contains carbon. When your food is digested it is absorbed from the intestines into the blood. When the carbon in your food comes in contact with the oxygen carried by the iron in your blood, the carbon and oxygen unite and by so doing they give off tremendous energy thereby giving you great force, strength and endurance. Without iron your blood carries no oxygen and without oxygen there is nothing to unite with the carbon in your food, so that what you eat does you no good—you do not get strength from it—it is like putting coal into a stove without a fire. You cannot get any heat unless the coal unites with the fire.

The strongest weapon with which to prevent and overcome colds, pneumonia, kidney trouble, rheumatism, nervous prostration, in fact almost any disease or disease germs is plenty of good rich pure blood, strength, energy and endurance and the greater energy carrier in the body is organic iron, not metallic iron which people usually take, but organic iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, and like the iron contained in what is known as organic Nuxated Iron, which may be had from almost any druggist. Nuxated Iron often increased the strength, energy and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time.

It has been used and highly recommended by former United States Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U. S. Courts, many physicians and prominent men.

Over 4,000,000 people are now using it annually. Satisfactory results are guaranteed or the manufacturers will refund your money. Sold by all druggists in tablet form only.

End Rheumatic Pain With New Powder From Italy

Shake It in Your Shoes. No Medicine to Take

Allesandro Volta, the well known Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named, has discovered a powder that drives out the agonizing pain of rheumatism. To thousands of sufferers in this country it has already brought relief from pain so quickly that it seems miraculous.

This amazing discovery is in the form of a fine powder which, when shaken into the shoes, seems to be absorbed immediately into the blood stream through the myriad pores of the feet. This is due to the fact that in the feet there are 10 times as many pores to the square inch as in any other part of the body. And, intended to act at once on the Uric Acid which causes rheumatic pain, Volta powder brings speedy relief in even the worst, most painful cases.

The use of Volta powder has demonstrated such astonishing results in literally thousands of cases, many of which were considered hopeless, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta to rheumatic sufferers in their city with an unqualified guarantee to return the full purchase price on the first box in any rare case where the rheumatic pains are not wonderfully relieved.

All who suffer from rheumatic pains, no matter how long-standing their case may be, should take immediate advantage of this liberal offer. You can get Volta powder with this guarantee from

WESTERLY SOCCER TEAM WILL PLAY NEW LONDON RANGERS FOR BULLETIN CUP

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 16—The Westerly Soccer team has consented to meet the New London Rangers eleven in a three game series for the Bulletin cup. The first game of the series will be played at New London this Sunday and the second game it is expected will be played in Westerly on the following Sabbath day. In case both teams are victorious in one game each, a third game will have to be played in order to decide the victor. A flip of the coin will decide whether the third game will be played at New London or Westerly.

The Rangers are confidant in gaining the decision over the Rhode Island State players and are putting in an extensive week of practice in preparation for the opening contest on Sunday. The Rangers have been idle for two weeks now and are in a fit condition to give a good account of themselves.

Manager Jack Cruise of the Rangers had the South Manchester Soccer team booked to play the Rangers at New London this Sunday, if the Westerly team backed out of the proposal of having these teams meet for the Bulletin cup.

CHAPMAN TECH OUT TO BEAT OLD SAYBROOK HIGH

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 16—Although Chapman Tech ushered in its baseball season with a defeat at the hands of the Plainfield High school outfit last Saturday, the wearers of the Red and Black expect to even matters their first set back of the season, when these teams meet Thursday afternoon at Old Saybrook.

It is expected that the Tech team will enter the Old Saybrook game with the same lineup that opposed the Plainfield nine last Saturday. The twirling department is the only place that is definitely undecided as yet. Cruise who twirled a rather creditable game against Plainfield High in the first game of the season, will not start the game against Old Saybrook. It is Linklester's turn to do the hurling and he will probably get the assignment. Johnny Brown, who played in the infield last year is back in the outfield and in case the Tech hurlers are not going as good as they should he will probably take his regular turn in the box.

Chapman Tech showed a defect that can not be remedied at the present at least. That defect in the team is behind the bat. McDonald who caught Cruise's curves in the Plainfield contest and who is the best prospect for this important position, let the Plainfield runners run wild on the bases. If he is to develop into a catcher, he will have to get the ball down to second base on the line rather than to lob the ball down to the second baseman, thus enabling a rival baserunner to reach second without even a thought of being caught. Because a good strong arm is essential to a good catcher. Chapman Tech may lose one or two games this season because she has no catcher with a strong arm that can stop base stealing.

FLINTSTONE WINS HARFORD HANDICAP AT HAVRE DE GRACE

Havre De Grace, Md., April 16.—Flintstone won the $5,000 Harford handicap for three-year-olds, the opening of the spring meeting at this track today; Shuffle Along was second and Swing Along third.

Time for the six furlongs 1.14.

Dominique, Comiza, Dunlin, Knobbie, Mainmast, New Hampshire, Champlain and Prince of Umbria also ran.

The mutuels paid Flintstone $19.40 to win, $10.60 second, $5.40 third; Shuffle Along $13.80, and $7.20; Swing Along $4.80.

CUBS POUND THREE CARD PITCHERS HARD

St. Louis, April 16.—Batting three pitchers out of the box, the Chicago Cubs evened the series with the St. Louis Cardinals here today, 13 to 4.

Haines was retired in the first inning, after he had allowed four singles, resulting in as many runs. North took up the pitching burden for the Cardinals and lasted until the sixth when Friberg doubled and Heathcote tripled, scoring Friberg and Miller, and Hartnett hit over the left field fence scoring behind Heathcote. H. Bell than replaced North, but allowed a double which with a wild pitch, scored two more runs.

The Cardinals threatened only in the fourth when Mueller tripled and scored on Bell's home run.

The veteran Alexander allowed eleven hits, but tightened in the pinches. With the bases filled in the seventh, Hornsby forced Blades at the plate and Bottomley hit into a double play, Grantham to Grimes. The score:

RED SOX TURN TABLES ON WORLD'S CHAMPS

Boston, April 16.—John Quinn held the champion Yankees to six hits today and won his game for Boston, 9 to 6. In the first two innings Jones was ineffective. The visitors scored five runs in the ninth on singles by Scott and Pinch Hitter Earl Combs, Dugan's triple, a pass to Schang and muffs by Flagstead and Harris. Young Dudley Lee at shortstop for the Red Sox did some sensational fielding.

ATHLETICS EVEN UP SERIES WITH THE SENATORS

Washington, April 16.—Philadelphia evened the series count with Washington today by a 6 to 1 victory. A heavy bombardment by Dykes, Simmons and Miller in the first inning, coupled with a wild throw by Mogridge gave the Mack men three runs and drove the veteran Washington twirler from the mound. ## BRAVES BEAT PHILLIES IN TEN-INNING BATTLE

Philadelphia, April 16.—Boston and Philadelphia played another extra inning game today, the Braves winning in the tenth inning, 4 to 3, when Casey Stengel put the ball in the left field bleachers for the circuit.

A ninth inning rally by the Braves tied the score and saved them from defeat after it seemed certain that the locals would win. Tierney's sacrifice fly scored Cooney with the tying run in this inning. The score:

COLLINS' HIT IN TENTH WINS FOR WHITE SOX

Chicago, April 16. — Eddie Collins' single which sent Hooper home from second base broke up a ten inning game today and gave Chicago a 3 to 2 victory over St. Louis. Manager Sisler again starred for the Visitors, getting three hits. He also scored his first run of the season, and gave another great exhibition of fielding.

BENTLEY HOLDS DODGERS TO FOUR HITS AS GIANTS WIN

New York, April 16.—The New York Giants turned the tables on Brooklyn today and won the second game of the season, 7 to 1. Jack Bentley former Baltimore southpaw, held the Robins to four hits, the first of which came in the seventh, and struck out eight men, while Grimes, his opponent, was wild and accorded poor support. Frisch hit the first home run of the local season with Groh on base in the fifth. Groh's batting and fielding and a one-handed catch off Frisch by Wheat were features. The score:

THREE RECORDS LOWERED BY WOMEN SWIMMERS

New Haven, April 16.—Three world swimming records were lowered by the relay team of the Women's Swimming association of New York in Carnegie pool at Yale university tonight. The events were the 400, 500 and 600 yard relays and the time in each respectively 4:32 4-5 seconds; 5:40 3-5 seconds, and 6:40 2-5 seconds.

The new records were established by Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin, Adelaide Lambert and Helen Wainwright in the 400 yard relay; Doris O'Hara in the 500 yard event and Agnes Geraghty in the 600 yard event.

SENIOR CLASS MEN TRIM BULKELEY HIGH FRESHMEN

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 16—The Bulkeley seniors made a comeback in the inter class game played at Morgan Park this afternoon and gained a victory over the freshmen by a 9 to 6 score. Good hitting in the pinches by Mariano and expert fielding by O'Connor the senior shortstop were the most important features of the senior victory, which now gives them

How It's Done In the Majors

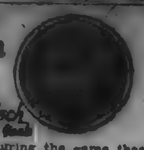
By Frank Frisch



At any time during the game there is a runner on first. Batter then singles to right field.

What position does the pitcher take on a play of this kind?

Invariably on a play of this kind the runner on first tries to make third on the hit. Just as soon as the ball is hit the pitcher leaves his box, and if the play is to be made to third he runs over and backs up the third baseman. Then, in case there is an overthrow, he can prevent the runner from scoring.

I find that a great many pitchers stand in the box and make no attempt to back up throws to basemen on hits to the outfield. They should be on the alert always to back up the proper base when such a throw is made. That is as much their duty as pitching. Nothing will rile players more than to have a pitcher loaf on the job.

place in the inter class standing.

Murphy, who occupied the mound for the 1924 class had the freshmen batters at his mercy, allowing but two hits in the five innings he was on the mound. Ashcraft for the yearlings was never a puzzle to the seniors after the second inning and it was a [illegible] in the manner that the fourth year men assaulted him. The game was played but four and a half innings.

The seniors lined up as follows: O'Connor ss, Cleary lf, Mariano 2b, O'Hara rf, Davis 1b, Murphy p, Silva cf, Reidy 3b, M. Ulanoff c. Freshmen Ramestella 3b, Allen 2b, Nocery c, Callahan lf, McCarvy cf, Walsh 1b, Gentilla ss, Rudd rf, Ashcraft p. The score by innings:

COOPER WINS PITCHERS' BATTLE FROM LUQUE

Cincinnati, April 16. — Pittsburgh won the second game of the season from the Reds today by the smallest possible score, after a great pitchers' battle between Cooper and Luque, in which the Pirate left-hander had just the necessary shade. The only run was scored in the ninth inning on Carey's single, a sacrifice, Carey's steal to third, and a single by Traynor. The Reds got only one man to second base, and none as far as third. ## TO SEND 422 ATHLETES TO THE OLYMPIC GAMES

New York, April 16.—America's representation in the 1924 Olympic games consists of 422 athletes in twenty different branches of competition, the greatest aggregation of talent ever assembled by this country for a program of international sport events.

These figures, which reveal an undertaking of even greater proportions than originally was anticipated, were made public today by the American Olympic committee to emphasize the necessity of immediate response to its appeal for a fund of $350,000 to properly equip, transport and care for the men and women who will make up the various squads.

Originally it was expected the team would consist of about 250 athletes and estimated financial requirements were based on this number. With the increases now planned, however, in several units and the addition of others, the entire venture may require well over $400,000, officials believe.

Five units of the American Olympic team already have embarked, including those in the four branches of military and the rugby football squad which left last week for the play in this sport, which begins May 4 at Paris. This group comprised 51 athletes.

Fifteen remaining units are booked to leave for the scene of international competition in May and June, the bulk of which will sail on the America, specially chartered by the Olympic committee on June 16. Approximately 300 athletes will go on the America, including 118 track and field athletes, 40 men and 19 women swimmers, 19 boxers, 21 gymnasts, 10 men and five women fencers, 27 caramen, 11 tennis players, five modern pentathlon exponents, seven cyclists, and 18 wrestlers.

The next unit slated to leave is the soccer team, composed of 19 men, who will leave May 10. On May 31, the marksmen, including nine trapshooters, 17 riflemen and ten revolver experts, will embark in company with a squad of 18 for the equestrian events.

PARIS MAKING PLANS FOR HANDLING BIG CROWD

Paris, April 16. — "The Olympic games will bring down the walls of Paris for a distance of three miles, and open wide seven of its gates," Prefect of Police Naudin said tonight in announcing that arrangements had been completed for regulating traffic between Paris and the Colombes stadium during the big athletic events.

Disturbed over the terrific crush of vehicles of all sorts during the France vs. Wales football match at the stadium March 27, the prefect of the Seine department, M. Naudin and the French Olympic committee in collaboration with the city council, have decided to abolish all custom regulations at the Paris gates between the Neuilly and Clichy entrances from the north of the city, thus doing away with the delays occasioned by the rule requiring declaration of the amount of gasoline in the tanks of motor vehicles.

The four roads leading from Paris to the stadium have been divided into two northbound and two southbound traffic arteries and all vehicles will be required to keep strictly to the right. M. Naudin expects to be able to handle between 30,000 and 35,000 autocars, autobuses, automobiles and cyclecars daily without serious jams or accidents.

RATNER MATCHED TO MEET WALKER AT BOSTON

New York, April 16.—Augie Ratner of New York, has been matched to meet Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, in a 10-round bout at Boston on April 30, Charlie Johnston, Ratner's manager, announced today. On April 23 Ratner will meet Jock Malone of St. Paul, at Boston.

Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion, will meet Billy Ames at Canton, Ohio, April 28, and Rocky Kansas at Buffalo a week later.

SEMI-FINAL ROUND AT PINEHURST TODAY

Pinehurst, N. C., April 16.—Donald G. Herring of the Pine Valley Country club, Philadelphia, upset the dope here today, when he defeated R. A. Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, four up and three to play, and advanced to the semi-final round of the mid-April tournament. Stranahan had been one of the favorites, having tied for medal honors in the qualifying round.

P. S. P. Randolph, Jr., of Point Judith, R. I., present champion, defeated Donald Parsons, Youngstown, O., 2 up and one to play.

J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., easily defeated C. H. Gardner, Providence, R. I., 6 and 5, and Joseph Bydolek, Buffalo, eliminated Thomas Morrisbn, Pittsburgh, 5 and 4.

Bydolek will meet Herring tomorrow, and Randolph and Chapman will be paired.

HAGEN PREPARING TO REGAIN CHAMPIONSHIP

New York, April 16.—Walter Hagen has mapped out a campaign of careful preparation for the national open golf championship at Oakland Hills, Detroit, June 5 and 6, when he hopes to regain the title he has held twice before. He plans to spend some time at Oakland Hills in May, familiarizing himself with the course, before taking part in the eastern qualifying tests at Worcester, Mass., May 27 and 28.

The United States Golf association announced today that Norval A. Hawkins of Detroit, had been appointed general chairman in charge of arrangements for the title tournament at Oakland Hills.

SEEKS SCHOOL AID TO PROTECT CHILDREN FROM AUTO ACCIDENTS

Garrett J. Farrell, Chief of Police of Hartford, recommended that school authorities share with the city and town police more of the responsibility in safe guarding children from accidents from motor vehicles when he spoke before the Yale-Connecticut Conference on Traffic and Accident Prevention. He said: "Our Connecticut Police Association has secured the adoption of a uniform system of traffic signs in Connecticut cities and it has recommended that the school authorities divide with the police more of the responsibility in safe guarding children going to and from school.

Mr. President and Gentlemen:

I consider it an honor and a great privilege to address your conference, and it gives me much pleasure to serve on your program.

I have been invited by President Angell to present to you a paper on the Traffic Policing of City Streets, and will try and confine my remarks to that subject as much as possible, taking into consideration the various elements which cause accidents on our streets, the necessity for traffic control, and what we are doing toward making the streets safe for the use of both vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

Our problem of regulating traffic on city streets is really the most serious one we have to contend with today, and will continue so in the future as the number of motor vehicles and pedestrians on our highways increase. Our streets, especially in the business sections, when they were originally laid out were not planned with the foresight for accommodating the large volume of traffic we have today and the result is that many of our main thoroughfares are too narrow to take care of the numerous passing through the business streets of our cities.

To be sure, in some cases we have attempted to remedy the situation by widening of streets where possible, and by diverting traffic to side streets which parallel our main streets, by restricting parking privileges, by allowing vehicles to travel in one direction only on some streets, and by confining heavy trucking and slow moving vehicles to other streets but these are only temporary remedies, and the time is not far distant when more radical changes will be necessary to relieve the congestion on our streets due to the ever increasing volume of traffic passing through them.

The street cars present a very difficult problem in many cities, especially on the central streets where they cross the main thoroughfares, and the time will undoubtedly come when it will be necessary to put the tracks underground, as has been done in many parts of New York city and other large cities. Of course, this would be an expensive proposition, but the longer it is delayed the more prohibitive the cost will be.

The alarming increase in the number of motor vehicles accidents is a matter of deep concern to all of us, and it seems that regardless of the numerous safety-first campaigns and the large mass of literature which is sent out yearly on the subject, we are unable to stem the advancing tide of increasing fatalities, personal injuries and property damage due to motor vehicle accidents.

The motor vehicle driving public and pedestrians must come down to earth and use more calm judgment in the use of the highways, with proper regard for the safety and rights of each other, and if they must err it should be on the side of safety. If they would only stop to think that a delay of a second or two to avoid an accident would mean saving of their time and expense in the long run. I am sure that the number of accidents would be greatly reduced.

Every city now maintains a large force of officers whose entire time and energy while on duty is devoted to the regulation of traffic in the endeavor to keep traffic moving, to relieve congestion and prevent accidents as far as it is possible to do so. It is absolutely necessary to have traffic officers assigned to the busy intersections and crosswalks in the business districts, and we try to select our traffic officers, giving particular attention to their alertness and efficiency in regulating traffic and courtesy to the public. These officers are given special instruction on this class of work, and particular attention is given to the standardization of signals and to traffic problems which may occur on their posts, in order that they may be able to meet such emergencies should they arise. These officers are taught not to be autocratic, for the public are human as well as they are, and a city is usually judged by the visiting motorist public through the persons they come in contact with, and they usually first look to a police officer for directions or information in regard to our cities.

Congestion of traffic very often causes serious delay to fire apparatus, and although we have ordinances covering such emergencies, the motor vehicle driving public do not take the prompt measures necessary in order that the first apparatus may have clear and unobstructed passage. This is the age of haste, and if a driver thinks he can beat the fire apparatus to the next corner some will take the chance if there is no officer in sight.

Our State Police Association of Connecticut, an organization composed of police officers from all the cities and towns throughout this state which have organized police departments, has given this subject of traffic control considerable thought and study, and we have finally secured the adoption of a uniform system of traffic signs for use in all the cities throughout this state, to designate streets or sections of streets which are restricted for parking and direction of travel, so that visiting motorists in our cities will find the same system of signals in use in all the cities of Connecticut, and they will know from the color of the sign just what the restrictions are on the streets they may pass through or on which they wish to park. Wherever possible, these signs will be found fastened in a vertical position on poles, in order that a driver may know where to look for them and readily find the information he is seeking.

Our association has also given considerable time to the subject of school traffic, and recommended that the school authorities share more of the responsibility, by teaching the children the danger of running and playing in the streets, and recommending that the school teachers, Boy Scouts and the larger school boys be used for the purpose of keeping the children on the sidewalks in the vicinity of the schools, and instructing the children that they must cross the streets only at the regularly designated crosswalks. This is a very essential part of a child's education, for surely the safeguarding of life and limb is of as much importance, if not more, than their other studies.

When the subject was taken up with the school authorities in Hartford it was given whole-hearted and enthusiastic support, and the following working agreement for the prevention of traffic difficulties in connection with school children was worked out:

1. That the principal of each school will talk with the police officers on duty at nearby crossings on Problems of school traffic.

2. That traffic officers will report to the principal of the school involved, cases where the carelessness or willfulness of individual children is causing the officer difficulty.

3. That each school will be provided by the Board of Education with a blueprint map of the streets of Hartford to be known as the Accident Map.

4. Whenever possible, arrangements will be made at a school assembly or otherwise to have police officers in uniform speak to the children on care in avoiding accidents.

5. That the Superintendent of Schools and the Chief of Police or his representatives will as speedily as possible inspect the individual traffic crossings and make whatever recommendations seem necessary to their their individual departments.

6. That a review of a film on safety now being worked out by the Department of Motor Vehicles will be arranged at one of our schools when the film is ready.

7. That wherever possible, school authorities will work out a more complete monitor system to keep the children on the sidewalk until they reach points made safe for crossings.

8. That the Chief of Police will direct the officers to require the children to stand on the sidewalk; i. e., not to step from the curb until the signal is given.

9. That Commissioner Stoeckel will send a photograph of the map of Hartford showing traffic accidents during the past year.

10. That the Superintendent of Schools arrange for a later conference between the members of the Principal's Club and a representative of the National Safety Council to determine where, if possible, safety instruction may be incorporated as a regular part of the course of study.

We find there is a high percentage of accidents due to youthful drivers, especially those operating delivery trucks. These youths are the same type of boy who drove the delivery wagons in the days before the automobile became popular and numerous. They seem to be always in a hurry, and take altogether too many chances.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of proper and thorough examination of applicants for motor vehicle operators' licenses, the strict enforcement of the pedestrian law in all cities of this state, and the education of the people in the proper use of the highways."

GRASS FIRES MAKING WORK FOR DEPARTMENT

Carelessness of boys playing with matches and setting grass fires has caused considerable work for the fire department during the past few days and parents are asked to watch out for similar doings during the next few weeks, with a view to preventing a steady occurrence of fires.

The department responded to two calls for grass fires Tuesday and on Wednesday three calls were received. At 8.40 o'clock the department went out for a fire on Summit street and at 10.15 o'clock went again to Summit street for a grass fire just across the street from the first blaze. At 11.53 o'clock a call came in for a fire on High street that started near the house owned by Mrs. Mary Faulkner. Considerable damage might have resulted from this fire had not the department made a quick response.

Speaking of the grass fire Tuesday Chief Stanton expressed his appreciation of the work of the Boy Scouts and older boys of Elizabeth street school who were allowed to assist the firemen by Superintendent John B. Stanton.

CHANDLER RESIGNS AS COMPENSATION COMMISSIONER

Compensation Commissioner George B. Chandler of the First Congressional District this week sent his resignation to Governor Templeton to take effect on June 1, 1924. Accompanying it was a personal letter to the governor explaining the reasons for his action. He stated that he would on that date become full-time Secretary of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, which office he has held on a part-time basis since January 1, 1919.

Mr. Chandler tells the governor that the necessity of an increased personal income and his strong conviction of Connecticut's need for "greater cooperation and more team work between the several classes of Connecticut business" are the main motives that prompt his action. He also hits at the tendency of the Federal Government to encroach upon the states "by various methods and devices, such as grants out of public funds having strings attached to them calling for a certain degree of Federal supervision." He refers to the state as "our most vital political unit and our leading agency for safeguarding personal and business rights." He also points out that Connecticut "is drawing its raw material, fuel, and food supply from regions largely beyond the Alleghanies and the middle west and sending the finished product back to the same market," and he believes the state can retain its industrial supremacy only through organized vigilance. He also refers to "the challenge to economic law and stable government" which is being issued by many organizations and believes that the call of the hour is for some "counter-organistion made up from all classes of those who still believe in the law of supply and demand and the constitutions of Connecticut and of the United States of America." He trusts that his decision and motives will meet the governor's approval, and adds that he has had his resignation in mind since the legislature of 1923 adjourned. He pays high tribute to Ex-Governors Baldwin, Holcomb and Lake for maintaining the commission on a bi-partisan basis, and expresses the hope that no governor will ever depart from this wise practice and that future legislatures will be willing to "grant adequate appropriation for the support of the commission and refrain from any ill-considered action which might tend to disturb its morale and impair its efficiency."

Commissioner Chandler received his appointment from Governor Baldwin and took office in October, 1918, the Compensation Act becoming effective on January 1, 1914. Prior to his appointment he had been one of the leaders in the 1909 and 1911 sessions of the General Assembly and was active in state politics as a republican campaign speaker. He was also appointed by President Taft a member of the National Commission on Industrial Relations, later known as the "Walsh Commission" but all of the Taft appointees failed of confirmation by the succeeding senate, which was democratic.

CLAIMS HE IS SHUT OUT OF FLONZALEY QUARTET

Discord in the Flonzaley quartet which has played occasionally here in the Slater hall course was disclosed in the supreme court of New York Tuesday when Louis Bailly, the viola soloist since the quartet was organized by the late Alfred de Coppet under the name of the country home of the founder, applied for an injunction preventing the use of the name by any quartet which does not include him. Bailly alleges that the four members under contract in 1921 which was approved by de Coppet's son Andre, played together until recently when the other members told him they intended to dissolve. He refused to consent, and they chose another viola player and contracted for concerts for the coming season leaving him out.

WIDOW OF MURDERED PASTOR RETURNS TO NEW JERSEY

There is local interest in the announcement from New Brunswick, N. J., that Mrs. Frances Noel Hall, widow of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, whose body was found beside that of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills beneath a crabapple tree on the Phillips farm at New Brunswick, Sept. 16, 1922, will spend the next few months at the homes of friends and relatives in that city, after which she will live in the Hall home on Nicols avenue there.

Mrs. Hall returned from a trip abroad Sunday and is staying at the home of her cousin, Mrs. William G. Bearman, on George's Road, near Brunswick. Bearman said that "Mrs. Hall has nothing whatever to say" in making known her plans for the future. He declared Mrs. Hall was greatly improved in health as a result of her European trip.

Mrs. Hall shortly after luncheon, left the Bearman home in an automobile, and made several short visits to friends in the city, then returned to the Bearman home.

Willie Stevens, her brother, who is living with a caretaker at the home on Nichols avenue, visited the Bearman home a short time in the afternoon. Henry Stevens, Mrs. Hall's other brother who lives in New York, will visit his sister within the next two or three days, it is understood.

Prosecutor Joseph E. Stricker of Middlesex County, New Jersey said the murder of Hall and Mrs. Mills was still being investigated. Several private detectives are still at work in the hope of winning the reward.

"There have been some developments in the case which I am not now at liberty to disclose, but which I feel may result in a solution of the murders," County Detective David said late Tuesday. "I am working with County Detective George Totten of Somerset on some angles of the case which seem to me to be of importance. The developments to which I refer have no relation to Mrs. Hall's return. I have not been in touch with her since she came back."

Latin Americans Will Inspect Highway Construction

An intensive field study of American highways and highway transport will be made during the coming summer by representatives of 20 Latin-American countries. The party will be the guests of the Highway Education Board of which John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, is chairman. It is proposed to conduct the visitors on a tour of about three weeks through several of the states which have been most active in highway construction.

TO PROMOTE THE SALE OF FARM PRODUCTS ABROAD

Washington, April 16.—A bill designed to promote sale of farm products abroad through the gathering and dissemination of information which would help American farmers adjust their planting in accordance with world needs was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Helping the Old Lady Hen

Now, I suppose you are all wondering who called out from that little old tumbled-down house in the last story, asking Uncle Lucky where he was going with all the lovely roses he had picked.

As soon as the old gentleman rabbit was over his surprise, for he didn't think that there was anybody in that little old deserted house, he said, "Who are you?"

Then a very old yellow hen looked out of the doorway. And, oh, dear me. She was dreadfully poor! Her calico apron was mended in so many places that it looked like a crazy-quilt, and her old shoes were patched with little pieces of leather and her tail feathers done up in curl papers to keep them from dragging on the floor.

"I'm very sorry, ma'am," said Uncle Lucky, kindly. "I will pay you for the roses," and he took out his big leather wallet and gave her a lettuce leaf ten dollar bill. Wasn't that kind in the old gentleman rabbit?

"You are very good," said the old hen lady, wiping her left eye with the hem of her old faded, mended calico apron. All of a sudden, she sat down and began to cry. And then, of course poor Uncle Lucky didn't know what to do and neither did Little Jack Rabbit, and neither would I if I had been there.

"Don't take on so," said Uncle Lucky in a low voice, pulling out his old blue silk polkadot handkerchief and wiping her other eye. "There, there Mrs. Hen, don't cry, don't cry. You'll feel better by and by."

But the old lady hen only shook her head and answered:

"My boy has been away so long
I haven't the heart to sing a song.
I only sit and listen and wait
For the click of the little old wicket gate,
For the sound of his dear familiar shout
Before the president called him out."

Then, of course Uncle Lucky knew that her boy had gone to war to fight for his country. So he put his paw on her shoulder and said:

"You should feel proud to think your son
Bravely carried his sword and gun.
That he fought for his country, strong and true.
And never forget his love for you.
For a soldier boy who goes to fight
Will think of his mother every night.
And when the shadows begin to creep
Will say his 'lay me down to sleep.'"

And when Uncle Lucky had finished the old lady hen was smiling through her tears, although her calico apron was all wet and crinkled.

"You are very kind," she said again. "You've done me heaps of good." And after that the two little rabbits drove away in their Luckymobile.

TANLAC CALLED RAILROAD MAN'S FRIEND BY BEECHER

Fireman On N. Y. C. Gives Famous Topic Credit For His Present Strength and Health. Is Free From Stomach Trouble.

"TANLAC certainly is the railroad man's friend," declares Peter Beecher, 418 Mary St., Utica, N. Y., a fireman on the New York Central Railroad. "Last spring, a year ago, I got so weak and run-down I could hardly fire my engine. Even the sight of food sickened me, and what I did eat caused bad indigestion. I was too nervous to sleep much, always had a headache, and was so bilious I scarcely had any life in me at all.

"Well, my work requires good food and plenty of it, and I sure eat my share now, for TANLAC has made my whole system run like an engine just overhauled. I have put on twenty pounds of good, solid weight and feel ten years younger. Taking TANLAC sure is the right track to good health."

TANLAC is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

SUCCESSFUL FLIGHT WITH MAPS AND INSTRUMENTS

Albany, N. Y., April 16.—Lieutenant H. C. Dawsey and Navigator Bradley Jones, of McCook field, who left Dayton, Ohio, this morning for a 970 mile flight to this city using only maps and instruments as flying aids, landed in a field five miles south of this city late today. The flight was regarded as a success.

Within fifty feet of a police station, thieves entered the clothing store of Balkan Brothers in Boston and stole suits and overcoats worth several thousand dollars.

The best flours give it a fine wheaty taste

EVERYBODY likes that good wheaty flavor in bread that can only come from fine flours.

So, for White Rose, the Six Bakers choose flours made from full-kerneled, selected wheat.

And all the other ingredients for this ideal loaf these Six Bakers choose in the same way—the richest and purest that can be found.

A wise choice of materials—and then the knowledge and skill of years go into White Rose. A loaf of rich, brown crust and creamy texture. The best housewives cannot hope to improve upon it.

Already it is the favorite in more than 200,000 of the best homes in New England. Get White Rose from your grocer today.

WESTERLY

Good Friday evening the choir of Christ Episcopal church, composed fifty voices, under the leadership the church organist, Mrs. Florence Larkin, will give the cantata, The Man of Nazareth, by James Rogers. This is a well known cantata, adapted especially for Good Friday.

The choir will be assisted by Ray Allen Gardiner, of Providence, bass soloist at the Central Baptist church, the Jewish synagogue, and a member of the Overseas quartette, all of Providence. During the offertory Mr. Gardiner will sing from The Messiah, He Was Despised.

The Inflammatus, from The Stabat Mater, Rossini, will be rendered by the choir, as will also selections by a trio consisting of organ, violin and 'cello.

The soloists will be: Mrs. Jeane C. Davison, soprano; Harry Coleman, tenor; Ray A. Gardiner, bass; also John H. Sutcliffe, violin; and Charles F. Weston, 'cello.

All the offering received at this service is to be given to the choir, as has been the custom

The order of service for Good Friday evening at Christ church follows: Prelude (trio) organ, violin, 'cello, Serenade, Widor; One Sweetly Solemn Thought, Ambrose; Processional hymn 138; sentences, Lord's prayer and Versicles; anthem, Inflammatus, from Stabat Mater, by Rossini, choir; creed and prayers; cantata, The Man of Nazareth, J. H. Rogers: The Last Supper. The Garden. The Judgment Hall, Choral, Via Crucis, Calvary, The Mockers, Stabat Mater Dolorosa, The Agony, The Earthquake, Victory Triumphant, the offertory, solo, He Was Despised, from The Mahsiah, Handel, Ray Allen Gardiner; Doxology; benediction; kneeling hymn 137 (two stanzas); recessional hymn 167; postlude (trio) Barcarolle, from Tales of Hoffman, Offenbach.

This will be the eighth cantata given by Christ church choir.

Brush fires required the attention of the Westerly fire department Wednesday morning and afternoon. Shortly before noon 33 was sounded for a grass and brush fire in the Vose lots, west of Tower street. Fire Chief Egger with the Ones' truck and men went up Tower street, turned round and coming down Granite street turned into Summer street and went to Vose street by way of Park avenue. The fire had burned up to the rear of the house of Robert Bonner, alarm No. 55 was run in from the box on Tower street near Vose pond. The firemen and truck went back to Tower street, arriving in time to find that sparks from the burning brush had set fire to the shingle roof of the house, formerly the home of Frank Chimento, No. 1 Thompson avenue, Thorpe and Trainer agents, occupied by himself and the family of Nicholas Vazill. Thompson avenue is a short street which runs up a hill to the east of Tower street, and an elevation higher than the base of the Westerly water works standpipe on Ledward avenue nearby. A line of hose was coupled to a hydrant on Tower street and when carried to the rear of the burning house had very little pressure and had to be taken by ladder to the roof. After the roof was partially wet down the Fox Ahrens pump was located near the Tower street hydrant and the stream obtained from the booster pump made short work of the few shingles at the rear of the house. The recall was sounded at 1 o'clock. Damage in the neighborhood of $25 was done the roof.

Soon after 2 o'clock No. 33 was again sounded on the fire ball for a danger zone of the same fire, which had worked its way down to Narragansett avenue and almost up to the house of William Harry Anderson, No. 21. The fire department and men responded and under direction of Engineer Columbus Pasetti, of the Westerly department, backfires were started and the blaze was stopped.

Mrs. Grace Farago, 50, of 53 Pleasant street, wife of Salvatore Farago, also was born in Italy, the daughter of Luca Bruno and Grace Teresa Bruno, died Tuesday. The funeral was held with requiem high mass by Rev. Henry Bruno, at the Immaculate Conception church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial was in St. Michael's New cemetery, the bearers being Frank A. Toscano, Angelo Pucci, Frank Leonetti, Peter Sacco, Joseph Guarino and George Cappuccio.

Irvine O. Chester and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Chester returned to their homes in Westerly on the Everglades Limited, Tuesday morning, from Daytona, having passed the winter months in Florida.

Miss Helen F. Benson arrived in Westerly Monday afternoon from a month's visit in Chicago.

Mrs. Hugh Eccleston of Ashaway was a Westerly business caller Tuesday.

Oliver Portelance of the Barbour pharmacy, Westerly, was in Providence Tuesday.

The staging on the Main street side of the new Washington Trust building at the corner of Main and Broad streets was entirely removed Monday. Workmen were engaged late Monday night in heaping cinders on the Broad street sidewalk to be used in fireproof floors.

Joel Sherman, having completed his duties with the Westerly branch of the Prudential Insurance company, began work Monday morning as a teller in the Westerly branch of the Industrial Trust company, it is announced, will in a short time complete his duties there to enter the employ of the Bradford Dyeing association, at the office in Bradford.

Mrs. Mary E. Arnold was a business caller in Providence Tuesday.

Leverett A. Briggs of Ashaway returned to Westerly Tuesday morning on the Everglades Limited from Daytona, having made Florida his winter home.

Miss Sadye York and Miss Mildred York have returned to Westerly from a visit with Emma Main at Pendleton Hill.

Miss Julia Stutter returned to her work in the Brown building Tuesday after a week's absence.

Mrs. Nora Finnie of Kenyon, was a business caller in Westerly Tuesday.

All trout fishing records have been broken in Westerly—and this too, so early in the season. It was at the first of the week when John Florence, a stonecutter residing at 127 Granite street thought to try a "little" fishing and not far from his home. He chose the quarry hole near the Smith Granite works, the one to which Inland Fish Commissioner George Dolan of Rhode Island had the fish transferred from the quarry hole near the highway when that quarry hole was pumped dry. Luck crowned Mr. Florence's efforts for he hooked a fish which required a good fifteen minutes' time to land. It was "some" fish for it was a German brown trout which weighed 5 1-2 pounds and measured 24 inches in length. It is thought to be one of the species—the "Methuselah" of the tribe—with which late Fish Commissioner Charles W. Willard of Westerly had the quarry hole stocked a number of years ago.

New timber is found by the Westerly High school baseball team, which Coach Joel Sherman has had intensively training for the coming season, out of which to build a catcher, for young Blake has been filling the place back of the stick for the past few days and he promises to set a pace which it will be difficult for other teams to equal.

The annual Ladies' night of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, Knight Templar, was observed in the asylum on High street, Wednesday evening when there was a large attendance of sir knights and their ladies, there being present a number from Wakefield, Mystic and Stonington. The entertainment was given at 8:15 in the lodge room which had been arranged with a pleasing combination of palms and the standards and draperies of the commandery. The entertainers of the evening were the Players' Trio, Marion Harlow, harpist; Austin F. Sooy, 'cellist, and Harland A. Riker, flutist and composer. The reader was Miss Rubelle Jean Durfee, of Boston. Among the favorably received numbers by the trio were Extase, by L. Ganne; Anatal, religious by Thone and Serenade by Herbert and also the group LeCygne (The Swan) Serenata by Moszkowski; Humoresque, as well as At the Brook, Rene de Boisdeffre and Oakteel, by Cui, the combination of harp, flute and 'cello being very pleasing.

The program generally was chosen from selections lying between so-called popular and severely classical in the dialect numbers and stories given by Miss Dufee, "Jane from 17" by Tarkington was most acceptably rendered.

Following the entertainment chicken salad, wafers, ice cream and punch were served. Cards, also dancing in the armory to music by the Ideal orchestra, Mrs. Gertrude Murphy, accompanist, were enjoyed until midnight. The committee in charge was Fred W. Robinson, J. Albert Pawson, Samuel Girvin, George E. Leonard, William C. Smith and Albert E. Barber.

JEWETT CITY

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Robertson, Jr., Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the marriage of their eldest daughter, Isabelle Mary Robertson, and William Hugh MacFarland of Worcester, Mass., took place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James E. Aldrich of Norwich Town, before a bank of palms, ferns, Easter lilies, roses and hyacinths, arranged by Mrs. F. C. Whiting. The bride wore her traveling suit of dark blue serge and a gray hat, carrying an arm bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor was her sister, Miss Irene M. Robertson, who wore a blue suit, with tan hat and carried pink carnations. The best man was Howard MacFarland, the groom's brother, of Moosup. The flower girl was Margaret E. MacFarland of Central Village, who was dressed in yellow crepe and carried a basket of sweet peas. The ringbearer was George M. Robertson, Jr., of Danielson.

The march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Walter Cowan, the bride's aunt, of Norwich. She played O Promise Me during the ceremony.

The bridesmaid received a fancy bracelet as a gift from the bride The best man was given a gold knife, the flower maid and ringbearer gold pieces, and the pianist a brooch.

A lunch was served during the reception. Mr. and Mrs. MacFarland left on a honeymoon trip to Massachusetts, and after May 1 will be at home in Worcester, where Mr. MacFarland is employed in the Central Machine Works. The bride received many gifts of silver, cut glass, linen, and money.

Guests present were Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Aldrich of Norwich Town, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cowan and daughter Janet, Mr. and Mrs. George MacFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Miller and daughter Marian, of Norwich, William J. Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Howe of Montville, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Robertson and son George Methuen of Danielson, Misses Katie Gray and Mary Rankin, of Groton, Miss Annie Ross of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacFarland and son Howard of Moosup, Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacFarland and Margaret, Mark and Arthur MacFarland and Mrs. Everett Ladd of Central Village, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robertson, Mrs. Harry Hopper, Mrs. W. C. Jeffers, Mrs. Harold Jeffers and daughter Clara, Mrs. Irving Thornton, Miss Ruth Rathburn and Helen and Dermat Bolderson, of Jewett City.

Easter suits pressed for men and women at Gittleman's.—adv.

A missionary meeting was held in the parlor of the Baptist church on Tuesday afternoon. A letter of appreciation from Mrs. A. M. Clarke was read. Mrs. A. M. Brown led the devotional exercises. The mite boxes were brought in and opened. The leader of the program was Mrs. John Harris. The topic was The Heart of Africa or Belgian Congo. The introduction to the program was a song sung by Mrs. G. H. Prior. We've a Story to Tell to the Nations. There was a map demonstration and description of the field by Mrs. A. M. Brown; a description of Belgian Congo before the activities of the missionaries, account of Mrs. Catherine Mabie and her great work in the Congo; stories were read showing the great need of doctors and nurses, also of the increased confidence of the natives in mission work, as well as some of the results of missions in Africa. The closing prayer for the missionaries and their work was by Mrs. S. F. Brown.

Auction of furniture at Tarbox Home, Mechanic St., 1 p. m., Sat.—adv.

The alarm of fire was sounded for station 42 at 8.50 Wednesday morning. Chief Wakely and his men, accompanied by 500 citizens on foot and in automobiles found a threatening grass fire in the Belvidere section of Brown avenue. The blaze was extinguished, without damage.

Both W. H. Brown and William McNicol report a flock of cedar waxwings on the East Main street highlands. The cedar bird is a handsome chap, with his conspicuous crest and marking of brown, yellow and red.

A little after 7 o'clock, Tuesday evening, the borough street lighting system balked on its job, and the lights went out. The superintendent found a wire down on Ashland street and from a strange cause. A party of men bound for the Wa Wa camps near Anderson's farm, with a load of canoes were on the wrong road. The bow of one of the boats stuck up so high in the truck, that it fouled the big high tension wire, and broke it from the arm fastenings. This break serves well to forecast another, that has all but happened several times of late. Max Gordon's trucks go up the line somewhere and get loads of waste, which are piled up with the sky the limit. After they have passed down the state road, the telephone lines here that cross main street all carry a fringe of cotton where they have scraped the top of the loads. Unless care is taken, some higher load than the rest will clean out the Main street spans.

Three anglers of the super-expert sort from some unknown part of Rhode Island, got the mystifying of their lives one day this week. One section of the brook they were fishing runs along, not far from a farm house. A small boy came out of this house eating a piece of doughnut, he had a short pole and a tin can of bait. The boy went straight to a hole under a tree, and pulled out three trout in as many minutes. Getting no bites for the next minute or two, he dropped his pole on the bank and retired to the house. The three men, having been witnesses to the performance, rushed for the hole. All attempts to hook a fish were futile; the fish didn't seem to bite. In a half hour out came the small boy again. With no variation he performed the same stunt as before, and in as short a time. For the second time the man came and fished the hole with all sorts of lures and bait, and didn't get a bite. A half hour again passed on, out came the boy and this time he started out four nice ones, as fast as he could bait up and throw in. They of the expert class, were much excited, and ran to overtake the lad as he walked again toward his home When asked the secret, he said 'twas nothing, only that the trout were running up stream, and he waited a half hour for the hole to fill up, "then," said he, "I go over and pull 'em out." No use to fish the hole when it's empty!"

PLAINFIELD

At a meeting of the Welfare Association held in the High school auditorium, Monday evening, it was voted to run a bazaar in the High school and a committee on general arrangements was appointed with Clarence Reed, chairman, and treasurer, and Miss Semon Laperle, secretary. An advertising committee, Messrs. Johnson and Sullivan, of the high school faculty, was appointed. The proceeds of this bazaar, are to go into the treasury of the high school athletic Association, to help clear off the debt which has been accumulating during the present year.

The meeting of Plainfield Grange, P. of H., No. 140, was held in Grange hall Tuesday evening, with Worthy Master William Hall in the chair. After the business session, lecturer's program was placed in charge of the Worthy Secretary, Mrs. Carrie Gardiner. The lectures were delivered with the end in view of showing how the exhibits at the fair should be arranged to give the best possible effects The Lectures were as follows: Canned Fruits and Ham, Sister Evelyn Hall: Vegetables, William Hall; Apples and Other Growing Fruits, Sister Henrietta Buel; General Arrangements, Jason Lathrop, Louis Gendron, Mr. Davis. There is to be a meeting of the grange Tuesday evening, April 22, when the first and second degree will be worked by the degree team. The women members will furnish the supper for the men, as a forfeit for the program with which the men defeated the women members.

About this Light-Six—plus proof on proof

THIS Studebaker Light-Six is the supreme value in the "thousand-dollar" class.

It offers, not a few, but scores of advantages. In its chassis it represents the best that modern engineering knows. In its steels and quality of construction it is identical with the costliest cars we build.

This is to offer you proofs. Then urge that you see it before paying $1,000 or more for a car.

Some evidence

The extra values which this car typifies have made Studebaker the largest builder of quality cars.

They have made these cars a sensation. Sales have almost trebled in three years. Last year 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The multiplying demand has forced an investment of $30,000,000 in model plants and equipment. Of this, $38,000,000 has been spent in the past five years, so the plants are up-to-date.

The engineering department which designs and superintends this Light-Six costs $500,000 per year.

The machines which build it are modern and exact. 517 operations on this car are exact to 1/1000th of an inch. 122 operations are exact to one-half 1/1000th of an inch.

1,200 inspectors are employed to submit each car in the making to 32,000 inspections.

Infinite care

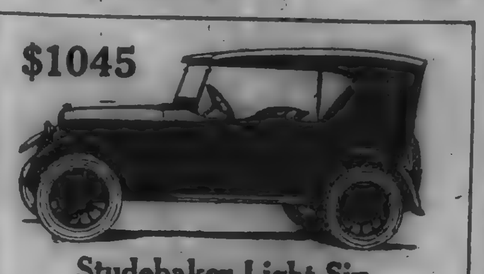
The steels are selected from 35 formulas, each one proved best by years of test for its purpose. On some we pay the makers 15% premium to get them exactly right.

The crankshafts are machined on all surfaces, as was done in the Liberty Airplane Motors. This to give perfect motor balance, at an extra cost to us of $600,000 yearly.

It has more Timken bearings than any other competitive car within $1,500 of its price.



Studebaker Light-Six
Scores of extra values

Built by the leader in the fine-car class. One of the cars for which people last year paid $201,000,000.

Built in a model $50,000,000 plant, producing 150,000 cars yearly. And saving you by quantity production from $200 to $400.

Built of the same steels, with the same care, as the costliest cars we make.

The car that saved 11.4% in operating cost under rivals. The car with 14 Timken bearings.

Mail coupon for book about it

The equipment is unusual. The cushions are of genuine leather, and are ten inches deep.

Every part and detail accords with Studebaker traditions. And the name Studebaker has for 72 years stood for quality and class.

Mark this result

Some men who operate fleets of cars in this class called in auditors to compare the operating costs. They made comparisons on 329 cars, running up to 25,000 miles.

It was found that this Studebaker Light-Six cost for operation 11.4% less than the average of its rivals. This figure included depreciation. That meant $207.50 saved on 25,000 miles. All because of this quality construction.

What it saves you

We build 150,000 cars yearly. All such major costs as engineering, dies, overhead, etc., are divided by 150,000.

We build in model plants, with modern machinery, which have immensely reduced the manufacturing costs.

A car like this, built under ordinary conditions, would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

Learn, for your own sake, what that means to you,

NEW LONDON PUTS INTO EFFECT DRASTIC GASOLINE ORDINANCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 17.—Joseph Nichols, of Waverly, Randolph Taylor, of Montauk avenue, Edward Phelps of Pequonnock road, Groton; Mrs. Elizabeth Maine of Old Mystic and Kenneth Phelps of Pequonnock road, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

William M. Jones has purchased a cottage at the Golden Spur, Waterford, from Silas Maxson, Jr.

Joseph Mendelsi has sold a house and lot on Jefferson avenue of Antonio Guilliani and Virginia Guilliani.

Mary E. Jones has sold a parcel of land on Montauk avenue to Silas Maxson Jr.

Patrolman Patrick Sheehan is off duty, being the latest member of the police force to suffer an attack of the grip.

The five successful candidates for appointment to the New London police department as supernumary officers, were sworn to the faithful performance of their duty today, by City Manager William A. Holt. The officers are: Dennis J. Murphy, 20 Tilley street; Clarence E. Martin, 548 Williams street; Edward H. Reardon, 33 Squire street; William J. Reardon, 33 Squire street, and Henry C. Sylvia, 19 Winthrop street. Murphy will be the first officer assigned to duty and probably will be given a beat the latter part of the month, or first in May. The other officers will be assigned to duty as occasions demand.

The funeral of Attorney Frank G. Cronin was held this morning at 8:30 o'clock from his residence, 23 Nathan Hale street. At 9 o'clock services were held at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, a great throng attending. The funeral procession was headed by a platoon of police in charge of Sergeant James D. Gaffney and with an escort of 150 members of New London lodge of Elks, of which order Mr. Cronin as a past exalted ruler, proceeded to the church where over a thousand men and women had assembled. The mourners besides the Elks included a delegation of members of St. John's Literary society and the New London County Bar association, of which Mr. Cronin had been a member. The floral tributes were exceptionally beautiful. The solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. McGrath, with Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley deacon and Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger sub-deacon. The active bearers were members of the New London police department, Sergeants John J. Cavanaugh, Nelson S. Smith, Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, Traffic Officers Frank Linehan and John Courtney and Patrolman Braxton Hill. The honorary bearers were Charles J. Ducz, Frederick W. Keefe, Graham S. Hislop, Cornelius C. Costello, Attorney Frank L. McGuire and Lieut. M. J. Leney, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The music of the mass was directed by Organist Edward F. Hand. Miss Helen Ganey sang Ave Maria and Mrs. Catherine Hickey, Miss Helen Ganey, Daniel Buckley and Daniel D. Donovan assisted the regular choir in singing Libera and Lead Kindly Light, following the final absolutions.

Selectman Lawrence S. M. Cook and William T. May were the ushers.

Members of the New London County Bar association assembled at the county courthouse and marched in a body to the church. Included among those seated with the delegation at the church were: Judge Charles B. Waller, Sheriff Sidney A. Brewa, Judge Arthur R. Calkins, Judge S. Victor Prince, Attorneys Tracy Waller, Marion R. Davis, Arthur T. Keefe, Clayton B. Smith, Lewis Crandall, Nathan Belcher, John C. Getty, Herbert W. Rathbun, Perry J. Hollandersky, Alfred Colt, Russell Corcoran, G. Curtis Morgan, Hibbard R. Norman, of Norwich, John T. Quinn, Abel P. Tanner, Morris Labchanasky, Warren B. Burrows, Thomas E. Troland, J. James Floyd and Harry Brogan.

In addition to local members of the family present at the funeral services, the following relatives from out of town attended: W. W. Cronin, brother of Jeremiah D. Cronin, of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Lillian Brooks, Leonia, N. Y.; Miss Lucinda Dunphy, Paterson, N. J.; Mrs. August H. Stefens, New York city; Mrs. M. P. Teague, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Donald M. Wasseche, Ridgefield Park, N. J.; Miss Elizabeth Cronin and Miss Jennie Cronin, Colchester; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rizzutto, New York city.

Cornelius H. Daly, of New York city, former room-mate of Attorney Cronin at Yale and old-time Elcarsman, attended the funeral as did Attorney Jesse Devins of Waterbury, member of Attorney Cronin's class at Yale Law school and former associate in the state legislature. Attorney Joseph A. Bergin of Waterbury, who was also a member of Mr. Cronin's class at Yale Law school was present.

Peter Falvey and Clifford Kelly, accused of having made an assault upon Edward Burrows, of Howard street, last Saturday evening, were not convicted in the police court today, though the evidence against Falvey left little doubt that he was an offender. Still he was given the benefit of the doubt and was declared not guilty. The complaint against Kelly was nolled.

Frank Brennan, who says he has been away from the city nearly a year, was charged with having disturbed the services at the Reformed Mission while intoxicated. He was released on suspension of judgment.

A Connecticut Company trolley car, of the one-man type and a five-ton truck, owned by the government and stationed at the submarine base, were in collision this morning on Bank street, between Pearl and Tilley streets. The trolley car sustained the brunt of the damage as the entire front end was wrecked. The truck was also considerably damaged. The trolley car, in charge of Motorman James Syracuse, was bound from State street to Ocean beach. In passing through Bank street Syracuse permitted Albert Chartee, an applicant for employment as motorman, to operate the car. When the car reached a point approaching Tilley street the motor truck, operated by Joseph Daley, second class, was traveling northward and with the truck partially on the rails of the trolley company. Daley saw the trolley car as it approached and attempted to reach a point where the truck could be operated ahead of the machine that was parked so that the trolley car could pass. Daley was unsuccessful, however, for in trying to guide the machine to the intended space, the trolley car and the truck came together head-on and with great force, the impact of the collision causing the trolley car to be put out of business entirely. Neither Syracuse or Chartee sustained injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan returned to their home on Huntington street this evening after a fortnight's vacation trip.

Miss Bessie Giblin of 25 Moore avenue, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine G. Noonan, widow of Daniel Noonan, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The bearers were Patrick Ready, Cornelius Murphy, Jr., T. V. Devine, James Buthe, Michael Kelly and Dennis Devine, Jr. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Collins left tonight by the New London Line steamer for New York in which city they will remain over Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Rahn of Perry street and Mrs. Charles Havens of Bayonet street, have returned to their homes after having been for two days in Bridgeport, to which city they were called by the illness of their sister, Mrs. Joseph Enos.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitch D. Crandall returned to their home, 216 Williams street this morning, having spent several months in St. Augustine and Jacksonville, Florida.

Miss Teresa Cook, bookkeeper in the employ of Tate & Neilan has resumed her duties after being confined to her home on Warren street several days by illness.

Miss Fannie Potter, a resident at the Crocker house, is entertaining her niece, Miss Genevieve Rose, of Nebraska.

Miss Mary Egan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Egan, former residents of New London, now living in Goshen, N. Y. is visiting friends here for a few days.

Mrs. Joseph W. Dean, of Huntington street, sailed from New York today for Bermuda where she will remain a fortnight.

William Blackstone Chappell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chappell of Huntington street, and a student at Yale, is at his home here to remain over the Easter vacation.

Frederick P. Latimer, Jr., pursuing studies at Yale, is at his home in Groton for the Easter vacation.

The barn on the farm of Joseph Romomo, located on Meridian street extension, Groton, was destroyed by fire, late yesterday afternoon, together with its contents of two tons of hay, harness and farming implements. An alarm was rung in from Box 36 and the Pioneer Hose company responded, but by the time the firemen reached the place the structure was doomed. How the fire originated it is not known. Romomo places his loss at close to $1500.

An automobile owned by Horace G. Gavitt, 118 Cedar Grove avenue and used in the jitney business, collided with a machine owned by the government and operated by Frederick Dunn, of the United States Coast Guard academy this morning on Bank street, corner of Pearl street. Both machines were damaged.

Another automobile was stolen from the streets of New Haven this evening. This time the car was a Cadillac and the New London police were requested to maintain a watch for it. The stolen car bore Connecticut registration, A-3684.

Motorcycle Officers William Babcock started on his vacation of 15 days today. During his absence from duty Patrolman George Labour will ride the cycle. Labour is the first patrolmen to perform motorcycle duty other than the regularly assigned officers to this line of duty.

Joseph T. Brazill, 29 Montauk avenue, reported to the police tonight that thieves had visited his power boat and had stolen the clutch. The theft was discovered this evening, but when committed is not known. The boat has not been used since last fall, at which time it was hauled out on the shore in front of the property of Mrs. Nathaniel Keeney, 847 Montauk avenue. The boat was visited tonight by the owner when the theft was discovered.

Harry J. Neilan of 7 Barrows court, will be in the police court tomorrow morning, charged with violation of the traffic ordinance prohibiting the parking of automobiles on Bank street for a period longer than 30 minutes. Traffic Officer John Courtney detected the car of Neilan parked on that street a considerable length of time and ordered the owner into court.

This city has put into effect the most drastic gasoline ordinance ever enacted and made effective here. It is so stringent that it is likely to put a stop to the erection of gas filling stations. Dealers declare that a license to operate that business, no matter on how small a scale, will cost them in taxes, for that is what they say, the inspection amounts to, about $50 a year. It remains to be seen whether the new ordinance will affect the work proposed by the Gulf Refining company, which has an option on the Gentilelli property at Truman and Park street, and which has been acquired at a cost of about $30,000, or at least it will cost that, if the option results in the purchase of the property. Bank street is fast becoming "Gasoline Row", for there are many stations now located on that highway and others will be erected there soon if the new ordinance does not put a stop to them. One more station is to be established at Bank street and Jefferson avenue, for the permission to erect it has been obtained, given because the company owning the property entered into an arrangement by which the city is to get a small strip of land there for the privilege. There is already a station on the opposite corner, and street stations all the way up the street to the northward to the corner of Tilley street, and there the speed mania in the city is supposed to be forthcoming.

When the city under undertook the improvement of the bridge in Howard street, it entered upon an expensive task. The bridge is now torn out and a structure with a granite foundation is being put in. The street is to be paved too and that undertaking will be a costly one. Hamilton Street bridge has been renewed and that highway is being put in good order. The street is closed to travel north of Howard street bridge. Water, gas and sewer connections have been renewed with the street. Some one has pointed out that the fourth and fifth wards have had more money spent on them and more is being spent upon them than all the other sections of the city combined.

EASTFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Archa Walker entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Park of Old Lyme recently.

Mrs. Dana Keith entertained her brother-in-law and sister and their family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitehouse and two daughters, of South Manchester, one day recently.

Mr. Harvey Scott is working at Jordan's garage at Willimantic.

The back roads are getting settled but are still rough and deeply rutted.

J. Carlton Tatem is on a business trip in the south.

Palm Sunday was observed at the Congregational church with a helpful and inspiring sermon by the pastor, Rev. Frank K. Abbott. Palm Branches was the voluntary played by the organist, Mrs. Charles Clark. The anthem sung by the quartet was And He Showed Me a Pure River and for the offertory, Hosanna to the Son of David.

The C. E. meeting was well attended and was led by Mrs. Fred Bowen. There was special music by the quartet with Mrs. Carlton Tatem, alto, in place of Mrs. Walker, who was not able to attend.

Ralph French and a friend, Roger Plaisted of the U. S. S. Galveston have been spending a week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George French. They leave South Carolina April 25th for Panama.

Mrs. Charles Clark and son, Donald spent a few days the first of the week with Mrs. Clark's parents, Rev. and Mrs. John Miller, of East Thompson. Donald Clark remained until the end of the week.

Several families here have been afflicted with grip.

WESTMINSTER

At the morning worship in Westminster last Sunday, Governor Templeton's proclamation for Fast Day (Good Friday) was read, and announcement made of the service, Friday, at 10:30 a. m. at the parsonage. The pastor spoke on The Power of Christ. Rough roads and distance had not prevented the attendance of some wishing to be in the house of God on Palm Sunday.

Easter will be observed at the church by a 15-minute exercise by the church school, followed by morning worship and communion. All willing to "rear" potted plants or flowers for Easter have been asked to bring them that morning and claim them after the service. It is expected that there will be a blossom otherwise provided for each child present.

Deacon and Mrs. A. C. Greene are planning to be in Westminster for the Easter service, if conditions are favorable. Many friends and former acquaintances rejoice in their helpful interest in the years since their residence here.

DEMOCRAT FROM PRESTON TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Delegates to the democratic state convention were named Wednesday at a meeting of the Preston town committee members with whom had been left the choice of delegates.

Those named were Frank A. Kyle, Willis H. Spicer, Robert A. Peckham, Sterry F. Pierce.

When the day breaks some men are too lazy to make use of the pieces.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

IMPROVEMENT IN MARKET

New York, April 16—Stock prices registered further improvement on a small volume of business in today's market. Short interest again furnished most of the buying power, which was particularly effective in the sugars and industrial specialties.

While the prompt acceptance of the loaves report by Great Britain, France and Germany has had cheerful effect on speculative sentiment, domestic trade news continued to be the dominating factors in the determination of price movements. Recent trade reports which include predictions of an early advance in California oil prices and net earnings of approximately $6 a share on U. S. Steel common in the first quarterly report which will be made public April 29, have had a tendency to restrict commitments on the short side of the market.

Money loans of Wall street brokers are now estimated at approximately $1,250,000,000, the lowest in about two years and a reduction of about $30,000,000 since March 31. Brokers' borrowings have been declining steadily since the first of the year when they totaled about $1,400,000,000.

U. S. Steel closed unchanged at 97 1-2. Baldwin which had touched 138 1-4 in the early trading dropped back to 119 7-8 also unchanged. Studebaker closed nearly a point higher at 85 3-8 after having sold a point above that figure. American Can crossed 99 and then fell back to 97 3-4, up 3-8.

Fisher Body was the individual feature, soaring 19 points to 219 on reports that the General Motors corporation, which owned 60 per cent. of Fisher Body stock, was negotiating for the minority interest. Other strong industrial specialties were Corn Products which closed 3 1-2 points higher at 167 1-2; Woolworth which closed at 213 3-4; up 4 1-4; United Fruit which moved up 3 1-3 to 139 1-2, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, up 2 5-8 at 74 1-2.

Another bear raid against Yellow Cab forced that stock down more than 7 points to 60 1-4, a new low, but it snapped back later to 64. Chicago Yellow Cab closed fractionally higher at 53 1-2 after having sold at 49, also a new low, in the early trading.

Strength of the sugar shares was due to an advance in refined prices, net gains of 1 to nearly 3 points being registered by Cuban-American preferred, Cuban-Dominican preferred, Punta Alegre and South Porto Rican.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent. and then dropped to four where it closed. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with 4 1-2 per cent. the ruling rate.

Foreign exchange rates held relatively steady except for a further break in Japanese yen which forced them below 41 cents to another new low record for the year. Demand sterling ruled between $4.84 1-2 and $4.-85 and French francs were quoted just under 6 1-4 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 16—Continued heavy selling of Japanese government 6 1-2 per cent. bonds, which established a new low price at 90 1-8, failed to depress the bond market today, and prices of other foreign and domestic liens turned upward.

Liquidation inspired by uneasiness over the political situation and dissolution of the syndicate was reflected in the initial sale of a $274,000 block of the Japanese bonds at 91. Subsequent offerings drove to 90 1-8 before resistance was encountered. The closing price of 90 5-8 represented a net loss of 5-8. Weakness of Japanese issues was offset in the foreign list by strength of French municipals and Serbian 8s, which touched a new 1924 high at 78.

The remarkable recovery staged by Wilson and company obligations after reports of receivership were denied was given fresh impetus today by the rise of the convertible 6 1-2s to a high level of 78 1-2, a gain of almost 20 points within two days. Under the leadership of sugar company liens, which advanced 1 to 3 points, numerous industrial issues moved higher today and the demand for public utility mortgages widened. U. S. treasury 4 1-4s reached a record high level of 101 4-32nds.

The improved market tone manifested today, it was felt in bond circles, was the forerunner of better investment business, which would be helped by the diversion of funds due to current trade dullness.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 16—Corn led a sharp advance in grain values today. Wet weather likely to delay corn receipts brought about a sudden reversal of outlook on the part of previous sellers, and with offerings scarce the market began to soar. Corn closed firm 1 3-8 to 1 5-8 a. 1 3-4c net higher, May .78 1-4 to .78 1-4 a. 3-8. The wheat finish was unsettled, 3-4c to 1c up. May 1.02 1-4 a 3-8 to 1.02 3-8 and July 1.04 1-2 to 1.04 2-4 a 3-8, with oats at 1-8 a 1-4 to 7-8c gain and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

It was apparent almost from the outset that the corn market had become unusually sensitive to purchasing orders. Only scattered buying was in evidence at first, but demand grew general as the upturn of values gathered momentum. The fact that today's receipts here totaled barely 70 carloads and that Missouri River points appeared to be persistently outbidding Chicago both for corn and oats but would be sellers under a decided handicap. No important reaction took place at any time, and at the close the market stood at virtually the day's top level.

Crop damage reports from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio furnished a large part of the impetus for the gains scored by the wheat market. Special notice was taken of a message telling of 50 per cent. damage to winter wheat at one locality in Ohio. Besides, word was at hand that Germany had officially pronounced the Dawes plan the basis for a swift solution of the reparation problem. Another strengthening factor was announcement of some export business in United States, wheat by way of Montreal.

Better shipping call for oats developed. One Chicago house sold 100,000 bushels to the south, and Duluth sold a cargo to Buffalo.

Stocks or provisions were of less volume than expected.

CURB MARKET

New York, April 16—Stock prices moved to higher ground in today's curb market under the leadership of oil shares, which were actively bought on the improved trade outlook. Industrials also attracted considerable attention, particularly National Tea which soared 18 points to 355, a record top, in anticipation of the 150 per cent. stock dividend recommended by the directors.

Reports of another reduction in Mexico Light output and predictions of an early increase in California Crude prices brought fresh buying into the oil group, net gains of 1 to 3 points being registered by Salt Creek producers, Imperial of Canada, Prairie Oil and Gas, Solar Refining, South Pennsylvania Oil, Standard Oils of Kentucky and Nebraska and Swan and Finch. Vacuum Oil improved fractionally despite reports of a strike at its Bayonne plant.

Gillette Safety Razor moved up 4 1-2 points to 280 1-2 and Lehigh Valley Coal rights crossed 28 for a new gain of nearly 1 1-2 points.

Strength and activity of Kay Copper, which sold around its recent top price, continued to be the feature of the mining list.

POETRY

A Song for April

When April winds are calling
And April rains are falling
It's then I feel the urging
To make an April song.
A song, a song for April!
Who'll make a song for April?
The month most dear in all the year—
When days are growing long.

When willow buds are swelling,
And every bird is telling
The glad, ecstatic tidings
That spring is here again;
When trees fling out their pennants
To welcome feathered tenants
And meadows blaze with diamond rays
When sunbeam kiss the rain.

I'll make a song for April! Oh violet and daffodil
Dancing in the woodland way
Beneath the willow tree.
My heart goes out to April—silver and gold-clad April—
Whose smile appears through falling tears
And lights the world for me!
—Edith D. Osborne, in St. Nicholas.

The Painter

In summer fill you palette to the edge
With gold and red and all the rainbow blaze,
For sunflowers, asters, crimson mallows, and the maze
Of goldenrod and cardinal that follows down the hedge
To the white heat that palpitates above
The lush green lowlands where the cattle graze—
Yet leave a space
For darkling shadows, and the lace
Of soft gray mist and shower;
And purple black, when thunder-heads defy the very sun on high,
And angry little green and tawny clouds go scudding by.

But if it's winter, bring the colors of a nun,
The dreary tubes that mix you fawn and dun,
And dingy brown, for wayside pools,
Where ice melts from the sod.
Yet—you remember how the oaks flame
Rust-red in the glancing sun,
While on the bay the snow-white gulls come circling down
From sapphire into sapphire, as they dip
And gaze and dip again, and then to anchor slip
Then last and best, the glory of the orange pageant in the west.
At night, awakening lifts her velvet arms to clasp her guest.
—Eleanor Leal Wolcott in Indianapolis News.

MR. RUPERT HUGHES
(Famous Novelist)
TO D. W. GRIFFITH

Dear Mr. Griffith:

Your picture "America" has shaken me up and stirred me so deeply in so many ways that I must express my profound homage.

You have combined so many arts so greatly that your generalship is as amazing as your infinite success with detail of every sort.

There were so many thrills, heartbreaks and triumphs that it is absurd to praise any one thing. But the whole sequence in which the son is brought to the bedside of the wounded father by that divine deceiver, the daughter, OVERWHELMED ME AS ONE OF THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENTS BY ANY OF THE ARTS FROM GREEK TRAGEDY ON.

The extraordinarily tangled skein of Miss Dempster's acting, with every thread sincere and distinct and unlike anybody's else, also quite conquered me.

(Signed) RUPERT HUGHES.

TAFTVILLE

Donald McLaughlin of New London was a business caller in the village on Wednesday.

Mrs. Eugene W. Sullivan of Cleveland, with daughter Dorothy, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Heseler.

The Taftville Field Day association which was to have held a meeting Friday evening for the purpose of drawing up plans for a Fourth of July celebration has cancelled that meeting and will meet Thursday evening instead.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lake of Norwich avenue entertained Saturday evening in honor of James Newcombe who has just been discharged from the U. S. Coast Guard academy at New London and is leaving town to make his home in Virginia. Mr. Newcombe was presented with a gold cigarette case. Many attended from Norwich, Jewett City, Baltic and other neighboring towns.

The funeral of Joseph H. Caron was held Wednesday morning from his late home on School street with a solemn high mass sung at Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock, with Rev. W. O. Rochefort, celebrant, Rev. Henri F. Gagnon, deacon, and Rev. Frederick DesSureault, sub-deacon. The church was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends. The bearers were Charles H. Bushnell and Nathan S. Bushnell, representing the A. O. U. W., John B. Benoit and George Adams, representing the Loom Fixers' union, and Octave Peltier and Paul Prieyes, representing the St. Jean Baptiste society. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery. Among those who sent flowers were R. C. Dion, Newton Vaughn of Putnam, Mrs. Chris Caron and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Caron and family of Pawtucket, R. I., Joseph Jodoin and family, Elias Parent, Mrs. D. Chartier and family, Dr. A. B. Chartier, Mrs. Peter Parent and family of Rockville, the Loom Fixers' association, James J. Sharron, Miss McSheffery and Miss Mary Murphy, A. O. U. W., Sisters of Charity, Baltic, pupils of the Baltic academy, P. Dion and family, Marie Lambert, Dr. E. C. Crepeau and Rev. C. Bedard of Putnam.

Today (Thursday) high mass will be celebrated at Sacred Heart church, with a procession of the Blessed Sacrament, which will be taken to a repository on the side altar to remain there until Good Friday.

Mrs. Aldea Tellier Archambeault, wife of Oscar Archambeault, died Wednesday at her home on Norwich avenue after an illness of two weeks of pneumonia. Mrs. Archambeault was born in Canada 54 years ago and 13 years ago came to Taftville to make her home. She was a prominent member of the Ladies of St. Anne and the Sacred Heart church. She is survived by her husband and four sons and three daughters. There are also several grand-children.

PAINTERS GO ON STRIKE FOR DOLLAR AN HOUR

Painting work on all local houses is now practically at a standstill as the union painters have struck for a pay of $1 an hour, refusing the offer of 87 1-2 cents an hour made by contractors when the agreement with the union expired on April 15th. The old rate of pay had been 82 1-2 cents an hour and the contractors offered an increase of 5 cents an hour but this was refused by the painters. As the matter now stands there is a deadlock between the boss painters and journeymen. The painters claim no settlement will be accepted by them below the figure of $1 an hour.

As the carpenters and plumbers have each been granted an increase this spring to $1 an hour and there are other trades that would like to get an increase, new building and repair costs are apparently due to climb upward this spring as property owners are called upon to meet the extra wage schedules.

Fifth Birthday Party

Edith Jane Blackburn entertained fourteen of her little friends on her fifth birthday Wednesday afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock at her home, 81 Franklin street. Games were played, Edith Woodmansee winning first prize in the donkey game. Ruth Rothman won first prize in the peanut hunt, Virginia Dingaven won first prize in the bean race.

Easter egg boxes filled with candy were favors. Those present were: Ruth Rothman, Louise Manchester, Mae Gordon Waters, Marguerite and Arlene Dilworth, Andrew Duncan, Virginia Dingavon, George Chappell, Pearl Gasser, Margaret Payment, Edith Woodmansee, Evelyn Salsmon, Robert and Shirley Botham.

Refreshments of ice cream, bunny cookies, candy and fruit were served.

Mrs. Christie Duncan and Mrs. Albert Dilworth assisted Mrs. Harry Blackburn in serving.

NON-SUIT GRANTED IN TRIAL FOR $10,000 ON FALSE ARREST CLAIM

Defendant's motion for a non-suit was granted in the superior court at New London Wednesday afternoon by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in the trial of the $10,000 damage suit by Myles T. Donohue of Howard street, New London, against Angus C. Davies and others, the defendant named being president of the well known clothing firm of E. D. Steele, Inc.

Donohue sued on a claim for false arrest, alleging that Davies caused his arrest on Sept. 16, 1921, on the charge of unlawfully obtaining money on a check which Donohue cashed in the Steele store. At that time Donohue was employed as a clerk in the Steele store and he claimed that the charge made was false and made for the purpose of malice and he was detained at the police station one whole day. When the case came up in police court the charge was nolled and he was discharged. He claimed his reputation was injured and that he has been unable to secure employment since.

The following jury to try the case was chosen Wednesday morning: Edwin E. Foster, Charles W. Elliott, Herman Daniels, all of New London, Samuel Brown, Frank G. Denison, Fred J. Bailey of Groton, Frank O. Burroughs and Alexander Marr, Stonington, Samuel B. Holdridge, Ledyard, Willis R. Miner and John J. Burns of Waterford, and George I. Holmes of East Lyme.

Witnesses who gave testimony were the plaintiff, the defendant, Patrolman Charles T. Hammond who made the arrest, and Samuel T. Adams, the clerk of the city court.

When the evidence for the plaintiff was completed, a motion for non-suit was made by Attorney C. H. Hull, counsel for the defendant. Judge Marvin granted the motion after hearing the motion argued by Attorney Hull for the defendant, and Attorney G. C. Morgan, counsel for the plaintiff.

The suit of the Roonberg Mfg. Co. against Uncasville Mfg. Co., which was scheduled to be heard Wednesday by special assignment, was settled out of court.

The case of Samuel B. McKenzie against Wellington Trevena estate, was withdrawn without costs to either party.

"ROUND-UP" FOR LEADERS OF BOYS AND GIRLS' CLUBS

Three hundred Connecticut boys and girls from seventy-eight towns will gather at Hartford, April 25 and 26, to attend a "round-up" of leaders of the boys' and girls' clubs maintained by the extension service of Connecticut Agricultural College. Two representatives from each of the 142 clubs in the state will be present. For years, farm boys and girls have found in these clubs opportunities for study and service. Last year the value of the products produced by club members amounted to $118,623.62.

During the "round-up" the youthful visitors to the state capital will be guests of the state chamber of commerce, the Manufacturers' association, the Women's club of Hartford and the Y. M. C. A. The "round-up" opens with a banquet at the Hotel Bond at 6.30 p. m., April 25, when the state chamber of commerce will act as host. Prominent speakers including President C. L. Beach of Connecticut Agricultural College, and Dr. Walter Wood, president of the Connecticut Farm Bureau, are on the opening program. Two of the orators from the ranks of the visiting youngsters will be John Viney of Newtown, boy champion dairy cattle judge of the United States, and Gertrude Hart of Durham, a great granddaughter of Noah Webster.

The "round-up" program will continue on Saturday morning with a schedule of valuable talks by state and agricultural workers. The State Manufacturers' association will entertain the visiting youngsters at luncheon on Saturday at the Hotel Bond in the closing assembly of the "round up."

Many of the boys and girls who will attend the gathering have obtained local, and in some cases national fame, in connection with their club work. It will be the first meeting of its kind ever held in this state. The Hartford Women's club is acting as hostess to the visiting girls who will be lodged at the Hotel Garde. The boys are to stay at the Y. M. C. A.

DRAKE REGAINS LEAD IN COLONIAL PINOCHLE

Drake regained the lead in Tuesday evening's play in the Colonial club pinochle tournament, although R. B. S. Washburn was high man for the evening with a score of 3340. Scores for the evening were as follows: R. B. S. Washburn 3,340; Drake, 3,150; Pierson 3,120; Amburn 2,575; Tracy, 7,440; Lamb, 7,415; Sherman, 7,295; Allen, 7,165; Higgins, 7,135; Huntington 6,930; Harwood, 6,815; Thompson 6,705; T. G. Washburn 6,620; McNaught 6,605; Willis playing for Lillibridge 6,525; Crowell playing for Church 6,235.

Standing at date: Drake 54,185; Lillibridge 53,175; Pierson 52,325; Huntington 51,980; Amburn 50,930; Allen 50,855; Thompson 50,535; Sherman 50,670; R. B. S. Washburn 50,470; Higgins 50,215; Lamb 49,560; Tracy 49,440; T. G. Washburn 49,385; McNaught 48,690; Harwood 45,240; Church 47,760.

ROYAL ARCANUM ELECTS OFFICERS FOR STATE

At the 38th annual convention of the Grand Council of Connecticut of the Royal Arcanum at Bridgeport on Wednesday, the following officers were elected: Grand regent, Frank H. Riley, Bridgeport; grand vice-regent, Edward A. Marciar, Hartford; past grand regent, John E. Holloway, Milford; grand secretary, Daniel J. Lucy, New London; grand treasurer, J. P. Colla, Hartford; grand chaplain, Charles A. Biever, Milford; grand guide, Albert P. Hagnar, Meriden; grand warden, W. H. Dieringer, Norwich; grand sentry, Ray K. Lindsay, Bristol.

Nominated at Worcester Tech

Raymond G. Wilcox of this city is one of three nominated for class treasurer by the committee of the senior class at Worcester Polytechnic Institute. The class must approve the nominations at an early election.

Crippled by Corns? Use "Gets-It"

World's Greatest Corn Remover

It's fast wonderful how "Gets-It" ends corns and callouses. Put a few drops of "Gets-It" on a hurting corn and Presto! The pain stops at once forever. No matter how long you've had corns, how bad they may be, whether hard or soft, or what you have tried, believe this! "Gets-It" will end corn pain at once, soon you can lift the core right off with the fingers. Money back guarantee. Costs but a trifle—sold everywhere. E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

SHOULD SHOW TOLERANCE BUT NOT INDIFFERENCE

Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, was the speaker at the noonday luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club Wednesday at the Wauragan hotel. Rev. Mr. Graham took for his topic, "Tolerant, but Not Indifferent."

Mr. Graham prefaced his remarks by suggesting that perhaps the club's choice of a clergyman for speaker in the Holy Week season had grown out of a sense of appropriateness of a religious message in the meeting.

He quoted by way of a thought provoker the words in John's gospel, "The place where Jesus was crucified was near to the city," and he said in part:

The American city is a new and perplexing development. In the moral universe as in the world of trade the city is a centering place. Cities make for intensification; there poverty is more abject, their wealth and luxury more concentrated. Many young men and women find the city a sink hole where are lost their decency and self-respect. But in the city also many others find the needed incentive to self-realization. In the city the potential becomes kinetic; the latent and dormant is fanned into life and expression.

As a club Rotary is, frankly and professedly, devoted to the Golden Rule, and pledged to uplift. You are facing the future not the past. You are no doctrinaires devoted to the "status quo."

The fact that Jesus Christ found followers and spread His teaching in comparative peace in countryside and village and met His death in the religious and moral as well as the political center of His country and race raises larger questions for the mind and conscious.

It brings to the fore the old fact that a few self-seeking men could work their evil will in a comparatively well-governed city. It raises the old question of the subtlety of evil, the difficulty of labelling with their own ugly names the ugly but subtle tendencies which always persecute and sometimes crucify goodness. A few were determined upon the death of Christ. They succeeded in their designs because the many were indifferent, and heedless of the calls to the higher serviceableness. Tolerance is a virtue but indifference is a sin. Intolerance is an intolerable vice in a republic but acquiescence in lawlessness is worse. There can be no "innocent bystanders" about large areas of life. Self-determination is a natural right of every individual but the rights of others limit the principle to well-defined limits.

How shall we steer between the two extremes as aggressive champions of unalloyed goodness. No ready-made maxims will solve all cases. Only individuals awake to the dangers alike of intolerance and indifference will aid us. A police force which tolerates law-breaking has lost its function. We must stand against the wrong, for the law, devoted to honor, as champions of service, as friends of the oppressed. There should be no Calvary's near our city where goodness is ever pilloried.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Graham was given a hearty vote of appreciation by the large number of members present.

At the business session of the club President Hugh B. Campbell presided and William G. Park acted as song leader. There was the usual group singing and solos by various members of the club. Among the principal items of business transacted was the passing of a resolution appointing Charles R. Butts, Charles A. Saxton and William G. Park as a board of trustees for the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Work Fund which now totals nearly $2,500. The trustees were empowered to use their own judgment as to the fund and its use.

One new member was extended the right hand of Rotary fellowship and after being called upon for a speech responded with a story. Secretary J. Nelson Weymouth read a communication from Albert E. Lavery, newly elected district governor, in which Mr. Lavery extended his best wishes to the club. An invitation from the Putnam club was received for the Norwich club to be the guest of Putnam at the anniversary meeting on April 30th. A large number expressed their intention of being present at the meeting. Another invitation from the W. W. Backus Hospital Auxiliary to attend a meeting on April 21 was read by the secretary.

A challenge from the Lions club for a series of baseball games with the Rotary club team was read and heartily accepted. The club voted to appoint Myles E. Standish as chairman of the baseball committee. Mr. Standish has appointed the following on the committee, E. LaRue Bliven, Alexander H. Abbott, Charles A. Saxton and Edwin A. Harris. Mr. Harris has been appointed manager and field captain of the team.

Dr. Robert R. Agnew, chairman of the Boys' Work committee, made a report concerning the two crippled children that the club is caring for and he was instructed to make all further arrangements for their care.

The matter of Ladies' Night, next Wednesday, was discussed and from all indications this will be one of the best social events of the club this season. There will be no noon-day meeting next week.

Score Made by Substitute

By error it was stated that Mrs. Stevens made a score of 7620 in the play of the Norwich Ladies' Pinochle club Tuesday evening. Mrs. Stevens was unable to play owing to illness in the family and that score was made by a substitute.

More than half of the time when a woman betrays a secret there is a man at the bottom of it.

PROVIDES ENOUGH FUNDS FOR STREET DEPARTMENT

The extra appropriation of $10,000 granted to the public works department by the recent special city meeting with permission to transfer unexpended balances of other accounts has saved the street department from "going broke" on ordinary repairs and expenses as it gives the department $10,676.52 to use for ordinary repairs and expenses for the two months from March 15, to the end of the fiscal year. At the rate at which money has been used monthly in the past year for ordinary repairs and expenses this will be just about enough to get by.

The report of the city treasurer on March 15 showed that $14,579.42 had been added to the available money in the account by the $10,000 appropriation and by the transfers which totalled $4,579.42.

These transfers included the following balances: Oiling and sprinkling $503.48; concrete paving Rose place $388.57; macadamizing Central avenue $3,032.35; macadamizing Elmwood avenue $321.83; Roath street sewer, Cliff to North Cliff st., $435.25; Burton avenue sewer $147.95; road roller $250.

As the original appropriation by the annual city meeting was $55,000 for ordinary repairs and expenses the additions show that this department has been granted $69,579.42, of which $58,903.15 had been spent up to March 15th.

RIBBON FOR ACCEPTED TRAINING CAMP STUDENTS

Accepted applicants for the Citizens Military Training Camp that is to be held this summer at Camp Devens are to be furnished at once a C. M. T. C. lapel ribbon which they are requested to wear to indicate their attendance at the camp.

John and Calvin Coolidge, sons of the president, are to attend the camp this year, having been there last season among the New England boys for whom the government not only pays expenses and furnishes uniform and grub but pays the fare from home to the camp and return.

Further information about the camp may be obtained from Major F. Russell Smith, 282 Franklin street. These camp schools are primarily for the purpose of teaching good citizenship, not for the purpose of making soldiers out of boys or teaching them to kill. There the boy learns such things as how to get along with his fellows, learns the road toward a healthy body and a bright mind, learns what a wonderful master Uncle Sam is, and that there is something in this world beside his own pleasure.

Along with this goes the transformation of the army from a mere fighting machine for destruction into an organization for construction; into an organization for the building up of good citizenship.

CELLAR FIRE IN DRUG STORE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 16—Fire was discovered tonight at 11.30 o'clock in the drug store owned by Charles M. Taylor, corner of Main and State streets. The blaze which was located in the cellar was confined to that part of the structure and the damage was principally from water and chemicals. The fire was discovered by Patrolman John Foley in making his rounds through State street when he observed smoke issuing from the transom over the front entrance to the store. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters but before the arrival of a fire company the smoke had increased in such volume as to indicate that a serious blaze was in progress. An alarm was pulled from Box 32, located at the corner of State and North Bank streets, summoning practically all of the city's fire fighting apparatus. With the arrival of the firemen the blaze was located in the extreme end of the cellar which was filled with wooden crates, boxes, excelsior and other inflammable material. Lines of hose and chemicals were stretched into the cellar and their contents poured upon the blaze. After a half hour's work the fire was subdued but not until the contents of the cellar which comprised stock for the store was practically destroyed. How the fire originated is not known. The place was closed by Mr. Taylor at 11 o'clock. He was unable to give his loss. The building is a two story brick structure and is owned by the Robbins estate of Norwich.

HITS A STUMP WHEN WHEN LEARNING TO DRIVE

Rev. M. S. Stocking of Westerly had bad luck Wednesday afternoon when he was learning to drive a Hupmobile coach on the road between Westerly and Norwich. He was driving towards Norwich when at a point near the Miner Farm near Lantern Hill the machine swerved to the right, ran off the road, hit a stump and turned over on its side.

Farmers in the neighborhood and automobilists who came along helped to right the machine which proceeded on its way with some of the glass broken and two bent mudguards.

MONTVILLE JUSTICE TO HEAR AUTOMOBILE CASE

Participants in the Monday automobile accident on Trading Cove hill when a machine driven by Edward Carey of this city and a Tait truck driven by Arthur Pollard of New London were in collision are to appear before Justice of the peace William Smiddy in Montville this (Thursday) evening at 7 o'clock for a hearing.

It is expected that the charge of reckless driving will be made upon evidence collected by the state police.

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

Heals 30-Year Old Ulcer

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart.

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 520 Sprague Street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet, chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so sure or speedy. 35 cents, 60c, $1.00.

AUTOMOBILE DRIVER WILL APPEAR BEFORE JUSTICE

Fred Mitterer of 285 Laurel Hill avenue is to appear before a Franklin justice of the peace for a hearing this (Thursday), afternoon on the charge of reckless driving because of an accident that happened last Sunday night when the automobile he was driving left the road and hit a stone wall at the Frink farm on the road between Norwich and Willimantic. A section of the wall was knocked down and the automobile laid over on its side. Minor injuries were reported to have been received by a man and two women who were said to have been passengers in the Mitterer car.

The hearing will be held before Judge Brazil with grand juror C. H. Lathrop prosecuting the case.

Essay Rules Over Radio

Explanation of the rules and purposes of the nationwide essay contest for young women on the topic "Why a young man I know should attend a citizens' military training camp," which is being conducted under the auspices of the Women's Overseas Service League, will be made by Miss Wanda Caswell of that organization over station WJZ tonight (Thursday) Major-General Robert Lee Bullard announced Wednesday.

The contest is open to girls and young women between the ages of 13 and 19 years all over the country. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge will present prizes to the writers of the three best essays, who will be given free tickets to Washington and liberal allowances of spending money.

Arrangements are also being made to award special prizes for the best essays in each city, county and state.

Arrested on Theft Charge

Bronislaw Starzee of Preston City was arrested here Wednesday night by Officer John Carroll. He is charged with theft of money in Preston and is to be presented before a justice of the peace there.

IMMIGRATION TO BE TWO PER CENT. OF THE 1890 CENSUS

Senate Has Approved That Plan For Quota Computation Under the New Immigration Bill—Vote on Census of 1890 was 47 to 32—Two Per Cent. Quota Given a Substantial Majority Without a Record Vote—Some Provisions Are in the Bill Passed by the House Last Week.

Washington, April 17.—While the White House and state department considered the situation which has arisen from inclusion of a Japanese exclusion provision in the new immigration bill, the senate today progressed with its task of perfecting the measure to the point which warranted prediction of its passage tomorrow.

Two per cent. upon the census of 1890 was approved by the senate as the basis of immigration apportionment, this bringing it into agreement with the house bill in the section which was expected to produce most controversy in conference.

As the measure approached a final vote, President Coolidge gave increasing attention to its provisions. He considered during the morning with Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee and later with Secretary Hughes, but the impression was given that he was not yet prepared to decide whether to sign or veto the bill.

Widely different interpretations have been given by the senate and by those who conduct the country's foreign affairs to the intent of the Japanese note which presided the senate's vote in favor of Japanese exclusion, and the opinion on both sides remained unmodified. When the note was delivered to Secretary Hughes and studied by other state department officials, its chief significance was held by them to lie in its definition for the first time in official form of the exact meaning of the gentlemen's agreement. They did not regard it as containing any threat against this government. That opinion still prevails, despite the construction senate leaders have placed upon the phrase "grave consequences."

Members of the house and senate immigration committees had requested a definition of the gentlemen's agreement, and the state department felt that Ambassador Hanihara had supplied one which the two governments could accept.

While the expression "grave consequences" was noted, it was accepted at the department as emphasizing merely the apprehension that the existing happy relations between Washington and Tokio might suffer.

As it now stands, the senate bill is similar to that of the house in its Japanese exclusion and other important provisions. Two items will have to be thrashed out in conference, however: the authority for certain "exceptions," from quota restrictions given in the house bill and the senate provision for a nationality-group survey to be made by a departmental commission by July 1, 1927. Action on the provisions came after an all day discussion during which the senate at times seemed hopelessly entangled in a parliamentary morass. Insistence of those favoring reduced admittance to separate votes upon various proposals relating first to the date of census and then upon one, two or three per cent of the agreed national poll, made it necessary to duplicate action on certain points.

At one stage the senate had gone on record for a record low immigration total of 40,000—represented by 2 per cent of the census of 1890.

Before recess was taken, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, obtained unanimous consent to limit further debate to 10 minutes for each senator on the bill and an equal period on any amendment. Motions awaiting action were not expected to call for prolonged discussion and senate leaders expected to have the bonus bill the unfinished business before tomorrow morning.

The pending amendment tomorrow will be that of Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, which would give preference to farmers and farm laborers within the quotas.

In every decision today, the senate registered decisive majorities. Rejecting 72 to 8, the proposal of Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, to make the quota 3 per cent, the senate by a vote of 64 to 26 adopted instead the amendment of Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, under which the committee amendment providing two per cent, was stricken out and one per cent originally reported in the bill, restored. A number of the affirmative votes in this poll were explained as being based on the expectation that late opportunity would be given to reconsider both the percentage and the census of 1910 as the basis for computing quotas. The census of 1890 was approved 47 to 32, the 3 per cent quota restored and a motion to reduce it again to 1 defeated, 56 to 23.

The immigration question has never been a partisan one, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi declared, in moving substitution of the census of 1890 for that of 1910. He denied that his amendment would discriminate against any country and urged that the senate reach an immediate agreement with the provisions adopted by the house in the Johnson bill in order that "this whole affair may be put behind us."

"If you don't act now, you may never have the chance," he warned. "The influence of foreign groups in this country is growing steadily."

An impending industrial slump was foreseen by Senator McCormick, republican, Illinois, who said not enough attention had been given to "prospective unemployment." Already, he declared, key industries are going on part-time schedules and "bids are made for future deliveries which do not offer a profit—one of the first signs of unemployment."

Chairman Colt of the immigration committee opposed the census of 1890, asserting it meant the admittance of "five Prussians for instance, to one Pole, or one Italian."

JAPS CALL IMMIGRATION BILL "A LEGISLATIVE CRIME"

Tokio, April 17 (By the A. P.)—The Tokio Asahi, in an editorial tomorrow will call the senate's action in approving the Japanese exclusion provision of the immigration bill "a legislative crime." The editorial continues, says "the meanness of the senators' action is shown by their distortion of Ambassador Hanihara's words to suit their own purposes. The Americans declare that the yellow and other dark races are not entitled to consideration as human beings since they do not belong to the Caucasion or negro races.

"American history and politics are full of references to 'open doors.' Commodore Perry came to Japan to 'open our doors' and much is said about the 'open doors' in China. Where, therefore, is the consistence in a 'Keep Out' sign hung on the doors of the United States for dark peoples?

"Americans take pride in their power and wealth to do anything they like but after all is it a wise policy to make enemies of millions of Asiatics?"

TO SEND PROTEST TO CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

Tokio, April 17 (By the A. P.)—The newspapers report that Prince Matsukata, who was recently reported to have died, but whose recovery has been almost complete, will return to Tokio from Okitsu in a few days and plunge into the political turmoil expected to result from the adoption by the American congress of the Japanese exclusion policy.

Prince Saionji, another of the elder statesmen, also is expected shortly in Tokio, where the surviving genro may direct the highest counsels.

The Tokio chamber of commerce has adopted a resolution, which it is sending to the principal American chambers of commerce, expressing regret at the adoption of exclusion and pointing out the dangers to commerce that might result.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION ELECT OFFICERS

Washington, April 17.—Officers were elected today by the Daughters of the American Revolution, in session here, the results of the balloting being announced tonight for eight vice presidents general.

Those elected for a three-year term were:

Mrs. Anne W. Lange, Dallas, Oregon; Mrs. Paul Duane Kitt, Chillicothe, Mo.; Mrs. Logan S. Gillespie, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Miss Amy Gilbert, State Center, Iowa; Mrs. Norval Smith, Warren, Ariz.; Mrs. Edith Scott Magna, Holyoke, Mass., and Mrs. T. W. Spence, Milwaukee, Wis. Mrs. Franklin Cain, St. Matthews, South Carolina, was elected for a two-year term.

Mrs. Rhett Goode, of Alabama, was unopposed for the office of chaplain general, but no election resulted for honorary vice presidents general, no candidate receiving the required two-thirds vote. Another ballot will be conducted for this office tomorrow.

AN "OIL AIDE" APPOINTED BY SECRETARY WILBUR

Washington, April 17.—Secretary Wilbur was appointed an "oil aide," to be attached to his personal staff, and act for him in all matters relating to oil reserves and exploitation of reserved lands.

The assignment was given today to Commander Nathan H. Wright, who has for some time been in charge of the material and operations bureau at the navy department. Commander Wright has had experience in dealing with naval oil supply problems and is classified by his friends as a "conservationist."

WOULD CURB CONTRIBUTORS TO POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS

Washington, April 17.—Campaign contributions by corporations partnership and firms in presidential and congressional campaigns would be prohibited under a bill introduced today by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee. Individuals would be restricted to contributions of $500 in presidential campaigns and $100 in congressional elections. Candidates for president could contribute $20,000, senators $5,00 and representatives $3,000. No national committee could expend more than $1,000,000.

DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE TAKES RECESS

Washington, April 17.—Senate investigation of the department of justice and of the administration of former Attorney General Daugherty was in suspension today and will remain so, Chairman Brookhart of the committee, said, at least until Monday.

The delay was found necessary because of the senate inquiry into the Montana indictments returned gainst Senator Wheeler, prosecutor for the Daugherty committee. His entire attention would be needed, it was explained, for the other investigation.

OBITUARY

Montague Flagg.

Hartford, April 17.—Montague Flagg, the prominent architect, and son of the late Charles Noel Flagg and Ellen (Earle) Flagg, died this afternoon at his home, 234 Washington street, this city. He was born in Mount Vernon, N. Y., Nov. 9, 1882, graduated from the Hartford high school in 1905, from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1909 and later studied architecture in Paris. Among the most important buildings designed by Mr. Flagg are those of the Bankers' Trust building at 42nd street, and Fifth avenue, New York city, the Thomas Cook building at No. 585 Fifth avenue, New York, and the Rockville Savings bank at Rockville.

Mr. Flagg was commissioned as ensign in the United States navy in May, 1917, and ten months later was placed in command of a squadron of submarine chasers in connection with which he established the naval officers' training school at Bensonhurst, Long Island, of which he was commandant at the time of his discharge from the service early in 1919.

He leaves one daughter, two sisters and one brother.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

British Aviator Reaches Cairo.

Cairo, Egypt, April 17.—Stuart MacLaren, the British aviator, reached Cairo this afternoon from Athens, having safely negotiated the trans-Mediterranean passage on his attempted globe circling flight.

Wales Defers Trip to Africa.

London, April 17.—The proposed visit of the Prince of Wales to South Africa, probably will not be made until next year it was learned today. It was recently announced that his trip would be deferred for sometime because of the general elections in the colony.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The Daugherty committee was in recess.

The senate agreed upon two per cent. of the 1890 census as the basis of immigration apportionment.

Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, made a demand for a vote on the Ford bid for the Muscle Shoals properties.

The scrip provision was eliminated from the McNary-Haugen agricultural export bill by the house agriculture committee.

The house shipping board investigating committee continued examination of Huntington T. Morse, European director of the fleet corporation.

Hearings on postponement of the effective date of Section 21 of the Merchant Marine act were held by the interstate commerce commission.

Music publishers and composers opposed before the senate patents committe the Dill bill to relieve broadcasting stations of royalties on music.

Paul B. Baer, United States marshal for the eastern district of Texas, testified before the dill committe on the activities of Jake L. Hamon at the 1920 republican convention.

The senate committee investigating the indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, began hearings with denials by witnesses that Wheeler had appeared as an attorney before government departments.

GERMANY REQUESTED TO SPEED REPARATION WORK

Paris, April 17 (By the A. P.)—The reparation commission this afternoon practically told Germany to get down to work preparatory to a blanket acceptance of the experts' reports. Prior to this the commission decided unanimously to take note of Germany's reply adhering to the experts' reports and to approve the conclusions and adopt the methods proposed.

Need for speed was the outstanding feature of the commission's communique, which tells Germany to prepare enabling legislation for the commission's approval, so that when the allied governments—as seems taken for granted—adopt the experts' reports the groundwork of the structure which Brigadier General Dawes, Owen D. Young and the other experts envisaged will already be laid.

Pending Germany's compliance with the reparation commission's demand, feelers will be put forth from London, Paris and Brussels designed to bring the experts' projects into concrete form as rapidly as possible, for obviously the members of the reparation commission did not reason today's decision without the full approval of their governments.

The commission's aim, as outlined by one of the members, is to secure a general agreement on all non-controversial points of the plan before taking up debatable questions, such as abandonment of economic exploitation of the Ruhr.

VANDERLIP INSTRUMENTAL IN GETTING HENEY AS COUNSEL

Philadelphia, April 17.—Frank A. Vanderlip, of New York, told the members of the City club today that he was instrumental in getting Francis J. Heney, of California, to agree to conduct the senate committee investigation of the internal revenue bureau.

He spoke at the weekly long table luncheon of the club and entitled his address "The Stolen City."

The former New York banker referred to the work he is doing through the Citizens' Federal Research Bureau, denounced the conduct of government work at Washington and criticised newspapers for what he asserted was their failure to print the facts concerning the misconduct at the national capital.

Taking up the internal revenue bureau investigation, Mr. Vanderlip said that after Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, and a member of the investigating committee, had been advised by Governor Pinchot to obtain the services of Mr. Heney, he realized the importance of getting a man like the Californian and had his office communicate by long distance telephone with Mr. Heney at Los Angeles. Senator Couzens, he said, did not know Mr. Haney.

HARRY K. THAW SLUMPED AS HE LEFT WITNESS CHAIR

Philadelphia, April 17.—Legal strategy that left the courtroom temporarily breathless marked the appearance on the witness stand today of Harry K. Thaw, in the jury trial to determine his sanity.

With unexpected suddenness, former Judge John M. Patterson, counsel for Thaw, asked him a few perfunctory questions, which Thaw answered briefly, and then said to opposing counsel, "Gentlemen, examine him!"

Arthur S. Dickson, attorney for the trustees of the Thaw estate, and William A. Gray, counsel for Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Thaw, whose 15 year old son has intervened in the case, seemed surprised. Then after a hasty conference with alienists on their side, Mr. Dickson said, "We have no questions to ask." Mr. Patterson rested his case with reservation of the right to call Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, Thaw's 32 year old mother, later.

Thaw smiled, and after being motioned to by Mr. Patterson, left the stand. He had only taken a few steps, however, when he tottered, and had to be assisted to his seat where he slumped down, mopping his brow with a handkerchief.

NAVAL AVIATOR DROWNED IN THE POTOMAC RIVER

Washington, April 17.—Lieutenant Commander Louis S. Schelbla, of the navy was drowned in the Potomac river near the Dahlgren proving grounds today when an airplane in which he had landed turned over.

The plane was piloted by Lieutenant S. B. McMurrain. It landed safely on the river but became overbalanced and both men thrown into the water. McMurrain was rescued.

Composers, Authors Oppose Dill Radio Bill

Declare Release of Radio Broadcasting Stations from Royalty Payments is Harmful to Them.

Washington, April 17.—Composers, authors, and playwrights, appealed today at a senate hearing for defeat of the Dill bill to release radio broadcasting stations from royalty imposition under the copyright laws. John Philip Sousa, and Augustus Thomas were among those who voiced a protest against the measure.

"The Radio Corporation of America gets money doesn't it?" queried Mr. Sousa, in a brief exposition of his position. "If they get money out of my tunes, I want some of it. That's all."

He had a "secret," to tell the committee, Mr. Sousa continued, and that was that the whole era of "mechanical music," by which he denominated phonographs, as well as radio and other music rendering machines, had meant loss to composers.

"My royalties in the days when sheet music was all that was sold used to run to $60,000 a year," he added, "but that they have never touched that figure since."

E. C. Mills, and Nathan Burkan presented detailed argument for the National Society of Composers and Authors, Mr. Mills insisting that radio was keeping 10,000,000 people home daily and thus depriving the creation of entertainment material from their former income sources.

"There aren't but two song writers I know who own their own home and an automobile," Mr. Burkan asserted.

He cited the fight of his clients first to get cabarets and next to get motion picture theatres to pay royalties for use of their works. The radio was now in the same position, he contended.

Mr. Thomas told the senators to consider the spiritual element involved. A songster's wrongs might be no even more important even "than the farm bloc, the grain question, or the price of Fords," he insisted, because "upon these material things you subsist, but by song you advance."

Gene Buck opening the hearing as president of the National Society, asserted that the value of a song to its maker was reduced 50 per cent. by radio.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, in defending his bill, argued that to the contrary, the radio use of a song might popularize it. Mr. Mills and Mr. Burkan said that for a period, radio might help but later it would impair the value of the song to the copyright owner.

ENDED RECORD FLIGHT OF 2,300 MILES AT MITCHEL FIELD

Mitchel Field, N. Y., April 17.—A new air record was hung up today when Lieut. Homer B. Chandler, U. S. A., ended a flight of 2,300 miles at Mitchel Field, breaking the elapsed time flight over the eastern division of the model airways. He made the journey in three days, six hours, twice the best previous record was five days made by Lieut. M. L. Elliott.

Lieut. Chandler left Mitchel Field, Long Island, at 5 a. m. last Monday and followed the course to Anacostia, D. C., Dayton, O., Mt. Clemens, Michigan, St. Louis, Mo., Louisville, Ky., thence back to Washington and to Long Island. He made about 20 stops, landing on Mitchel Field at 2 p. m. today.

NORKIN ELECTROCUTED IN SING SING PRISON

Ossining, N. Y., April 17.—Reuben Norkin was electrocuted in Sing Sing prison tonight for assisting Abraham Becker in the murder of Becker's wife, whose body was found near Norkin's Bronx welding shop on Nov. 29, 1922. Becker was put to death on Dec. 12, last.

MEANS' TESTIMONY A LIE FROM BEGINNING TO END, ASSERTS A. MITCHELL PALMER

Atlantic City, N. J., April 17—Touching on charges made by Gaston B. Means before the Daugherty investigation committee of the senate, A. Mitchell Palmer, former alien property custodian, tonight declared "Gaston B. Means' lurid tale of a plot on the part of Attorney General Daugherty to blackmail me into using my influence with congress on his behalf, is a tissue of falsehood from beginning to end. It is an amazing thing that a committee of the United States senate would allow itself to become the medium of broadcasting to the world the false and ridiculous charges of a witness of the character of Gaston B. Means, designed to blacken the reputation of honest and conscientious public officials.

"For eighteen months after the Harding administration came into power the department of justice was investigating the operations of the alien property custodian under the administration of Francis P. Garvan and myself. Inspired by the complaints of Germans whose property we had lawfully taken during the war their attack was directed chiefly at the sales of the Bosch Magneto company and the chemical patents to the chemical foundation. Similar charges were made as to both, but we no longer hear about the chemical foundation for in that case the government finally brought suit, and the United States court for the district of Delaware in a sweeping decision confirmed all that the alien property custodian had done and administered, a stinging rebuke to the department of justice for bringing the suit upon false and baseless charges.

"The same results will be reached in the Bosch Magneto case if it is ever brought to a tribunal where the laws of evidence obtain. The reason no indictment was found in the Bosch Magneto case was not a fantastic and absurd plot of blackmail that Means describes, but because there was no evidence of wrongdoing. In fact, the case was presented to two grand juries, one in Washington and one in New York when the department offered all of the evidence that vindictive and prejudiced agents of the German government were able to produce and both grand juries refused to indict. Nothing even amounting to a technical irregularity could be shown.

"As for my conference with Mr. Daugherty, the version of Means is a lie out of the whole cloth. When I learned of the investigation and discovered that the agents of the department were prying into my private and personal affairs, examining my bank accounts and listening to all the calumnies of my political enemies in true Burns Detective Agency style, I went to Mr. Daugherty of my own volition, told him that I welcomed an investigation into all and any phases of my administration as alien property custodian and offered every assistance in my power to facilitate it. I asked no favors and expressed no fears. I did insist that when the investigation was over the result should be published in order to put an end to the German inspired insinuations which had heretofore filled the columns of sensational newspapers. It has always seemed to me that an ordinary sense of fairness should have moved the department of justice to publicly announce the result when two grand jury investigations developed no wrongdoing whatever on the part of either Mr. Garvan or myself. In the face of these findings, which must be within the knowledge of the senate committee, for that committee to allow a witness like Means to repeat his unfounded charge, long since disproved, is well calculated to discount the sincerity of this present investigation, and to justify the widespread criticism of the senate for becoming a mere distributor of slander and a slinger of mud.

"There were some irregularities in the administration of enemy property in the Philippine Islands, in the early months of our work, due chiefly to lack of knowledge of the law on the part of Governor General Harrison before a copy of the trading with the enemy act could reach him. When I learned of these irregularities, prompt steps were taken to correct them, first by setting aside by executive order all the sales made by Harrison, and second, by removing Harrison as agent of the alien property, a new agent, Mr. Douglas Moffat, of the New York bar to replace him. Moffat remained in the Philippines for nearly a year, and I am sure the fullest investigation will show that the properties in the islands were handled by him in strict accordance with every provision of the law."

Lull in Business is Merely Transitory

Secretary Mellon Believes New Business Will Soon Create a Renewal of Activity.

Washington, April 17.—Secretary Mellon regards present business as in an ebb but consider the condition as not highly consequential, it was said today at the treasury department where it was disclosed also that the general situation had been discussed at a recent cabinet meeting. Most of the cabinet, it was said, hold the same view as the treasury head, who believes that there is sufficient new business originating to check the present tendency towards a lessening in activity.

The general situation is regarded by Mr. Mellon as good and indications at the treasury point to little sentiment prevailing for tampering with the rediscount rates of the federal reserve banks. The reserve board itself has only one or two members holding the view that changes in the discount rate are advisable at this time. The others who are in the majority apparently have become convinced that the same purposes can be accomplished through control of open market operations of the reserve bank as can be had by alteration of the rediscount charge.

The cabinet generally believes, it was stated, that the administration's efforts toward relieving agriculture, have met with a degree of success and that the results will be much more apparent in two months. President Coolidge takes the attitude, it is understood, that the farm relief program has been directed properly and his advisers insist that the returns to the farmers this year will prove the wisdom of the course adopted.

TO EXTRADITE MRS. TELL WHO KILLED CHARLES BLAIR

New York, April 17.—Declaring he questioned the element of self defense in the confession of Mrs. Johanna Tell that she killed Charles Blair at Killingworth, Conn., State's Attorney Inglis of Middletown, Conn., today announced he was preparing to extradite the woman from Bronx county jail to Connecticut for an early trial.

Inglis' decision was announced after a secret conference with local authorities, at which Mrs. Catherine Bricke, Blair's sister, and William Schaefer, his business partner were examined as were the officers to whom Mrs. Tell confessed.

Mr. Inglis said he had prepared affidavits to submit to the governor of Connecticut in support of an application to Governor Smith, of New York, for an extradition warrant.

"We hope to have Mrs. Tell back in Connecticut early next week," said Inglis, "and to place her on trial before the end of May." He said his detectives had found several discrepancies in her confession.

WOULD KEEP COMPENSATION COMMISSIONER OUT OF POLITICS

Hartford, April 17.—The importance and the judicial character of the office of compensation commissioner require that it be divorced from partisan politics and from every consideration except that of giving to the employers and employes of the district a man of the highest caliber and qualifications, because "it is there that poor people and new-comers to our shores frequently have their first taste of American justice," Governor Templeton said today in a letter to Compensation Commissioner George B. Chandler. In the letter the governor regretfully accepted Commissioner Chandler's resignation and paid him a high compliment for his conduct of office.

BELLIGERENT ACTION BY THE TEXTILE EMERGENCY BOARD

The Board Has Voted to Send Instructions to All Local Unions to "Fight if Any Attempt is Made to Reduce Wages or Lengthen Working Hours"—Purport of the Order is to Permit Local Bodies to Declare Strikes Without Waiting For the Permission of the Central Organization—President McMahon Ascribes Depression in Textile Industry to Manufacturers Taking Advantage of the Political Situation That Developes in a Presidential Year.

Boston, April 17.—Instructions to "fight if any attempt is made to reduce wages or lengthen the working hours" will be sent next week to all local unions affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America, the emergency board of the union voted at a special meeting here today. The force of this order, it was understood, would be to sanction local bodies to declare strikes without waiting for the permission of the central organization.

The meeting was attended by all the organizers of the union now working in the New England, Middle Atlantic, South and Mid-Western districts, and was called ten days ago to receive reports on trade conditions in the various sections of the country and for discussion of the wool tariff as affecting textile workers. The emergency board includes President Thomas F. McMahon, of the United Textile Workers of America; Sara A. Conboy, general secretary and treasurer; James Starr, vice-president; State Senator John H. Powers, of Rhode Island and John Hanley, of Lowell.

President McMahon, explaining the action of the meeting after its adjournment, said:

"These instructions notify the membership that if an attempt is made to change existing conditions, to fight and fight hard and they will be backed to the full extent and resources of the international union.

"Reports from organizers in all sections of the country, other than the far west, show that New England is not alone in having textile mills shut down or working slack time. The same condition exists everywhere, more so in the south. In the south the textile industry is practically at a standstill with but very little manufacturing being done. What mills are working are operating only on specialties.

"As a result of a study of the same conditions that cause this state of affairs to exist the emergency board voted unanimously to instruct its general officers to send out notices to every affiliated local union ordering the members not to accept under any circumstances a cut in wages or a lengthening of working hours."

Mr. McMahon said that one underlying reason for existing depression in the textile industry was that "manufacturers are taking advantage of the political situation that develops with a presidential election year." He added:

"Another reason is that textile manufacturers in foreign countries are unable to dispose of their tremendous stocks because of the unstable money market which forced them to unload on buyers in the United States. Thirdly, manipulation of raw cotton values of Wall street speculators has created a situation which makes it unsafe to buy cotton for manufacturing purposes from a financial standpoint."

No statement was made as to the action of the board on the question of the wool tariff.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY CONGRESS OF D. A. R.

Washington, April 17.—Enforcement of law, immigration and the educational activities of the Daughters of the American Revolution together with the annual balloting for officers held the attention of the Daughters of the American Revolution at today's sessions of the 33rd Continental Congress. Several resolutions were acted upon and others introduced for action before the close of the congress Saturday.

Another resolution to place the society on record as endorsing the immigration bill with its Japanese exclusion provision was introduced by the Oregon delegation. It was referred to the resolutions committee by the president-general with the statement that the society wished to be informed on the subject and had the acceptance of Chairman Johnson of the house committee on immigration to address the society tomorrow. A similar resolution introduced yesterday by the Maryland delegation, was not reported today by the committee.

The Daughters gave close attention to Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, who appealed for support of the society in the law enforcement movement, especially in regard to the Volstead act. Immediately a resolution was introduced endorsing the movement.

The activities of the society in various educational institutions, including the Tamassee D. A. R. school; the Matthew T. Scott, Jr., Academy, the Kate Smith Duncan D. A. R. school; the Lincoln Memorial University and others, were reported upon during the afternoon session. Immigration was the principal subject of the evening session with Secretary of Labor Davis as speaker, while Major W. M. Mumm spoke on the National Defense. Confirmation of newly elected state regents and vice-regents took place this evening.

SPEECH IN DEFENSE OF OIL RESERVE LEASES

Washington, April 17. — Another speech defending the Sinclair and Doheny oil reserve leases was delivered in the house today by Representative Winter, republican, Wyoming, who recently declared in an address that he believed the best interests of the government were served by the contracts.

Reiterating that the question of alleged fraud and corruption in connection with the leases must be determined by the courts, Mr. Winter said the time had come for good sense and sober judgment by the public and congress in determining whether the leases are good or bad.

Further study of various conditions surrounding the leases, the Wyoming member said, had convinced him that it was a "fortunate decision when Mr. Doheny's offer to turn back his lease on the California No. 1 reserve was not accepted and fortunate that no such proposition was made or entertained as to the Teapot Dome."

RUMOR THAT ALBANIAN BANDITS HAVE KILLED TWO MORE AMERICANS

Athens, April 17.—(By the A. P.)—It is rumored here that two men from the steam yacht Corsair, belonging to J. P. Morgan of New York, have been murdered at Tirana, Albania.

The rumor lacks official confirmation.

Rome April 17.—(By the A. P.)—The Albanian minister at a late hour tonight said he had received no report from Albania regarding the rumor that two additional Americans had been killed by bandits at or near Tirana. He added that in view of the fact that he had received no information, he believed the report untrue.

U. S. SCHOONER SINKING OFF VIRGINIA COAST

Norfolk, Va., April 17.—The American schooner Orlean was reported sinking tonight seven miles north of Diamond Shoals lightship. Coast guardsmen from station 182 were reported putting out in rowboats in an effort to rescue the crew. The schooner was said to have seven feet of water in the hold.

TESTIMONY FAVORABLE TO SENATOR WHEELER

Washington, April 17.—Activities in Washington of Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, since his election to the United States senate were explored today by a special senate committee with every witness heard denying specifically knowledge of any irregular or illegal transactions on his part.

The committee received also copies of telegrams which the federal court in Montana has impounded in connection with the indictment of Senator Wheeler charging him with accepting $6,000 from a Montana client for appearings before the interior department in land cases in direct violation of a federal statute.

These telegrams, produced voluntarily by Senator Wheeler, and the client, Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil operator, showed that the senator had "discussed" a certain Campbell permit with the solicitor of the interior department and would arrange for a conference between Campbell and the solicitor.

Edwin S. Booth, who was then the solicitor of the department, and other witnesses denied that the incident mentioned in the telegrams constituted an appearance before the department within the meaning of the law. Campbell and others testified that the payments that had been made by the oil man to Senator Wheeler's law firm were for services rendered in Montana state court cases and that the senator in accepting that employment had specially stated that he would not appear for Campbell in any federal matters because of his election to the senate.

MUSCLE SHOALS ISSUE IS NEARING VOTE IN SENATE

Washington, April 17.—Indications pointed sharply today toward a vote on the Muscle Shoals issue in the senate before congress adjourned.

Advocates of the Henry Ford bid have been pressing the senate agricultural committee for a report on the bid, which has passed the house, so that the senate may vote finally on the offer. Chairman Norris has taken the stand that all of the some half dozen bids for Muscle Shoals should be considered by the committee before any report is made.

He reiterated his position today when he replied to a demand by Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, on the senate floor for an early vote on the Ford bid, explaining that the committee was now engaged in hearings on the Muscle Shoals bid and committee action was expected within two weeks, Chairman Norris declared no attempt would be made by the committee to prevent a vote on any of the bids. Senator Underwood retorted that the Ford bid had been waived by the government, would not be changed and a vote should be had without delay.

At the committee hearing today, Eliot H. Hooker, one of the three bidders supporting the Hooker-White-Atterbury proposal completed his testimony. This bid proposes to lease Muscle Shoals for fifty years to be operated on a partnership basis with the government.

REVISING USE OF TITLES OF ITALIAN NOBILITY

Rome, April 17.—(By the A. P.)—Uneasy lies the head that wears a papal coronet. Realisation of this comes through a decree recently issued ordering a revision and strict control of the use of Italian titles of nobility, as it is announced that only papal titles conferred previous to the fall of the temporal power in 1870 shall henceforth be considered valid.

The uneasiness is felt not only in Italy, but also in other countries on both sides of the Atlantic, where the holders of papal titles are plentiful because, since the days of Pope Pius X, according to the Tribuna patents of papal nobility did not require the popes signature.

Applying this principle of non recognition of titles after 1870, Italy conforms to the conduct of other states in this regard, except Spain, which makes a distinction between papal and other titles, regarding the former as "conceded", and taxable with every generation, while the latter are designated as "recognized" with certain tax exemptions.

The annual convention of the Connecticut Rebekah Assembly came to a close Thursday with a dinner at noon in Odd Fellows' Hall, following a meeting of the past presidents of the assembly. The invitation to hold the next convention in New London the third Wednesday in April 1925 was formally accepted. Mrs. Mary B. Lovett of Willimantic, the retiring president who has been succeeded by Miss Ethel D. Barrows, of New London, was presented an official past presidents' jewel set with a diamond. In the list of newly elected officers omission was made of the name of Mrs. Elizabeth T. Watrous of Glastonbury, the present warden. The new appointive officers are: Marshal, Mrs. Sadie Van Pelt of Mystic; conductor, Mrs. Justice Olsen, Naugatuck; chaplain, Mrs. Bertha Sullivan, New Milford; inner guard, Mrs. Mary E. Smith Stafford Springs; outer guard, Mrs. Lila Whittlesey, Rockville; assistant secretary, Miss Mabel F. Johnson, of Torrington; assistant conductor, Mrs. Lonia Clark, Windsor; assistant marshal, Mrs. Anna Vance, Plainville, left supporter to the president, Mrs. Mrs. Lillie Fowler, Thompsonville, supporter to the warden, Mrs. May Bancroft, East Hartford; left supporter to the warden, Mrs. Edith Fox, East Hartford.

During a short session of Windham County superior court held in this city Thursday, four of the cases on the criminal list of the April criminal term were disposed of. The jury was discharged for the term after roll call by Clerk Edgar M. Warner, of Putnam.

At 11.45 o'clock court opened and with the exception of a short recess continued until 1:15 o'clock, when Judge John P. Kellogg notified Sheriff Charles A. Gates to adjourn the court until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

There is some local interest in the fact that the jury has been discharged for the term, as this will necessitate the going over of the Philip Pagano liquor violation case until the fall term of court.

Six of the twenty-four jury men on the list failed to answer the roll call. Those absent were: Frank Wilcox, William E. Wheaton, Clinton S. Andem the two last named of Putnam, Walter S. Sayles, Killingly, Charles S. Spaulding, Woodstock and Lucius B. Cranska of Plainfield. Excuses for all but Lucius B. Cranska of Plainfield were given. It was made known that Frank Wilcox of Windham has been dead for several months.

The cases of the State vs. Albert Kruppowits, two counts and his wife, Anna Kruppowits of Ashford, charged with violation of the liquor law, were taken up. The defendants changed previous pleas of not guilty to guilty. They had elected to have the cases tried by jury.

Kruppowits pleaded guilty to sale and reputation, through his attorney John H. Madden of Springfield, Mass. As this is the season when all farmers are plowing and making ready to plant their crops, Judge Kellogg agreed to defer jail sentence in the case until May 20 when he would also name the amount of the fine. Attorney Madden also asked for leniency in the case of the woman. He believed that in cases where both the husband and wife were to receive fines for similar offense the burden should not be so extreme on one or the other of the two, as the money for the fines came from the common family fund. Mrs. Kruppowits said that she would plead guilty "for the people's sake." A fine of $200 was imposed.

Augustus Warren, 67, of Putnam, who last week pleaded not guilty to a charge of abuse of a female child under 16 and elected to have his case heard by a jury was presented to the court by County Investigator Charles L. Torrey. Warren changed his plea to guilty. Upon the recommendation of State's Attorney Searles, Judge Kellogg sentenced Warren one year in the county jail at Brooklyn.

Milton Rogers, 24, of this city pleaded guilty to a charge of assault. Another charge of breaking and entering was dismissed at the request of Attorney Searle. State's Attorney Searle stated that he had investigated this case. He had found that Rogers had an excellent record and that he was in the courtroom at this time only through a most unfortunate circumstances. For some reason Rogers had taken too freely of liquor and has no recollection of what occurred on the night in question when he broke into the Wilson home on Bridge street and roughly treated an elderly woman who had started to scream. Rogers, it is understood has since made every possible reparation for the disturbance he had caused at the Wilson home. The woman whom he had attacked has expressed her wish that the court be lenient. These facts were brought out by State's Attorney Searles who represented the accused. Judge Kellogg imposed a fine of $75 and sentenced the accused to six months in jail, suspending the sentence and placing the young man on probation for that period of time.

At the conclusion of this business Judge Kellogg said that in view of the fact that there was only one case left to be tried by jury the state was satisfied to have it go over to the next criminal term. The jury was then discharged and court was adjourned.

With but a little more than three months of the present year gone, Mrs. Josephine Marino, commonly known in police circles as "The Bootleg Queen" has met with more trouble than befalls the average person in a lifetime.

Wednesday afternoon a supplementary warrant was made out by Grand Juror Robert G. Brooks, of South Coventry, based on alleged sales of liquor by Mrs. Marino, whose establishment is on the Flanders district road, town of Coventry. Sergeant Russell I. Harmon of the Stafford Springs state police barracks registered the complaint. A warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Marino on a charge of liquor law violation was made out by Thomas F. Noone of Tolland county superior court. The warrant was served by State Policemen Harmon and Hardisty.

Mrs. Marino was presented before the court in session at Rockville late in the afternoon by Sergeant Harmon. Five charges were on the list of alleged violations of the liquor laws. Three had been secured by officers in Tolland county and two in Windham county. The three Tolland county charges against the woman were for keeping liquor with intent to sell, selling liquor to State Policeman Russel H. Harmon and keeping a bar for the sale of liquor, contrary to law. Mrs. Marino was not represented in court by an attorney and asked to have her case put over for a month. Opposition to this request was made by State's Attorney Noone and he suggested that the court appoint a temporary counsel to confer with her as public defender. Robert H. Fisk of Stafford Springs was not present. Judge John E. Fisk of Rockville was asked to take the case but he declined because of his position, also in view of the attitude taken by a superior court judge recently in regard to the defense of alleged bootleggers by prosecuting attorneys. Town Clerk John E. Thomas of Rockville was then appointed special counsel. Town Clerk Thomas, who is also assistant prosecuting attorney did not appear to enjoy his new position.

After a short conference between the temporary counsel and the defendant Mrs. Marino entered the court room and pleaded not guilty to all three complaints. It was then decided that the trial of the case be put over for one day and Mrs. Marino was placed under a bond of $500 which was furnished.

She was presented before the Tolland County superior court Thursday morning charged with violation of the liquor law. Mrs. Marino pleaded guilty to three counts. On the count of keeping with intent to sell she was fined $200. On the sale count she was sentenced to four months in the county jail and on reputation of selling, another fine of $200 and costs of the court was imposed.

Mrs. Marino has spent thirty days of the last winter in the Tolland county jail for a conviction on the charge of violating the liquor law. Previous to that, she had been fined on a similar charge in the town court. Her home has been raided several times since her release, but without success. Windham and Tolland county investigators then combined forces and have been working quietly, securing evidence against the woman. Records of two of the sales against the woman were checked up by the Windham county investigator.

While Mrs. Marino was in the Tolland court, Officers Hardisty and Hulburt secured a search warrant and raided her home in Flanders. The yard and outhouses on the farm were found to contain clever hiding places, from which wine, moonshine, and alcohol were secured. The house was free of liquor. Grand Juror F. W. Millard assisted in the search.

Bottles were found buried in the ground, a five gallon tin container filled with alcohol was found hidden under a rose bush and from the sink drain near the house the officers extracted a quart of liquor from the slime. The evidence was taken to the State Police barracks at Stafford Springs.

Friends of Levi Upton who was before the local court Monday morning charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor have "chipped in" to help him raise the amount required to pay his fine and save him from jail. The friends who came to his rescue are associate employes of the dyeing and and bleaching department of the American Thread company, who have on many occasions demonstrated their loyalty toward one another. Upton smashed a silent policeman on Main street last Saturday night. He was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $108.15 and was given until next Monday to pay up. Upton sold his Ford roadster for $50 and the remainder was for the most part made up in contributions. Upton is overwhelmed with gratitude.

A brush fire which burned over an area of some 50 or more acres on land partly owned by Mr. Williams in the vicinity of Phelp's Crossing along the North Windham Road caused some worry to a crew of some thirty men mustered in to fight the blaze. The fire started about noon and burned rapidly over a section of small timber for about three hours. Fire Warden Wilbur G. Stevens, of North Windham, assisted later in the day by Fire Warden Lyons, of Mansfield, kept the men hard at work to prevent the blaze from working in the direction of farmhouses. The Old Tucky Road, leading from Phelps' Crossing to Windham Center was used as a dead-line to halt the fire which was quickly spreading toward the club houses and land of the Willimantic Country club. Although a few sizable trees were scorched it was stated that fire was not causing any serious damage.

A young boy whose identity was not disclosed saw the immense cloud of smoke rising from the direction of North Windham and lost little time in ringing in a fire alarm from Box 13, corner of Main and Ash streets. The pumper and hook and ladder truck were quickly gotten under way by Chief James J. Tighe, Assistant Chief Henry J. Kelley and Acting Lieutenant Michael J. English, but as the fire was out of local jurisdiction the firemen returned to the Engine House. Engine Company No. 1 responded to a call Thursday morning for a grass fire on the property of Dewey A. Griggs, 42 Mountain street, and in the afternoon for another grass fire at the home of E. Frank Bugbee on Bellevue street. The smoke from minor brush fires could be seen in practically every direction Thursday. No serious damage was reported.

Today (Good Friday) a holiday in general and a holy day in Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches, will be quietly observed in this city. Stores will be open for business during the forenoon. The postoffice will be open all day and city deliveries will be made as usual. All shops and factories in the city will close for the remainder of the week.

Engine Company No. 1 was summoned Wednesday afternoon for a fire which started from a small refuse fire and spread over two and one-half acres of brush in Mansfield. The home of Miss Katherine C. Murphy was in danger and she called for local assistance. Mayor Diug informed Chief Tighe to use his own judgment and it was decided not to make the trip as it would be dangerous, especially at this time of year, to leave the city without adequate protection.

The annual banquet held each spring by Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, is one of the most important functions of the organization. The commanding officers of the regiment are the guests. The third annual event of this kind is to be held at the state armory on Pleasant street, Wednesday, April 30, in the evening. A live committee is engaged in making arrangements for a program and for the "eats".

The eight by ten brooder, ten by twelve and eight by twelve brooder-houses have been found to be the most satisfactory by vocational agriculture students at Windham High school, who have been engaged in surveying a number of local farms. Ten other sizes were found, but were not so popular, according to the report. The coal stove brooder is evidently a success, as over two-thirds of the operators were using them.

GALES FERRY

The business meeting of the village improvement association was held at the Country Club house, Monday evening. The president, Rev. Allen H. Bush presiding. The minutes of last meeting were read, by the secretary Mrs. Everett Noyes. The president, read selections relating to Garden Week and offered suggestions for the observance of the week, by the association. The treasurer, Walter M. Buckingham submitted designs for the street guide markers and No. 7 and No. 5 were adopted. Mr. Buckingham reported the gift of $10 to the fire department from Carl W. Brown of Norwich, in appreciation of the services rendered last week, when J. Edmund Norman and Monett A. Lawson, responded to the call for a chimney fire, at the farmhouse, at Brown's Crossing. Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham chairman educational department reported, that J. M. Stocking, assistant state forest fire warden would give a lecture on "How the State Fights Forest Fires" illustrated by actual fire fighting apparatus to the public, in the Country Club house, on the evening of April 21. D. R. Povey, chairman of landscape gardening reported, as having the approval of W. S. Carr, of the New London division New Haven railroad for the beautifying of the railroad grounds, at the station here, with plants and shrubs. Mr. Povey also named his committee for the year, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Noyes, Mr and Mrs. Carroll S. Hulburt, Mrs. Lulu B. Hempstead, Miss Laura A. Perkins, Walter M. Buckingham and J. Otis Winchester. It was voted to observe Friday afternoon, for tree and shrub planting.

The president then presented Everett Lyon of the New London fire department, who spoke interestingly on prevention of fire, and of his work in the department. Mr. Lyon recommended steel brooms for fighting grass fires. Rules to observe in the time of a fire, given by him were: Keep your head. Do not ventilate a frame house. Chemicals to be used in partitions.

This association owns a chemical engine. A rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Lyon in appreciation of his talk on the subject.

An Easter supper and sale given by the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, Tuesday evening in the vestry was largely attended. The Long Cove auxiliary of this society had a large exhibit of their handiwork, including kimonos, towels, bags and aprons. Their sale was in charge of Mrs. Fred E. Richards, president and Mrs. James A. Stoddard, Mrs. Fred W. Turner, directresses. Mrs. Henry W. Hulburt was in charge of the local table, of aprons and fancy work. The menu for the supper was: Home boiled ham, escalloped potatoes, deviled eggs, cabbage salad, pickled beets, cake ice cream and coffee. Guests were present from Montclair, N. J., Norwich, New London and Ledyard.

Mr. and Mrs. Albertus Dean, were callers at the home of Mrs. C. Perley Wilbur, in New London recently.

Mrs. Ellie Stoddard, is a guest, at the home of deacon and Mrs. Isaac G. Geer at Geer Hill, Ledyard.

Randolph Mathewson of Pittsfield, Mass., motored here, and is spending the week with his sister, Miss Susan Mathewson.

Mrs. Delphine Fish returned Monday from a visit of three weeks with her sister, Mrs. Horace H. Sears, at her home at Hastings-on-the-Hudson.

Andrew P. Miller left Wednesday for Boston, where he will be engaged in building, for some time.

Among those in attendance at the Scout Leaders' Training school at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, New London, Tuesday evening were Dudley C. Perkins, D. R. Povey, Stanley Faford and Alfred Erickson.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearce and children, Henry, Jr, and Alice, of Wakefield, R. I. were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt over the week end.

Mrs. Rose Chambers and son John of Toms River N. J., arrived Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Chamber's sister, Mrs. Charles Hoyt for a visit of some days. Mrs. Hoyt's brother Willard Maynard, engineer, of an ocean going tug, of the McCaffrey line, was also a recent caller at the home of Mrs. Hoyt.

Dr. Katherine Bement Davis, who has had long official connection with the penal institutions of New York City, says that in her 25 years' experience with penology she has never known a college girl graduate serving time for criminal offense in a penal institution.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

It would be hardly fair to point to the accident in Reynolds street Wednesday evening as an argument supporting the program to have the trees lining that thoroughfare, between Main and Broad streets, removed. In the accident involving the injury of M. E. Greene and A. Furnam, Boston men, the tree struck is on the opposite side of the street from that on which it is proposed the trees be cut down. Incidentally, Mr. Greene, driving the wrecked car, told the state officials who investigated the case, that he was peering back over his shoulder at a road sign when his machine headed for a big tree and hit it head-on.

Nevertheless, the accident again centers attention on the narrow way—little wider than an alley—that takes such a great volume of traffic out of and into Danielson over the trunk line leading to Providence. There is barely room for two cars to pass on the narrow roadway between the rows of trees lining each side of Reynolds street between Main and Broad streets.

The town of Killingly, at a special meeting of the electors, voted in favor of removing the row of trees on the northerly side of Reynolds street in the section mentioned, and notification of this action was transmitted last year, to the state highway commissioner's office. Nothing has been done about it.

Accidents are bound to happen from time to time in this short stretch of roadway unless more operating space is provided. That is obvious to anyone who observes traffic for a time—at any time.

As between enthusiasm for beautiful trees and the protection of human life there can be but one choice. Unless the trees that the town has voted shall be removed are taken down other accidents are certain to happen there. The injury of Mr. Greene and Mr. Furnam has brought this sharply to mind, though as regards their accident the trees to be removed did not figure at all.

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Hutchins, who live on the Goodyear road observed the golden anniversary of their wedding Wednesday. They were married by Rev. George W. Brewster, a Methodist clergyman, in Brooklyn Mrs. Hutchins is a native of Danielson, born 71 years ago, a daughter of Dwight and Mary Hutchins. She secured her education here, attending the elementary and high schools. Mrs. Hutchins is a member of the Baptist church.

Mr. Hutchins was born 74 years ago in Danielson, a son of David and Huldah Hutchins. He went to school here and later was employed by George and Chester Hutchins, dealers in crockery at Providence, for about six years. Mr. Hutchins was one of the first fruit dealers in this locality and after being occupied with this business for seven years, engaged in farming at Brooklyn. Fourteen years later, Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins moved to Danielson.

They have the following children: Mrs. Ethel Hutchins Cargill, Miss Flora Hutchins and Mrs. Annie Amelia Hutchins Bassett, all of Providence, Helen Josephine Hutchins of Danielson, Clarence of Danielson and Arthur of Providence. They have one grandchild, a daughter of Mrs. Cargill.

There are to be Good Friday services this morning, this afternoon and this evening at St. James' church. Tomorrow, Easter Saturday, at noon, brings the close of the Lenten observance and the lifting of many of the restrictions which people have practiced for the past six weeks.

A force of carpenters from Danielson are engaged at Wildwood park in building the new pavilion for P. J. Sheridan, now the owner of the lake property. The new building will be completed early in May.

Sanford Peck Chase, 91, died Wednesday night at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, after an illness of eight weeks. Mr. Chase had been a resident of Danielson for several years past.

He was a son of Sanford and Eliza Peck Chase and was born in Providence. His parents moved to Pomfret when he was about eleven months old, and up to a few years ago he had always made his home in that town, just across the bridge from Goodyear. He was a farmer during his active years.

Mr. Chase was particularly well known through this territory as an expert checker player.

He leaves only one near relative, a brother, Matthew Chase, of Pomfret. The body was brought here, in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood.

Treble Clef club dance, Casino, Easter Monday evening.—adv.

Danielson relatives and friends will be at Putnam today to attend the funeral services for Herbert H. Flagg, who died in Foxboro.

A petition having many signatures and asking for the resurfacing of Broad street its entire length has been received by the selectmen and action on the matter for the special town meeting for Thursday of next week.

A little less than two weeks remain in which to pay taxes on dogs owned in the town of Killingly. Registrations should be complete by May 1.

Danielson members of the association are interested in the announcement that the links of the Putnam Country club will be ready for use today (Friday.)

In connection with the laying of new rails by the New Haven road through Danielson, it will be necessary to tear up the new paving at Main street crossing, but assurance is given that it will be replaced and put even in better condition that at present.

A. F. Burns will be director of the combined choirs of the Putnam Baptist and Congregational choirs when an Easter cantata is sung at Putnam Baptist church Easter Suday afternoon.

So brilliant is the planet Venus at this particular season that persons with sharp vision can see it shortly after the noon hour in the eastern sky, about half way between the zenith and the horizon.

Miss Nellie Sullivan, who has been spending the past year in Los Angeles, is expected to arrive in Hartford this week-end. Miss Sullivan is a sister of Mrs. L. E. Kennedy and was formerly a resident here.

PUTNAM

M. E. Greene and A. Furnam, both of Revere street, Boston, were resting as comfortably as was to be expected, their injuries considered, at the Day Kimball hospital Thursday. Mr. Greene, who was driving the car in which the men were riding, when it struck a tree in Reynolds street, Danielson, early Wednesday evening, seems to be the more seriously injured of the two. While the men are badly hurt, their condition was not regarded Thursday as especially dangerous.

Today, Good Friday, will be a general holiday in Putnam after the noon hour. Following a long established custom, the stores will close at noon. These establishments were open all day Thursday, the usual weekly half-holiday being omitted. Church services that have been planned will draw large congregations this afternoon and this evening.

Clarence Booth, professional golfer at Putnam Country club, has announced that the links will be ready for use today. Good Friday being a holiday for a large percentage of the members of the club, it is anticipated that there will be a long list of players out for the first rounds of the season. The grounds have dried out very materially during the present week and will be in condition for use.

One of the first of the post-Lenten social affairs to be held out of town, but of special interest to many Putnam people, is the Elks' charity ball to be given by the Southbridge members of Putnam lodges of Elks in the Hippodrome in that place next week. Numbers of Elks from this city are planning to attend the affair.

Special notices have been sent out for a meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange to be held with Wolf Den grange of Abington, Saturday of next week, April 26. A supper will be served from 5 to 7 by members of the entertaining grange. In the evening the fifth degree is to be conferred in full form. Charles M. Gardner, high priest of Demeter, will deliver the address of the evening. A monologue by Mrs. S. Erving Frink of Brook of Brooklyn and vocal selections by Mrs. Alexander Maitland of Thompson, with other musical numbers, will precede the social hour.

Sanford P. Chase, resident nearly all of his life up to a few years ago in the town of Pomfret, died at the Day Kimball hospital here Wednesday night. He had been a patient at the institution for the past eight weeks. Mr. Chase was within one month of 93. He leaves only one near relative, Matthew Chase, a brother, of Pomfret. The body was taken to Danielson. Mr. Chase was a farmer during his active years, but has been retired for a considerable period. He was noted as one of the most expert checker players in Windham county, having devoted much time and study to the game during many years of his life.

Special programs of Easter music have been arranged by the churches of Putnam. At the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock the choir, with the choir of the Congregational church, will sing the cantata, The Gospel of Easter. The singing will be under the direction of A. F. Burns, of Danielson. The following program for Easter in the Baptist Sunday school has been arranged: Hymn, school; prayer; Scripture reading; song, junior choir; recitations, Welcome, Olive Potter; Easter Wish, Paul Stoddard; What Mother Told Me, Frances Warren; exercise, Six Little Givers, Judith Sabin and primary; recitation, Ready for Easter, Viola La Valle; violin solo, Florence Smith; recitation, The First Easter Day, Hazel Ames; exercise, Easter Missions, Mrs. Spencer's class; recitation, In Galilee, Doris Smith; song, junior choir; recitation, The Garden of the King, Julia Peterson; exercise, Children's Easter Offering, beginners; recitations, Sing Your Best, Mary Clark; A Happy Place, by Orrin Austin; exercise, What the Flowers Say, Rhoda Hyslop and Selma Dresher; recitation, A Garden of Joy, Dorothy Peterson; song, Easter Lilies, Leonta Carver; reading, Mrs. Ralph Spencer; song, men's class; benediction, pastor.

The Easter program and choir music at the Methodist church will be as follows: Voluntary, Mr. Dodge; hymn 156; prayer; anthem; welcome, Stanley Evans; recitations, Mabel Evans, William Stockdale; Happy as a Robin, Martha Shaw; The Bird, Russel King, Junior Devine; song, Angels Rolled the Stone Away, primary department; The Cheerful Sunbeam, Barbara Fox; The Bluebird's Call, Arthur Watson; The Lily's Message, Wilma Taylor; song, The Nest, Dorothy Bogardus, James Bogardus; Easter greeting, Raymond Evans; A Message, Sybil Keach; solo, Mr. Burton; The Light of Easter, Emily Shaw; What Easter Means, Helen Evans, Elizabeth Winslow, Rose De Carlo; song, Lilies for Him, Miss Wilcox's class; News of Easter Bells, Juliette DeCarlo; solo, Frances Toohill; Easter Lilies, Ellen Corbin, Florence Baker; duet, Easter Bells Ring On, Marion Wilcox, Walter Wilcox; The Easter Story, Phoebe Franklin; offering; remarks; hymn 139.

Choir music, Easter: Morning anthem, Rise, Glorious Conqueror, Carrie B. Adams. Morning offertory, Christ Now Is Risen, E. S. Lorenz. Evening anthem, Glad Easter Bells, Ira B. Wilson.

Town Clerk David Flagg has issued the usual notice that dog taxes must be paid. Less than two weeks remains for attending to this duty, if one would escape the penalty in the form of an extra charge that will be levied for a license after May 1. There are several hundred dogs in the town of Putnam, the majority yet to be registered.

At Masonic temple Thursday evening the Master Mason degree was conferred on candidates. Following the work refreshments were served.

Getting busy ahead of the time officially proclaimed for a Clean-up week in Putnam, numbers of citizens are giving attention to their lawns and back yards, clearing them of the winter's accumulation of waste.

Mrs. Alva G. Hemingway, is succeeding Mrs. Margaret Lawler, as the public health nurse in the town of Pomfret.

There was interest for many here Thursday in the news stories of the $150,000 fire at Manchaug.

Putnam League of Women Voters met in the rooms of the chamber of commerce Thursday afternoon.

Gilbert F. Perry has returned from New York and is assisting his father, City Engineer George Perry with work in this territory.

Next week Attorney Irving H. Mixon, town collector of taxes, will begin making his collections.

Current Events will be the topic of an address by Attorney Eric E. Johnson before the members of the Ladies' Social Circle, of the Congregational church Tuesday afternoon next.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Coleburn of Webster have announced the engagement of their daughter, Blanche Stella, to Lambert Gustafson of Putnam.

At Wildwood park, a force of carpenters is rushing along the work on the new dance pavilion, which will be completed, it is expected, early in May. The new pavilion will be larger and more attractive than the one it will replace.

JEWETT CITY

At St. Mary's church the Holy Thursday devotions included the customary procession of the Blessed Sacrament to the repository. Rev. John J. McCabe was in Hartford Thursday to obtain the holy oils, which were blessed at St. Joseph's Cathedral.

Following the mass of the Pre-Sanctified and the procession this (Friday) morning at 7 there will be the veneration of the cross. Friday afternoon there will be the devotion of the Way of the Cross; also in the evening again with the veneration of the cross. At Saturday morning's service there will be the blessing of the new fire and the Easter water, the chanting of the Phophecies and blessing of the baptismal font.

The Lenten fast ends at noon Saturday.

Thursday forenoon, a call for help came to the borough from Bethel, as a forest fire was rapidly assuming threatening proportions. Chief Thomas Wakeley, Mose Larenger and Leslie Hyde with a couple of other firemen, made a quick trip with a battery of chemical tanks. Vigorous and determined action prevented serious property loss. It was reported that at one time the historic Bethel Meeting house was in the path of the flames.

Preston City parties, in Jewett City Wednesday to attend the conference, reported that one man there will plant forty-five acres of potatoes. Several local parties plan to be on the Plains when the big diggers are in operation.

Under the influence of warm days this week, bloodroot has pushed right along and is in bloom at several well known habitats. Bloodroot belongs to the poppy family, and no flower of all the year can vie with its spotless beauty. It is here today and gone tomorrow, for on the second day of blossoming, a draft of air will scatter its petals. When picked, the red juice from the stem makes a lasting stain. It is said that this crimson sap was much prized by the Indians of the Quinebaug valley, to stain and decorate their faces and tomahawks.

The Frank Terry family, in Griswold, has sold to Lukas Cmayr and Selick Zuraki. The sale marks the passing of one of the valuable old line Griswold farms into other hands. Mr. and Mrs. Chauncy Robey, who lived there are remembered as members of the party that last year under the able steersmanship of Captain William (Bill) Christopher, made the trip to Florida, in the House on Wheels. Frank Terry, the former owner, has taken up his residence with his brother, W. C. Terry.

Griswold has a large number of schools included in its dozen or more districts. As the following opinion will prove, all the precocious pupils are not included within this Jewett City or Twelfth district. In a school not a great way from here, it is the custom of the teacher each week to look over the dictionary and make a selection of a half dozen out-of-the-ordinary words, Friday as a sort of half holiday diversion. These are called out to the pupils, with the hope that there will be some among the students who will be able to define them. If so a reward of merit is given. Among the words, not long ago, was "Marsupial."—Webster says that marsupial applies to a class of quadrupeds, the female of which carries her young in a pouch, as the kangaroo. When marsupial was put out, up went Tommy's hand, and he said it meant "carrying a pouch." When asked to give an example of marsupial, Tommy said, "a tobacco smoker." Zero for Tommy!

Wednesday evening, a large an enthusiastic gallery witnessed the downfall of the local crack bowling team. Plainfield sent down a half dozen heavyweights—who got away with 135 points in excess of the local score. There was wailing and gnashing of teeth, but the up-the-line burghers had their hair parted in the middle with a spirit level, and they couldn't be beaten. The scores:

At My Age

My Youth Cream keeps this baby skin

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Thousands upon thousands of women have asked me to tell what cold cream I employ. They see me with a girl's complexion. It is even softer, even rosier than 40 years ago.

Yet my life has been lived in the limelight. And I served France for five years in the rigors of the war.

A French creation

French experts perfected this cream for me many years ago. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to soften, whiten, smooth and feed the skin.

Neither I nor my friends have ever found a cream to compare with this. The expert makers tell me it is the greatest cream produced. So I have arranged to have them make the identical cream for you. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. All druggists and toilet counters now supply it at 60c per jar. It comes in two types—the Cold Cream type and the Vanishing type. Be sure to get the type you want. Both have the same essentials constituents. Neither grows hair on the face.

They also supply my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also, my Hair Youth, to which I owe my heavy, luxurious hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Go try my Youth Cream. Learn how it excels all others. Then I think you will want all the beauty helps which have done so much for me. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Richest Boy In America

Perhaps the first photo ever obtained, for publication, of John Nicholas Brown, of New York and Providence, R. I., long known as "the richest boy in America." Society's latest topic of general discussion is the expected announcement of his engagement to a certain very beautiful society girl of Newport.

ONE FRIEND TELLS ANOTHER

The fame of a successful remedy is often spread far and wide by women telling one another of its merits, as is evidenced by a letter written by Mrs. Delbert Bush of Massena, N. Y. She writes: "I was in such a bad condition I could hardly walk, a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with excellent results advised me to try it. It has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough." There are women everywhere who have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gladly tell their friends and neighbors about it.

THE TAX REFUNDS.

There has been much ado over the tax refunds that have been made, and partly as the result of that the inquiry into the internal revenue bureau is under way.

There have been large sums refunded to individuals or corporations but that doesn't indicate that favoritism is being shown or an injustice being done to others or to the government. Taking in billions of war revenue has been a tremendous job, especially so when the many complications connected with the various tax laws are taken into consideration.

During the early days of the income tax laws there was no trouble experienced. The taxes were clear and there was no difficulty experienced in getting adequate and efficient help to make and audit the collections. When the time came that more money was needed, when the war expenses had to be met, and the income from taxation jumped from less than a billion to about six billion there were not only complicated laws with which to wrestle but the revenue department had its troubles in getting sufficient qualified help to handle the situation. The fact is that it was not able to cope with the situation. Taxes were collected for several years under the interpretations that the department placed on the laws, these interpretations being subject to protest, and the result was that $6,000,000 cases that were contested and not audited piled up between 1917 and 1921 and remained for the new administration to tackle and unravel.

This work is gradually being caught up. When it is shown from the court decisions and rulings that more taxes were collected by the bureau than were justified there is nothing to do but make restitution. The revenue bureau isn't doing any more than enforcing the laws. The bureau collected the money because it believed it was correct in its interpretation of the laws. With the courts deciding otherwise there was nothing to do but to return the overpayments, whether they happen to be large or small.

Professor Adams in resigning as expert to the printing committee properly directed attention to the fact that tax refunds do not indicate recklessness. They are due to the faulty laws, and the way to overcome such refunds is to simplify the tax laws and make the business of collecting the taxes less complicated.

WHOLESOME RECREATION.

We are getting to that season of the year when the playgrounds are certain to come in for increased use. Outdoor activities are to replace those which have been to a large extent confined to indoors. We have reached the time of year when increased attention is bound to be given to healthful outdoor recreation and providing the facilities therefor.

There are communities which need this organized effort much more than others. It is in the big cities where the most harmful effects are experienced from the lack of recreational opportunities, but the importance of having them properly guided by all centers cannot be disregarded.

President Coolidge is an enthusiastic backer of the out of door life and is a national committee interested in providing outdoor recreational opportunities for all the year as well as the will to do be urged. A national policy which should not merely recommend under federal guidance all activities in behalf of outdoor recreation, but also formulate a program to serve as a guide for future action.

The playground movement has done much for the country. It has been quick to convince community after community of the desirability of maintaining opportunities for healthy recreation and play. Not only does this lessen the tendency of the children into ways of potential and danger of it keeps them off the street and in wholesome surroundings, which is a vital consideration. The recreational spirit has ever existed but the movement for increasing and properly directing it has brought highly commendable results. It came as the result of a recognized need and it must be continued for the good that it has done and can continue to do.

DEALING WITH ARMAMENTS.

Armaments is a question that concerns most every nation, and not only is each nation concerned for its own protection but it must govern itself largely by what the others are doing. When another country is seen to be devoting huge sums of money to the creation of a stronger navy, the development of a powerful air force or the upbuilding of its army it cannot even be criticized. It is the signal for similar activity on the part of others. It is in fact the guide for the rest. The endeavor to get or maintain supremacy cannot get but one interpretation from the others. They look upon it with suspicion, no sense an idler motive in it and at once get about keeping up with the procession, no matter what the cost may be or how unjustified the expenditure may be.

Within a few days attention has been directed to the fact that Japan has been building warships greatly in excess of other apportion. It has also announced now because of the popularity not which has recently been acted upon. What Japan is doing is within its rights under the naval agreement but even so, it is possible for it to give the impression that it is trying to get an advantage over others.

Within a few days Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain has made a statement in regard to armaments. With the suppression of the former secretary of air before him, to the effect that there should be a limitation of air forces, he intimated that it was a matter that must be taken up as soon as some of the present difficulties in Europe have been cleared away.

This is in keeping with the views of this government that the time is not ripe for endeavoring to bring about additional limitations of armament, and supports the contention that it would be inadvisable to attempt to adjust the problem of armistice until Europe is ready to take a different view of matters, or until it has adjusted the present day problems. With all in the right mood and suspicion allayed desired results are possible.

COMMISSIONER CHANDLER.

The resignation of George E. Chandler as a member of the game protection commission of Connecticut does not mean the first break in that commission as originally named by Governor Baldwin over a decade ago, but it means the retirement of an original member and one whose carrying the state and district will regard to lose.

Commissioner Chandler has given not only considerable and thorough attention to the duties of the game judicial office that he does to any movement with which he becomes associated. In every way has he justified the confidence that was placed in him by Governor Baldwin, a confidence which awakened surprise only because of his political affiliations for his qualifications were unquestioned. He has gained a remarkable experience in the administration of the compensation laws since 1913 and his retirement therefore will remove one who has been in thorough sympathy there with and who has been instrumental in obtaining needed additions thereto from time to time.

His service as a commissioner has been one of distinct credit to the state, his district and himself. In his retirement there will be made vacant an important post, but those who are acquainted with the commissioner and his activities in the past know full well that he will carry the same interest and enthusiasm to other duties that have been so thoroughly discernible in the compensation office.

RESTRICTING IMMIGRANTS.

By the adoption of that portion of the immigration bill calling for the reduction of quota admissions it is evident that the senate believes that there should be increased rather than decreased restrictions. The provisions of the law are likewise so drawn that they provide for the shutting off of aliens from countries whose nationals are the least desired. Southern and eastern Europe have been sending great numbers into the United States. Under the present immigration law with the 3 per cent quota based upon the census of 1910 it means that large numbers from these countries are eligible for admission.

Under such provisions he have been passed by the senate this situation is changed. The use of the 1890 census figures upon which to base the quotas of nationals alters the situation materially. Previous to 1890 the immigration had been mostly from northern European countries so that the quotas figured upon nationals here at that time means that a larger number from such countries than from southern Europe will be permitted to come in, though the cutting of the quota from 3 to 2 per cent indicates that the time is not ripe for flooding the country with those from outside our borders.

The immigration problem is bound to be continuous. Conditions and the manner in which the immigrants are assimilated must determine whether the bars are to be raised or lowered, but action taken thus far indicates the determination to proceed with our own best interests in view.

BETTY'S BASKET

"What was that old parable about the camel and the needle's eye?" remarked the first woman who was telling the story. "Anyway, it came to me when I was just the most annoyed I've been at anything for a long time. I had just left the meeting at the Methodist church and was hurrying to get to the station in time to meet my husband, who was coming to town for the day. I'm sorry, I'm confessed to the only man in the world who could be tried down town and when he arrives he finds his married sister, Betty, whom I'd never met, was coming through town here and wouldn't I meet her and take care of them the few hours between trains. I was interested and wrote Betty at once that I'd be down at the station to meet her when I got to the station and that there was a limit to the cars and I'd Lean delayed a bit at the grocer's doing my marketing so when I got to the station I was ten minutes late and of course, that train had to be on time for once. I looked all over the station for a young mother with a baby but did not see anyone who at all fitted the description, so I dropped down on a convenient seat to plan what I'd do next. And just then the prettiest woman came toward me carrying a baby. I jumped up and called out to her, and it was my fiancee's sister Betty, only years younger than the picture she sent me.

"She was so relieved to see me. When I wasn't at the train gate she thought she might find me in the station and had been looking about. And almost the first thing she said was, 'Well, we did find each other, but how did you know that was my luggage and sit down next to it?'

"I hadn't even noticed the luggage, but then I glanced down and saw a small suitcase and an overnight bag and would you believe it!—a regular market basket, stuffed full and with a white cloth over it.

"Imagine! Why I got a boy to carry the small bag and put me in a taxi and said we would go directly home. I that would be better than lunch in town.

"Well, we reached the house, nearly driver sat down and helped us out and then started up the walk with the suitcase and that awful basket. I was just congratulating myself that we would get in indeed when the door opened at Boston's last opposite our house and out came Mrs. Rosen members of the morning bridge crowd—and maybe they didn't have a nice queer complexion of surprise!

"Well, anyway the baby was quiet and I paid the man, and the cook wasn't so cross about luncheon as I was afraid she'd be, and Betty and I did have a lovely afternoon getting acquainted. But when it was time for her to leave for her 4 o'clock train I wanted to get a taxi and she insisted it was unnecessary, as the street car was just a half block from the house and we'd right by the station and her bags were both small.

"Chance! I guessed while we could easily manage the bags and the baby we just couldn't get that basket on a street car.

"The couple in here were pretty near then I said that. 'You start going to lug that big basket back to the station, for you,' she added.

"I don't see how you are going to take it if I don't,' I answered.

"'Why, it isn't mine,' she said. 'It was your's way and those were your things I was going next to when we got home. And while basket was certainly there,' I replied.

"Why, yes, the suitcase and other bag were, but that basket wasn't there when I put my things down. And as you said you were late meeting me because you had been delayed at the market, I naturally concluded that basket must contain your marketing. Though I'll confess I wondered at your carrying such a thing, May,' she added, 'naturally it was not my place to comment.'

"Can you imagine how I felt? We sent for a taxi and buried that basket back to the station. As soon as we got there we took it to the lost-and-found window, and the man there greeted us with: 'Well, you're just too late. The old lady who owned that had to go on her three-day trip west and hour ago without it and that basket is full of all her little comforts for the trip. She told us she set the thing down and wasn't gone a minute, but when she came back that basket had gone.

"Good you got it back, though, now. We had the detectives out all day and they just got on your trail when they saw you coming out of the house with it, and followed your taxi back here. We'll send it on, but the old lady won't see any good of it this p. m.'—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Modernists and Fundamentalists

Mr. Editor: I have often heard the question asked in the last few years (especially) what is the world coming to? It seems to imply that many are seeing some expected calamity coming, but do not know just what it means. And I believe they are right in thinking so. This modernist and fundamentalist problem is another factor in the great drama of Jehovah being enacted for the further enlightening of the minds of sincere thinkers, and believers of His word, still in Babylon. First of all what is a modernist? I have been asked this too, and by your leave will try to give as accurate an answer as I can and add a few words which may help some one. The modernist is one who denies the fall of man, and the blood of Christ as the ransom or redeeming. The fundamentalist believes the Bible is God's word of truth, that man was created perfect, that he fell because of sin, that Jesus died to redeem man, and will come again. Now these are the two classes of the parable pictured here plainly. The harvest of the millennial age, the sheep and goat classes, and Jesus gave a fine picture of them in this parable. But don't let us get mixed in our understanding of it, and think the sheep class is the true church class, not a bit of it; for the church will be a bride when these two classes are getting their judgment and sentence. And will help to judge them. Surely no many scriptures to prove this.

Do ye not know that the saints will judge the world and angels?" (the fallen Angels Demons), 1 Cor. 6:2-3; "Called to be saints" Rom. 1:7; 1 Cor. 1:1-2; and these alone are the true church class. 1 Pet. 1:2-4; Eph. 1:4. 1 Thes. 1:4. Matt. 24:31. Rom. 8:28-29. Rev. 17:14. 2 Pet. 1:10-11. Heb. 3:1; Character of the Called: "I see your calling brethren." Not many wise, not many after the flesh, not many noble are called' 1 Cor. 1:26; "Hath not God chosen the poor of the world, rich in faith," James 2:5; and the conditions of the call are Rom. 12:2; Heb. 3:6; 1 Tim 6:12. 1 Thes. 2:12. 1 Pet. 5:6; 1 Pet 1:15. Just heed my fourscriptures and write them down and see if they are correct. Also I would like to have some modernist point me a few (O, I forgot they don't believe the word.) Well, I'll give a few anyway. as one Mr. Fundamentalists tests his persons his own. And how in the world can he do that and deny the principle and only foundation on which the Prophets and Apostles anchored their faith. Their whole theme also Jesus' too, was His coming Kingdom from Genesis to Revelation. If these men would falsify on one subject, how could we any of us believe anything at all they wrote. And why Mr. Modernist should these holy manuscripts of God be: What did they gain or expect to gain by it? If they were like some men, they would be ostracized by their church. The tests are found in the Great Old Book which has stood the test of time, and will in spite of all little man can say or do. Christ is at the helm guiding and He will not fail. Read Rom. 3:26; Rom. 5:8; Heb. 9:14; 1 John 1:7; Rom. 1:25; Rom. 8:1; Jas. 2:24; Rom. 6:3-5; Mark 16: 15-16; Heb. 10:7; Rom. 8:8; John 14:2; Matt. 25:31; Isa. 53:5; also 53:12. Ye were not redeemed (bought) with corruptible things o o o but with the precious blood of Christ.' 1 Pet 1:18-19; 1 Cor. 7:23; Rev. 5:9. "Put to death in the flesh made alive" (resurrected) in the spirit, 1 Pet 3:18; 1 Cor. 15:45-46; Acts 17:31. This is not all I could give. The church which is His body, Eph. 1:22-23, is not in darkness but recognizes the signs and sees the light as others do not. 1 Thess 5:4; Amos 3:7; John 12:35; 2 Pet 1:19; Acts 1:6; Rom 13:11-12. And now since God has left the Gentiles and no gress is made in this matter, but that the world's conduct is subject to Him (Christ) and we (true church) are to be with Him in His kingdom. Yes true saints would desire to be with Him and see Him as He is. Then we shall be like Him. Dear reader, while we could easily discuss the matter and the Bible as the only guide, I will close by your leave and ask you to read and ponder over these things. Then ask God in prayer to show you the truth. Then act as an honest one and obey. Then you will be free indeed. Yours in the blessed hope,

ELIZA M. B. MILLARD.

"Criticism and Indifference"

Mr. Editor: It is the function and also the duty of the critic to note the good as well as the ill in what comes under his observation. The man who can only "see the fly in the ointment," and overlooks the curative virtues, will deaden the effect of his criticism. It is therefore with pleasure I am particularly pleased to call attention to an address before the Rotary club on the above topic, the speaker of which is most deserving of credit, both for the selecting of a subject so apropros, and the manner of the treatment of it.

It is complimentary to our city, which so often have invited speakers from other cities that we discover a man among ourselves who can and dares to speak on a timely subject, and can do so unflinchingly, and to use a common phrase "potty."

The thing is one when law is scoffed at, which is worse than indifference. Some time when, as in the case of our Lord, the murderer and robber is given release by the emperor of the innocent one who is made the victim for punishment.

At this Lenten time, the tragedy of Calvary is being reviewed, and it is well for us to apply the lesson of it to ourselves in this our own day.

Do we possess the virtues and the impulses that dictate and do not repeat in our time the tragedy on more low and common levels? What answer do we town clocks of our state give to this question? What answer does the meeting house give when arriving an hour late at his church by our intentional misinterpretment?

A poet said, "even the stars in heaven fought against Sisera." Is our people really inviting the opposition of the constellations—not poetically, but with actual daring? How about our lack of support of prohibition, and our selection of so much of the opposition that makes it of non-effect?

What there be any lasting effect produced by our pastor's speakers address, beyond the applause given him when he closed his speech?

These are the questions that will mark or mar our consciences during our religious celebrations at this time—and it is our answers that will determine our own destiny in the final issue.

JOHN TEGLAND.
Norwich, April 16, 1924.

Vaccinia Always Had to Work

Although he has been working for others 81 years, Samuel M. Vauclain never has had a vacation.

Before that time, when he was a boy in Philadelphia and Altoona, Pa., he had to work when not studying, and much of his education was secured at night.

An apprentice in the Pennsylvania railroad shops, at 16, a year earlier than he expected, he worked 14 hours, and was paid 60 cents a day.

Plans made to take an engineering course in college by working at odd times, to earn his way, were dropped when he was made a foreman—so he studied at night at home.

The road builders boomed and he considered going into it for himself, when came a recession at the shop, and he stayed there. A second plan to enter the business was killed by another promotion.

At 21, taking the superintendency of a Baldwin locomotive Company division shop, he was busy with a new position. Promotions followed and he was occupied with learning and installing methods. Taken into the firm, he had even more duties and responsibilities.

Then came the war, and with it rush orders for locomotives, followed by the building of plants and the manufacture of ships and ammunition. After the echoes of war had died, he was made president of the company, but kept on working.

Not unwilling to rise through "influence," he had never joined a lodge, society or church. Yet he took time to invent the Vauclain compound engine.

He, at 67, still is head of the Baldwin Locomotive Company, has a large income, is rich—and busy 11 hours a day.

But he does not feel discouraged about his vocation. "I never needed one" he says "and no place offered as manly kinds of amusement as could be found in the day's work."

LOSSES THROUGH ILLITERACY

"The United States has the highest percentage of illiteracy among enlightened nations in the world."

One finds this amazing statement in a report issued by the National Education Association after a survey of illiteracy conditions throughout the civilized world. The percentage of illiteracy in the United States is given as 6.0; among other nations it is, France, 4.0; England and Wales, 1.5; Scotland, 1.6; Sweden and Norway, 1.0; Netherlands, .5; Denmark, .2.

The number of absolute illiterates is officially given as 5,000,000, but it has been estimated that there are from 5,000,000 to 15,000,000 additional persons whose education is so limited as to make it practically impossible for them to discharge intelligently their duties as citizens in the democracy. No less than 24.8 per cent of our young men are so limited in their command of the English language that they are unable to read newspapers or write letters.

The late Franklin K. Lane, while secretary of take interior, estimated that our country is losing $$2,000,000,000 a year through illiteracy. He stated that 10 per cent of our country folk cannot read or write, thus cutting them off from the benefits of bulletins on agriculture, farm publications, newspapers, etc.

According to educational authorities illiteracy at its present rate of decrease will continue to be a national "by next 100 years.

Such widespread illiteracy in a nation which counts its wealth at a figure in excess of $300,000,000,000 is a manifestation of public carelessness.

This loss cannot be computed by any material standard, and, as to its moral and mental aspects, one is forcibly reminded of Addison's words: "The philosopher, the saint, the hero the wise, the good, the great man, very often lie concealed in a plebeian whom proper education might have discovered and brought to life."—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Funny Little Frog

Miss Teachem had been giving the class a nature lesson. It was a class of little boys and in order to find out how much of this information had penetrated their somewhat thick heads she asked them to write an essay on the frog, the animal that she had taken for her subject.

Willie's effusion ran as follows:

"What a wonderful bird the frog is! When he stands he sits almost. He ain't got no sense hardly. When he hops he flies almost. He ain't got not tail hardly, either. When he sits he sits on what he ain't got almost.

Tucker Cooper.

The marriage of Miss Martha V. Cooper of Ledyard and John E. Tucker of East Lyme took place at the Bill parsonage in Ledyard Wednesday, the Rev. G. F. Goodenough performing the ceremony.

Jackson—Cady

Mrs. Caroline Cady of Dayville and Henry Jackson of Boston were united in marriage Sunday at 1 p. m. by Rev. William Swainson, pastor of Dayville Congregational church, beneath a bower of evergreen at the bride's house in Dayville. The bride's young son, Harrison Cady, Jr., was the ringbearer. The bride was given in marriage by her father, C. E. Kempton. The maid of honor was Miss Jennie Kempton, and the best man was a cousin of the bride, Allison Seekins of Waltham, Mass. The bride wore a Harding blue silk dress and the bridesmaid wore dark blue silk. Miss Cora Seekins, cousin of the bride played the wedding march.

A reception followed the ceremony and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson took the 4.50 p. m. train for Boston where they are to make their home. The bride received many beautiful gifts. Guests were present from Waltham, Mass., Potter Hill, R. I., Wauregan, Norwich Pomfret and Dayville.

INITIATION STUNT HAD UNEXPECTED COME-BACK

One of the Academy fraternities conceived a new stunt in initiations Thursday night that had an unexpected comeback when two candidates landed in the lockup at police headquarters. A youth with his face daubed in red poked his head through the door at the police station far enough to call out there was a "drunk" in the patrol wagon. Before he could get way he was in the hands of the police, who found their second captive when they took a look into the patrol wagon where another red-daubed youth was found stretched out flat on his back, faithfully fulfilling the behest of his prospective fraternity brothers, who intended to prove his mettle and worthiness for membership.

The two initiates spent several reflective hours at police headquarters before bail was furnished for their release.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED ON CRUELTY GROUNDS

In a decision handed down Thursday Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin, in the superior court at New London, he granted a divorce to Mrs. Marie Porthier Couillard of that city and Norwich from Joseph A. Couillard of this city. The action was heard by Judge Marvin last Friday, at which time the court took the papers, reserving decision until an affidavit could be secured from Dr. J. S. Tennan of Norwich, which the plaintiff claimed would substantiate her claim that she had been treated with intolerable cruelty by her husband.

The affidavit was received and after examination of it Judge Marvin rendered his decision. Mrs. Couillard is employed at the present time at a restaurant in New London. She is a former show girl.

LEBANON D. A. R. HAD ROUND TABLE TALK

The Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., met this week in the parlors of the First Congregational church at Lebanon with Vice Regent Mrs. Otto Pultz presiding. Following the business meeting Mrs. Reuben Manning and Mrs. Clinton Goodwin read about housebuilding in old New England. What Our Grandmothers Cooked and How They Cooked It, was the topic for a round table talk.

The hostesses were Mrs. Imogene Arnold and Mrs. Reuben Manning.

$20,000 LOSS IN NORWICH TOWN FIRE; THREE BUILDINGS BURNED

Fire, which broke out about 11.45 o'clock Thursday morning in the rear of a garage on the property of Victor Phaneuf of 168 West Town street destroyed the garage, two two-story frame houses located nearby, damaged to some extent three other houses and partially burned three small barns and sheds, causing a loss, estimated Thursday afternoon at about $20,000.

The fire in the garage had gained great headway before its discovery and quickly spread to the homes of Mr. Phaneuf and the house owned by Frederick H. Bushnell located either side of the garage. Sparks carried by the wind set fire to several other structures and when the Norwich firemen arrived on the scene, in addition to the three buildings mentioned the homes of John L. Browning, Edwin Lathrop and Frank L. Weaver, situated across the street, were afire and barns to the rear of the Lathrop and Weaver homes were also on fire.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Merton Miller and Mrs. Phaneuf but before they could telephone in fire calls neighbors who had noticed the fire had called the Yantic fire station. The Yantic fire engine, however, was in Norwich for repairs and after some delay word was sent to Central station in Norwich, asking for help.

Upon seeing flames issuing from the garage, the principal of the school immediately sounded the warning by ringing the school bell, being assisted by other teachers, and was also influential in sending some boys to the First Methodist Episcopal church to ring that bell.

The message to the Central station did not give a clear idea of the extent of the fire and Chief Stanton started for Norwich Town, accompanied by Engine No. 3. Upon his arrival, seeing five houses and four barns afire, Chief Stanton immediately sent for Engine No. 6 and called the Yantic firemen in to make additional man power. A Y was laid and lines run from Adams Tavern garage to the fire a distance of 1500 feet. By use of a pressure of 325 pounds water was carried in two streams and the men made quick work of saving the several buildings to the south of West Town street. The damage by fire to the homes of Mr. Lathrop, Mr. Browning and Mr. Weaver was mostly from water, although the roofs were damaged by fire, holes being cut through by the firemen to extinguish the fire. The damage to the barns on the Lathrop and Weaver property was also mostly confined to the roof. The homes of Mr. Lathrop and Mr. Browning were protected by insurance and the loss by fire and water damage was estimated at about $3500.

After saving the buildings surrounding the garage and homes of the Phaneuf and Miller families the firemen devoted their attention to saving these homes but they were practically a total loss before the firemen could do any effective work.

The flames had fire snapped several spans of the trolley company's line poles near the fire and Chief Stanton realizing the danger had men cut them at the opposite side of the street. A telegraph pole in front of the garage was badly charred and there was danger of electrocution here and word was sent to the power plant to cut off the 6000 volt line that furnished power to Yantic. This, however, was turned on again soon after the fire was under control.

The work of neighbors and firemen resulted in the saving of considerable furniture and household articles from the several burned houses, which was carried out into the street, but the loss was considerable as most of the occupants had little or no insurance on their furniture, and not enough on the houses to cover half the damage.

The heaviest loss was sustained by Victor Phaneuf, estimated at over $6,000. The west side of his house was entirely burned off and the remainder weakened by fire and water to such an extent as to render it a complete loss. Considerable furniture was lost in the fire, no insurance being held by Mr. Phaneuf to cover this loss. His home also was only partially covered by insurance. Occupying the other tenement of the Phaneuf house was Mrs. Mary Bolgier whose loss was mostly on furniture, partially protected by insurance. Mrs. Bolgier was packed and ready to move out of the house in a few days.

In the garage considerable furniture was lost and two automobiles were totally destroyed. Allen LaBonte, who lives at 161 West Town street and was driven out of his home in an ell of the Phaneuf house lost a Ford touring car valued at about $200 and Albert Parker of Union street, Norwich, lost a Studebaker touring car valued at over $600.

The house owned by Frederick Bushnell was burned to the ground, only a part of the first story remaining standing. This house was occupied by Miss Grace Miller, upper tenement, and Merton Miller, lower tenement. Only a part of their furniture was saved and there was little insurance on the furniture. The loss on the house will amount to several thousand dollars.

For a time during the fire trolley service was held up but the Connecticut company soon had an extra trolley running and passengers were taken around the fire to another car on the Yantic end of the line.

Chief Stanton spoke in praise of the work of the Yantic fire— and the saving the furniture. He also voiced the thanks of the firemen for the kindness shown by Mrs. Charles Frink, Mrs. John Connell and other women who served sandwiches and coffee to the firemen during their four-hour fight.

What caused the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have been either spontaneous combustion or a short circuit in one of the automobiles in the garage, as no fire was noticed at 11.15 by Mrs. Phaneuf when she went to the rear of the garage for kindling wood.

In all, eight houses and other buildings, were reported to have been damaged. It was roughly estimated that several hundred automobiles either passed or visited the scene, as there was a constant procession in both directions from noon, until early evening.

GOLF CLUB MEMBERS TURN BOND SALESMEN

The membership of the Norwich Golf Club has increased so much in the last two years that the present course has become crowded to the point of acute congestion. The state highway department's plan to use the old Norwich Town-New London turnpike for through traffic, also forces action on the part of the club to modernize its course.

During the winter the club has obtained the advice of William Tull, the well known golf course constructionist, and at his suggestion has planned a new 18 hole course, using parts of the present property and some additional land now under option.

The new proposed course makes possible a modern standard 18 hole course of character easy to walk over, easy for beginners and average players and yet so arranged as to test the accuracy of the best players. The land under option also gives opportunity for children's play grounds and picnic parties near Willow Brook without intrusion on land used for golf or tennis purposes. A more attractive setting of a country club would be hard to find; rolling land, shining brook; and wooded hillsides surround and define it.

In order to obtain this pleasing prospect, and continue it as a part of the attraction of Eastern Connecticut the members of the golf club have turned bond salesmen and are trying to obtain subscriptions to bonds to the extent of $60,000 to complete this enterprise.

In the last few days they obtained subscriptions from less than half of the membership for one half of the needed amount. Some subscriptions are from New London people and some are from people not members of the club who believe that the purchase of bonds by them will make possible something of value to the community and that the interest on their bonds will be earned and paid. The attitude of the management is that every member should be a bond owner. In the furtherance of that idea bonds are obtainable in $100, $500 and $1,000 pieces and subscriptions can be made on partial payment plans. People not members who wish to make the project a success for the good of the community are also expected to subscribe. A popular membership-ownership, a popular local interest and not an exclusive affair is the desire and aim of the board of governors.

GAVE FAREWELL BANQUET WITH PRETTY GIFTS

Miss Maude E. Allen of 26 Main street, this city, was given a pleasant surprise Thursday noon at the Nelsco Hotel in Groton when 25 of the girls employed by the New London Ship & Engine company gave a banquet in her honor. A fine menu was prepared for the banquet, a novel feature being the ice cream which was molded to represent submarines.

During the banquet Miss Nellie Brogan, toastmistress, said that although the banquet was a farewell to Miss Allen, the employes of the office felt that they were about to lose a companion they all loved. Although sorry to lose you, said Miss Brogan, you have our well wishes for your future success. She then presented Miss Allen a number of gifts including a heavy plush automobile robe, a clock, motometer, a set of step-plates and a framed motto reading "To a Friend" all gifts of fellow employes. Miss Allen responded with a few words saying that the occasion would always be one dear to her memory.

Miss Allen leaves the office of the Electric Boat company of Groton after over nine years of service as bookkeeper and is to return to Norwich where she has accepted a position with a local institution.

PASCHAL LAMB FEAST CELEBRATED BY ROSE CROIX

Over 600 members of Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix of the Ancient Scottish Rite of Masonry, with their guests observed the Feast of the Paschal Lamb Maundy Thursday at 6.30 o'clock at the First Baptist church in New London.

The service was opened with a beautiful organ group of three selections played in masterly manner by Roger M. Daboll after which The Invitation was given by F. M. V. M. James C. Macpherson, 33rd, of Norwich. The opening address of the evening, This Holy Day, was delivered by M. W. Master C. Hedial Hull of New London under whose direction the feast was observed.

The solemn ceremonial of calling the Mystic Roll, the names of members who have died during the year, was carried out by J. Frank Cerey, secretary of Norwich, the orator being E. Allen Bidwell, 33d, also of Norwich. Names of members called were the following: Arthur H. Brewer, 33d, June 19, 1923; Homer V. Beebe, August 19,1923; William F. Broghton, September 18, 1923; Frances E. Beckwith, October 1, 1923; William S. Anthony, October 9, 1923; William E. Withey, 33d, October 18, 1923; John W. Atwood November 27, 1923; John F. Gorman, January 23, 1924; Joseph F. Wodwarka, January 30, 1924; Frederick A. Starr, February 18, 1924; Charles I. Libby, March 17, 1924; Daniel F. McNeil, March 21, 1924; Archibald Mitchell, Jr., 33d April 17 1924.

Following the Mystic Roll, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London delivered an inspiring address on Immortality. At this time one of the most impressive features of the feast was observed, that of the Mystic Banquet and this was followed by another forceful address, The Sacrament, delivered by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of Norwich.

The impressive ceremony of extinguishing the light followed the last address and the ceremonies came to a close after another fine organ number by Mr. Daboll.

Interspersing the numbers on the programme several fine selections were rendered by the Temple Quartet of Hartford and two fine solos were given in excellent voice by Frederick Weld of New London.

CENTRAL VERMONT TO RUN ELECTRIC CARS

Two modern steel constructed electric railway cars, one to run between New London and Palmer, Mass., will be put into operation soon, according to a statement made Thursday by Superintendent E. J. Guthrie of the New London division of the Central Vermont road. The second car will operate between St. Albans, Vt., and Enosburg Falls, Richford and Rouses Point.

The date of the installation of the new cars has not yet been determined, Mr. Guthrie said. The cars are yet under construction.

In this manner the railroad hopes to give the public along these lines much better traveling facilities. Present plans are that the cars will make at least two trips over the route a day beside a regular steam train. In order to accommodate the rural public it has been proposed that the electric service stop at all crossings to take on and discharge passengers. The cars will be operated by electric batteries which will run 150 miles on one charging.

This will necessitate the charging of the cars at the end of every day with direct current. The cars will be put on the road more in the nature of an experiment. They have not yet been used extensively on other roads with the exception of the Canadian National railway, where they have been found very satisfactory.

Each car has a seating capacity for 24 passengers besides a compartment for express, mail and baggage.

SIX CALLS MADE BUSY DAY FOR FIREMEN

One bell alarm and fire telephone calls gave the fire department an unusually busy day Thursday. The first call came in by telephone at 11.10 a. m., for a grass fire on land opposite Mountain avenue. At 11.51 a. m., the department responded to a telephone call for a brush fire on Union street.

At 12.55 o'clock a telephone call was received for a burning chicken coop in the rear of No. 98 Oakridge street. The fire was caused by sparks from a bonfire on Hickory street. Flying embers set fire to the roof of the house occupied by Joseph Urbanowics at No. 135 Hickory street but there was practically no damage. The chicken coop is owned by Miss Mary Barry.

At 12.05 the department received a telephone call for the disastrous fire in Norwich Town. Chief H. L. Stanton, and Engine companies No. 1, No. 3, and No. 5, responded to the call for help.

A bell alarm from box 62, Hamilton avenue and Main street, at 3.38 o'clock in the afternoon called out the department for a shed fire on Hedge avenue on property occupied by Mrs. Conrad McDowell. Sparks from the burning shed set fire to the outside stairs and cornice of Mrs. McDowell's house and also set fire to a nearby shed owned by Mrs. Margaret Hedge. The damage was small and the recall was sounded a few minutes after the box had been pulled.

The final call of the day came in by telephone at 6.33 o'clock for an automobile fire on Washington street, near School street. The fire was quickly put out by the owner of the machine, with the assistance of friends who threw dirt on the blaze, before the department arrived. The loss was small.

GRANTS WIFE DIVORCE FROM GROTON MAN

Accepting the recommendation of the state referee, former Governor Marcus A. Holcomb to whom the case had been submitted, Judge L. P. Marvin of the superior court has granted a divorce to Alice Mabrey Starr of Abermarle, N. C., from Jonathan Starr of Groton. Starr had brought suit for divorce alleging desertion in 1918 and the wife brought a counter suit on the same grounds and the cases were referred to Judge Holcomb for recommendation. The recommendation further provides that the mother be given the custody of her six-year-old daughter, Mary Alice Starr, that Starr contribute $10 a week for the child's support.

Easter Dates and Traditions

In the fourth century, it was decided that Easter Day shall always be the first Sunday after the full moon following March 21st, the first day of spring.

Many Easter customs today are of pagan origin: Easter eggs, dances, games and wearing new clothes found place in ancient celebration of the reawakening of nature in the spring.

Future Easter dates will be: 1925, April 12th; 1926, April 4th; 1927, April 17.

It's an easy matter for a man to break out of the unknown class after inheriting a big fortune.

GIRL SUES FOR INJURIES RECEIVED WHILE SLIDING

With Judge L. P. Marvin on the bench in the case of Ruth E. Skaling, 8 year old daughter of Alfred Skaling, Montauk avenue, New London against Bridget A. Sheedy and Agnes M. Sheedy, Darrow street, New London, went on trial in the superior court in New London Thursday. The plaintiff alleges that on February 13, 1923, while coasting on Darrow street, her sled swerved and she was injured when she collided with a barbed wire fence that was negligently and carelessly strung on property owned by the defendants. The suit, which is being tried before a jury, is for damages of $3,500.

WESTERLY GRANITE FOR MAUSOLEUM AT YONKERS

Westerly (R. I.) granite will be used to build a mausoleum to cost between $350,000 and $500,000 at Kensico cemetery, New York, for former Representative John E. Andrus of Yonkers, one of the country's richest men, according to a despatch from New York, Thursday. The tomb will be larger and more elaborate than that of the late William Rockefeller in North Tarrytown, and its cost will be much greater than that of the An-

CHAPMAN TECH LOSES SECOND GAME OF SEASON TO OLD SAYBROOK TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Old Saybrook, April 17.—For the second time in less than a week's time, Chapman Tech's baseball team found a team that was too strong for it. Plainfield won from the Red and Black last Saturday and today Old Saybrook gained a 7 to 2 decision over the New London team. Chapman Tech was never in the running and was hopelessly outclassed from the first inning.

Old Saybrook High, with O'Brien on the mound, was continually making trouble for the Chapman Tech diamond players. Linkletter, Cruise and Gero were used by Chapman Tech in an endeavor to stop the Old Saybrook players from the platter. But whatever prestige both Linkletter and Cruise won by their basketball playing, this prestige they lost when the Old Saybrook batters drove the ball to all corners of the lot. Linkletter, who opened the game for the New London team, had a job cut out for himself from the very start. Whatever chance he had for a victory—for at one time in the very first inning it looked as though he would come out with flying colors when he retired the first two batters to face him easily. Tech gave him a one run lead in the first inning, but after there were two down, the Old Saybrook batsmen fell upon the offerings of Linkletter and sent him to seek cover.

Cruise, the next twirler on the mound for the Red and Black, showed a little more stuff on the ball and got along fairly well. However, Coach E. S. Taylor of the Chapman Tech team saw the game was lost and he was not going to sacrifice a first string pitcher in an effort to save the day. The Tech players were not in the hitting mood and with the playing of the home team behind the superb twirling of O'Brien it was an easy matter to romp home with an easy victory.

Gero relieved Cruise after the former had occupied the mound for three innings. Gero had a faster ball than his predecessors and the going was easy for the remainder of the game. He allowed but one run the time he was on the plateau where twirlers are in the habit of habitating. After this performance it is most likely that Gero will get the preference to do mound duty to Linkletter. Gero lacks confidence and this helps to win many ball games.

Pearce for the Tech outfit played a poor game at shortstop. He made a total of four errors during the contest. Several of his miscues put men on the bases who later crossed the plate on a hit or another error by him.

Cruise for Chapman Tech found O'Brien for a triple and Brown nicked the offerings of the Old Saybrook Those two players were the only two to for a double and a single. That disturbed O'Brien's peace of mind during the entire contest. Courtois, whose position on the team is center field, was absent from the contest due to a badly sprained finger. His place was filled by Cruise for the first inning and later Linkletter relieved Cruise in center field after Cruise took up the pitching burden.

The Old Saybrook players ran wild on the bases. McDonald's throwing in an attempt to catch the home run players stealing was the same as in the previous game against Plainfield.

This game is the only one of the week for Chapman Tech. The next game for the Tech team is on Tuesday against the Essex nine at Essex.

RED SOX TAKE ANOTHER FROM THE CHAMPIONS

Boston, April 17.—Boston made it two out of three from the world champion Yankees by winning today's game 7 to 1. Ferguson held the visitors to five hits while the Red Sox were hammering Hoyt, Roettger and Shields for 14 hits for a total of 19 bases. The hitting of Wambsganss and the all-round play of Dudley Lee, youthful shortstop, featured the game. The score.

COLUMBIA TENNIS TEAM TO PLAY SIX MATCHES

New York, April 17.—The Columbia university tennis team left today to play six matches in the south during the Easter vacation. They are scheduled to meet the Richmond Country club, the Norfolk A. C., George Washington university, Dumbarton Country club, United States Naval academy, and the Baltimore Country club.

The team is composed of Capt. Frank T. Anderson, former national indoor champion; Richard Marshall and Jerome Lang, former southern New York doubles champions, and George Case.

ATHLETICS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM SENATORS

Washington, April 17. — Weather more suitable for football than baseball prevailed today for the third game of the season here which Philadelphia won, 4 to 3. A mental slip by Zahniser who threw to second instead of home when a double steal was essayed by the Athletics in the eighth inning gave Philadelphia its winning run. President Johnson of the American league was a spectator. Score:

DEAN WINS BRILLIANT PITCHING DUEL WITH VANCE

New York, April 17.—Wayland Dean, McGraw's fifty thousand dollar pitching recruit, got off to an auspicious start here today in the New York National 3-2 victory over Brooklyn.

Dean engaged in a brilliant twirling duel with Vance which was decided in the tenth inning on singles by Groh, Frisch, and Kelly. The latter hit safely after Young was intentionally passed.

Johnston and Fournier hit Dean for home runs in the first inning, but the youngster quickly settled down, only two hits being made off him after the third inning. A home run by Groh tied the score in the fifth inning for the Giants.

CUBS HIT SHERDEL OFTEN AND BEAT CARDS, 7 TO 4

St. Louis, Mo., April 17.—The Chicago Cubs hit Sherdel often and timely today and defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 4, giving Chicago two victories in three games played. Bottomley hit a home run over the right field bleachers for his first hit of the season. Grantham got a home run, double and two singles in five times up.

Bowen's Newsies After Games.

Billy Bowen, prominent Greeneville newsdealer, has organized a baseball team composed of boys who deliver papers for him. The team is known as "Bowen's Newsies" and issues a challenge to any newsboy team in New London county or any team averaging 17 years of age. Sent all answers to W. H. Bowen, 445 North Main street, or telephone 1941-2. The following is the lineup for the Newsies:

Koppina c, Ryan, Furguson, Tennent p, Cimokowski 1b, M. Goldblatt 2b, Nevins ss, Carroll 3b, Kirby lf, Swanton cf, J. Goldblatt rf.

Sherrill Injures Ankle Again.

Philadelphia, April 17. — Nelson Sherrill, former indoor intercollegiate pole vault champion and American Olympic team prospect, dislocated his right ankle today while attempting a twelve foot vault on Franklin field and probably will be out of competition for the remainder of the season. Last year Sherrill broke the same ankle in the Cornell dual meet.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Columbia Sport Syndicate

Runners are on first and third. A left hand hitter is at the bat. He is considered to be a dead right field hitter like Babe Ruth.

What infielder should take the throw at second base in case catcher throws to catch runner going down from first?

In most cases of this kind the shortstop should take the throw at second base. You see, if the batter is a dead right field hitter and the second baseman came over to take the throw it would leave a big opening for the batter to hit through.

Another point to consider in this case is for the pitcher not to pitch inside to the batter, in other words, not to give him a ball he can pull around to right field. The infield, as I've previously stated, should know the kind of a ball that is to be pitched every time so they can play the hitter accordingly.

BULKELEY MEETS PLAINFIELD AT NEW LONDON SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 17.—The Bulkeley High school baseball team, champions of the state for the past two years, will open its season with high school teams Saturday afternoon, when the wearers of the Orange and Black will stack up against the hard hitting Plainfield High diamond players at Morgan park.

Although this game with Plainfield High is really the opening game of the year for the Bulkeley nine, the locals have already opened their season playing opposite the Engineers of the Dungaree league at the Submarine Base Tuesday. Bulkeley won this game by a 13 to 3 score by good hitting. The fielding of the Orange and Black was also up to par, even though it was the first contest of the present year. The pitching department can be improved somewhat by more practice, this Coach Robert T. Aldrich realizes and during the past week he has given the twirling staff a stiffer workout than previously.

Coach Aldrich is satisfied with the way the infield handled itself in the opening contest and sees that there is very little chance in improving the inner defense of the team. Hutchinson, Gaetano and Barry, veterans from last year, were cavorting at their old positions, 3b, as and 2b, respectively. Tuttle, the only new member of the infield, handled himself well at the initial sack. Sad Sam as Tuttle is better known, will receive the call for this position over any other player on the squad at present.

The batting order will be the same in Saturday's game against Plainfield as in the contest against the Engineers Tuesday, with one exception. Jumping Joe Barry has been moved down to seventh position in the order from second and Tuttle will find himself batting in second position. While these are the only changes at present, a last minute change may be made in the order by Coach Aldrich before Bulkeley takes the field against the team from up the river.

Coach Aldrich, although he has not a shortage of pitching material, had Phillian, the sophomore twirler, working out against the first team batters. He is considered the find of the present season. He has a hop to his fast ball and has good control over it. Phillian joined the squad this afternoon for the first time and gave a good impression in his first workout. Coach Aldrich will cast a watching eye over him for the next few days and he will be able to know whether he has a pitcher of unusual merit.

Friday morning the inter-class series will be resumed. The juniors are scheduled to oppose the sophomores at 10 o'clock and it looks as though it will be a lively affair. The juniors have won one game and lost none and the sophomores have won none and lost one. If the sophomores can emerge a winner, this will give the four classes a chance to start all over again, for both the freshmen and the seniors are tied in the standing with one game won and one game lost.

Headmaster Homer K. Underwood will present a cup to the team winning out in the inter-class competition. Coach Aldrich announced in assembly this morning that he expected to have the four classes meet each other twice and possibly three times before the season ended. It was proposed that the league be played until the first of June.

ALL-COLLEGIANS TO PLAY RIVERVIEW CLUB SATURDAY

Bill McKnight's All-Collegians will open the baseball season at the State hospital diamond on Saturday. The Riverview club will present a strong lineup against the former college boys and a fast game may be expected. The Riverview club which is without the services of Tony West will have McCarthy, a former Sub Base hurler, and who formerly pitched for the Hospital, in the box again this season. The catcher is uncertain but it is rumored that a former Boston Twilight backstop will do the work. Coullard will be on first, Eddie Burns at second, Harry Mills at short and Jack Sank at third. The Riverview team will lose the services of Mills and Sank about the first of the month as Mills reports to the Hanover, Pa., team of the Blue Ridge league, while Sank will report to Frederick of the same league. Coullard is also negotiating with a southern team for the season. The outfield is an unknown quantity as several will be tried out.

The All-Collegians will present practically the same team as last week with the exception of the battery. Manager McKnight is uncertain who he will use in the box.

FABER GOES TO HARRISBURG CLUB UNDER OPTION

Jack Dunn has released Joe Faber, local boy, to the Harrisburg, Pa., club under option. Faber is still the property of the Baltimore club and during the spring training at Columbus, Ga., showed up exceptionally well in his fielding. Dunn expressed himself as well pleased with Faber's showing in the field but his weakness with the bat is all that keeps him from a regular position on the Orioles.

Dunn has sent Faber to Harrisburg where the local boy will play the short field and hopes to improve his batting. Faber is naturally a right hander when at the plate but during the training season Dunn made him change his style and now Faber is hitting from the port side. This change has improved his hitting but it is not quite good enough to keep him with the Orioles although Dunn has promised him that he will be recalled later in the season if his batting continues to improve.

An Error.

Through an error it was stated that the Sterling Speedboys beat the Moosup Scouts but Manager Thebeault of the Scouts says that his team has not played the Speedboys. His team, however, trimmed the Riverside club, 16 to 4 on last Sunday.

LARGE NUMBER ENTERED IN BOSTON MARATHON

Boston, April 17.—Forty-four runners from New York state, 46 from Massachusetts, seven from Pennsylvania and a scattering of stars from California, Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio, New Jersey, Nova Scotia, the District of Columbia and the New England states are heading toward Boston for the 28th annual Boston Athletic association road race to be held Saturday. Long since designated the American marathon, the race this year will be the final tryout for the Olympic marathon in Paris next July. Six marathon runners to represent the United States will be named after the test.

The event will be started at Hopkinton at noon on Saturday, a distance of 26 miles, 385 yards from the finish line in Boston. The distance this year has been lengthened, having been less than 24 miles in the past. A total of 144 entries have been received, a figure which has been topped but three times since the first race in 1897.

Clarence H. Demar, Boston typesetter and thrice winner of the event; Frank Zuna, Newark plumber, second last year and 1921 victor; Carl Linder of Quincy, and William J. Kennedy of Port Chester, N. Y., are the former winners who will strive to repeat.

Albert R. Michelson, Stamford, Conn.; Charles Mellor, Illinois A. C., Chicago; Wallie Carlson, another Chicagoan, third last year, and two New Yorkers, Gunnar Nilson and Nestor Erickson, are rated among the contenders, although all may not be eligible for the Olympic team.

CRIQUI COMING TO AMERICA AFTER DUNDEE

New York, April 17.—Eugene Criqui of France, world's featherweight champion for sixty days, last summer, plans to leave for the United States on May 2 to seek a return match here with Johnny Dundee, who won the title from the Frenchman at the Polo Grounds last July.

Criqui notified Dundee that he would hold the latter to his promise of granting a return battle, made when the Frenchman departed last year.

Dundee has signed for three fights this summer under the direction of J. J. Johnston, matchmaker of clubs which will operate at the Yankee stadium and Polo grounds. Criqui's signature will be sought by Johnston for a title bout in either June or July

High Street Sluggers Play Today.

BARBER SETS TWO LEAGUE RECORDS IN HIS MATCH WITH CHIP DUGAS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 17.—Frankie Barber of this city broke the league record and hung up a new high single mark here tonight when he beat Chip Dugas of Taftville, seven out of eleven strings in the second match between these two bowlers in the Eastern Connecticut championship bowling tournament. Barber was in rare form ripping off strikes and spares with perfect ease and control. His total for the eleven strings was 1355 which shows that he had things all his own way. This mark beats the previous record made by Fillmore against Morin by 5 pins. Barber in his second string hit the maples for 142 which gives him high single for the tournament, the previous record being 137, also held by Fillmore and which incidentally was made on the Danielson alleys against Barber himself.

The strings that Dugas won were by scant margins, the largest being only eight pins. Barber's lowest string was 101 which lost for him by two pins. Barber had an average of 114.1 while Dugas' average was 102.5. The scores:

| Barber. | Dugas. |
|---|---|
| 103 | 95 |
| 142 | 114 |

HOW EARLY, MEDIUM AND LATE SILAGE COMPARE

Of the 97,437 acres of corn grown in Connecticut, about one-third (24,951 acres) is cut up and placed in the silo and fed largely to dairy cattle. Connecticut has a short growing season and only early maturing varieties of corn have time to form matured ears. Such varieties will not yield as much tonnage, however, as will those which become taller, but which, on the other hand, do not have time to mature ears before the coming of frost. The question has therefore arisen as to which type from a mere standpoint will make the most milk, or the most profitable milk?

The Storrs Agricultural Experiment Station, through the Departments of Dairy Husbandry and Agronomy, started four years ago an experiment to solve the problem. Pride of the North, a variety of corn which matures its ears, was selected to represent the early type of corn; Leaming corn to represent the medium type which will not usually mature ears in all parts of the state, but which will develop them somewhat beyond the green corn eating stage; and Eureka corn representing the large growing, late maturing varieties which are only beginning to form ears at harvest time.

A comparison of these varieties is obtained from the acre yields; from the percentage which the ear bears to the entire plant; and of the dry matter content of the whole plant. In the early corn one-half (52 per cent) of the dry matter of the entire plant is deposited in the ear; in the medium corn two-fifths (38 per cent) is found deposited in the ear; and in the last corn, only one-twelfth (8 per cent) of the dry matter being in the ear, the great bulk of the material is found in the stem and leaves of this variety. Comparing the dry matter at harvesting time, the early corn carries 29.8 per cent, this being one-fifth richer than the medium (which is 25 per cent) and one-half again richer than the late (which is 20.5 per cent.) Yet when the acre yields are considered, the ranking of the varieties reverses itself, the late yielding 20 tons of green corn per acre, which is a fifth greater in tonnage than the medium (16 tons) and two-fifths greater in tonnage than the early (13 tons).

So far as palatability is concerned, the late immature corn, in accordance with general experience, was slightly more sour and less appreciated by the animals for its flavor.

From the present trials we feel that the majority will secure the best results by using a medium maturing variety of corn of known yielding capacity, except where the land on a farm for growing corn is limited, in which case the late varieties come in for favorable consideration.—G. C. White, Professor of Dairy Husbandry, Connecticut Agricultural College.

EARLY RHUBARB

The first rhubarb always tastes the best, especially if it is four or five weeks earlier than that from your neighbor's garden. And more especially if you can offer him some to eat before his own is even fairly started. Early rhubarb is considered a luxury by almost every one but particularly by the gardener who produces it himself. Vegetable growers who produce rhubarb for market commonly try to force part of their crop early because the prices are so much better earlier in the season. The home gardener forces his as a matter of personal pride.

The most common method of stimulating an early spring growth it to apply a heavy layer of manure over the ground in the fall before it is frozen. This prevents the frost from penetrating very deep in the ground and consequently will shorten the time in which the ground will thaw out and warm up in the spring.

Some gardeners go a step farther and build a small bank of hot manure over each row in the spring. This is allowed to remain for a number of weeks, by which time the ground underneath will be fairly well warmed up. The manure is then removed from the rows and often worked into the soil between the rows.—S. N. Shoemaker.

WHAT FERTILIZER, PRUNING AND SPRAYING DO FOR ORCHARD

By proper fertilization of his 14 year old McIntosh orchard, C. E. May of East Woodstock, Conn., increased his crop by 13 barrels per tree or about 70 barrels per acre. The fertilized trees yielded at the rate of 157 barrels per acre while the unfertilized trees yielded only 87 barrels per acre.

During the seasons of 1920, 1921 and 1922, Mr. May was compelled to sell practically his entire crop of McIntosh for cider apples due to a severe infestation of apple scab and other pests. By following a thorough spray schedule in 1923 he produced 610 barrels of McIntosh from 320 14-year old trees, which were practically free from defects of any kind.

Mr. May's farm, in East Woodstock, contains about 100 acres of land of which 10 acres are in orchard. The trees in this orchard vary from 14 to 30 years of age. Baldwin and McIntosh are the principal varieties. The yield this year was about 1,200 barrels of which 610 were McIntosh 440 Baldwins and the rest of miscellaneous sorts. Mr. May's other crops this year include 60 tons of hay, 600 bushels of potatoes and 350 bushels of corn.

In the fall of 1922, Mr. May was discouraged with the poor results obtained from his McIntosh trees. He even considered top-working them to Baldwins. Upon seeking the advice of the County Agent and Extension Service of the Connecticut Agricultural College, he was advised to follow a different program as to pruning, fertilization and spraying.

Following the advice given, the trees were carefully pruned during the winter of 1922-23. This pruning consisted principally of thinning out small branches throughout the tops where they were thick and interlocking. This was done so that a more thorough job of spraying could be done and so as to allow more air circulation and sunlight to penetrate the tops.

Two or three weeks before blossoming time about 4 pounds of nitrate of soda and 8 pounds of bonemeal were applied about each tree. One row of McIntosh and one row of Baldwin trees across the orchard were left without and fertilization as checks so that the value of the fertilizer could be definitely measured.

During the season of 1923 eight sprays were applied to the McIntosh trees and five to the Baldwins. Mr. May followed the regular spray schedule issued by the Extension Service of the Connecticut Agricultural College. The grass was mowed twice and allowed to remain where it fell as a mulch.

At harvest time a record was kept of the number of barrels picked from the check rows and from the fertilized rows adjoining. The McIntosh check row of ten trees picked 15 barrels while the adjoining fertilized row picked 27 barrels. The check row of Baldwins picked 13 barrels while the adjoining fertilized row picked 23 barrels. As the trees were planted 25 by 30 feet there are about 57 to the acre and the increase from the fertilizer was therefore at the rate of about 70 barrels per acre. The cost of the fertilizer was about $15.00 per acre. In other words $15.00 worth of fertilizer produced 70 barrels of apples in Mr. May's orchard.

While Mr. May had considered selling his farm in 1923, the farm is not on the market at present. He is expecting to produce an equally good crop in 1924.

The results obtained in Mr. May's orchard can often be duplicated in sod orchards. In fact an increase of 200 barrels per acre from nitrate fertilization has been obtained in some Connecticut orchards growing under sod.—W. H. Darrow, Extension Fruit Specialist, Connecticut Agricultural College.

HOW THE CALVES SHOULD BE FED

There are many methods of feeding young calves, all more or less productive of good results. But success in raising calves depends upon continued care and regularity in following a reliable feeding schedule. Nothing upsets a calf's digestive system so quickly or with such bad effects as feeding lukewarm or cool milk, and irregularity of feeding times. Care in obtaining a warm, clean bed for the calf is another essential, especially during the first few weeks of its life.

When the calf is a few hours old it should receive its first treatment; disinfection of the navel. Wash the umbilical (navel) cord carefully, and if it is more than two or three inches long cut it off to that length. Dry for her condition and said that Steve Topman of Griswold was responsible.

the navel and [illegible] together. [illegible] in or two from [illegible] a piece of string [illegible] ing of the opening and prevention possible infection.

The calf should be allowed to suck the cow during the first 24 hours at least. If a separate stall or a box stall is provided for the cow and calf the calf need not be taken away and the cow's milk is all right for use. If the calf is taken away from its mother and brought back for nursing at certain periods, be sure it does not overeat at such times.

When the calf is weaned, a feeding of 24 hours without feed is of great assistance in teaching the calf to drink from the pail. The first feeding should be attempted with consideration for the hungry animal, and patience with his awkward efforts to learn.

Do not frighten the calf. A few moments spent in reassuring it will often save hours later.

Do not let the milk in the pail become cooled. A good plan is to use two pails, one slightly larger than the other, containing a few quarts of hot water. If the smaller pail, holding the milk to be fed, is placed in this the milk can be kept warm for a much longer time. The temperature of the milk should be kept at 95 to 100 degrees.

Do not give the calf a full feeding the first time. The best plan is to give three to four pounds of milk at this feeding in the morning, the same amount at noon and again in the evening.

Three feedings a day for several days is advisable. When the calf is a week or 10 days old it should learn to eat some grain and hay. An easy method of introducing the calf to grain is to put a little on its tongue and smear some of its jaws as soon as it has finished drinking its milk. It can be induced to try a taste from a little placed in a small feed box.

Sometimes a handful or so in a small box if left within reach will be eaten through curiosity. Grain should be fed in a clean box and this feeding box should be kept clean. Grain is fed with less waste if the exact amount for a feeding is given each time. In this way a check on the animal's health is established, for usually the first indication of sickness is given through refusal to eat or clean up at meal time.

Only a wisp of hay should be given at first and this amount gradually increased as the calf cleans up.

When the calf is two weeks old skim milk may be introduced into the ration. It is most important to make this change carefully.

During this period the grain ration may be increased one half pound per day, increasing the amounts to 2½ pounds of skim milk per day and from one to two pounds of grain per day. The calf should now be encouraged to eat as much as possible. A good grade of clover or alfalfa is best.

The calf should have a chance to exercise daily, tethered or turned in a small lot or runway and plenty of fresh drinking water should be available. Calves should not be turned loose to run right after feeding time; an hour or two later is a better time. In case of sudden weather changes see that the calf has shelter and does not get chilled.

A supply of bone meal charcoal and salt for the calf to take at will is recommended.

Skim milk feedings can be continued until the calf is seven or eight months old and will result in a well built, well grown healthy calf. Calves three or four months old may be fed a few pounds of silage pea day. At 4 months the calf may be taking 18 to 20 pounds of skim milk twice a day. Two or three pounds of grain per day or as much hay as will be cleaned up without waste.

PAID $25 FINE ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

Edward Carey of Penobscot street, who was the driver of an automobile owned by Francis McNamara of Norwich Town when it collided last Monday evening on Trading Cove hill with an ice cream truck was presented before Justice of the Peace William Gaiddy in Montville Thursday evening at 7 o'clock on the charge of reckless driving.

After a conference between the court officials and Thomas J. Kelly, counsel for Mr. Carey, the accused pleaded guilty to the charge without any evidence being presented and he was fined $25 and costs. The whole bill amounted to $42.72, which was paid. Grand Juror Thomas Doyle presented the complaint.

DENIES DIVORCE IN GRISWOLD MAN'S SUIT

In a memorandum of decision handed down Thursday by Judge L. P. Marvin of the superior court the suit of Amidee Nadeau of Griswold for a divorce from his wife, Pauline Nadeau, was dismissed. Nadeau alleged that he was forced into a marriage with the girl after she had sworn out a warrant for his arrest and charging him with being the father of a child about to be born to her at that time. After the marriage she told him, he alleged, that he was not responsible for her condition and said that Steve

NEW LONDON DRUGGIST CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF LIQUOR LAW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 17.—Charles M. Taylor, proprietor of the Crug store, corner of State and Main streets, which was attacked by flames last night, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith, charged with violation of the liquor law. He was released upon furnishing a surety on a bond of $500 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. With the arrest of Taylor fifteen two-ounce bottles of Jamaica ginger, containing 90 per cent alcohol, a gallon of concentrated alcohol of 95 per cent strength and another receptacle of the same contents and strength, were seized, as evidence against the accused. Taylor has been arrested several times charged with violation of the law in dispensing alcoholic liquids contrary to law. He does not employ a licensed pharmacist and it is alleged that he has not been granted a license in several years to dispense Jamaica ginger or alcohol.

The arrest of Taylor is the result of Prohibition Enforcement Agents Joseph F. Fitzpatrick and Harry W. Avery going to the Taylor establishment yesterday, for the purpose of checking up his transactions and then evidence was revealed that the accused was violating the law. Today, the officers visited the store again and accompanied by members of the state pharmaceutical board, whose additional evidence, it is claimed, was secured that the law was being violated. The information of the investigators was filed with Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollander-sky, and that official issued a warrant for Taylor's arrest.

Mrs. Perry Patterson and infant daughter, of Sherman street, Mrs. Spiro Villas, Golden street, Mrs. Owen Donohoe and infant daughter, Stonington, Miss Mildred Turner, Rockville and Miss Catherine Melly of Molyoke, Mass., patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Allen Penhallow, a well known New London resident and former assessor, is confined to his home on Fairs Harbour place by illness, believed to be of a serious nature. Mr. Penhallow was taken ill earlier in the week and his condition has not improved.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of Ernest L. Howard, of 69 Rosemary street and Edward Clark of 218 Vaughall street to be suspended.

Louis Rose, former county fish and game officer and of late employed by the government in apprehending bootleggers, who transport liquor from ships at Rum Row to New London and ports in this city, lodged complaint with the police this morning that two Belgian hares had been stolen from his place of lodging on Sparward street, where he is living at the plant of the Tuttas company. The hares were stolen last Tuesday, but because of Rose having been summoned on a water trip he was unable to lodge his complaint until his return here today.

Two burglaries were perpetrated in New London last night, but from only one of the places visited by the crooks was any plunder obtained and in that instance the articles taken were not of great value. One of the places visited was the gun shop of Robert N. Tucker, 418 Bank street. The plunder taken there consisted of 75 coats, two rifles, two air rifles and a quantity of 22-bullets. Entrance to the store was gained by forcing a rear window. The place was been the location of numerous burglaries within the past two or three years.

The other place to receive a visit of crooks was the bakery at 117 North Bank street, conducted by Jacob Hochman. The break was discovered by Hochman when he opened the place, shortly before 7 o'clock this morning. A report of the burglary was made to Patrolman Edward Daniels. The investigation of the officer revealed that entrance to the bakery was gained by the crooks passing through a rear window of a shed, which permitted an approach to the baker shop. So far as Hochman can determine nothing of value was obtained.

Nicholas Stadnick of Niantic will be in the police court Friday morning charged with violation of the city ordinance restricting parking of vehicles on the east side of North Bank street. Stadnick was arrested by Patrolman Howard Sloan.

Howard F. Meshier of Montville and Miss Mae I. Dearborn, of Brighton, Mass., were married here Tuesday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Justice of the Peace Perry J. Hollandersky.

Mrs. Harvey Doe and infant daughter, 32 Mercer street; Mrs. John O'Connell, Westerly and Benjamin Burgess of Groton, patients at Hemd Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Henry W. Tryon, 80, of Noank, died last night at Lawrence hospital where he had been under treatment but a short time. He was a veteran of the Civil War. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Philip McGowan and Mrs. Winifred Burrows both of Noank.

At a meeting of the trustees of All Souls' church last evening it was voted to increase the salary of the pastor, Rev. William S. Greene.

Walter D. Harris of Crystal avenue, employed in Worcester, Mass., visited in this city yesterday.

The Groton fire department was summoned to Brandegee avenue extension, Groton, this forenoon in response to an alarm rung in from Box 36. The fire was located on a large tract of land and was of brush and decayed grass, and fanned by a strong wind, made a serious blaze. Adjacent buildings were threatened and this condition caused an valarm to be sounded. The firemen extinguished the blaze in a short time, when the flames had reached a point dangerously close to the threatened buildings.
